WARM GARMENTS For Women

The Dressing Sacques are in a great many different effects, and are priced at 75c, $1 and $1.75.

The Kimono Wrappers are also in wide variety, ranging from the simple gown at $1.50 to others that are very handsomely trimmed, at $4.50.

Second floor, Tenth Street.

The New Weaves In Black Dress Goods

The Black Dress Goods Section presents the aristocrats of the family of fabrics for gowns. The superb weaves from Paris compose the front rank, including elegant silk-and-wool velvet, figured souffle crepe, embroidered crepe espangle, figured faille reps, figured sharkskins, and figured taffeta cords and reps; as well as the many other fabrics that are not as distinctive in their classification—not forgetting the colliennes and voiles which will have large popularity again this season. More interesting, because at the more popular prices are similar fabrics coming from Germany, England and the best American manufacturers, including the cheviots, plain and fancy, the armures, prunellas, Venetians, broadcloths, Panamas, serges and granites.

The catalogue of descriptive detail cannot find space here, although the comprehensive extent of the stock can scarcely be understood without it. Prices range from the exquisite figured souffle crepe of silk-and-wool at $5 a yard, down to the modest batiste and brilliantine at 37½c a yard.

And there is another remarkable story to tell of the superb collection of black fabrics which we secured under-price from overstocked operators in these goods. From the score we can find room to tell of but half-a-dozen:

At $2 a yard, worth $3.50—Satin Merveilleux Broadcloth, 52 inches wide.

At $1 a yard, worth $2—Silk-and-wool Camel's-hair, 44 inches wide.

There is an equally satisfying variety among the American-made Coats, which this Fall are as fine in character and as handsomely made as any we have ever shown.

There are two styles in particular of exceptionally good character, as well as unusually low in price:

At $20—Black Broadcloth Coats, 40 inches long; collarless, outlined with braid; double-breasted; new French shoulders and sleeves; loose back, gathered and belted; lined throughout with excellent quality of black satin.

At $18.75—Black Broadcloth or black Panne Cheviot Coats, 34 inches long; double-breasted, semi-fitting back, handsomely trimmed with braid; large sleeves with cuffs; lined with black or white peau de soie.

ARRAIGNS ROOSEVELT'S RECORD ON THE TRUSTS

Martin Says Evidence Offered by League Was Ignored.

ATTACKS CORTELYOU'S CHANGE

H. B. Martin, National Secretary of the American Anti-Trust League, sent to President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay yesterday a lengthy letter arraigning the position of the Administration on the trust question, and saying that the experience of the Anti-Trust League with the President and ex-Attorney General Knox will throw some strong light on their attitude.

He says that at frequent intervals he and other officers of the league furnished the President with "positive, documentary, and convincing proofs" of the violations of law by the trusts, and that promises made at these times were broken. He says that the action of the Administration against the Northern Securities Company was against the newest of the trusts, which hardly had time to do much damage even if it was so disposed.

Mr. Martin asserts that the President's claim that he has "executed the laws resolutely and fearlessly" cannot be made to apply to the enforcement of anti-trust laws, and that evidence in the Administration's possession was not only put aside, but other evidence easily procurable was not sought. On this line Mr. Martin says:

"The only two actions begun by your Administration for the enforcement of the anti-trust laws were the action for an injunction against the Northern Securities Company and against the Beef Trust. The first we have already referred to, and the junction against the Northern Securities in the district court has never been carried to the higher court, while the trust has been openly violating both the law and the injunction to your knowledge, and to mine, and to that of every citizen of the United States.

"Three years ago the officers of the American Anti-Trust League placed in the possession of your Administration positive proofs, incontestable documentary evidence of flagrant and enormously oppressive and injurious violations of the law on the part of half a dozen of the greatest trusts in the United States. Both you and your Attorney General repeatedly promised, sometimes orally and sometimes in writing, that these cases would be taken up and proceeded with. Every one of these promises you have broken."

Mr. Martin takes issue with the statement in the President's letter that "the creation of a Bureau of Corporations and Amendments to the inter-State commerce laws has for the first time given a chance to the National Government to deal intelligently and adequately with the questions affecting society whether for good or evil, because of the accumulation of capital in great corporations, and because of the new relations caused thereby." He says the Bureau of Corporation law was not a Republican measure, but was introduced and pushed through the House by Congressman Sulzer.

"And what have you done, Mr. President, with the Bureau of Corporations since it was organized?" Mr. Martin asks. "You appointed your private secretary, Mr. Cortelyou, as head of that department, and then, after he had collected all the data possible about violations of the law on the part of the trusts, did you transmit this data in proper report to Congress or the people? Oh, no! The Bureau of Corporations, which was intended as a bureau of publicity, you have made into a bureau of secrecy.

"You transferred Mr. Cortelyou from the head of that department, with all this secret information about the trusts in his possession, to the position of Chairman of the Republican National Committee, where he can use his information to sandbag campaign contributions out of the trusts for your campaign fund, Mr. President.

"Against all the hundreds, aye, thousands of men who have been practicing plunder and extortion upon the people in violation of the anti-trust law, which provides for their punishment, fine, and imprisonment, you and your Attorney General have never caused a single warrant to issue, nor a single arrest to be made, nor the conviction of a single one to be secured.

"Nay, even worse, for to the most powerful and notorious of these offenders against the anti-trust law, the proofs of whose criminality had already been placed in your hands, you extended the hospitalities of the White House, and in return accepted their hospitality."

EPIGRAMS OF MARSE SYDNEY.

In Trenchant Phrases He Reveals the Issues in the Fifth Maryland.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—"I can tell you one district that will not be captured by the Democrats," said Representative Mudd of Maryland ["Marse Sydney"] today. "The Fifth Maryland is going Republican, notwithstanding much talk to the contrary.

"It has been said that the Democratic managers propose carrying the Fifth District this time, and that they will furnish Dr. Hill, my opponent, a big campaign fund to bring this about.

"I wonder whether they think that while he is doing this I will be distributing handbills. I believe my friends will agree that I am something of a producer myself, when it comes to the legitimate equipments for a political fight."

Mr. Mudd held a conference yesterday at the National Hotel with hundreds of his supporters, who hold down jobs in the Government Printing Office, the District Government, and the street railroad lines. A brass band enlivened the occasion. Mudd himself was the liveliest man in the assemblage. In his nervous, direct way he did the talking.

He begins speech-making to-morrow at Surrattsville, near his birthplace, where Dr. Mudd, his father, set John Wilkes Booth's leg the night after President Lincoln's assassination.

Representative Mudd this year, as heretofore, has warned the Republican Congressional Committee to keep out of his district.

"I don't want any outside speakers," said Mr. Mudd. "They don't know my people. They would mix things all up so I would have to work twice as hard to straighten them out again.

"I will be the star talker. It might as well be understood down our way that Mudd is the whole thing.

"I don't want any outside money. I can show enough of that. Another thing, I don't let a line of literature from the committee come this way. I can tell my people more in five minutes than they would read in five months.

"There is but one issue in the Fifth Maryland District. It is this: Can any man get more from Uncle Sam for the hard-working Republicans of the district than I can?

"The race issue is being urged by the Democrats, but it will not count. They have trotted that out whenever it suited their fancy, and yet I have been elected six times.

"In fact, the white people down my way don't seem to worry much about negro domination. I get colored men into good jobs. I get white men into good jobs. I keep my own job. That's the whole story."

OBEYED BOSS, CHAUFFEUR SAID

Puts It Up to Owner When Held for Speeding Auto.

When Joseph Romero, a chauffeur, who was arrested Saturday afternoon, in Washington Avenue, in the Bronx, for violating the automobile speed limit, was arraigned in the Morrisania Police Court yesterday he said that he was only obeying the orders of his employer, Alan W. Wood of 40 Riverside Drive. Magistrate Crane was inclined to scold Romero, but the chauffeur said:

"What could I do? I had to obey my boss's orders."

Turning to Policeman Kielly, who made the arrest, the Magistrate said:

"You should have arrested the owner of the automobile. If you arrest any owners who are caught this way, I'll hold them for trial all right."

PROGRESS OF BULGER BOOM.

Likely to be Named for Attorney General if Cunneen Is Promoted.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 18.—Ex-Senator David B. Hill spent his Sunday at Wolfert's Roost, and in the course of the day a number of leaders who were passing through Albany on their way to Saratoga to attend the Democratic State Convention called on him. In the afternoon Senator Hill talked with Deputy Attorney General Charles N. Bulger, and it is understood that Mr. Bulger will be nominated for Attorney General in case Mr. Cunneen is nominated for Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals.

This evening Senator Patrick Henry McCarren spent several hours with Mr. Hill, and it is understood that the question of the candidacy of Edward M. Grout was discussed. Mr. McCarren is heartily in favor of Controller Grout's nomination, and believes that he could carry the State by a tremendous majority. He has no fear concerning Tammany Hall's action, believing that the nominees at Saratoga, whoever they may be, will be supported vigorously by the New York organization.

Nothing definite has been decided on so far as the judicial nominations are concerned. Justice D. Cady Herrick, who is urged by the Democratic members of the bar of Albany and adjoining counties for the nomination for Chief Judge, is in Albany, and refuses to make any statement except that he is not a candidate for the Gubernatorinl nomination.

On the best of authority, however, it is stated that George R. Hall of Ogdensburg will probably be nominated for Controller. Mr. Hall is one of the most prominent men in Northern New York, and is immensely popular in St. Lawrence County.

Ex-Senator Hill, ex-Senator Edward Murphy, Jr., of Troy, Senator McCarren, and John B. Stanchfield, who is expected here to-morrow morning, will go to Saratoga on the 10:15 train. Mr. Hill spent this morning working on the tentative draft of the platform, a copy of which is said to have been forwarded to Judge Parker at Esopus.

PARKER PREFERS CULLEN.

Interested in Judiciary Nomination—No Plans for Speechmaking.

Special to The New York Times.

ROSEMOUNT, Esopus, N. Y., Sept. 18.—Judge Parker will keep his hands off the Saratoga Convention, or rather he cannot be induced to put them on, save possibly on one proposition—that of the Chief Judgeship nomination.

He is very much interested in the disposition of that nomination. His closest friends know that he prefers Judge Cullen for the place, though no less highly does he think of Messrs. Cunneen and Herrick. They further understand that he is earnestly desirous that the convention avoid the "trap door" constructed by the Odell political carpenters over the non-partisan judiciary issue.

Despite reports and assertions in New York and elsewhere that Judge Parker is to take the stump and travel about the country speechmaking, it can be stated authoritatively that he is not possessed at this time of any such idea and he has not made any plans whatever to that end. The candidate is not holding different views from those of a month ago with reference to the proposition of campaign touring.

Weeks ago he declared conditions would have to control him, and they have not yet been presented or presented themselves in such light as to convince him of the efficacy of a campaign on the stump. What he has to say it appears at present can be said at Rosemount.

Other views may be held later if conditions change, but the foregoing survey applies to the present, and reports otherwise are totally unauthorized and founded not on fact.

NO TAMMANY CANDIDATE.

So Murphy Still Insists—He Will Go to Saratoga To-day.

Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, did not go to Saratoga yesterday as he had planned, and because there were a number of more or less important conferences on there last night many rumors were current to account for Mr. Murphy's absence. Mr. Murphy was seen at the Anawanda Club, and said he would go to Saratoga to-day with the rest of the Tammany contingent, who go a thousand strong.

"I will leave with my delegation on the first section of the New York Central train at 8:45 to-morrow morning," said Mr. Murphy.

"But there are a number of important conferences on there to-night which it was thought you would attend."

"I am interested in the election of a Democratic President of the United States," said Mr. Murphy, "not in conferences."

"Does that mean that you will not attend any?" was asked.

"I think I have said all I care to," was the rejoinder. "Tammany will be on hand to-morrow ready to do its part. If there are any conferences I guess we will be represented."

"Have you decided to support any particular candidate?"

"Tammany has no candidate. It will support the nominee of the convention."

All the other State leaders, including Belmont, Rodie, Cord Meyer, and Secretary Wilson of the State Committee, went to Saratoga on the noon train.

PRESIDENT'S VACATION ENDING

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 18.—President Roosevelt and his family passed the last Sunday of their present sojourn at Sagamore Hill very quietly. No official visitors were received, but the family entertained several guests, one of whom was Lieut. Robert Ferguson of New York.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt attended service at Christ Episcopal Church as usual and passed the remainder of the day at their home.

HIGGINS SEES WOODRUFF.

Republican Nominee Says There Are No Dissensions in the Ranks.

Lieut. Gov. Higgins, Republican nominee for Governor, returned to his home in Olean last night. W. W. Franchott and family of Olean, for whom the Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Higgins were waiting, arrived yesterday from Europe on the Arabic.

Mr. Higgins called on Timothy L. Woodruff yesterday and had a long talk with him on the situation in Brooklyn. He said later that Mr. Woodruff assured him positively that he would work for him and that the organization in Kings would prove as loyal as if Woodruff himself were the candidate.

"I was much pleased with my talk with Mr. Woodruff," said Mr. Higgins," and I feel confident of success. After the assurances I have received our enemies need not try to make any political capital out of dissensions in the ranks. I know that none exist. I expect to be in New York frequently during the campaign, and while here my headquarters will be in the Albemarle."

Mr. Higgins did not see Gov. Odell during his stay here.

EAST SIDE FIRE EPIDEMIC.

Within three hours last evening the firemen of the down-town districts responded to twenty-two alarms of fire, sixteen of them being on the east side, south of Sixth Street and east of the Bowery.

Deputy Chief Kruger, in whose district that territory lies, said the many fires were due to the Jewish holidays, when all orthodox Jews burn candles. All the fires were insignificant, and the damage done by them was trifling. Chief Kruger said he had arranged to meet such a contingency, but said his men were kept very busy.

"DON'T WORRY AND DON'T HURRY."

SHEPARD SEEMS TO LEAD; HILL IS AGAINST HIM

the candidacy of Mr. Palmer. It is said that if it be true that Mr. Palmer would not be able to make a speech which would carry much weight with the highly cultured class of voters it is equally true that the speeches which Mr. Shepard would be likely to make would appeal to no other class.

"He talks over the heads of the plain people" is the contention which the Tammany men make with respect to Mr. Shepard.

Tammany is not opposed to Mr. Shepard. In fact, it may be said that of all the candidates now regarded as having a chance, Mr. Shepard would be the choice of Tammany after Palmer.

Nevertheless, the Tammany men are freely expressing the opinion that Mr. Shepard's style of oratory is not the kind that would be most effective in the present campaign. If the issue is to be "Odellism," they think Mr. Palmer, even though he may not have the intellectual attainments of Mr. Shepard, would be able to make a more telling presentation of that issue than Mr. Shepard could.

His service in the Legislature, they say, has familiarized him with the weak spots in the Republican administrations of the past four years, and they believe he could present them to the voters in a way which would take better than would a more polished elucidation from Mr. Shepard.

It is already evident that the Hill men are antagonistic to Mr. Shepard's candidacy. The complaint they have against Mr. Shepard is that he bolted Hill when Hill ran for Governor in 1894; that he bolted Mr. Bryan in 1896, and that he did not take enough interest in the McClellan campaign, two years after he had been the Tammany candidate for Mayor, to even register.

James Shevlin, although declaring that the anti-organization delegates of Brooklyn probably would be with Tammany in support of Palmer if Tammany concluded to insist upon Mr. Palmer's candidacy, stated at the same time that he regarded Mr. Shepard as the strongest candidate the party could nominate.

"Mr. Shepard is the man above all others to help Judge Parker in the State," said Mr. Shevlin. "There is not an organization man who would not vote for him unless it might be some man whom Mr. Shepard had tried to put in the penitentiary for wrong doing, and as against a candidate bearing the Odell tag, as Mr. Higgins does, there is no question that almost the entire independent vote would be cast for Mr. Shepard.

"If we want to win this fight we must put up a ticket that will appeal to the independent voters of the State. They can swing this election, and it is evident they are desirous of swinging it in favor of the Democracy if we will give them justification for so doing.

WOULD RUN AHEAD OF TICKET.

"It is my belief that Mr. Shepard would run ahead of the National ticket in the State, but at the same time his candidacy would be most helpful to the National ticket because there is no man we have so capable of discussing National issues with the lucidity and force which mark Mr. Shepard's addresses. He could be relied upon also to lay bare the offenses of the Odell administration in a manner which would win to the support of our ticket many Republicans who are disgusted with the way things have been managed at Albany.

"Mr. Shepard has been a consistent organization Democrat for the past six years. No man has rendered his party more valuable service in the speaking line in that time than has he, and the attempt which is being made to injure his candidacy by citing the fact that he did not support Hill in 1894 or Bryan in 1896 is well understood to be in the hope of promoting another candidate's chances.

"In the years in which Mr. Shepard did not give his support to the Democratic ticket he was an independent, and his attitude as an independent was well understood. Ever since he has manned the regular organization he has been loyal to it."

The twelve delegates from Erie County who were pledged to the support of Charles W. Goodyear, now that Mr. Goodyear has withdrawn himself from the race, are talking of supporting Daniel N. Lockwood. Mr. Lockwood was the candidate for Lieutenant Governor with David B. Hill in 1894.

The other twelve delegates from Erie who are pledged to the support of John Cunneen for Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals, are trying to get the Goodyear men to give up trying to have a Buffalo man nominated for the first place on the ticket, and make a united delegation from Erie to favor Cunneen for the Judgeship.

RIDDER FAVORS SHEPARD.

Herman Ridder, who is strenuously opposing the candidacy of Mr. Jerome, is of the opinion that the nomination of Mr. Shepard would be about the strongest that could be made. He says that Mr. Shepard is a man who would appeal to the conservative German element of New York's population, and he predicts that if Mr. Shepard is made the nominee he will surely win.

Mr. Ridder's opposition to Jerome is based upon the belief that Mr. Jerome would be too freaky a candidate to appeal to the conservative voters of the State. His idea in that respect is shared by many of the up-State delegates who are on the ground. It is said that Mr. Hill will not have Mr. Jerome for that reason.

On the other hand, there are advocates of Mr. Jerome's nomination who say that he could do better on the issue of "Odellism" than any other candidate who could be put up. It is said by Mr. Jerome's supporters that the only way to win the present fight is for the Democrats to go at the Odell administration hammer and tongs.

The Bryan feeling is a good deal in evidence here. There is a decided difference of opinion as to whether it is real or affected, but it is plain that it is likely to cause trouble to the leaders who finally will decide upon the convention programme.

Both the Tammany friends of Palmer and the up-State friends of Stanchfield are openly asserting that the nomination of any man who was not regular in the Bryan campaigns will be courting disaster.

It was being whispered around the Grand Union to-day that if Controller Grout would promise to resign the Controllership the Tammany opposition to his nomination for Governor would be allayed.

The managers of Mr. Grout's campaign said that no such suggestion had come to Mr. Grout from Tammany sources. The first they heard of such a proposal was after they had arrived here.

They said there was no doubt as to what Mr. Grout's answer would be to such a proposition if it were made to him. Mr. Grout, they stated, would not make any sort of deal to secure the nomination.

George M. Palmer's friends are saying to-night that Mr. Palmer does not want the second place on the ticket, and would decline it offered to him. Mr. Palmer himself refused to discuss the subject.

He said he thought he had enough votes to insure his nomination for Governor if the naming of the candidate were left to the free choice of the delegates. Mr. Palmer's friends entertain the hope that if Hill finds the sentiment against Stanchfield too strong he will take up Palmer in preference to Shepard.

BOOMS IN FULL FLOWER.

Cullen in Favor, but Not Werner—Other Places Settled.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, Sept. 18.—So far the candidates for places on the State ticket other than Governor and Lieutenant Governor are:

Secretary of State, John Pallace, Jr., of Monroe.

State Treasurer, Edwin Atwater of Dutchess.

State Engineer, Russell Stuart of Onondaga.

The judicial situation is causing a good deal of discussion, although the Chief Judgeship is regarded as definitely settled. Not a single one of the leaders has anything to say against the indorsement of Chief Judge Cullen for the full term to succeed Parker. Now that Judge Cullen is serving as Chief Judge by appointment of Gov. Odell, and now that he has been nominated for the full term by the Republican State Convention, it is regarded as absolutely essential that the Democratic State Convention should also nominate him, he being a Democrat.

There is, however, a firm determination not to indorse Judge William E. Werner for Associate Judge. Every leader who has anything to say about the Associate Judgeship calls attention to the fact that Werner is a Republican, who thought so little of a non-partisan judiciary in 1902 that he ran on the Republican ticket against Judge John Clinton Gray when that Judge, who had served fourteen years on the Court of Appeals bench, was running for re-election.

Some of Werner's friends are here looking after his interests, but the general impression is that the nomination for Associate Judge will go either to Attorney General Cunneen or Justice D. Cady Herrick. Mr. Cunneen is favored because he was the only man on the Democratic ticket of two years ago who was elected, except Judge Gray.

One of the leading men backing Mr. Cunneen said last night that the Attorney General would be nominated unless ex-Senator Edward Murphy, Jr., of Troy makes a demand for the nomination of Justice Herrick. Should ex-Senator Murphy make such a demand there is reason to believe it would be acceded to, but otherwise Attorney General Cunneen is likely to be the nominee.

So far no opposition has been shown to the nomination of Assemblyman John Pallace, Jr., of Monroe for Secretary of State.

As to the Controllership, it is reasonably certain that Mr. Hall of Ogdensburg can have it.

Mr. Hall is a member of the State Committee and is a man of considerable wealth. Placards announcing his candidacy are on display about the Grand Union Hotel, but none of his personal representatives are on hand.

As for the Attorney Generalship ex-Senator Hill is believed to prefer to see Charles N. Bulger of Oswego nominated, while the Tammany contingent will back Thomas F. Conway of Clinton. Mr. Bulger was nominated by Hill two years ago for Lieutenant Governor, running with Bird S. Coler.

Mr. Atwater of Dutchess, who is being mentioned for State Treasurer, was the nominee of the party for the same office some years ago, through Hill's friendship. Mr. Atwater is a wealthy man, and always has contributed largely for campaign purposes.

The only Governorship Headquarters which have been opened so far are those of John B. Stanchfield of Elmira. Mr. Stanchfield will not attend the convention personally, it was announced to-night, but his friends have taken Parlors 218 and 219 in the Grand Union, where they are receiving delegates and leaders.

Quarters have been engaged for Representative Francis Burton Harrison of New York, who will arrive to-morrow. He has become an active candidate for Lieutenant Governor, and will receive delegates as soon as he arrives and in other ways further his boom.

STORY BEE AT SARATOGA.

Unconscious and Made-to-Order Brands of Ante-Convention Humor.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Some of the wildest stories of political combats are being told by the supporters of Assemblyman John F. Curry of the Seventeenth New York District, who is here to carry before the State Convention his contest against Daniel F. McMahon for the district leadership. Curry has a delegation which he wants seated in the convention against the McMahonites.

"Say," said one of these delegates tonight, "what wasn't done to some of the 'floaters' that came up in the district was not worth doing. In one of the fights at the polling place some of our people took a Bowery 'floater' and poked his head through an iron picket fence. The squeeze was so tight that after they got his head through there wasn't any way to get him out but to cut his ears off."

When John B. McDonald, dropped into the United States Hotel last night to register he neglected to write "N. Y." after his name. The clerk at the desk was "Willie" Gage, the son of the proprietor of the hotel. This is "Willie's" first season clerking, his father only recently having determined to put him to some use. Consequently Willie was totally unconscious of the identity of the person who registered.

"Room with or without a bath?" inquired the clerk affably.

"Suite, of course," said McDonald with a glare. "Parlor, bedroom, and bath."

"Have you any baggage with you?" asked the clerk anxiously.

Mr. McDonald waxed angry and went to look for the proprietor, but "Willie" called him back.

"Where shall I register you from?" he asked again. But the subway builder gave him one look and disappeared.

"Who is that touchy person?" inquired young Gage.

An amused bystander volunteered the information that it was the rapid transit subway contractor. The junior Gage's face fell.

"Gee!" he said; "but how on earth was I to know?"

A little later, when Mr. McDonald returned with the elder Gage, "Willie" secured some enlightenment.

Having an eye to the picturesque, the Stanchfield boomers have a man in charge of their headquarters at the Union who certainly looks the part of a battle-scarred veteran. He is Major H. H. Rockwell of Elmira, and when he appeared on the veranda of the Grand Union this morning there were no fewer than eighteen fresh cuts all over his countenance, while blood showed in many places.

"What on earth is the matter, Major?" inquired two of the newspaper men. "Is the Stanchfield boom getting cut up already?"

The Major looked surprised for a minute. "Oh, I didn't know what you meant for a minute," he said. "No, nothing happened, except that I shaved myself with a safety razor this morning."

Edward Lauterbach strayed into the Democratic camp to-day, having remained over for a few days' rest after the Republican State Convention. To-night, while Mr. Lauterbach was talking with some of his Democratic friends, some joker pinned a Parker button on the lapel of his coat, and, totally unconscious of its presence, the Republican leader walked about the Grand Union Hotel thus tagged for some time.

"That's not the first time I have worn a Parker button," he said, when he made the discovery. "Down at Oyster Bay at the notificationof President Roosevelt, William Barnes showed up with a pocket full of buttons and went about the crowd industriously pinning them on everybody. We did not look at them, thinking, of course, they were Roosevelt buttons. Then some fifteen or twenty of us lined up before the President and congratulated him on his nomination, at the same time flashing Parker buttons right in his face. It was not until he called our attention to them that we knew what we were wearing."

HARRISON SEEKS SUPPORT.

Gets Sympathetic Hearing for His Boom at Rosemount.

ROSEMOUNT, Esopus, N. Y., Sept. 18.—Representative Francis B. Harrison was here this afternoon, coming over from Atwood, Mr. Sheehan's Summer home. Before he departed both Mr. Sheehan and Judge Parker were made to understand beyond peradventure that the young Congressman is an earnest candidate for the Lieutenant Governorship nomination. He was not discouraged by either. In fact, Mr. Sheehan is believed to be quite favorably disposed toward his candidacy.

Mr. Harrison is authority for the statement that Charles F. Murphy has not offered him a Congressional nomination in a district other than his own. A Democrat has practically no chance of election in his district this year. It can be stated that high-grade Democrats are not plenty who are desirous of being transferred into the Eleventh, the district Murphy is believed to have had in mind, to there be the regular nominee in defiance of the custom of giving a member at least one renomination. The present Representative of the Eleventh is William R. Hearst.

Some dyed-in-the wool Tammany man without anything in sight but hope of political favors would, of course, take the nomination if ordered, and be grateful therefor, and take the pounding that would surely be his at tthe hands of the Hearst interests.

Men close to Hearst who have been at Rosemount have not hesitated to say that there will be a great row if Mr. Murphy undertakes to deny Hearst a renomination if he wants one. In their opinion Hearst will fight for delegates, and, failing to get the regular nomination, will run independently, counting on the meager Republican vote to let him slip in despite the discipline of the Tammany Hall forces.

HALL STILL A CANDIDATE.

A report published throughout the State that Mayor Hall of Ogdensburg had withdrawn from the race for the Democratic nomination for State Controller has elicited the following reply:

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Sept. 18.

NEW YORK TIMES, New York:

The report that George Hall is not a candidate for Controller is unfounded.

JAMES E. KELLY,
Chairman Democratic County Committee.

BEARS A PARKER MESSAGE?

Sheehan Said to Carry the Judge's Views to Convention Leaders.

William F. Sheehan arrived in this city last night from Esopus, and will go to Saratoga on the 9:40 train this morning. It is said that he bears a message from Judge Parker to the leaders attending the convention which may have much to do in determining their actions. Mr. Sheehan refused last night to discuss this matter. He was asked whether he would deliver any message from the Judge, and his answer was that his actions at Saratoga to-morrow would speak for themselves.

The statement was made on competent authority that Senator Hill did not select William B. Hornblower as temporary Chairman of the State Convention, but that the selection was made at the specific request of Judge Parker.

SPECIAL FALL SALE of
Exchanged PIANOLAS

AT REDUCED PRICES.

DURING the past four months many owners of Pianolas have exchanged their instruments for the new Metrostyle model. Before beginning our Winter business we desire to close out these exchanged Pianolas to make room for new goods. We have therefore divided them into three lots, which represent a decided opportunity when it is considered how rigidly prices are maintained by the Aeolian Company.

It should be distinctly understood that these instruments have not been exchanged on account of the slightest deficiency in their playing qualities, but, on the contrary, because the owners were so well pleased that they were willing to increase the amount of their investment. Should you purchase an instrument in this sale and decide within three months that you would prefer the complete Metrostyle Pianola, the full value of your purchase will be allowed in an exchange.

LOT I
$15.00 Down
$7.00 per month

These Pianolas have of course seen use, and have given a great deal of pleasure in homes where the pianos were heretofore silent, but they have all been back to the factory to be put in perfect order. In addition to a general overhauling they have been repolished so as to remove all marks of previous use and in some cases you would have to be an expert to distinguish them from entirely new instruments. The number of Pianolas in this lot is limited.

LOT II
$8.00 per month

Most of the Pianolas in this special sale come under this head. We ourselves consider them practically as good as new. They have been refinished, their actions regulated and at their price represent exceptional value. Each instrument has been pronounced by our inspector as being in first-class condition and justifying the strongest kind of guarantee. If you are still hesitating about the purchase of a piano-player, you ought not to allow this opportunity to pass.

$10.00 per month

Of the 200 Pianolas in this sale only twenty are included in this class. Most of them have never been out of our ownership. A few have been out on rental, others have been loaned for a short time to customers ordering special cases to match their pianos, while three have been used in Recitals or in demonstrating to callers at our warerooms. Our own salesmen would be puzzled to distinguish them from instruments fresh from the factory.

Important to Remember: In buying instruments at this Sale, you are buying direct from the manufacturer, and the identical guarantee given by the manufacturer with entirely new instruments covers each purchase.

THE REASON why no other offering of used pianos is at all comparable with this, is that nowhere else has the same inducement existed for owners to part with instruments so entirely satisfactory. These exchanges were all made for the Pianola Piano, a musical instrument of an entirely new type. The manufacturers represented include such well known houses as

WEBER and STEINWAY KNABE and CHICKERING WHEELOCK, SOHMER and others

As the cost of the Pianola Piano is from $500 to $1,000, it will be readily understood that these exchanged pianos have come from some of the best homes in New York and vicinity, where the instruments have always received the best of care and have never been abused. Hence the remarkably fine condition of the pianos in this sale, an inspection of which will come as a revelation to persons who have been familiar with the character of used pianos hitherto advertised as Special Sales. Prices from $120 upwards. Purchasable on moderate monthly instalments.

Jacob A. Riis arrived here last night on the steamer United States from Copenhagen. He said that he had in charge some Danish heather, a present for Mrs. Roosevelt. He also said the King of Denmark sent his heartiest greetings to President Roosevelt, and greetings and thanks to the Danes of Chicago for their effort in paying the debts of the Danish National Home for Aged Women.

TWELVE PAGES.

MR. SHEPARD AND THE GOVERNORSHIP.

One thing worth noting about the claims of Mr. SHEPARD to the Democratic nomination for Governor is that none is made by him; he has refrained from any effort to secure the nomination and has refused to allow his friends to open "headquarters" at Saratoga or to resort to any of the customary methods of promoting a "boom." This does not indicate that he is indifferent to the honor of a nomination or the greater honor of an election; he would doubtless be keenly sensible of them; but they must come unsought that they may bring with them no obligations but those of public service.

It is this spirit that makes Mr. SHEPARD the strongest candidate his party could name, for it commends him to the independent voters, who will decide this election. It is inconceivable that any ordinarily faithful Democrat would not support him, and in addition to support from this class he would win that of the large class to whom mere party regularity is little and high character in a Governor is much. In fact, it must be said that Mr. SHEPARD would be confidently accepted by this class, who unquestionably are the arbiters this year, as security that such mischief as the party has at times done in the past would be impossible during his term. We are aware that it is not always pleasant for partisan politicians to give ear to the statement of the strength of a candidate apart from his party loyalty, but when such strength is absolutely necessary to success, common sense should make even the most sensitive partisans attentive to its claims.

Moreover, it is not to be denied that the nomination of such a man as Mr. SHEPARD would mightily aid the National ticket. The class to whom he would directly and effectively appeal will have as decisive a voice in determining the Electoral vote of New York as in determining the State election. They are sober, sensible, practical men, all of them with some stake, some of them with a large stake in the careful and intelligent conduct of public affairs. They care very little whether such conduct of affairs is obtained from one party or the other, and know that it is pretty hard to get it from either. They weigh candidates and give heed to party organization only as it is likely to be influenced by the candidates. It would be foolish to deny that there are elements in the Democratic Party in New York which excite the distrust of this class. Mr. PARKER'S nomination has done much to allay that distrust. That of Mr. SHEPARD would go far to dissipate it. That fact, with the demonstrated ability and integrity of the man, makes him in our judgment by far the easiest man to elect and the one that would give the whole party the most strength. It seems to us, even from the purely partisan point of view, that these "claims" ought to be considered and respected.

CAMPAIGN MANNERS.

Mr. PARKER did well in cautioning the Democratic managers that there should be in the campaign hand book "no word that reflects upon the personal honor and integrity of President ROOSEVELT," and "no rejoinder in kind or otherwise" to the words of that sort directed toward himself by the Republicans. It is a rule of common sense and National self-respect that the Chief Executive shall not have his motives impugned or his character assailed save for the gravest reasons and on indubitable evidence. The rule applies with only less force to any man selected by one of the great parties as a candidate for the highest office in the Government.

It is, however, no disrespect to the President to suggest that in his utterances as a candidate, in his personal appeals to the voters for their support, he should treat his opponents with the courtesy he has a right to demand from them. This is a requirement Mr. ROOSEVELT finds it apparently difficult to meet. This is not, we believe, through intentional rudeness. It comes from the depth and fervor of his conviction that his own views are so completely right and his own merits so supreme that to differ from the former or to question—much more, to assume to rival—the latter is an offense against the moral order. Only those can be guilty of it who are too weak-minded to see the truth or too perverse to accept it.

In the elaborate exposition of his claims on the confidence and admiration of his fellow-citizens which he made in his letter of acceptance, he began by accusing his "opponents" collectively of an "effort to improvise convictions." He went on to declare that his own work and that of "those responsible for making and administering the laws at Washington," has been "done so well" that his opponents "attack them only when they have first misrepresented them." "Misrepresentation is the one weapon of our opponents." "It is difficult to respect an attitude of mind" such as he thinks he "fairly" describes, "and where there is no respect there can be no trust." On certain matters of foreign policy "the demand of our opponents shows either ignorance of the facts or insincerity." As to the tariff, he accuses his opponents of not meaning what they say, and declares that there is "no use in arguing the matter at all, save by pointing out again that if on one great issue they do not mean what they say, it is hardly safe to trust them on any other issue."

Finally he announces that agreement with him is the one credible evidence that a man is a "good American," and failure to agree with him proof of indifference to the "welfare of the Nation." It is a simple test. On the basis of the election returns of 1900, when he was a candidate for the Vice Presidency, 485 voters out of every thousand came under this condemnation. If as many as two in a hundred should show like contumacy, the country, logically, would go rapidly to ruin. Such profound confidence in himself and in the party he leads fully explains Mr. ROOSEVELT'S aspersions of the motives and the character of his opponents. But it does not quite excuse it. His unfortunate example has eagerly been followed and exceeded by his managers. We are glad that Judge PARKER has cautioned those in charge of his campaign not to descend to that disagreeable level.

"COMPLIANCE WITH THE LAW."

We have no doubt whatever that President ROOSEVELT supposed he was making a perfectly truthful statement when in his letter of acceptance he wrote this exposition and defense of the course he pursued in respect to the Panama Canal:

> Our opponents can criticise what we did in Panama only on condition of misstating what was done. The Administration behaved throughout not only with good faith, but with extraordinary patience and large generosity toward those with whom it dealt. It was also mindful of American interests. It acted in strict compliance with the law passed by Congress. Had not Panama been promptly recognized and the transit across the Isthmus kept open in accordance with our treaty rights and obligations there would have ensued endless guerrilla warfare and possibly foreign complications, while our chance of building the canal would have been deferred certainly for years, perhaps for a generation or more. Criticism of the action in this matter is simply a criticism of the only possible action which could have secured the building of the canal.

Congress had in view two canals—the Panama Canal and the alternative route across Nicaragua. President ROOSEVELT continually speaks of "the" canal, because in his view there was only one canal, the canal which in his own mind he had determined was the one to build. He says he proceeded "in strict compliance with the law passed by Congress." The law referred to is the so-called Spooner act of June 28, 1902, which in Section IV. contains this provision:

> That should the President be unable to obtain for the United States a satisfactory title to the property of the new Panama Canal Company and the control of the necessary territory of the Republic of Colombia, and the rights mentioned in Sections I. and II. of this act, within a reasonable time and upon reasonable terms, then the President, having first obtained for the United States perpetual control by treaty of the necessary territory from Costa Rica and Nicaragua, upon terms which he may consider reasonable, for the construction, perpetual maintenance, operation, and protection of a canal connecting the Caribbean Sea with the Pacific Ocean by what is commonly known as the Nicaragua route, shall through the said Isthmian Canal Commission cause to be excavated and constructed a ship canal and waterway from a point on the shore of the Caribbean Sea near Greytown by the way of Lake Nicaragua to the point named Brito, on the Pacific Ocean.

President ROOSEVELT never obtained upon any terms the control of the necessary territory of the Republic of Colombia. Having failed in that, the mandate of Congress bidding him to cause the Nicaragua Canal to be constructed became operative. Evidently the President ran his blue pencil through Section IV. of his copy of the act. We may well doubt whether he has given a moment's consideration to the Nicaragua route since it was passed. He was resolved to build the canal across the Isthmus of Panama. The alternative of Nicaragua which Congress weakly found acceptable he rejected. Accordingly, when in the exercise of its sovereign right Colombia refused to ratify the Hay-Herran treaty and behaved unhandsomely, he did not cease his efforts but continued the pressure at Bogota, and when the speculators' revolt on the Isthmus gave him his coveted opportunity he rushed in with United States armed forces and not only kept transit open, but kept Colombia's troops out of Colombia's territory, set up the little republic under United States protection, recognized it, made a treaty with it, and sent the Commission down there to begin the digging.

This is the Roosevelt way, and, as we said in the beginning, he is quite incapable of seeing that it is not the lawful way. Law and the treaty he tore to tatters by the method he adopted of protecting "transit" across the Isthmus. He ignores altogether the provision of the law commanding him to adopt the Nicaragua route if he could not make terms with Colombia. His was "the only possible action which could have secured the building of the canal." Not to do the thing his way was to defer it "a generation or more." It is temperamentally impossible, no doubt, for him to see that that statement is miles wide of the truth. He might have kept to the limits of his authority and his duty on the Isthmus, and let Colombia put down the revolt if she could, in which case had he failed to make a suitable treaty with her he should have obeyed the law and opened negotiations with Nicaragua. That certainly was a "possible" way of building the canal. And yet the President savagely denounces all persons who criticise him because, he says, he can be criticised only by those who misstate what he has done. If you stick to the truth he insists that you must always approve and praise him.

MANUFACTURING IN NEW ENGLAND.

The State of Massachusetts publishes an interesting report of its industrial statistics which must of necessity fairly reflect the general condition of the wage-earning classes in New England, where many lines of manufacture have held their own against the competition of other sections.

The aggregate value of goods made and work done in all the industries of Massachusetts in 1903 showed a gain over 1902 of 4.66 per cent. Seven of the leading industries showed gains as follows: Boots and shoes, 10.29 per cent.; carpetings, 17.07 per cent.; cotton goods, 0.93 per cent.; leather, 18.39 per cent.; machines and machinery, 7.58 per cent.; metals and metal goods, 0.01 per cent.; woolen goods, 9.07 per cent. The industries which showed a decline in 1903 as compared with 1902 were: Paper, which consumed of stock and materials 2.24 per cent. less and showed a decline of 0.85 per cent. in product, and worsted goods, which used 2.24 per cent. less of stock and materials and showed a decline of 0.86 per cent. in product measured in values. From this comparison it is easy to see which of the New England industries are flourishing and which languish. How the cotton goods industry was hit by the conditions existing last year may be judged from the fact that in 1903 as compared with 1902 the stock and materials used were worth 4.67 per cent. more and the product only 0.93 per cent. more.

In the average number of persons employed in all industries 1903 showed a gain of 3.25 per cent. over 1902. Comparing the greatest number employed in the two years, the gain of 1903 is only 1.12 per cent.

From the wages tables we learn that for the average increase of 3.25 per cent. in the number of persons employed the wages paid show a total increase of 5.61 per cent.

Under the wage scales of 1903 the average yearly earnings irrespective of age or sex reached the relatively high figure of $471.23 as compared with $460.72 in 1902. The highest average for any one trade was reached in the breweries, in $859.16 per head; the lowest in making brooms, brushes, and mops, at $314.16 per head. Most of the industries paid labor better in 1903 than in 1902.

The average earnings of adult males in Massachusetts in 1903 was $568.06; of adult females, $362.94; of minors under twenty-one years, $249.55. The average time worked by wage earners in 1903 was 293.09 days, against 296.20 days in 1902. The business done by the manufactories of the State was 70.25 per cent. of capacity in 1903, against 70.66 per cent. in 1902. That is, with a gain of 3.25 per cent. in the number of persons employed and of 5.61 per cent. in wages paid, the manufacturing capacity of mills and factories was not as well utilized in 1903 as in 1902 by the difference between 70.66 and 70.25 out of a possible 100, or 0.58 per cent.

These are very instructive figures. A buoyant optimism would be needed to discover in them much material for satisfaction either as to the industrial outlook for New England under the present tariff system or as to the tendencies of the labor movement as affecting the welfare of the wage earner.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA.

Reports from Russian sources indicate that the commercial activities of the empire are paralyzed. Those engaged in business are finding it impossible to meet their obligations, and credits extended at the outbreak of the Eastern war for periods of four to six months, which it was believed would see Japan crushed and Russia firmly established in Manchuria and Korea, and possibly in Tokio, are now maturing, with very little chance of finding the debtors in a position to take up their acceptances. The best business paper is discounted with difficulty at 10 to 11 per cent., and the banks are pressing collections on all sides with an insistence well calculated to extend the condition of something like panic which exists throughout the country. A correspondent of The London Times, writing from Odessa, says:

> The difficulties have so much increased during the past six months that many small firms must in most cases inevitably succumb. This throws many men out of employment. It has now become very difficult to discount bills of exchange, the crop failure in Southern Bessarabia and the consequent small receipts of grain thence greatly adding to the difficulties. The building trade is likewise paralyzed; altogether it is very many years since Odessa has had to contend with such enormous difficulties.

There is nothing in these conditions to occasion surprise. Those with even a superficial knowledge of the means by which during the past ten years Russia has stimulated domestic and foreign trade, the artificial character of its apparent prosperity, the burden of largely misapplied taxation, and the inability characteristic of the Muscovite character to utilize to the best advantage even the limited resources of its infertile soil and barren steppes, what has happened was the inevitable result of such sweeping military disaster as has attended its invasion of the East. While the war lasts and its enormous drain of men and money continues, the wisest of Ministers cannot hope to devise a plan for materially improving existing conditions. They will grow worse rather than better as the war continues, and nothing likely to happen for another year at least can so change the situation that much of what Russia built up so laboriously and at so great cost can be saved to furnish a basis for a revival with the return of peace.

THE MOUNTED POLICE.

The extension of the use of mounted policemen in the regulation of street traffic at crowded points has been gratefully received by our citizens who have occasion often to wrestle with the difficulties and dangers presented at such points. The work of the policemen is extraordinarily—perhaps we should say, as the highest compliment to the mounted men, ordinarily—well done, and the watching of it has many attractions besides the sense of security it gives to the pedestrian.

One of the pleasantest things about it is the daily spectacle of the really beautiful training of the horses and the delightful manner in which they co-operate with their riders. To see the officers and their mounts at such a point, for instance, as the maze of crowded pathways around the entrance of the Brooklyn Bridge, toward night, one might think that the horses were free agents, discharging according to their own intelligence a duty of much complexity and grave responsibility, but one in which failure is unthinkable. It is curious to note also that truckmen and other drivers, not accustomed to sympathetic treatment of or by policemen on foot, seem to recognize a certain claim to pleasant compliance with a system in which such handsome and handy horses bear a conspicuous part.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

—Northerners, having been so often and so vehemently scolded by their Southern brethren for doing, in what, when the Southerners are charitable, is called ignorance of the negro problem and the negro nature, things that give the negro false and dangerous notions of his rights as a human being among human beings, will have great difficulty in seeing wherein the very worst of their fiercely denounced social concessions to "the nigger" has differed from the necessarily wise and proper conduct, last week, of the city and county officials in Lexington, Ky. Those officials, invited by the managers of the Colored Fair Association to attend their carnival, not only did so in a body, but they very graciously permitted themselves to be "entertained" in the association's clubroom, the features of the entertainment including, besides those common to all such receptions, the "opening of wine," in quantities satisfactory because large, at the expense of the colored hosts. Now, no Northerner—except the Prohibitionists—will find the slightest fault with these proceedings, or hold them likely to have other than desirable consequences in the way of improving the relations of the two races. But, and it is a very large "but," many Northerners will try long indeed before they discover why the magnates of Lexington could innocently accept the hospitality of their black friends, while it would have been a loathsome crime to invite one of those friends home to luncheon, or even to dinner. The relation of host to guest, as a relation, temporary and apart from other relations, is that of superiority to inferiority, tacitly asserted by the host and tacitly admitted by the guest. This is true, even though the guest be a King and the host a commoner. On the other hand, the relation of the guest to the host is for the time being that of inferiority to superiority—that of accepting favors for which payment cannot be made, and if to be returned at all, only to be returned in kind. Viewed from a remote and chilly Northern standpoint, the function in Lexington that united black and white in genial relaxation was social in its nature—public instead of private or domestic, of course, but still social, carrying most if not all of the social implications, and certainly the most important. Yet it must have been entirely innocuous—it couldn't have inspired any false notions in the minds of overambitious negroes—it didn't kindle the slumbering embers of a racial war. But why not?

—In one of the letters we printed on Saturday a reader earnestly called our attention to the fact that "Christian Science," by denying the possibilities of infection and contagion as well as the existence of disease, is a peril little less to the general public than to its own dupes. As we have ourselves defined and discussed this peculiarity of Eddyism at least a dozen times in the past, such pleasure as we felt in our reader's recognition of what we consider a most important truth was mingled with humiliation that he could have presented it to us as a discovery or observation likely to be surprising as well as impressive. That, however, is a small matter. What is not small is his mistake in thinking that "Christian Science" is a malady of the poor—that it increases the difficulty encountered by Boards of Health in teaching sanitation and hygiene to the inhabitants of the slums. Undoubtedly it would do so if taught and practiced in the tenements, but, as a matter of fact, the thing is quite unknown among them, and there is hardly a measurable chance that more than vague rumors of its existence will ever spread to that part of society. In the first place, there is a lot of sound common sense in the tenements, and, in the second, they have no money to pay for windy paradoxes. "Christian Science" is a fad of a very different class of people—of people in what are called "comfortable circumstances," uneducated but not illiterate, and with mental resources so small that the crudest forms of religio-philosophical mysticism provide welcome employment for their tedious leisure. Inaccurate as our correspondent was, however, as to the location of the danger point, he was quite correct as to its existence, and he did not at all exaggerate the gravity of its menace. To meet the "scientists," even in the ordinary associations of business and neighborhood life, involves the constant risk of life and health, and mothers who permit their children to play with those of these unhappy folk are taking chances little less than desperate.

—Vigorous efforts are making in Chicago, particularly by the relatives and friends of those who perished in the Iroquois Theatre fire, to prevent the licensing of the repaired and improved building for its old use. It is easy to understand and not difficult to sympathize with the feeling or sentiment that prompts this opposition, and good taste—one is almost tempted to say common decency, but that would be unduly harsh—would have impelled the owners of the structure to avoid, by turning it to other purposes, giving the offense it will undoubtedly cause as a place of amusement. What pecuniary sacrifice this would have involved we do not know, and presumably those who are fighting the license do not care, but it is, after all, a consideration of some weight, and the chances are that the other considerations would have prevailed if the weight had not been something more than the owners could reasonably be expected to bear. It must be remembered that places with tragical associations are extremely numerous in this tragical world, and that, if they were all held sacred, room would be scanty for the ordinary conduct of life, which, fortunately, includes a good deal of levity and diversion. Sentiment is an admirable thing in itself and its proper degree, but the dead are dead and their little day is passed, as ours soon will be. They—wisely—were not overtroubled by thoughts of their predecessors, so why should we make a needless moan? The Chicago officials say that they must license the Iroquois Theatre if its construction complies with the city ordinances. Recent history shows that they could do it even when the ordinances were violated, but that has no direct bearing on their present contention, which seems to be unanswerable. The opponents of the license, however, are under no compulsion to enter a theatre the existence of which violates their sense of the proprieties, and by remaining away from it they can do all that seems necessary for the expression of their resentment. The managers evidently think that there are others, and they will have to pay for any mistakes they make.

—China has at last ventured to express a desire in regard to the war now going on within her territorial limits. It has taken the form of a polite request that the Japanese and the Russians refrain from fighting near the royal tombs in Mukden, lest those important structures be damaged by stray cannon balls! The Spanish are extremely Spanish—or used to be—but they never even began to be as Spanish as the Chinese are Chinese. The nation in some ways the greatest as well as the oldest on earth has its very existence threatened, and its only disquietude concerns certain tombs—and tombs, at that, in which the remains are not those of real Chinamen!.

Mr. Shepard and Mr. Jerome.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In its advocacy of Mr. Edward M. Shepard as the nominee of the Democratic Party for Governor of New York, THE TIMES has rendered a service not only to the party, but to legitimate politics. Our whole political situation would gain interest and significance from such a candidacy.

It is urged, however, that Mr. Jerome would bring more interest to the campaign than Mr. Shepard. Certainly if the campaign is chiefly to represent the exploitation of iniquity and the pounding and expounding of the moral law Mr. Jerome has certain very genuine qualifications. If, upon the other hand, the Ten Commandments are not seriously in danger, and if the Democratic Party be chiefly in need of that inspiration which comes from the rehabilitation of its ideals and from a commanding and persuasive statement of our fundamental political conceptions there is much to be said for Mr. Shepard.

It may be, of course, that the State of New York chiefly needs to be rescued from indecency. There are many, however, who feel that in the Democratic Party and in American political life in general, our chief peril is inanity rather than vice, and that the moral vitality of our institutions will gain more directly from a campaign of clear thinking, of accurate and luminous exposition, of far-seeing and adequate statesmanship, than from a campaign of moral vehemence. There is sometimes more of real tonic power in an emphasis upon the wisdom of rightdoing than upon the dire perils of wrongdoing. Whirlwinds are all very well, but for constructive purposes there is always something to be said for the locomotive and the steam hoist.

The Democratic Party is supposed to be waging a campaign based upon the contrast between the personalities of Theodore Roosevelt and Judge Parker. It is now proposed to destroy this contrast by the nomination of Mr. Jerome, and to give over the Democratic campaign in this State into the hands of a Rooseveltier Roosevelt than has ever been known at Washington or at Oyster Bay. Business Sense and Politics.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your "Independent Voter" in to-day's issue has the old stock argument of low tariff about goods sold cheaper in foreign ports than at home. Doesn't he know that such a condition would exist if there was no tariff at all? It is the business trick of getting a market. As a commercial traveler I will often sell a man cheaper in Chicago than I will next door to me in New York, even though I pay the freight on the goods. I want his trade, and am willing to pay for it by less profit. But the man in the factory gets the same wages on the article. It makes me tired to see the lack of business sense there is in politics. BEE STING POISONS.

Remarkable Discovery Made by a Distinguished French Chemist.

From The Pall Mall Gazette.

M. Phisalix, a distinguished French chemist, has made a discovery about the nature of bee stings that is quite a revelation, and, considering that bees have been carefully studied for thousands of years by the most famous naturalist-philosophers, from Solomon and Aristotle onward, this is specially interesting. Hitherto the generally accepted theory about the sting of the queen bee has been:

1. That it has been "given" her to protect her hard-earned stores of honey from marauding insects, &c.

2. That the darts work independently and alternately, and are connected at the base with the poison sac, without whose powerful contents such a tiny weapon would be wholly ineffective.

3. That the poison glands pour an acid secretion (largely formic acid) into this sac, whence it is conveyed to the tip of the sting along the groove or canal formed by the junction of the sheath and the darts.

4. That the formic acid is known to have considerable antiseptic properties.

5. That it is found present in well-preserved honey, but not in freshly gathered nectar.

6. That it has been added by the bees to assist in the preservation of the honey, but how that is accomplished has not yet been demonstrated.

M. Phisalix's researches appear to show that the poison contains three principles—one convulsive, one stupefying, and one which stimulates inflammation. The extraordinary feature of the discovery is that the poison contains two ingredients opposed one to the other. That may account for the fact that fatal cases of bee sting are excessively rare, although not unknown. In June, 1900, a boy at Mollington, Oxfordshire, was stung by a bee, and died within half an hour in great convulsive pain. An inquest was held on the body, and a medical man gave it as his opinion that no one could be fatally poisoned by a bee sting, and that the boy died from "heart depression and nerve shock consequent upon the sting." In the matter of bee stings, as in many other causes of disease and death, modern bacterial and chemical researches are revolutionizing medical theories and practices.

She Never Forgot the Lost Five.

From The Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

An Atchison man lost $5 in making change, and when he went home told his wife about it. This happened six years ago, and she has never forgotten it, often telling him what luxuries they could afford if he hadn't lost the money. Last week their son dropped $2,000 in a poor investment. "Don't say a word to him about it," she said to her husband. "Poor boy, he feels bad enough as it is."

JAPAN GETS HOARDED GOLD.

Patriot 300 Years Ago Put $500,000 Away for a National Emergency.

Tokio Correspondence London Times.

We are often reminded that old Japan is still with us, and that its survival adds not merely a picturesque, but also a noble, element to the character of the nation.

An illustration has just occurred. Nearly 300 years ago, when Togugawa Iseyasu captured the Castle of Osaka from the Taiko's widow, Yodo, and her son, Hideyori, he found there a large part of the treasure that the great Captain and statesman had accumulated. It was in the form of gold horses, for the Taiko's fancy had been thus to stamp upon the precious metal an indication of the warlike uses to which it was destined.

The Tokugawa leader distributed a great part of the treasure among his chief retainers, and to his second son, Norinao, he gave 300 ingots, with an injunction that the gold should be held as a reserve for use in a national emergency. Norinao received in fief the Province of Owari, and in the vaults of the colossal castle built by him at Nagoya the ingots lay untouched until the fall of feudalism, in 1874.

The feudal chiefs were then reduced to the position of simple gentlemen, with incomes representing a mere fraction of their previous revenues. But no official scrutiny was made into the contents of their strong rooms, and thus many emerged from the débâcle in a much better financial position than the bald figures of the State's commutation scheme suggested.

The Owari ingots, however, being reserved from ordinary uses by the injunction of Iyeyasu—an injunction of absolutely binding force in the eyes of his descendants—remained inviolate until a few days ago, when their owner, Marquis Girei, present representative of the Owari family, decided that the national emergency contemplated by his illustrious ancestor had come. The ingots have a value of 1,000,000 yen—£100,000—in modern money.

It would have been more than natural that the head of one of the three principal branches of the Tokugawa clan, which had been driven from administrative power and robbed of all its ancient splendor by the present Government, should have kept the treasure for his own enrichment, and that to hand it over to the national exchequer would have been his last thought. But Japanese patriotism is superior to vicissitudes of individual fortune.

Marquis Girei repaired to the tomb of his forefather Norinao, and there, in the presence of his sons, his principal relatives, and some of his family's former vassals, invoked Norinao's spirit to witness that the trust reposed in him by the Tokugawa chief had been faithfully observed through three centuries, and that to transfer the treasure now to the coffers of the State seemed a true interpretation of the purpose of Iyeyasu.

The gift has not evoked much comment in Japan. It appears to be considered too appropriate to be extraordinary. But it constitutes an interesting link between the old and the new.

Y. M. C. A. AT PANAMA AND COLON.

Organization to Act on Suggestion of Minister Barrett.

In response to the suggestion of John Barrett, United States Minister to Panama, made through the State Department at Washington to the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association suggesting that Young Men's Christian Association branches be opened at Panama and Colon, the committee will send its Secretary, J. R. Thompson of the field department, to investigate the conditions in Panama and pioneer associations there.

NO LUNCH AND NO HATS.

Result: Better Health and Fewer Bald Heads.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read with pleasure your article on "The Lunch Habit." I am a business man of middle age—have practiced what your article advocates for the past ten years—and am in sterling health. I am often ridiculed for abstaining from eating midday meals—naturally, gluttons cannot conceive such a habit—but common sense dictates that a fairly substantial breakfast (no meats) and a good dinner about 7:30 is all the food any man requires, particularly to make these two meals enjoyable. It keeps the brain active and the system healthy.

Much more could be said as to what business men ought to do, and such discussions in an influential paper like THE NEW YORK TIMES can do a great amount of good.

Another habit I would like you to bring before the men and boys is the constant wearing of "headgear." It is not natural to wear a hat—the head ought to be kept cool at all times. Indians do not wear hats; they are nature's children. I have never seen a bald-headed Indian. How do you account for that?

The Mayor and Civil Service.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial this morning on the Mayor's reply to the Civil Service Reform Association's letter quotes him as saying that he would welcome any assistance in enforcing the civil service law in both letter and spirit.

If he is in earnest, then it about time that he gave his attention to the practice of certain heads of departments of permitting the use of these offices placed in their charge as preparatory schools for persons intending to enter examinations for positions in the civil service.

Have they any right to offer this privilege to friends or followers to the disadvantage of other applicants? CURIOUS.

Italian's Appeal to a Thief.

From The London Pall Mall Gazette.

ROME, Aug. 31.—A certain Signor Gioacchino Penso, having had a small bag containing valuable documents stolen from the railway carriage when he was at dinner, and evidently having little faith in the police to assist in the recovery of them, has sent the following letter to the papers, the originality of which should evoke a response:

Dear Signor Thief: Last Monday, on the MHan-Venice line, at about 7:30 P. M., while I was dining in the restaurant car, you had a moment of distraction, and took from the compartment 12,680-3, a black bag containing various objects of little worth, but to which I attach great personal value. If you would like to do a good bit of business, I offer you £20 to return all to me, with the assurance that I shall not take any steps either to discover your identity or to have you arrested. Confiding in your relative honesty, which gives me the hope that you will spare me the annoyance of a long case in the law courts, please accept, Signor Thief, my admiration for your dexterity, and, with kind regards, yours.

Policeman Theodore Quentin.

From The Philadelphia Record.

Reserve Officer Theodore Quentin enjoys the unique distinction of bearing the names of two of the President's sons. For twenty years he has stood at Eighth and Market Streets guarding pedestrians and straightening out traffic tangles, but not in all that time has he received anything which has pleased him more than the letter he got from President Roosevelt concerning his name, about which he had written to the Chief Executive. Mr. Quentin says that in all these United States there's not another name like his. The Quentin part of it he was naturally born to, while the name Theodore just happened like many other given names. In addition to being rather a peculiar name, any way, Quentin seems even more strange as a surname, though a city in Northern France is so called.

CATHOLIC PARISH SCHOOLS.

Save the City More Than $3,000,000 Annually.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the issue of your paper of this day you enumerate the number of children in New York City for whom the Board of Education was unable to provide full time school accommodation yesterday in our public schools. To a certain extent this condition is, no doubt, the result of recent labor strikes, by which it was found impossible to get ready the new school buildings for occupation. It is very doubtful if the City of New York will ever be able to erect sufficient school buildings to meet the steady natural yearly increase in the population of children of school age.

But, in the figures in your paper, you failed to include the number of children of New York city at present in the Catholic parish schools, in which an elementary education is given free to the children, but at the cost of much money to our Catholic churches.

When our public schools reopened their doors to the city's children yesterday, sixty-six Catholic parish schools were also opened to the Catholic children in the Boroughs of Manhattan and Bronx, and about fifty in the Boroughs of Brooklyn and Queens. In these 116 school buildings more than 75,000 children of the city were enrolled. These children are distributed in about 1,400 grades, and are taught by 1,400 teachers.

The situation, then, is this: The Catholic Church in New York City is providing 75,000 Catholic children—children citizens of the city—with an elementary education up to the requirements of the Board of Education of the city without a cent of cost to the city, thereby immeasurably relieving and assisting the Board of Education in its desperate efforts to fulfill the promises of the city's present Administration to give every boy and girl of school age in the city a seat in the schools for a full school day.

And since it actually costs the City of New York $40 a year to educate each boy and girl in our public schools, it follows that the Catholic parish school is saving the city annually in education $3,000,000. When the value of the Catholic school building itself is added to this great sum the figure of profit to the city taxpayer by our Catholic school assumes enormous proportions.

I appeal to you to present this corrected statement of the school question in our city to the readers of your paper. Our great State of New York is the most liberal of all the States in our free and imperishable Republic. Its citizens, as a body, are fair-minded and they love justice. Relying on their high sense of justice, I am convinced the time will soon come when they will vote to appropriate some yearly recompense from the public school taxes for the Catholic schools of our city and State for the unselfish help they are giving in the noble work of the education of all the children so dear alike to Church and State.

Closing of Coney Island Creek.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The closing of Coney Island Creek, the news of which you published yesterday, has been going on for some time, and was brought to the attention of the Health Department. Coney Island Creek furnished a tide flow for the head waters of Gravesend and Sheepshead Bays, which it connected. Brooklyn already has two samples of stagnant waters in Gowanus and New-town Creeks that are a disgrace to the city, and the stopping of this tideway will create two more. It would have seemed much more intelligent to widen this creek than to close it, but some "interests" apparently can do as they please without any interference. L. S.

Advantage of Lunch Clubs.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent who complains of the tipping nuisance should join a lunch club. So should all business men who are victims of this hold-up system. The amount which the average man pays out in tips each year would pay his dues in any one of the dozen of good clubs in the city, and in these clubs tipping is prohibited. Furthermore, the club member gets better service than in the average hotel or restaurant and enjoys privacy and the privilege of lunching with his friends instead of among strangers. Then there is a material saving to the club members in the price of foods, the aim of most clubs being to furnish good living at a minimum of cost. G. O. SHIELDS.

Precision of Statement.

From The Kansas City (Mo.) Journal.

The exactitude with which some editors stick to facts is exampled in the following from a Parsons paper: "She is a young fifteen-year-old girl, and the daughter of a widow woman." It will be observed that the editor has done away with every possibility of her being an old fifteen-year-old girl and the daughter of a widow man.

Safe from Burglars.

From The Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"I'm so glad the boys of your company gave you that handsome revolver," said the militia Captain's wife. "We need have no fear now of the burglars infesting this neighborhood."

"That's what!" replied the gallant Captain. "I've got it locked up in the office safe where they can't get at it."

MY GUIDE'S FABLE.

I swung to the ripplin' shallers an' brung
the canoe a-land,
An' there wux a fine red squirrel a-cussin'

The things what he said wux shockin', my

I'd gethered a pile o' hazels an' hid 'em

When up comes that highway robber—that scallywag, bluecoat jay—
The son o' the thief that hatched 'im, an'
filches the lot away!
I won't eat a speck o' dinner! I swear it upon my soul!
Until I kin make that sinner surrender

"The forest is thick with hazels!" sez I,
"an' the medder corn

The shell o' the shagbark's open; the

A-scoldin' a stupid jury: "Yo' don't git

"Aw, shucks fer the nuts! I'm pressin'

"Ef you'd been a King," I hollers, "I

ARTHUR GUITERMAN.

HIGGINS AS POLITICIAN AND MAN OF BUSINESS

Republican Candidate for Governor a Kindly, Unassuming Man.

BUT TOUCHY AS TO GROCERIES

Lieut. Gov. Frank W. Higgins, the Republican candidate for Governor, has been in New York for several days, but without exciting the customary commotion that goes with the visits of candidates. He has gone his unobtrusive way, unremarked and unregarded—curiously in contrast with the beehive court that attends the progress through the city of Gov. Odell, who is not the Republican candidate for Governor. It is a queer reversal of the theory of such things; Odell might be the candidate and Higgins the retiring Governor, so far as outward appearances go.

The Lieutenant Governor is an agreeable man to meet. There is an unaffected simplicity about him that puts visitors instantaneously at ease and arm's-length conversation out of the question.

He is a little man, and he is plump as a partridge, but without the sumptuous proportions of Sereno Payne or the globularity of Lucius Littauer. He could not be called roly-poly; in shape he somewhat resembles an egg.

He has the Odell complexion and looks like a mild and toned-down version of his chief. In place of the impression which Odell gives of forcefulness and reserved strength the Lieutenant Governor gives an impression of affability and kindliness. Aside from the complexion and the eyes the two men are as unlike as a grizzly bear and a kitten.

NO PRETENSE OR PRETENSION.

It would be difficult for any one to meet Mr. Higgins casually and go away with an unkindly thought of him. He is simple and direct in his manner, and there is not a shadow of pretense nor a suspicion of the "big head" about him. Candidates frequently conceal cranial enlargement, but it is a rare candidate who does not give the impression that his demeanor as candidate is different from his anteconvention demeanor. The geniality of candidates strikes the experienced observer as a husk, and one finds himself wondering if even the handshake is an exact duplicate of the unofficial or domestic handshake.

There is no forced geniality about Higgins; his demeanor is the same yesterday, today, and forever, and his handshake is of the common or garden kind.

His business interests are large, and he impresses it upon all inquirers that he has nothing to do with the grocery business except to have his name on the door. In fact, Mr. Higgins is touchy upon this point. The word "groceries" has attained such a peculiar significance in Republican State politics, and various evil-minded humorists have manifested thus early in the campaign such a disposition to refer to the grocery firm of Odell & Higgins, that the junior member shrinks from the word.

In order that no injustice may be done Mr. Higgins it should be understood that while his name is on a grocery store he does not deal in groceries. He says himself that his principal interests are in timber, and outside of politics he devotes himself to these interests. When you ask him about his business he says that he has four stores, and lets the subject drop there. If you press it, he says that three of them are general stores, and admits that the fourth deals in groceries exclusively.

Mr. Higgins's career is that of a bright business man, a safe and respectable citizen, a country merchant of the kind that is looked up to in the community and spoken of in the same paragraph with the leading lawyer and the pastor of the principal church. There is nothing in his life that suggests the old and orthodox biography of a candidate. No pine knots guided his youthful search for knowledge, no axe of his hewed timber for the fire to cook the frugal meal, and the towpath knew him not. He has done his duty in the world and earned a place in the esteem of his neighbors, and that is his record.

FONDER OF FUN THAN FRACTIONS.

But there is nothing slow or stupid about him. As a boy he was not especially studious and won no especial school honors, which is a mark of originality in a candidate which deserves special mention. He was a natural boy, fonder of fun than fractions.

It was in a district school that he demonstrated this habit of mind, to the regret of teachers and the profound satisfaction of students of campaign biographies. Like Tom Sawyer, his youthful mind was divided between the advantages of being a soldier and being a pirate. At fourteen he decided to become a General, because the uniform appealed to him more than the top boots and the cutlass.

He informed his father that he wanted to wear a uniform, and to that end desired to go to a military school. He had already left the district school for Pike Seminary. The paternal Higgins chuckled and said:

"Select your school and I'll send you there."

"If you go there," said the paternal Higgins, aware of the evanescent charms of military glamour, "you'll have to stay there till you finish."

The warrior promised, and he stayed there long after the delights of a uniform had faded away and he had been thoroughly cured of his desire to lead embattled armies on gory fields.

Then he worked in his father's store for a while, and might have stayed there for good but for the advent of a Chicago girl on a visit. Higgins was only a boy—literally. The girl was very young; but when she went back to Chicago Higgins decided that he wanted to branch out in life and carve out a career for himself. Chicago struck him as just the place where a career could be carved.

It speaks well for the youngster's energy, address, and power to convince others of his business ability that, although he was only nineteen, he secured the Western agency of the Binghamton Refining Company, which was one of three concerns that were undertaking to make lubricating oil out of petroleum. He established his headquarters in Chicago, where he could attend both to lubricating oil and love-making; and at twenty-one he married the Chicago girl.

Higgins stayed out West for a few years, going to Denver for a while and then going into business for himself in Stanton, Mich. Then his roving days were over for life, and at twenty-three he went back to Olean and started to grow into the solid business man of that section.

The long-sighted paternal Higgins, who had given him full swing in his military ambitions and in his Western career carving, saw that the young man was now ready for practical business. Young as Higgins was, he was promptly appointed general manager of the concern, and it is the same one of which he is now the head.

All this time he was dabbling in politics. His first political work was done when he was only sixteen, in the campaign of 1872, and here he declared war on the indulgent paternal Higgins and struck out for himself.

The paternal Higgins was a war Democrat who had been voting the Republican ticket. "But," says the filial Higgins, when he tells the story, "he hadn't got so far away from the war that he wasn't ready to go back to the party."

So when Greeley was nominated the paternal Higgins went back to the Democratic Party. The filial Higgins bolted the paternal ticket and worked with all the ardor of his sixteen years for Grant.

A BORN POLITICIAN.

He took to politics like a duck to water. "Don't know how I happened to go into it," says he; "it was born in me, I guess." But he never held any office, not even a local one, until he was elected to the State Senate, though he served as a delegate to the Republican National Convention of 1888 and helped, under Platt's guidance, to nominate Harrison.

On July 4, 1893, he was sitting in his office when three Republican politicians came in and invited him to be a candidate for the Senate. Higgins told them it was out of the question; he couldn't and wouldn't take it. They accepted his ultimatum with polite regret and withdrew.

"Then," says Higgins, in telling about it, "began the operation of a system which I didn't know anything about then, though I have since come to understand it very well."

He began to receive letters and visits from citizens who wanted him to run for the Senate. Convinced that there was a popular demand for his nomination he entered the race, and the three politely regretful Republican politicians were vindicated. He was nominated unanimously, and takes pride in the fact that he has been nominated the same way in every convention since, where he has been a candidate for anything.

His acquaintance with Odell and Platt has been a political one, not a personal one. Outside of politics he could not be called a personal friend of either. He never was acquainted with Odell till the latter became Chairman of the State Committee. He trained with Platt till the break came and then switched to Odell.

But you will hurt Higgins if you intimate to him that he has always been a machine man. Next to the grocery business there is nothing about which he is more sensitive. A reference to his machinism brings out instantly the fact that he cut loose from the organization when Louis F. Payn was nominated for Insurance Commissioner, and voted against that patriot's confirmation. There is nothing in his career in which Higgins takes more pride, except his vote for Francis Hendricks when Gov. Roosevelt nominated the Syracusan for Payn's place.

Take him by and large, he is a good type of the up-State business man, and a gentleman in politics. He is a good clean-cut citizen, and it is reasonably certain that the Democratic issue in the State campaign will not be his record.

HER ATONEMENT DAY.

Jewish Girl Returns Home, Is Forgiven, and Affianced.

Moved by the spirit of her religion, Yetta Wohlman, a pretty seventeen-year-old Jewess, returned to the home of her parents, at 139 Orchard Street, last night, on the Day of Atonement, to ask the forgiveness of her parents for having been away for ten days. She was received with open arms, and will marry Joseph Proper of 302 Second Street.

It was a happy ending to what the police and the girl's parents believed at first was a case of abduction, but all the while Miss Wohlman was at Proper's home, under his mother's care.

The girl's troubles came about through love of dancing. Night after night she went to balls given by associations and clubs, and when this kind of dance was out of season she went to the public places. Proper was nearly always her companion. The girl was finally told that she must stay home at night and Proper was forbidden the house.

Ten days ago Miss Wohlman disappeared. Her father, Abraham, who conducts a crockery business at the Orchard Street address, notified Capt. Flood of the Eldridge Street Police Station. The police investigated the case, but although they knew about Proper, they did not question him or visit his home. Mrs. Proper was meanwhile taking good care of the girl. Young Proper wanted to marry the girl immediately, but his mother advised that she should first return and ask the consent of her parents.

Last night Capt. Flood and Detective Lohmeyer went to the Wohlman home to see if any news had been received of the girl. They had been there but a few minutes when Miss Wohlman entered, accompanied by Proper and his mother. Her parents received her with open arms, and after talking with Mrs. Proper agreed that their daughter should marry the young man after the days of atonement were over.

As there had been a complaint in the case, however, Capt. Flood arrested the young man and charged him with being a suspicious person. He said it was merely technical, and that when the case was explained to the Magistrate he would be released. Proper went to his cell with a light heart.

FARLEY LAYS CORNERSTONE.

Schools Form True Note of Catholicism, Archbishop Declares.

In the presence of an audience numbering several thousand Archbishop John M. Farley officiated at the laying of the cornerstone of the new parochial school in the parish of St. Anthony of Padua, at Prospect Avenue and One Hundred and Sixty-sixth Street, yesterday afternoon.

His Grace's personal escort consisted of the Fourth Degree Corps of the Knights of Columbus. The procession started from the site of the present church, at Home Street and Union Avenue. Besides the Knights of Columbus there were in line members of various other Catholic societies. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Father A. Lammel of St. Joseph's Church.

Before the cornerstone was lowered into place the Archbishop spoke briefly.

"Two years ago," he said, "I sent for Father Strack and told him to establish a church wherever it was needed in this vicinity, particularly among the German residents. He came here without a penny in his pocket, depending on the faith that he had in the people. His faith was not in vain. Shortly after he came to me with plans for a school and a church. He said to me: 'If I build a church without a school where are the people to come from?' There he struck the true note of Catholicism today. If we do not educate the people and the children we are bound to have empty churches within a short time."

The building of which the cornerstone was laid yesterday will be used finally as a school, but for the present it will be used for services. It has a seating capacity of 700 and will cost $50,000.

Broke Into Bathhouses for Swim.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, Sept. 18.—All of the bathing establishments on the shore front were closed this morning. The bathing was excellent and a number of Summer visitors who had rented bath houses for the season with the understanding, it is said, that the service would be continued until Oct. 1, forced open the houses at Fourth Avenue and, donning their robes, were soon disporting in the surf. Several policemen were near by, but did not interfere with the leaders of the raid.

SKIPPERS PLAY INDIAN ON HUCKLEBERRY ISLAND

Big Pow-Wow Ends Yachting Season on Sound.

POLICE WARD OFF PALEFACES

Two Hundred Clubmen Present "The Kidding of Kaptain Kidd" and Woo a Festive Clambake.

LARCHMONT, N. Y., Sept. 18.—The annual pow-wow of the "Huckleberry Indians" and the "Fleet Dubs," held on the historic island from which the red men take their name, signalized yesterday the closing of the yachting season along the Sound, and was made the occasion for much merriment, in which clubmen from far and near participated.

In connection with the day the Travers Island Indians and the members of the mysterious inner circle, which lives at the Larchmont Yacht Club, presented for the uplifting of their friends the anti-dry burlesque entitled "The Kidding of Kaptain Kidd, a Komical Kid for Komical Kidders." Clay M. Greene, shepherd of the Lambs, was responsible for the sketch, the performance of which was given in the open air with a cast of at least 200 persons.

Lest inquisitive palefaces should seek to put foot on the island, the entire constabulary of Larchmont, Pelham, and New Rochelle, assisted by a regiment of private detectives, formed a cordon about it, while fleet patrol boats circled its shores without ceasing, warning off any venturesome craft which might approach.

The story evolved by Mr. Greene deals with the hidden treasure supposed to have been planted upon Huckleberry Island by Capt. Kidd. The characters, as shown by a scroll of white birch bark which hung from the sachem pole of the chief's wigwam in the very centre of the island, where it was jealously guarded, were distributed thuswise:

CAPT. KIDD, to whose compulsory croak some legendary con has ascribed the naming of Excursion Rock—Joseph Grismer.
ROCKAWAYE, the Captain's First Lieutenant—Frank Unger.
WHISKISOWER, his Second Lieutenant—Louis Spence, Jr.
APPLEJACK, his Boatswain—W. A. Stadleman.
FUSELOIL, his bos'n's mate—Peter J. Kane.
FATHER NEPTUNE, His Dopes of the Danky Deep—Forest Robinson.
APHRODITE, Her Nymphs of the Wooing Wave—Newton Libds.
CONN WALLSTREET of Wall Street—Mortimer Smith.
CINCHENHEIMER, a sure thing promoter—Frank Hardy.
BELLE BROADWAY, a siren—Dick Owens.
MINNIE METROPOLE, a tendril—Edward Murphy.
CHIEF RUDEE of the Huckleberry Indians—R. Schayfer.
MEDICINE MAN—W. E. Hinsdale.
SACHEM—Frank Fullgraff.
LITTLE CHIEF—E. W. Hanbold.

Capt. Kidd and his officers, bold spirits all, headed an army of pirates. Father Neptune and Aphrodite were attended by strange followers from the deepest caves of ocean. Belle Broadway and Minnie Metropole boasted a retinue of sirens, and Chief Rudee seemed to have depopulated the Travers Island village, so numerous were his Huckleberry Indians. The costumes were more elaborate than at any preceding powwow.

The burlesque ended with a procession to the Huckleberry Reservation, where the whole company was treated to a clambake, while the band played "The Ghost that Never Walked." The rejoicing lasted until the ending of the powwow, which came with the setting of the sun.

In addition to those who took part in the burlesque there were hundreds of clubmen who looked on and joined in the concluding festivities. A large fleet of yachts was anchored off the island while the fun lasted.

OLD DEEDS FOUND.

Were Made in First Year of George The Second's Reign.

Special to The New York Times.

MADISON, N. J., Sept. 18.—Through the death of Miss Sarah Amanda Lindsley, her nephew, Foster H. Lindsley, a merchant, at East High Bridge, has acquired possession of two old deeds conveying lands at Hanover, Hunterdon County, (now Morris County,) dated the first year of the reign of George II. of Great Britain, Oct. 3, 1727, and Oct. 4, 1727. The deeds are plainly written on parchment, and are in an excellent state of preservation. They were the property of Miss Lindsley, who lived in the old Lindsley homestead, at New Vernon, Morris County.

The papers were made by John Alford of Milford, County of Middlesex and Province of Massachusetts Bay, in New England, of the first part, and Stephen Tuttle, late of Newark, now of Hanover, in the County of Hunterdon, and Western Division of the Province of New Jersey, of the second part. The first deed conveys 200 acres of land situated in Hanover, between the branches of the Whippany and Passaic Rivers, "for five shillings of lawful silver money." The second deed conveys 254 acres of land adjoining the former tract for £82.

The parchments are the oldest known deeds in this section. John Lindsley, a witness, and Stephen Tuttle, a signer, are Foster H. Lindsley's great-great-great-grandfathers.

The party has been to St. Louis, Chicago, and Niagara, and will now go to Washington and through the South to Mexico. Their special train carries loads of advertisements in the shape of California oranges and raisins.

THREW UP THEIR ROYAL JOBS.

Coney's Sovereign Pair Unmasked and the Elephant Skinned His Knees.

The chosen king and queen of the Coney Island Mardi Gras, in honor of the semi-centennial festivities to take place there this week, were dethroned yesterday in a most unbecoming manner, and in disgust renounced their royal jobs. The management of the carnival is in a state of mind because of the fear that another king and queen of the same size and shape may not be found. Incidental to the carnival catastrophe there is an elephant with skinned knees.

At the rehearsal last night the elephant which their majesties were seated. From this they were to alight and take their seats on the thrones. The elephant trumpeted his fear that the flooring was not strong enough, but his trainer prodded him. With a look of fear he went to the foot of the throne, and then through the floor to a depth of four feet, where he stood trembling with a pitiful I told-you-so look. His royal burdens had fallen to the floor on their heads, but did not further break the planking.

The King and Queen had assented to act was carrying on his back a howdah, in on condition that they should be masked, because they came of old Coney Island families and assisted the carnival more as a lark than for any other reason. The bump on the boards knocked off the masks, and the Queen was at once recognized as Miss Florence Hallenbeck of 8 Kester Squire. The King proved to be Harvey Bernard of West Twenty-first Street and Surf Avenue.

They rubbed their heads ruefully, and the King remarked to the Queen that they were discovered. Then they left, never to return again. The elephant was extricated with a derrick.

DALAI LAMA OUSTED.

Pro-British Tashi Lama Succeeds Him —British to Leave Lhasa.

LHASA, Sept. 16, (Delayed.)—By the Chinese Emperor's order the Amban has proclaimed the Tashi Lama to succeed to the spiritual dignities of the Dalai Lama.

The proclamation records at length the shortcomings of the Dalai Lama, ending with his flight, and adds that he will not be permitted to intervene in any civil affairs. It is understood that if he continues contumacious this temporary disposition will be made permanent.

The departure of the British expedition has been fixed for Sept. 23. The weather is already cold, and there have been sharp frosts.

The men are ill supplied with Winter clothing, and are likely to suffer in crossing the passes on the way to Gyang-Tse, where there are some stores of warm clothing.

Tubdan, the present Dalai Lama, is now supposed to be somewhere in Mongolia, along with the Russianized Tibetan who calls himself Dorjieff, and who, according to the British, is responsible for all the recent troubles that have befallen his country.

The Tashi Lama, as far as spiritual antecedents go, has an even more historic claim upon the veneration of the Tibetans than the Dalai Lama. His attitude to the British "mission" has been friendly throughout, and there is no doubt that his proclamation as the supreme head of the Tibetan system has been brought about by Col. Younghusband through the Chinese Amban.

The Tashi Lama, or "Glorious Teacher," is abbot of the large monastery of the western capital of Tibet, Tashi-Lumpo, or Shiga-Tse. Hitherto he has been second in importance only to the Dalai Lama. As he has had practically no temporal duties to perform, he has devoted himself almost exclusively to spiritual matters, and has a great reputation for piety and erudition.

The British expedition has not only resulted in the promotion of the Tashi Lama; it has also restored much of the power of the Amban, who, before Col. Younghusband arrived, was more or less a negligible quantity. From the first China gave entire passive aid and support to the British expedition, and the Amban is now able to say to the Tibetans, "I told you so." He continually warned them of what would happen, and now that his warnings have been justified, his prestige as the representative of the suzerain power has risen accordingly.

MAY END URUGUAYAN REVOLT.

Rebels Negotiate with Government—Public Fears War Will Continue.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 18.—Advices received here to-day from Uruguay state that Basilio Munoz, successor to Gen. Aparicio Saraiva as the head of the revolutionary forces, wrote to President Ordones of Uruguay, expressing his belief in the futility of further bloodshed now that Saraiva was dead, and asking the President to propose conditions of peace.

The President replied that, while desiring a cessation of the struggle, the Government was not prepared to make conditions, though it stood ready to entertain reasonable proposals.

Delegates representing both parties are now negotiating a basis of peace, but owing to the many previous failures the public has little faith in a successful issue of these negotiations.

DEATH LIST OF A DAY.

Zeb A. Dyer.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 18.—Zeb A. Dyer, leader of the Herrick Democratic forces of Albany County, died at his home in Delmar to-day of typhoid fever. Mr. Dyer was born in the town of Berne, this county, Dec. 1, 1800, and his boyhood was spent on a farm.

When twelve years old he came to Albany and entered the public schools. Later he learned the cigarmaker's trade, then went through the Normal College, taught school for a while, and took up the study of the law in the Albany Law School, being graduated therefrom in 1885. The only political office he ever held save as delegate to conventions was District Attorney of Albany County. He was a member of several social clubs in Albany, was a thirty-second degree Mason, and a prominent Odd Fellow. He was descended from James Dyer, a soldier in the Continental Army, and was one of Albany's leading members of the bar.

ASUNCION IS CUT OFF.

Paraguayan Rebels May Starve Government Into Submission.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 18.—According to dispatches received here, the revolutionists of Paraguay are concentrating their land forces at towns parallel with the railway, and have cut off supplies and communications with Asuncion.

It is evident that the revolutionists are planning to make an early attack upon the capital or to starve the Government into submission.

POLICEMAN HAS X-RAY EYE.

Miller Praised in Court for Finding Many Concealed Weapons.

Policeman William A. Miller of the Elizabeth Street Station, who has arrested forty-one persons for carrying revolvers and other concealed weapons in the last two weeks, arraigned six more men similarly accused in the Tombs Court yesterday morning. Magistrate Mayo fined each $10. He then complimented the policeman on his excellent work in capturing such offenders, and asked him how he managed to detect them so well.

"I don't know, exactly, your Honor," said Miller, "unless it's because I have an X-ray eye. But I can almost always tell by just looking at a man whether or not he's got a gun or a knife on him. If it's a gun that I think he has, I just brush up against him casually, and then when I feel it bulging in his hip pocket I nail him."

Awning Afire Scares Majestic Guests.

There was a little flurry in the south dining room of the Motel Majestic, Seventy-first Street and Central Park West, last evening, when an awning on the fourth floor of the Barnard Apartments, across the street, burst into flame. A number of the guests left the tables, but in a few minutes the head hailman of the Barnard had squelched the blaze with a fire extinguisher.

PRINCE BISMARCK DEAD AT FRIEDRICHSRUH

ONCE WAS FOREIGN MINISTER

Career Nearly Wrecked by Elopement with a Princess—Seven-Year-Old Son Inherits Title and Estate.

FRIEDRICHSRUH, Sept. 18.—Prince Herbert Bismarck died this morning at 10:15 o'clock. The end was painless.

Since he ceased to be Foreign Minister, on the retirement of his father in 1890, Prince Herbert Bismarck had taken part in public affairs only as a member of the Reichstag. His attitude had been that of a man not appreciated by his sovereign and who was waiting in the background for an opportunity to resume his career.

His delivery as a parliamentary speaker improved year by year. He always declined to join any political group, steadfastly calling himself an independent. His haughty and imperious manners of early life, when he was ever conscious of the fact that he was the son of the most powerful statesman in Europe, softened in later life.

Prince Bismarck's father trained him for his successor as Chancellor of the German Empire, and advanced him rapidly in the diplomatic service until at the age of forty he was Minister of Foreign Affairs, in which position he took part in nearly every important international transaction.

An incident that nearly wrecked Prince Herbert's career and that caused the old Chancellor great annoyance was Prince (then Count) Herbert's elopement with Princess Caroiath Beuthen, the wife of Prince Karl, the head of that distinguished Silesian house. The Princess was of the Hatzfeldt family, and young Bismarck at the time was his father's private secretary. Count Herbert lived with the Princess in Southern Italy for a few weeks, and then, at the command of his father, returned to Germany. The Princess afterward was divorced and has since died.

The title of Prince Bismarck and the large fortune of the decedent will go to his seven-year-old son Otto.

The late Emperor Frederick gave to Chancellor Bismarck extensive forests at Friedrichsruh, which have since increased in value, and the Chancellor gave to Prince Herbert $2,400,000 in securities and cash. The estate is now estimated to be worth $4,000,000, exclusive of the lands.

Prince Herbert Bismarck, who was born in 1849, was the oldest son of the great Bismarck. He studied law in the Berlin and Bonn Universities, served in the Prussian Army as a Lieutenant of Reserves during the Franco-German war of 1870-71, and was severely wounded at the battle of Mars-la-Tour.

In 1873 Herbert became an official of the Department of Foreign Affairs, and was assistant to his father, then Chancellor. He was attached to the German Legations at Berne and Vienna from 1874 to 1877. Later on he became Councilor of the German Embassy in London, and subsequently occupied the same position at St. Petersburg. In 1884 he was appointed Minister Extraordinary at The Hague, and in 1885 he became Under Secretary of State in the Department of Foreign Affairs, his post Herbert held until the dismissal of his father from the Chancellorship, when he left the service of the empire.

From 1884 to 1887 he was a member of the German Reichstag, and also from 1888 until the time of his death. He married in 1892 Countess Margaret Hoyos of the Hungarian nobility and after the death of his father he inherited the title of Prince.

Prince Herbert leaves five children—two girls and three boys.

IN THE SHOPS.

A rummage sale is one of the city attractions for Fall. There is one in china now going on, and the woman who wishes to replenish her stock of anything in that line will have the time of her life. There are all sorts of things, manufacturers' samples, odds and ends of things of which only a few of a kind remain, fancy clocks, lamps, terra cotta figures—anything almost that can be found in a china shop is there, and to be sold at a reduction of half price or less. One article is a big lamp that has a big oval bowl of china, nearly half a yard tall, with a low brass standard and brass finish at the top, and a globe. It has been $30, and now it is in the rummage sale for $5. It bears a design of monks, one on either side. The globe does not match the bowl, but is appropriate in a way. It is a plain globe with a Princeton design on one side. It is a handsome lamp and a great bargain.

***

There are other lamps of crystal and pottery, and also at reasonable price. One of these is a slender lamp with decorations in blue underglaze, a cobalt blue Aderley ware. It has a globe which is in delicate design, lighter in color than the lamp, very pretty. This lamp, too, is $5. It was $25.

***

For the woman who has an affection for fine plates and a variety in them there are beauties, manufacturers' samples sold at $80 or $100 a dozen, many of them selling for $2 apiece. There are all kinds, service, luncheon, and dessert plates. They are in Doulton, Wedgwood, Minton—a variety of makers. One plate is in turquois and pink enamel, paste gold, a cable edge, was $5, and is now $1.

***

In green and gold is a Doulton plate, gadron edge, paste gold on the green, a $7 plate, for $2.50. Another Doulton plate, a rather conspicuous design, is 65 cents. It was $2.

***

Another $2 plate, which was $7, is a Minton. Here is a professional description. It has acid-etched incrustations of paste gold and medallion of pink, green, and gold hand-painted flowers.

***

Small things which are pretty are stamp boxes of china. One style of these is shown in delft designs, little windmill scenes in blue on white, on both the cover and inside of the box. The cases are five inches or so long, the cover high, like a small platter cover, and in the dish beneath there are three compartments for stamps, pens, &c. This was $2, and is now 75 cents—a pretty little piece of china. There are others in other styles at the same price.

***

A cracker jar decorated in green and gold was $2.60. Its price is split now to $1.30. A big ice cream platter was $3.30, and is $1.60.

***

There are pretty tea caddies in various designs. One of these with small all-over designs is 50 cents now instead of $1. There are teapots, too, and sugar bowls and creamers, but they do not match as a rule.

***

There are good terra cottas among the bargains. One of these, a bust with a charming woman's head and pedestal, is $12, and has been much more than double that. The bust is nearly half life size.

***

***

There are a variety of chocolate pots. One with a spout and another with a nose, both in fine china, were $3.50 and are now $1.75.

***

Quaint little toby jugs come in a fine china. In shape they represent George Washington. They cost from 50 cents, for a small size, up.

***

In baking dishes there are custard cups which are of the serviceable brown and white baking ware, brown outside and white inside. They cost 50 cents.

SEASON'S RECORD TIED IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

Chicago and Cincinnati Play 17 Innings in Last Game Together.

SELEE'S MEN WIN BY 2 TO 1

The season's record for the length of a game in the major leagues—seventeen innings by Brooklyn and St. Louis at Brooklyn on Aug. 11—was equaled yesterday at Chicago when Selee's men and the Cincinnatians played together for the last time this year. Chicago won by a score of 2 to 1. The Chicago Americans were also successful at home, beating Detroit by a score of 1 to 0. The only other games scheduled were to have been played at St. Louis, but they were stopped by rain.

RACING AT GRAVESEND TO-DAY.

Contest for the First Special Will Mark Opening of Fall Season.

It is a curious thing in racing when the Fall season arrives with such a race as the time-honored First Special Stakes of this afternoon, the opening feature of the Gravesend Fall meeting. Six horses are named to run, and of the six five are three-year-olds, while of five the one that is most talked of and in anticipation is looked on as the winner, is a filly, the stout and fast Beldame.

Beldame is a truly wonderful mare, but good as she has proved herself to be, there is room for comparison between the filly and four colts that have been important factors in the years of racing, and the very fact that Beldame has so general a following, speaks ill for the colts in the race. Ort Wells, accepted until a few weeks ago as the best of his age; Broomstick, holder of the world's record at a mile and a quarter; Stalwart, conqueror of Ort Wells in one of the season's most important and valuable stakes, and the fast horse Pulsus are opposed to the fleet filly in to-day's big event, while Caughnawaga is the only one of the older lot of horses to invite trial against the best of the younger element in racing.

The day marks the opening of the Brooklyn Jockey Club's Fall meeting, the real beginning of the Fall season of racing, and, though three stakes are set for decision, the fields for none of them are large. An even half dozen horses are named for the First Special, while for the Junior Champion only eight are announced to run, with the Futurity favorite Sysonby and the Saratoga winner Siglight as the top weights. In the jumping stakes ten horses are named to run, with Thomas Hitchcock's clever young cross-country horse Fox Hunter in at the top weight. The programme is the most attractive of the early part of the week, and crowds in all the important races of the next few days, save only the Second Special, the sequel to to-day's big event, which race at one mile and a half will be run Saturday with a penalty for the winners of to-day's contest.

The New York National League team, with Elliott and Warner as a battery, Donlin as centre field, Dunn at left field, and Mertes at third base, visited the St. George Cricket grounds in Hoboken yesterday to play the strong semi-professional Hobokens. Instead of a one-sided affair, as many spectators supposed it would be, the National League leaders were held in check until the ninth inning, when they scored three runs and won by 4 to 0. The batting was light on the part of both teams, McKenna keeping the New Yorks down to eight hits, while only four were made off Elliott. The fielding was excellent throughout, the features being the work of Bean at right field and Shortell's display at second base. The score:

Billiter weighed 128 and Wiley 134½ pounds. The style was catch-as-catch-can.

LIGHTWEIGHT SPOILS RECORD BY FLANAGAN

AT PASTIME A. C. OPEN GAMES

John Flanagan, the well-known Irish athlete and holder of the world's championship for weight and hammer throwing, was the principal performer in the open athletic meeting at the formal opening of the new house and grounds of the Pastime Athletic Club, at Seventy-ninth Street and the East River, yesterday afternoon, and had the weight which he used weighed fifty-six pounds instead of fifty-five, as proved to be the case, a new world's record probably would have been made, as Flanagan hurled the heavy missile 39 feet 10 inches, more than a foot over his own world's record of 38 feet 7⅞ inches. In fact, he threw it 43 feet 6 inches in one trial, but stepped over the circle in doing it, so that this effort was not allowed. Flanagan also threw the hammer 172 feet 9¾ inches, within less than three inches of his world's record of 173 feet.

In consequence of these performances, Flanagan won the all-around weight-throwing contest, which was the feature of the meeting, with ease, taking first place in the weight, hammer, and discus and second in the shot, and scoring 18 points. Jerry Foley, of the New West Side Athletic Club was second, with 9 points, and S. P. Gillis of the New West Side was third, with 8 points. The latter caused a sensation in the hammer throw by sending the heavy ball through the board fence inclosing the grounds. Both the hammer and the shot were several times hurled into the thick of the crowd of spectators, who defied all attempts on the part of the officials to keep them off the field, but in every case those in the path of the projectile scattered before it landed, and no one was hurt.

The new grounds are not so picturesque as the old ones were, but are larger, occupying the eastern half of the block bounded by Seventy-eighth Street, Seventy-ninth Street, Avenue A, and the East River. The dirt track, measuring eight laps to the mile, encircles the greater part of the grounds, and the clubhouse, a one-story structure, is located in the northeast corner. The summary of the events follows:

100-Yard Run, Handicap.—Won by A. J. Crockett, unattached, (8 yards;) F. J. Delorme, Xavier Athletic Association, (7 yards,) second; C. E. Williams, Greater New York Irish Athletic Association, (6½ yards,) third. Time—0:10 1-5.

Chester Peabody won both the 70-yard and 220-yard handicaps from scratch at the members' games of the New West Side Athletic Club, held on the club grounds on West Fifty-fourth Street yesterday, and in the furlong race twice broke the track record for that distance, lowering it from 0:26 to 0:25 2-5 in the first heat, and then to 0:24 4-5 in the final. Daniel Frank, who won the second heat from scratch, also went in better time than the old record, going the distance in 0:25 3-5. Peabody won easily from Frank in the final. Julian W. Murphy won the 600-yard run handily from scratch, defeating J. Andrews, a 30-yard man, by about six yards in the finish. The summary:

CHAMPION KIELY IN ACTION.

At Celtic Park yesterday Thomas F. Kiely, the champion all-around athlete of the world, gave another exhibition of his wonderful powers as a weight thrower during the games of the Greater New York Athletic Association for the benefit of the women's chapter of the Tipperary Council. The champion hurled the 56-pound weight 40 feet 2 inches, which was 1 foot 3 inches further than his own world's record. The performance yesterday, however, was simply an exhibition and therefore does not affect the record. Kiely used the Scotch method, which was an unlimited run and follow. In throwing the hammer the champion was not so successful. He failed to reach his own record fixures of 150 feet 11 inches by 4 feet 7 inches.

In a women's race of sixty-five yards Celia McDermott, twelve years old, won by a yard, with Helen O'Brien, sixteen years old, second, and Nellie Bell third. The Murphys defeated the Faugh-a-Ballagha at Gaelic football by three points, and the Wolftones beat the Mitchells at hurling by three points.

COBWEBS WON THE BRUSH.

Ex-Champion Beat Old Grand Circuit Trotter David B. on Speedway.

The star event on the Harlem River Speedway yesterday morning was a half-mile go between the veteran trotters David B., 2:08¼, driven by his owner, John W. Cornish, and Cobwebs, 2:12, driven by Nathan Straus. Both horses have seen better days, so far as speed is concerned, for David B., who is now about thirteen years old, was considered the greatest horse on the Grand Circuit when he was a five-year-old, while Cobwebs is about sixteen years, and held the title of "King of the Speedway" against all comers until three years ago. Of late the trotters have received little fast work out of consideration for their ages, but yesterday morning the pair were as frisky as two-year-olds, and their owners finally agreed to start them. It was the first time the old rivals had come together for five years, and when the word went down the line that David B. and Cobwebs were to start, a clear road was made for them.

After several false starts they got the word, and the two trotters went away on perfectly even terms. David B. gained a slight lead as the first quarter post was neared and held it to the entrance of the stretch, where Cobwebs reached even terms. A nip-and-tuck race followed that aroused the crowd of spectators that lined the curbs to quite some enthusiasm. Both drivers leaned out over their dashboards and urged the veterans on with word and rein. When the final drive was made it looked very much like David B., but in almost the last stride Mr. Straus rallied Cobwebs, who showed one of his old-time sprints that won for him many races, and he passed the post a winner by a nose. So close was the finish that only those on a direct line with the post were able to decide, and when the crowd learned that the former Speedway favorite had won they gave a rousing cheer for Cobwebs.

Another heat that attracted much attention was between the crack Western pacer Wesley R., 2:10, driven by James Murphy of Chicago, and the chestnut pacer Fred W., 2:08¼, driven by Alexander Frankenstein. The pair struck a 2:10 clip on the start and came down to the stretch with Fred W. leading. A misstep in the last dozen strides cost the chestnut the race, however, and although he was away again in an instant, Wesley R. won out by a half length.

The thirty-third annual Fall rebattan of the Williamsburg Yacht Club was sailed yesterday in a fresh breeze over the club course on East River and Long Island Sound. Twenty-one yachts started, besides two launches. The largest boats sailed from the clubhouse on Flushing Bay to the Gangway Buoy and return, while the intermediate classes turned homeward at Stepping Stones Light, and the smallest at Fort Schuyler.

CLASS G,

THE FINANCIAL MARKETS

A Two-Sided Market Once More in Evidence.

A Week of Confused Price Movements and Conflicting Factors of Values, but Still on the Rise.

It was a week of crop scares. On four days the stock market was heavy to weak, and there were but two good days. Yet on the week the majority of stocks are higher, and staple prices are lower. Wheat touched its maximum, $1.22, on Tuesday, and on Saturday sold at $1.15⅝. The corn crop scare was milder, and the previous promise of abundance allowed loss without serious shortage, so that corn is 3 cents lower than a month ago, and 6 cents below its maximum of 63½ cents in February. Cotton is a half cent lower than a month ago, and of course is far below the corner price of February, which was the year's maximum. Intrinsically, therefore, the situation improved during the week, but speculatively the situation became mixed. On the two good days the losses of the four bad days were almost recovered, the industrial average declining only .24, and the railway average .23. Eighty-nine stocks moved a point or more, including 54 advances and 35 declines. The bond movement remained even more decisively upward, there being 42 advances to 13 declines.

Among the dozen most active properties chosen as representative of the list there were 7 advances and 5 declines. The dozen contributed about four million shares to the week's total 5,868,908, substantially a million shares daily, reckoning Saturday as a half holiday. This is a gain in activity and a loss in strength, reversing the experience previously this year. The volume is full, being larger than the previous week or the corresponding week for several years. Steel preferred was the most active and strongest stock, rising 2⅝ upon sales of 680,892 shares. The common rose only one-eighth less, and both descriptions are within a small fraction of their prices of just a year ago. Pennsylvania also rose 2½. This exhausts the list of important advances, and contrasts with Union Pacific's loss of 2⅝ and Southern Pacific's loss of 2¼. Not a few will attach significance to the weakness in the previously conspicuous leaders of the advance. Other declines were not large nor especially significant of anything in particular. This is an encouraging negative, for the failure of the grain-carrying railways to relapse is as encouraging as anything in the crop outlook.

The bond market lost a little of its activity, but only a little. At about $25,000,000 it approximates the previous week and exceeds any corresponding week in earlier years. Steel 5s rose one-quarter upon sales of nearly $4,000,000. This is the only exception to the rule of declines among the highly speculative issues which dominated business. Consolidated Tobacco 4s lost 3¼ upon the unfavorable reception of its capital rearrangement, or upon sales upon the publication of the good news, according to the viewpoint. Both Rock Island 4s and 5s were soft upon sales of 2,368. Union Pacific convertibles naturally reflected the weakness in the parent stock, falling 1⅜ on sales of 1,600. Wabash Bs lost only a fraction on sales of 1,442. When these are added and deducted from the week's total business the remnant reflecting investment sentiment is moderate.

BUSINESS IN ENGLAND.

Reports for Past Week Not So Encouraging as Previously.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES
Special Cablegram.

Copyright, 1904, THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The Times in its financial supplement to-morrow will say:

"Our recently expressed opinion that industrial conditions and prospects in this country were fairly encouraging is only partially confirmed by this week's reports. Complaints of the unprofitable character of business in the textile trades apart from cotton and in many branches of the iron and steel trade, with increasing unrest among certain sections of labor, are not reassuring prospects for the Winter months.

"The cotton trade is settling down to more regular and satisfactory position, and it is stated that not for many years has the outlook for Lancashire been as cheerful as at present.

"But the wool trade is in a waiting attitude. Colonial auctions open in London on Tuesday and East India sales the same day in Liverpool, with indications of an advance in prices following the course of the Antwerp and River Plate sales, at which fine selection, chiefly Montevidian product, obtained a 5 per cent. advance.

"Spinners and manufacturers do not seem to be in an enviable position, owing to the extraordinary disparity between raw materials and yarns and cloth.

"The iron and steel industries send very mixed reports, with complaints of bad business from several important points. Cardiff reports the dumping of steel at unapproachable prices, and Swansea complains of American and German competition in bars.

"In the grain trade opinion has been less skeptical regarding the maintenance at about the present level of values for wheat. The monthly report of the United States Government in regard to Spring wheat was distinctly less favorable than the trade here expected, and led to more active trading and generally higher prices. The Russian semi-official report foreshadows a deficit of 12,000,000 quarters. Argentine shipments are falling off, as European values did not advance rapidly enough to agree with the views at Buenos Ayres.

"India continues to ship liberally. There are now 4,500,000 quarters of wheat afloat for Europe against 3,300,000 quarters a year ago."

UNIONS OPPOSE MOVE FOR GENERAL STRIKE

Rebellion Among Building Trades Not in Alliance.

CALL ULTIMATUM A FARCE

Employers Say Any Order Threatened for Wednesday Will Amount to Nothing.

There is rebellion among the unions not affiliated with the Building Trades Alliance at the attempt of the Alliance to draw them into the building trades tie-up. These unions are satisfied with conditions as they are, and even those that are friendly to the Alliance will refuse, it was said yesterday, to be drawn into a doubtful fight.

No one seems to take much stock in the threat of the Alliance to get all the unions in line in a general strike against the Employers' Association if the strike ultimatum, as is sure to be the case, is ignored on Wednesday. The employers look upon the threat as a farce. The first bluff of the Alliance was that the Journeymen Stone Cutters' Union would be called out to-day on all contracts of the Employers' Association where new men employed under the arbitration agreement were working. If this is done, the employers say, not more than 100 men will be affected, even if they all obey the order. Nearly all buildings in course of construction have passed the stage where stonecutters are needed.

Among the dissatisfied men are the marble cutters, who went out about two weeks ago in sympathy with the stonecutters on strike at the Trinity Building. While not a member of the Marble Cutters' Union is working, the journeymen stone cutters, in whose behalf they quit, are working on the Metropolitan Insurance Company's Annex at Twenty-third Street and Fourth Avenue. The iron workers, who made such a strong fight against the arbitration agreement last year, are satisfied with it now, and while they have stated they will not work with non-union men the employers say they are now working with new men employed under the arbitration agreement.

The Granite Cutters' Union has not signed the arbitration agreement, as its constitution does not allow it to do so, and it is not in the Alliance. The stone cutters, whose strike on the Trinity Building started the trouble, are not under the arbitration agreement either. As to the granite cutters they are not inclined to do anything to oblige the Alliance. Charles Delaney, their business agent, said:

"I do not see why we should strike to oblige the alliance. The unions in the alliance signed the arbitration agreement, and were supposed to be satisfied with it when they were locked out for striking. The alliance, in fact, might look on us as non-union, because we are not under the arbitration agreement."

John Kilgus and J. Sanderman, the delegates of the Brotherhood of Painters, said that as far as their organization was concerned the alliance would have to carry on its own fight, as the brotherhood had nothing to thank the alliance for, the alliance having supported a rival union of painters. In reply to a question if the brotherhood would work with the new men employed under the arbitration agreement, Kilgus said that everything done under the arbitration agreement the brotherhood would stand by.

The men who figured in amalgamating the old and new housesmith's unions last year say that the Housesmiths and Bridgemen's Union will not strike. As to the bricklayers, it was said that a few men might strike if the alliance carried out its threat. It is not believed that the bricklayers as a body will strike, because only three of their eleven unions voted at the meeting in Bloomingdale Turn Hall last week not to work with new men.

LABOR CONDITIONS GOOD.

Great Activity in Construction Work—Trade Disputes Decreasing.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 18.—Accordingly to the quarterly bulletin of the State Department of Labor, just issued, in the first quarter of the year, owing to labor disputes, unusually cold and stormy weather, and lessened activity in a few industries, employment was very poor; but subsequently there was so much improvement that June and July actually surpassed the record year, 1902.

Among approximately 100,000 wage earners in the various industries of the State, 137 per 1,000 were reported idle at the end of June, as compared with 231 and 145 in June, 1903 and 1902, respectively; for the close of July in 1902, 1903, and 1904, the respective ratios were 156, 178, and 148.

The principal cause of this improvement was the phenomenal activity in construction work in the leading cities. In Rochester the estimated cost of projected buildings authorized by the Fire Marshal in April, May, and June was unprecedented, actually exceeding the figures for the entire year 1903. In Syracuse the remarkable record of the second quarter of 1903 was surpassed this year. In Buffalo this year's figures have been exceeded only once, (1903,) and those in New York City likewise but once, (1901.)

Besides these newly planned buildings, work has been in progress on extensive public works, so that the industry which at present ranks in importance above all others in this State—construction work—gave employment to more wage workers than ever before up to the beginning of the present controversies between employers and employes' associations in New York City. Many other industries also shared in the improvement of the present Summer.

The number of trade disputes in the second quarter (April, May, and June) of this year was smaller than usual, but owing to the large number of working people directly or indirectly affected by some of the disputes, more working time was lost than in former Summers with the exception of 1903, when the great building trades lockout in New York City took place.

The two overshadowing disputes of the period were the strike of the masters and pilots tying up traffic on the great lakes from the opening of navigation to the middle of June, and the strike of the New York clothing trades against the so-called "open shop" from June 21 to the first week in August. In the latter dispute about 25,000 employes were directly concerned and probably as many more thrown out of employment for some part of the period of the dispute, the total number of working days lost being estimated at more than 1,000,000. About 500,000 days' time was lost by the 1,000 masters and pilots and the 10,000 other marine workmen from New York State affected by the former's dispute with the Lake Carriers' Association.

The total number of workers directly concerned in disputes begun in April, May, or June was 39,500, and the aggregate number of work days lost was 1,923,000. Twenty of the forty-three disputes resulted in favor of the employers and only five in favor of the employes, while nine were compromised. The compromises were nearly all made upon demands for increased wages, which was still the leading cause of disputes. The employers were almost uniformly successful in the disputes involving trade unionism.

While strikes, says the bulletin, have been disturbing factors in industrial operations and have engaged public attention to a considerable degree this Summer, it remains true that the adjustment of wages under changing conditions of business is to an increasing extent accomplished without stoppage of work under the system of collective bargaining, or joint trade agreements, as it is frequently called. Recent instances of this mode of adjustment are numerous in this State.

Under the operation of the child labor laws enacted in 1903 the number of children permitted to work in factories continues to decrease. In the old City of New York, the present Manhattan Borough, the number of factory employment certificates issued to children by the Department of Health in April, May, and June, this year, was 612, as against 942 last year—a decline of more than one-third.

FATHER'S FRIEND THE JUDGE.

Boy Accused of Robbery Recalls a Long Acquaintance.

Thomas Miley, eighteen years old, of 587 East One Hundred and Thirty-fifth Street, and Charles McGrath, fifteen years old, of the same address, were arraigned in the Harlem Police Court yesterday on the complaint of Abraham Goldstein of 663 East One Hundred and Thirty-seventh Street, who charged the boys with entering his store on the morning of Sept. 6 and stealing $10 in cash and a quantity of cigars. Miley pleaded guilty, and McGrath admitted that his share of the plunder was $1.65 and a handful of cigars.

Before holding the two for trial in $1,000 bail Magistrate Crane looked at Miley closely, and said:

"Isn't your full name the same as your father's, and didn't you once live in Yorkville?"

Miley said that was right.

"Then your father has been my friend for twenty years," said the Magistrate, "and I am sorry to see a son of his in such a scrape."

DIED AT FRAUNCES'S TAVERN.

Old Resident of Revolutionary Hostelry Found on Floor.

Thomas Pettinger, about sixty years old, was found dead on the floor of his room at Fraunces's Tavern, at Broad and Pearl Streets, last night.

Mr. Precht said last night that Pettinger was living at the old hostelry when the firm took the place, about three years ago. He was then quite feeble and unable to work, and had been allowed to occupy a room there ever since, being furnished with clothing and meals gratis.

WINDOW THIEVES BOLD, POLICE ALWAYS AWAY

Rob Third Avenue Stores Under Noses of Harlem Bluecoats.

DRIVE MAN OUT OF BUSINESS

Break Into Tailor's Store Five Times in Six Months—Plate Glass Damage Heavy.

A gang of thieves known to the police as "the window smashers" has been operating with great success in the vicinity of One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street and Third Avenue lately. Hundreds of dollars' worth of goods have been stolen from the windows, while damage to the plate glass reaches the thousands.

So bold have the thieves become that they select only the largest and finest stores on Third Avenue, which are always brilliantly lighted. In a number of instances the same stores have been visited several times. Shopkeepers are at a loss to know how to guard their stock, and complain bitterly about the lack of police protection. They say that the police of the East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth Street Police Station, which is in charge of Capt. Burns, have done almost nothing to capture the thieves.

One of the worst sufferers from the depredations of this gang was Isaac Sandler, who until a few days ago kept a tailor shop at 2,272 Third Avenue. He has been robbed five times in six months, and so great were his losses that they had much to do with his giving up business. On the night before he opened the store last Spring his window was smashed and a number of the finest rolls of cloth which he had in stock were stolen. Following that his place was robbed every five weeks with the greatest regularity.

On Friday night last an attempt was made to rob the store of the New York Trading Stamp Company, 2,317 Third Avenue, only half a block from the East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth Street Police Station. The door was pried open and the lock broken in a dozen pieces, but the thieves were evidently frightened away, as nothing was stolen. The windows of the Waldorf Shoe Company, at 2,260 Third Avenue; the Harlem Hat Company, at One Hundred and Thirteenth Street and Third Avenue, and Blynn's shoe store, at One Hundred and Twenty-second Street and Third Avenue, were broken. On three different occasions in six months the big plate glass windows of Vogel's clothing store, at One Hundred and Twenty-third Street and Third Avenue, have been broken, and the show stock stolen. S. Hirsch, the manager of the store, said yesterday:

"This thing is an outrage and hardly seems possible in a great city like this. Windows are smashed and stores robbed night after night within a stone's throw of the police station on one of the best-lighted avenues in the city. We have no protection whatever, as far as the police are concerned, and when we do make a complaint or demand better protection we are treated with indifference. In one instance after my window was smashed and robbed the police of the East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth Street Station made an arrest, but they thought so little of the case that the policeman did not appear in court when the case came up for trial."

The gang has several methods of breaking and robbing a window, but the most successful one is for several members to gather in front of the window which they intend to break, and to all appearances start a fight just as an elevated train approaches. When the racket overhead is greatest the window is broken. If nobody has been attracted by the crash of glass, the window is robbed of its contents without fear of detection. But if a policeman should suddenly appear and arrest one or more of the men, all hands swear that there was a fight and that one man pushed the other through the window.

BRING ASPHALT FIGHT HERE.

Move to Get Venezuelan Case Before United States Court.

With the arrival of the British steamship Kennett yesterday with 2,000 tons of asphalt from Bermudez Lake, the way was opened for a shifting of the fight for possession of the asphalt lake from the courts of Venezuela to the United States.

Agents of the Asphalt Trust say the shipment was made by order of the receiver, who is acting under authority of the high court of Venezuela, and that his action is a test to discover what legal proceeding will be taken by the trust in the United States Courts.

Capt. Torney of the Kennett said he did not know to whom the cargo was consigned, that the vessel was under a time charter to J. H. Winchester & Co. of New York. This is the first shipment of asphalt to this country since the asphalt concession of the New York and Bermudez Company was annulled by President Castro of Venezuela.

It is understood that one of the proceedings will be the libeling of the ship's cargo whereby it will be taken into the United States Courts in an effort to show that it was illegally taken from the grounds of the New York and Bermudez Company, the use of which was denied to the company by the courts of Venezuela.

One of the officers of the General Asphalt Company said that with the cargo of the Kennett in litigation before the United States Courts he has no fear that the decision of the Venezuelan courts will be reversed. If this result is achieved, he said the way will then be opened for the United States Government to take steps to cause a restoration of the property to its owners. He said also that his company was prepared to prove that it did not aid the revolutionists in Venezuela, as alleged by the Castro attorneys. It is probable that the libel proceedings will be commenced to-day.

TRAIN KILLS WOMAN.

Was Apparently on Way to a Staten Island Home.

A woman thought to be from Manhattan was killed on the spur of the Staten Island Railway which runs from the main line to the grounds of the Mount Loretto Home yesterday afternoon. She was thirty years old. She evidently was on her way to visit one of the boys at the home, or possibly one of the girls at the girls' home close by.

On Sundays, owing to the many visitors to Mount Loretto, the railroad runs special trains. The woman who was killed is believed to have been paying her first visit to the home, as she apparently did not know of the special service, but boarded a regular train, alighted at Pleasant Plains, and started to walk along the spur to the home. She was run down by a special train. A ticket to the home, issued at the Lafayette Place branch, was found on her body.

BARGES REPORTED SAFE.

Skipper Wagle of the Fri Brings Good News Ashore.

Capt. Wagle of the Norwegian steamer Fri, which arrived here last night, reports having passed off Five Fathom Bank and Northeast End Lightship the barges Gwennie and Powell, lost by the tug Morrill of the Boston and Baltimore Barge Company in Thursday's gale.

The two barges were at anchor and wished to be reported all well. Capt. Wagle offered to tow the barge Gwennie, but assistance was declined.

Fatally Hurt by West Side Trolley.

John Flanagan, a carpenter living at 744 Ninth Avenue, was run down by a northbound Eighth Avenue car at Sixty-second Street and Central Park West last night and sustained injuries which will probably prove fatal. He was taken to Roosevelt Hospital. The [illegible] Hughes, who died fifteen minutes later.

2,000 STAMPEDE, TAKING CRY "FIGHT" FOR "FIRE"

Sleuth's Pluck Averts Disaster in Avenue A Hall.

BOY FISTICUFF STARTS IT

Row Began When German Societies Were at Religious Service—Detective Roughly Handled in Quelling Panic.

A fight between two boys started a stampede among 2,000 persons attending religious services at Progress Hall, in Avenue A, last night. When the youngsters began pummeling each other some one cried "Fight! Fight!". Excitable persons interpreted it as "Fire! Fire!" and the panic was on. "Big Joe" Wasserman, a detective of the Fifth Street Station, had the good sense and the pluck to fight his way into the struggling mass, and, after having his clothing torn to ribbons and his face and hands scratched and bruised, restored order.

Progress Hall is at 28 and 30 Avenue A. The services of the Neuer Zandetz Verein were held on the first floor and the Sam Borer Verein on the second. There were a thousand or more persons on the main floor. Several boys were seated in the centre of the hall, and one of them snatched a singing book from the hands of a companion. The latter demanded his book back, and when it was not forthcoming started to take it by force. He struck the boy who had taken the book, and then a regular rough-and-tumble fight started in the aisle. Then came the cry of fight which those in the rear of the hall thought sounded like fire.

One of the officers of the verein mounted the platform and shouted out in German that there was no occasion for disorder and begged the crowd to keep their seats.

"Fire! Fire!" shouted several hysterical women.

These shouts reached the people at the rear of the hall on the second floor, where they were taken up. Several ran to the windows and screamed: "Fire! Help! Police!"

The stampede on the second floor was worse than that on the first, and soon the rear of the hall was filled with a struggling mass. The lower hall was quickly emptied, for there are many exits. Some one in the street who had heard the shouts of fire turned in an alarm, and soon the fire apparatus, clanging through the streets, added to the excitement.

Detective Wasserman was a block away when he heard the shouts. He pinned his shield on his coat, as a mark of identification, and dashed into the hall. The top of the narrow stairway leading to the second floor he found wedged with people.

"I'm an officer of the law," shouted Wasserman, "and I command you all to go back. There is no fire and no trouble."

But the panic continued. Wasserman stands over six feet and is an athlete. He threw himself into the crowd, and, working with hands, arms, legs, and head, he released four or five men and sent them down stairs. Then he managed to hold the more excitable back until the struggling crowd had filtered out in small numbers. After the excitement was over it was found that no one had been injured.

WOMEN TRAMPLED IN PANIC.

Cry of "Fire!" at Yom Kippur Services—Rush for Stairway.

Fifteen hundred Jews assembled in Petofis Hall, in Cannon Street, for Yom Kippur services were thrown into a panic just before midnight by some one who cried "Fire!" when grease from a candle became ignited.

The hall is up one flight, and when the cry was raised, men, women, and children all tried to jam themselves down the narrow staircase at once. Several women fainted and were trampled on. No policeman was on duty in the hall.

The reserves of the Union Market Station were summoned by Policeman Londrigan, who was on patrol in the street, and soon restored order. By order of Capt. Handy, the Vice President of the congregation, Herman Feit, twenty years of age, a tailor, of 124 Ridge Street, was arrested and locked up, accused of having raised the cry of fire.

WOMAN AVERTED BAD FIRE.

Saw Man Drop Match in Paint Shop Under Big Tenement.

Mrs. Kitty Glass of 188 Allen Street was looking out of her window at 1 o'clock yesterday morning, when she saw a man go into Samuel Berenbaum's paint shop in the basement across the street. He lighted and dropped a match, she said, and, after waiting five minutes, ran out, leaving the door open. At the same time a fire began to flare up in the paint shop.

Mrs. Glass shouted "Fire!" and "Stop that man!" Somebody sent in a fire alarm and three men chased the fleeing man. Policeman Clancy caught him on Eldridge Street. He turned out to be Isaac Einstein of 144 Rivington Street, an employe of Berenbaum.

In the Essex Market Court yesterday Einstein said that he had been sent by his employer to do a job and had gone down into the shop to get some materials. He also said that the dropping of the match was accidental, and that he did not know that any fire had followed. He was confronted, however, with the testimony of Berenbaum, who said that he discharged Einstein on Saturday night, and had neglected to take his key away from him. Einstein was held in $3,000 bail for examination.

The fire was put out just in time, the firemen say, to prevent a disastrous fire. Over the paint shop is a six-story tenement, in which nearly 200 persons were asleep.

SUICIDE AFTER QUARREL.

Waitress Took Poison as Friendly Physical Culture Director Appeared.

Despondent because she had quarreled with a physical culture director who had paid some attention to her, the police say, May Kennedy, eighteen years old, a waitress, whose home is in Middleton, Dutchess County, committed suicide last night in the hallway of the boarding house at 261 West Forty-third Street, by drinking carbolic acid. She had been sitting on the stoop with her landlady, Mrs. Tilden, and had just told her that she had quarreled with the physical culture director when the young man himself approached the house.

She jumped up and ran into the hallway, and reappeared in the doorway just as he was mounting the steps.

She then ran back to the kitchen, where she died fifteen minutes later.

The years we devoted to developing a $3 Derby that should wear as well as any $5 hat sold, were not wasted when we introduced our $4 Derby.

The $4 Derby is of finer quality of course, and its sales have grown steadily—as the sales of all fine merchandise have grown in this prosperous town.

Indeed it was this growing demand for the very finest things that can be made which led us to introduce our $6 Derby, though we believe that our $4 hat is a bit better in every way than most of the $5 hats sold.

But through it all the $3 Derby has been kept right up to its high place as the best $3 hat we know, a Derby for the multitude of men who must have a hat which looks well and lasts long; but who haven't any loose change to invest in mere "quality."

ARTILLERY OUT IN ROME TO AWE 10,000 WORKMEN

Demonstrators at Big Meeting Charged by Cavalry.

SCORE OF PERSONS WOUNDED

ROME, Sept. 19.—The workmen, it became known shortly after noon, had decided to abandon the strike. The Board of Workmen has published a manifesto saying it has planned a parade of all the Roman proletariat forces as a victorious demonstration.

A meeting of workingmen, however, was held to-night to protest against the intervention of troops. Fully 10,000 persons participated, well-known Anarchists taking prominent part in the proceedings. The chief speaker was the Revolutionary Socialist Deputy Ferri, who delivered a violent address. The streets in the vicinity of the meeting were occupied by soldiers, including detachments of artillery.

An attempt was made by the demonstrators to invade the centre of the town, but the crowds were dispersed by cavalry charges in which about twenty civilians were wounded.

Conflicts in which a number of officers received injuries at the hands of the mobs occurred in Turin and Bologna. At Turin a considerable amount of property was destroyed.

Disturbances also occurred at Genoa, in which Anarchists violently participated. They burned a number of street cars and destroyed a flag hoisted in honor of the birth of the Crown Prince. Lack of bread led to the outbreak at Genoa. The railway service is interrupted only north and south of there. Reinforcements of 2,000 troops have been sent by sea.

The strike has extended to Palermo and Leghorn.

Premier Giolitti left Rome to-day for Racconigi, Piedmont, to perform his official duty, as Crown Notary, of registering the birth of the Crown Prince.

LUGANO, Switzerland, Sept. 19.—A meeting held here to-day to protest against the labor policy of the Italian Ministry developed riotous proceedings.

The rioters proceeded to the Italian Consulate, from which they tore the Italian coat of arms and threw it into the lake.

MORTALLY HURT WITH RIFLE.

New Yorker's Son Was Using Firearm to Knock Down Chestnut Burrs.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Gustav Radtke, the seventeen-year-old son of Gustav A. Radtke, a publisher of New York, was shot and without doubt fatally hurt this afternoon. The Radtkes live at 213 Prospect Avenue, Chestnut Hill. The boy went out this afternoon with some companions. He had a light rifle with him. They came across a chestnut tree and started to knock down the burrs. The hammer of the rifle exploded the cartridge under it and the ball wounded Radtke. His companion carried him to his home, a distance of a mile and a half, and from there he was removed to the Mount Vernon Hospital by Dr. Philip S. Van Patten, and at the hospital he was treated by Dr. Van Patten and Dr. Thomas S. Goodwin, Archibald S. Campbell, and W. S. Fleming. It is said he cannot recover.

Radtke was a members of the class of '06 at the high school and played on the high school baseball team this year and on the basket ball team last Winter. He was assured a position as guard on the football team this Fall.

IROQUOIS THEATRE CROWDED.

Reopening of Chicago's Playhouse, Where Hundreds Died.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—In spite of the widespread feeling here against the reopening of the Iroquois Theatre, its doors swung out to-night for the first time since the fire in December last, and the house was filled with a crowd of men and women, who enjoyed the show hugely, apparently unaffected by any recollection of the great catastrophe of last year. The Police and Fire Departments were well represented.

The theatre begins its career as a vaudeville house under the management of Hyde & Behman.

LUCKY STRIKE AT LEADVILLE.

Great Body of Lead Carbonate Uncovered.

Special to The New York Times.

LEADVILLE, Col., Sept. 19.—One of the biggest strikes ever made in this camp has just been announced by John F. and George Campion, owners of the Reindeer mine on Rockhill. A body of lead carbonate ore that measures 150 feet through has been uncovered for a distance of 1,100 feet.

This ore body is believed to be a continuation of the Old Dome shoot that gave Leadville its worldwide prestige in early days. The ore is being shipped to local smelters without sorting, and nets $20 a ton.

SLEPT ON LEDGE IN MIDAIR.

Passer-by Shuddered at Window Cleaner Eighteen Stories Higher Up.

Frank Brandenburg, a window cleaner, who says he has a peculiar fondness for high altitudes, selected a novel place yesterday to sleep as the result of a picnic which he attended on Sunday. Shortly before noon several pedestrians and tenants of office buildings in the neighborhood of the City Hall, who were watching the progress of the clouds overhead, caught sight of a man's arm and one foot hanging over the window ledge of the eighteenth story of the American Tract Society Building, at Nassau and Spruce Streets.

Closer investigation showed that the owner of the arm and foot was evidently asleep on the ledge and was supporting his head with his left hand. Spectators feared to shout or try to arouse him by throwing anything in his direction, lest the shock of being suddenly awakened might cause him to roll off. The janitor of the building was notified and a trip by elevator was made to the eighteenth floor. There it was found that Bradenburg was reposing opposite Office No. 1,917, which was vacant. The door of the room was opened, and the janitor, rushing over to the window, seized the man by the collar and one leg and hustled him inside.

"That's a nice place in which to be frittering away your time!" exclaimed the monarch of the building. "I've been looking for you these last two hours. What does this mean? You've got all New York holding its breath for fear you were going to roll off that window sill and dash your brains out. Now get out of here as quick as you can and never show up again."

"I was just going to get up to wash some more windows," said the sleeper. "I only dozed off a minute or two because I felt weary. What time is it now? Twelve o'clock! Heavens! I must have been sleeping, then, about three hours, but it didn't seem that long. You see, I was out on a picnic yesterday, and it sort of broke me up a little.

"But I'm apt to fall asleep easily, anyway, when I get high up in the air and begin to drink in the landscape for miles around. There's something about the sensation that seems to dull my senses and force me to close my eyes. Some fellers get dizzy and topple over when they are high up in the air, but not so with me. I like it and always feel perfectly at home. I'd have been all right if you'd only let me alone."

H. H. ROGERS IS ILL.

Dedication of Fairhaven Church Postponed—Indisposition Slight.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 19.—The dedication of the Memorial Church, Fairhaven, has been indefinitely postponed owing to the illness of Henry H. Rogers, who is suffering from a slight attack of dysentery, which developed since his arrival in Fairhaven Saturday. Dr. John C. Shaw, who is attending Mr. Rogers, says that the attack is but a mild one, and there is no cause for alarm.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, accompanied by members of the family and Mark Twain, arrived in Fairhaven Saturday morning, the party making the trip from New York on Mr. Rogers's yacht, the Kanawha.

On account of his indisposition Mr. Rogers did not visit the church on Saturday morning, but in the afternoon he felt better and inspected the building, which is his gift. On Sunday Mr. Rogers was so fully recovered that the arrangements for the dedication to-morrow were completed. This morning, however, found Mr. Rogers not so well, and the postponement notice was given out from his residence this forenoon. It is expected that new invitations will be issued shortly, as it is the desire of Mr. Rogers and his family that the postponement may not be taken to indicate that he is seriously ill.

DODGES DEATH THREE TIMES.

His Hat Shot—Beam Missed Him—Mortar Nearly Smothered Him.

Three times within the last week has William Stuttmar, seventen years old, of Grand Street and Rockaway Road, Chester Park, L. I., came face to face with death, only to escape unscathed. Friends say he has a charmed life. He was walking near his home last Wednesday when a bullet tore through his hat. A boy had fired at a cat, but missed his aim. Stuttmar was aiding in hoisting a heavy joist Saturday to the top of a new building when the rope broke. The beam missed crushing him by a hair's breadth.

Yesterday afternoon with three others he was working on a scaffold on the third floor of a building in course of construction at Jamaica and Greenwood Avenues, Richmond Hill, when the rigging at one side snapped. All except Stuttmar escaped falling somehow, but he plunged downward, landing in a heap of mortar. When dug out he was almost suffocated, but Surgeon Mitchell from St. Mary's Hospital revived him after hard work. Stuttmar was able to walk home.

DEER A-PLENTY UP STATE.

More Plentiful Than for Twenty Years—Hunting Fever On.

Special to The New York Times.

SARANAC LAKE, Sept. 19.—The reported scarcity of deer, due, it was said, to the weather last Winter, does not seem to be borne out by the facts, for results so far show that deer have not been so plentiful for twenty years. Saranac Lake is the metropolis of the Adirondacks, and the number of deer being brought into town is surprising even the natives.

One butcher alone in this place has received, cut up, and served to his customers eight large deer during the past twelve days. Venison is plentiful, and the other butchers have an ample supply for their customers.

The deer shooting fever is responsible for some queer antics on the part of amateur hunters. A party recently started out from Tupper Lake and had not gone far from the village, when they imagined that they already saw a deer, so they blazed away. The animal did not run nor fall. After wasting considerable ammunition the hunters got near enough to discover a badly frightened calf.

As soon as the deer season opens and the guns begin to go off, the deer leave the vicinity and seek the thick woods, making a tramp of eight or ten miles necessary to get them. One of the finest specimens was brought into Saranac Lake recently by George H. Smith. It had a splendid pair of antlers and weighed 180 pounds.

RUSH-HOUR TIE-UP ON ALL BROOKLYN LINES

Cables Short Circuited at Third Avenue Power House.

SMALL RIOT AT STATION

East New York Passengers Force Conductor to Open Gates—Forty-five Minutes' Delay.

As a result of the short circuiting of the electric current in the "main feeder" just outside the big power house at Third Avenue and Third Street, Brooklyn, traffic on nearly all the surface and elevated lines of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system was more or less tied-up for more than an hour during the "rush" time last evening.

Although the cars moved intermittently, when they could pick up a bit of power, travel on the lines was practically paralyzed, and thousands of Brooklynites returning from office or shop in Manhattan experienced tedious delays in getting to their homes.

The trouble occurred shortly before 6 o'clock. The power suddenly left the elevated third rail and the trolley wires, and trains and cars, all crowded, came to a standstill. There was a wait of ten or fifteen minutes, and then the power came slowly and weakly back to the motors, the cars moved ahead for a block or two, and then the current failed again.

Another like interval of waiting, another return of the power, and another loss of it after an advance of two or three blocks more. This sort of thing kept up until after 7 o'clock. The motormen or conductors did not know what the trouble was, and they were berated by angry passengers.

It was found eventually that a short circuit had occurred among the main feed cables leading out from the Third Avenue power house and supplying most of the power for the lines. The job of straightening out the tangled current was a delicate one, and it took about three-quarters of an hour to complete it. Meantime a little power was going out over some of the cables, and on this and what could be drawn from the Kent Avenue power house all the lines in the borough depended for motive force.

Out at the East New York loop there was a scene which threatened for a few minutes to develop into something like a riot. Many of the trains bound for city line were stopped at the loop, and all the passengers discharged there. In a little while about 300 people were at the station.

Train after train drew in, with the announcement being made that it was going no further. The irate passengers finally lost patience and demanded of a conductor of a train that he take them through to the city line. The conductor refused to do so and kept the gates of the cars closed.

Two men on the station platform then vaulted the gates and yanked them open, after throwing the conductor violently to one side. The conductor tried to force the men back on the platform again, and it seemed that there would be a general mix-up until an Inspector ordered the conductor to admit the people to the cars.

VANDERBILTS FOOLED CROWD.

Had Arrived at Biltmore by an Early Morning Train.

Special to The New York Times.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Sept. 19.—Mr. and Mrs. George Vanderbilt arrived at Biltmore House to-day from a six months' trip abroad. They anticipated that there would be a large number of Biltmore and Asheville residents at the station to meet them, and escaped the crowd by a ruse.

Many of Mr. Vanderbilt's parishioners, his minister, members of his Vestry, and others were on hand to greet them. The crowd swarmed around the train when it arrived, but there stepped from it only little Cornelius Stuyvesant, a maid, and a valet. Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt had reached Biltmore by a train which arrived at 4 o'clock in the morning.

BIG WITNESSES STAY AWAY.

Odell, Platt, Morgan, and Baer Not on Hand for Mitchell's Trial.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sept. 19.—The action brought by Lawyer A. D. Wales of this city against John Mitchell, President of the United Mine Workers of America, to recover $200,000 for services in bringing about the settlement of the great anthracite coal strike, came up before Justice Lyon at a special term of the Supreme Court this morning.

Assemblyman James T. Rogers appeared for Senator Platt and Gov. Odell, who have been subpoenaed as witnesses and requested that their testimony be taken elsewhere than in Binghamton. He presented a physician's certificate certifying to Senator Platt's illness and inability to attend the trial.

J. Pierpont Morgan sent a letter saying he could be present in Binghamton only on next Monday, while G. F. Baer, President of the Reading Company, forwarded word that he could not be present until the week following.

Mr. Wales said he thought the witnesses should be called, to protect him.

Justice Lyon asked if he desired a motion to have the men declared in contempt.

"We shall see about that later," was the reply.

Harvey D. Hinman, representing Mr. Mitchell, said that there was no desire to evade anything, and, so far as possible, he would produce all papers asked for by the plaintiff.

It developed that it had been agreed to have the case come to trial in this city on Oct. 3.

PASSED HUSBAND IN MIDSEA.

He Had Sailed for Wife, Who May Now Be Deported.

Winnie Morris, a young Welsh woman, and her tiny baby are detained at Ellis Island for disposition by the immigration authorities. They came to this country on the Arabic, in on Sunday, and while in midsea passed the husband and father on the Baltic, homeward bound, to get them and bring them to this country.

Mrs. Morris had written to her husband that she did not wish to make the trip here from Wales alone. Shortly after sending the letter she changed her mind and booked for the Arabic. Mr. Morris meanwhile had packed up and started to get her. The little woman is now fearful lest in being deported she again pass her husband bound back for this country.

FIRE ENGINE STRIKES CROWD.

Two Men Knocked Down on Park Avenue—One May Die.

Fire Engine 36, whose house is on Park Avenue near One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Street, while responding to an alarm for a slight fire yesterday afternoon, ran over one man, knocked down a second man, and plowed through a crowd of five or six men, who had been standing under the viaduct of the New York Central Railroad at One Hundred and Twenty-third Street. The man who was run over, Joseph Frimorgen, aged thirty-one, a tailor, of 225 East One Hundred and Twenty-first Street, was taken to the Harlem Hospital so badly injured that he may die.

As the fire engine passed the viaduct Hook and Ladder 14 and the engine's tender were close by. A group of men, observing Yom Kippur, stood in the street, engaged in conversation. Truck, engine, and tender were sounding their bells. Evidently the men did not hear the clamor, for the engine bore down on the crowd before the men could scatter.

Nathan Cohen of 96 East One Hundred and Seventeenth Street, a tailor, was struck by the horses and thrown to the pavement, narrowly escaping the wheels of the engine. Frimorgen was thrown to the street, and the wheels passed over him. Driver Koehler of the engine, after doing all in his power to avert an accident, came to a stop, and went to Frimorgen's aid. Dr. Parmenter responded to a call sent to Harlem Hospital for a surgeon, and took the injured man to that institution.

Kochler later went with his Captain to the East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth Street Police Station, and was formally arrested. He was paroled.

BABCOCK THINKS HOUSE LOST.

If Election Were To-day Roosevelt Probably Would Win, He Says.

"As matters stand now we are likely to lose the House of Representatives." This statement by Representative Joseph W. Babcock of Wisconsin, Chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, yesterday at headquarters was not made for the purpose of getting funds out of campaign contributors, but was merely an estimate of the situation.

Congressmen Sherman of New York and Loudenslager of New Jersey were in the room during the talk, and agreed with the Chairman in saying that the Republicans would lose the House of Representatives, as matters now stood, unless they inaugurated an active campaign at once and fought for every district, in which there was a possible chance.

"If the Democrats carry fifteen districts which are now represented by Republicans," said Mr. Babcock, "they will wipe out our majority of the House entirely. You can readily see that in the natural course of events, without regard to the campaign work to be done by either party, the chances favor the Democrats. With an election held right now we would probably elect Roosevelt and lose the House."

ROBBERS KILL ITALIANS.

Two Dead and One Dying Near Chicago Railroad Tower.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—A party of Italian laborers who were to have started for Italy to-morrow were attacked by robbers near the Illinois Central tower at Riverdale late to-night, and two men are dead and another is dying.

The shack where the victims had gone was a deserted one. Their presence there was not known to any neighbors until the shots were fired. Just before the investigators arrived the robbers fled, and the survivor could not give sufficient information about those who had attacked them until the robbers had gone beyond pursuit.

The men were employed on the Illinois Central Road as laborers and had saved enough for the return trip. It is supposed that their possession of this money became known either to companions or to outsiders and that the attack was made for the purpose of robbery.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR IN WRECK.

Six of Providence Hurt When Cars Go Over Kansas Embankment.

JUNCTION CITY, Kan., Sept. 19.—The Pullman section of the east-bound Atlantic Express on the Union Pacific was wrecked to-day by the spreading of the rails while the train was running at high speed. Three cars left the track, and the one at the rear of the train rolled down an embankment, turning over three times. There were thirty-two persons in this car. Six of them were severely injured, and the rest suffered painful injuries.

Two of the cars were occupied by the St. John's Commandery Knights Templar No. 1 and Calvary Commandery Knights Templar No. 13, both of Providence, R. I. The members and their wives were returning home from the San Francisco conclave. The injured include:

Fred S. Cowrn, Woonsocket, R. I.; overcome by gas, legs, bruised.

A. Johnson, Providence, R. I.; cut about neck and head; may prove fatal.

BICYCLIST HIT BY AUTO.

Seriously Hurt in Collision at Seventh Avenue Garage.

Gus Brauninger, who said that he is the chauffeur for James Beeche, a broker living at 228 West Forty-ninth Street, was locked up in the West Thirtieth Street Station last night as a result of a collision between the machine he was driving and a bicyclist, Frank Bossoni, of 230 West Twenty-seventh Street. Bossoni was severely injured and had to be removed to the New York Hospital.

Brauninger was coming down Seventh Avenue, and says that he attempted to turn into the garage at Thirty-eighth Street when Bossoni, coming up the avenue, ran into the headlight of the automobile. He was thrown clear over the machine and was picked up unconscious. The chauffeur said that the bicyclist made no attempt to turn out and that he had his head bent over the handle bars. Brauninger insisted that he was making the turn into the garage at a moderate speed. He was locked up.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH OF TWO.

Woman and Her Niece Found Burned—Oil Can Near Them.

TOWANDA, Penn., Sept. 19.—News reached here to-day from Macedonia, three miles from this place, that Mrs. Bigler Johnson and her ten-year-old niece, Annie Benjamin, were burned to death late last night in a fire which destroyed their home.

The bodies were found in a corner of what had been the bedroom, and near them lay the remains of a small oil can. Leading

RECTOR AND SISTER KILLED BY FAST TRAIN

Mr. Stryker Lost Life in Effort to Save Mrs. Smith.

TRAGEDY AT RIVERSIDE, N. J.

Founder of New Jersey Church and Sister Were Crossing Tracks to Join Niece.

Special to The New York Times.

RIVERSIDE, N. J., Sept. 19.—The Rev. Peter W. Stryker, rector of St. Stephen's Memorial Protestant Episcopal Church in this village, was killed this afternoon while attempting to prevent his sister, Mrs. Helen S. Smith of Baltimore, from being struck by a train. Mrs. Smith was struck and died three hours later.

Mr. Stryker and Mrs. Smith waited for some time at the Pennsylvania Railroad Station for a trolley car. Their niece, Miss Florence Stryker, of Washington, who was with them, crossed the railroad tracks to signal the motorman when a car came in sight, and left her uncle and aunt to follow. A mail train from Camden which does not stop at Riverside, approached the station at high speed, and the two, unaware of their danger, stepped from the platform in front of the engine.

Mr. Stryker, warned by shouts, saw the engine when it was a hundred feet away, and when there was still time for him to step aside in safety, he paused to seize Mrs. Smith by the arm, attempting to draw her from the track. The engine struck them. Mr. Stryker was thrown twenty feet through the air, falling upon the platform. Mrs. Smith was hit a glancing blow, and her hair caught in the driving wheel of the engine. She was dragged several feet.

The clergyman was unconscious when he was carried into the waiting room of the station. He died five minutes later. Mrs. Smith was taken to the Stryker home, in South Riverside. She was conscious up to the time of her death. Her arms were broken in several places, two ribs were fractured, and she was injured internally. Mr. Stryker's head and arms were crushed.

Mr. Stryker had been rector of St. Stephen's for twenty-two years, and was the founder of the church. He had also been rector of a church in Edgewater Park and of Trinity Church in Fairview. He was sixty-eight years old, and is survived by a son, the Rev. Leonard W. Stryker of Passaic, N. J., and three daughters—Maria and Elizabeth, who are in St. Louis, and Margaret, who was in Philadelphia when the accident happened. Mrs. Smith was a few years younger than her brother.

$50,000 CAMPAIGN OFFERING.

Col. Guffey to Send Democratic Committee His Check.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 19.—National Committeeman James M. Guffey of Pittsburg will give $50,000 to the Democratic campaign fund. The figures were made public this afternoon by City Controller John Larkin of Pittsburg, who has been Mr. Guffey's mouthpiece on finance for many years. Larkin said after a conference with Guffey:

"If the Treasurer of the Democratic Committee has not received Mr. Guffey's check for $50,000 he will receive it in a short time, for this is the amount Mr. Guffey has decided to contribute to the cause."

MISSISSIPPI TREASURY EMPTY.

Company Fails to Settle for Bonds and Governor Goes Without Salary.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 19.—As the result of the failure of Harris & Co., bankers of Chicago, to settle for the five-hundred-thousand-dollar bond issue which they purchased recently, the Mississippi Treasury has been depleted to such an extent that the salaries of Gov. Vardaman and other State officials have not been paid with accustomed regularity.

The Treasurer has been unable to meet the warrants except as the collections from taxes came in, and whenever he had exhausted the available cash he instructed the officials to call the next day.

GILBERTS OUTPAINT RIVALS.

Schoolboy Let Down 200 Feet to Wipe Out Torrington Letters.

Special to The New York Times.

WINSTED, Conn., Sept. 19.—Angered by students from the Torrington High School, who had invaded their territory overlooking the Gilbert Athletic Field and painted "T. H. S." on a ledge near the "Robber's Cave," three students from the Gilbert School and a friend, Frank Bradford, yesterday performed a hazardous feat.

Bradford was let 200 feet down a sheer descent of rock by a rope which his companions steadied by winding it around the base of a tree on top of the precipice. Then Bradford painted "G., '04," over "T. H. S." The letter and figures are 8 feet long, and it took over an hour and a half to do the work.

HYPNOTIZED TO ROB, HE SAYS.

One of Trio of Alleged Thieves Makes That His Excuse.

EASTON, Penn., Sept. 19.—Three robbers who have stolen thousands of dollars worth of jewelry and silverware from the residences of wealthy people in Northampton County were captured at Bellwood Park, N. J., last night by two railroad detectives who were looking for tramps. The thieves gave their names as Thomas King, Richard Mason, and John Walsh of New York.

King says that he is a son of a Philadelphia policeman and will not admit, as the others have done, having taken part in the robberies. He does not deny that he was with them, but declares he is under a hypnotic spell which was exerted by Mason and which he is unable to throw off.

RELIGIOUS RIOTS AT ROUBAIX.

Several Persons Injured During Expulsion of Nuns.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—The expulsion of a female religious order at Roubaix to-day caused violent demonstrations, during which a number of persons were injured.

PORT ARTHUR SORTIE FAILS.

Russians Lose Heavily in Effort to Retake Fort—Guns Worn Out?

LONDON, Sept. 20.—A dispatch from Tokio to a news agency says:

"A strong Russian force made a sortie from Port Arthur on the afternoon of Sept. 18 and attacked the Etse-Shan Fort, which was recently captured by the Japanese.

"The fighting lasted some hours, and the Russians eventually were repulsed with heavy loss."

The Daily Telegraph's Che-Foo correspondent telegraphs a report, which he claims emanated from officers at Port Arthur, that the naval guns on Liao-Ti Hill Fort are worn out from incessant firing, and that consequently the land for about two and one-half miles to the westward has been mined.

The correspondent adds that the wearing out of the guns is causing great anxiety.

ARAB TROOPS SACK SALONICA.

Sherik Pasha Surrounded at Prisrend—Force Marching to Relieve Him.

SALONICA, Sept. 19.—On the morning of Sept. 17 the port of Salonica and the Bazaar were pillaged by 300 Arab soldiers.

Strong patrols are now guarding the streets.

DREAM OF TRAGEDY CAME TRUE

Aunt Says She Had a Vision of Her Nephew's Suicide.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 19.—John Ingram Alvis, son of a prominent furniture dealer of Manchester, shot and killed himself today in his home. Brooding over ill-health is supposed to have prompted the act. He was nineteen years old.

A curious circumstance is that last night his aunt in a dream had a premonition of the tragedy, and says her dream was fulfilled in almost every detail.

ORACLE WARE SPEAKS.

Pension Commissioner Puts Some Handwriting on the Wall.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Some time between the closing hour on Saturday and the time the clerks reported for duty this morning a legend was painted on the wall in the main reception room of the Pension Bureau by order of Commissioner Ware. It reads:

THE LORD HATES A LIAR.

What motive the Commissioner had in putting up the inscription no one knows. He declined to discuss the matter. When asked about it this morning he said he was too busy to talk.

From another source it was learned that for ten years the Commissioner has had the same phrase painted on the wall over his desk if his law office in Topeka.

ISELIN-JAY ENGAGEMENT.

Arthur Iselin Will Marry Col. Jay's Daughter Eleanor.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, Sept. 19.—The engagement of Arthur Iselin and Miss Eleanor Jay, daughter of Col. and Mrs. William Jay, has been announced here. Mr. Iselin is the eldest son of William E. Iselin.

Mr. Iselin is twenty-six years old, and was graduated from Harvard in 1901. Since leaving college he has been in business with his father. He owned and sailed the Dipper, which won numerous races along the Sound. In the international races he sailed aboard the cup winners with his uncle, Oliver Iselin. He is also an automobilist and polo player.

Mr. Iselin did not intend that the news of the engagement should be made public until it was announced formally at a gathering of both families, but his friends heard of it to-day, and he admitted that it was true. No arrangements have as yet been made for the wedding.

MRS. ISAAC C. BATES KILLED.

Husband Seriously Hurt in Runaway Near Narragansett Pier.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT, R. I., Sept. 19.—Mrs. Isaac C. Bates, a society woman of Providence, was killed and her husband, a member of the beef firm of Comstock & Co., and also a Director of the Rhode Island School of Design, was seriously injured in a runaway accident to-day. Mrs. Bates's spine was broken, and she died at her Summer home, at Bennet Point, three hours later.

Mr. Bates and his wife were driving from Kingston to Bennet Point when the horse became frightened and bolted. The wheels struck some obstacle, upsetting the carriage. The horse ran on toward Bennet Point, and neighbors, who recognized the team as belonging to Mr. Bates, hurried back along the road and found Mr. Bates lying senseless beside his wife. Both were carried to their home at Bennet Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Bates were members of the Providence Art School, and Mr. Bates was one of the founders of the Rhode Island School of Design.

CANADA INVADES US.

Gay Fusiliers March Through Detroit En Route to St. Louis.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 19.—Resplendent in red coats and white helmets, the Twenty-first Essex Fusiliers left this city this afternoon over the Michigan Central Railroad for Chicago, where they will take the Illinois Central Railroad for St. Louis. They will camp on the Exposition grounds.

The Canadian troops marched fully armed through the business section of the city from the Windsor ferry dock to the Michigan Central station. As the steamboat Pleasure crossed the river from Windsor with the soldiers a salute was fired in their honor by the United States steamship Michigan, which was anchored in the stream. The Fusiliers were about 2,500 strong, and were accompanied by a Maxim gun battery.

HILL IS IN CONTROL; GROUT BOOM GROWS

Leaders Agree That Convention Will Be An Open One.

McCARREN FIGHTS SHEPARD

Won't Support Him Even If Grout Is Downed—Hill Admits That Controller Looms Up Biggest.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 19, Midnight.—With the opening of the Democratic State Convention but twelve hours off, prediction as to who is to be the nominee for Governor would be hazardous. One fact is apparent. David B. Hill is in control of the situation. Whoever he decides upon as the man who will make the strongest candidate will receive the nomination.

Mr. Hill asserts at midnight that he is not able to predict the nomination of any of the candidates whose names have been prominently mentioned. His declaration is generally credited, even the Tammany leaders voicing the belief that the contest is still an open one.

There is one point that every old politician here whose judgment is worth asking is commenting on. That is the fact that Senator Hill is in a mood in which he never is found when he believes he sees trouble ahead. He sits in his room and receives the leaders as they call upon him. He gets their views, and encourages them to go ahead and try to carry out their pet schemes, but he does not send for them either to give them his orders or his confidences, or to plead with them. He is manifesting no sign of uneasiness. Yet it would be entirely unfair to Mr. Hill to say that up to this time he has done anything to indicate that he is "bossing the job."

He is permitting every boom and boomlet to grow or die in its natural course, and assents with every evidence of good faith that when he is satisfied as to the candidate who can command the greatest number of delegates and satisfy the greatest number of voters, he will throw to him his deciding support.

Cry of Grout Grows Louder.

The most important development of the day has been the growth of the boom for Controller Edward M. Grout of New York. Ever since Senator Patrick H. McCarren arrived here to-day and announced that he would be for Grout first, last, and all the time, the Grout sentiment has been growing. Mr. Hill himself acknowledged to-night that the Grout boom was the biggest boom in sight.

Late to-night John C. Sheehan went to see Charles F. Murphy in behalf of Controller Grout. Mr. Murphy told Mr. Sheehan that while he did not favor the nomination he would not oppose Mr. Grout in the convention or in the preliminary conferences. The meeting between the past and present leaders of Tammany Hall lasted for several minutes, during which time Mr. Murphy had every opportunity to declare himself flat footed against Mr. Grout if he desired to take such a stand.

All day Mr. Hill has been hearing complimentary things said of Mr. Grout by up-State delegates. Mr. Grout, Mr. Hill said to-night, seemed to appeal to many of the up-State men because of his well-known fighting qualities. Mr. Hill, however, feels indisposed to come to any decision on the head of the ticket which will give Tammany cause for complaint. He desires to conciliate the Manhattan organization, if it is possible for him to do so.

What has helped the Grout boom more than anything else is the fact that Senator McCarren, who is its chief sponsor, is the only leader on the ground who has definitely made up his mind as to what the convention ought to do, and declares himself with boldness. From the moment he arrived McCarren has been trying to convince the delegates that Grout is the only man who ought to be considered for the nomination.

McCarren Out Against Shepard.

Senator McCarren is equally positive that the nomination of Edward M. Shepard would be a mistake. He has said that Mr. Shepard, if he is to be nominated, will have to be nominated without the vote of the Kings County delegation, as Kings County would not take any responsibility for his candidacy.

In a situation where most of the leaders are showing indecision of purpose it is natural that a man with a positive conviction as to what ought to be done would gain converts. Senator McCarren has gained many of them for Grout to-day, and he is of the opinion to-night that Mr. Grout will be nominated whether or not Mr. Murphy withdraws his opposition.

If Mr. Hill should conclude that he dare not let the nomination go to Mr. Grout, he will have difficulty in deciding where it should go. Many of the up-State delegations who favor Stanchfield have been to see Mr. Hill to-day and have told him that the attacks which have been made on Mr. Stanchfield had not changed their belief in the advisability of his nomination. It is evident, nevertheless, that Mr. Stanchfield's chances of securing the nomination have diminished appreciably.

This is not to be construed as meaning that Mr. Hill has entirely dropped Mr. Stanchfield from consideration, for that Mr. Hill denies. The talk here to-night is to the effect that if Mr. Murphy prevents the nomination of Mr. Grout and the nomination should go to an up-State man, the nominee in that event would be either George M. Palmer of Schoharie or Judge D. Cady Herrick of Albany.

As an indication of how open the nomination is, there was considerable discussion to-night among the leaders of the possibility of the nomination of William B. Hornblower, who is to be the temporary Chairman of the convention, in the contingency that Mr. Hornblower's address should be of a character to arouse any great amount of party enthusiasm.

There was some talk also about John G. Milburn as a probability, but it was stated that Mr. Milburn's availability was considered some time ago and passed upon unfavorably. Some strength was added to the Shepard boom to-day by the arrival of Mayor Osborne of Auburn, who is one of the few Democratic Mayors in the State, and who enjoys the distinction of having carried a city which is normally several and the independent voters of Cayuga County when he spoke in Auburn recently, and that the impression in his section is that Mr. Shepard would be the very best candidate the Democrats could name for Governor.

Andrew McLean, State Committeeman from the Twenty-third District, also helped the Shepard boom by informing all those with whom he talked in the corridor of the Grand Union that he had been in Binghamton when Mr. Shepard spoke there, and that all who heard him were enthusiastic over the prospect of his being the Democratic candidate.

Nevertheless it was apparent that the Shepard boom had sagged perceptibly today owing principally to the assault of Senator McCarren. It is a fact that some of the up-State leaders have told Mr. Hill he ought not to think of having Mr. Shepard named as a candidate. They say it would be a mistake to put up a man who has not the support of his own county.

A number of independent Democrats who believe Mr. Shepard would make the best run of any man who has been mentioned for the nomination met to-night in the rooms of Mayor Osborne of Auburn. Among those who attended the conference were F. W. Hinrichs, A. Augustus Healy, and George Foster Peabody.

To Meet McCarren's Attacks.

The object of the conference was to take steps to repair what injury had been done to Mr. Shepard's candidacy by the opposition from Senator McCarren and attacks from other quarters and adopt plans to further his candidacy.

No conference of leaders was held to-night. When Mr. Hill was asked to-night whether a conference would be held to-morrow he said:

"We have decided not to hold one to-night. That is as far as we have gone. I cannot say what we will do to-morrow."

Mr. Hill's uncertainty as to whether or not there would be a conference to-morrow caused a good deal of comment. By some it was taken as indicating that if Mr. Hill could not come to an agreement with Charles F. Murphy he might decide to go into the convention without any slate. Most of the leaders of prominence, however, thought such action on Mr. Hill's part very unlikely. Despite the differences of opinion which exist as to who would be the best candidate, there is a pretty general agreement that he ought to be chosen in conference rather than in open convention.

When Mr. Hill announced to-night that Duncan Campbell Lee had been agreed upon for Permanent Chairman, the deduction was made by some of the politicians around headquarters that Mr. Lee's selection pointed to the nomination of an up-State man for Governor. Mr. Lee had a healthy boom for Lieutenant Governor. When asked if his being named for the permanent presidng officer of the convention would interfere with his boom for second place, Mr. Lee said:

Sees Boom Killed.

"I think it will. I should say that my boom for Lieutenant Governor had been killed. I am inclined to think that was the purpose in putting me in as Permanent Chairman."

As Mr. Lee was the most prominent up-State candidate for second place on the ticket, the bursting of his boom was taken as an indication that it was the intention to have the nomination for Lieutenant Governor go to New York. That would mean that the disposition of Mr. Hill was to give the nomination for Governor to an up-State man.

As corroborative of this impression, it was said to-night in the Hill headquarters that the nomination for Lieutenant Governor lay between Randolph Guggenheimer and Representative Francis Burton Harrison, and that C. F. Murphy had been told he could name either one of those gentlemen for the place.

James Shevlin and Senator Patrick H. McCarren conferred to-night. Shevlin called upon McCarren to make a proposition to him. Mr. Shevlin's proposal was that the fifteen delegates from anti-McCarren districts in Brooklyn would agree to go into a Kings County caucus, provided Senator McCarren would agree that the delegation should vote as a unit for the candidate selected by the conference of leaders for Governor, no matter who he might be. If the conference selected Mr. Grout as the candidate then the fifteen anti-McCarrenites would agree to support Grout.

Shevlin Doesn't Want Unit Rule.

The position of the anti-McCarren delegates, Mr. Shevlin informed Senator McCarren, was that they did not wish to be bound by the unit rule to vote for Mr. Grout if Mr. Grout was not to be the conference candidate. Senator McCarren said he would take Mr. Shevlin's proposal under consideration, and give him an answer before the hour set for the caucus of the Kings County delegation to-morrow morning.

The Westchester County delegation is here with two candidates for Governor. The faction led by John G. Agar is booming the candidacy of ex-Congressman Pugsley for Governor, while the faction led by ex-Mayor Walsh of Yonkers is booming Judge Keogh. To-night the delegation had a meeting for the purpose of seeing if an agreement could not be reached to unite the delegation for a Gubernatorial candidate, or if that could not be done to drop both of the Westchester Gubernatorial candidates and make an effort to secure some other place on the ticket for a Westchester man.

The Court of Appeals situation apparently is settled. Judge Edgar M. Cullen, in all probability, will be nominated for Chief Judge without opposition, and the Erie County delegation has received assurances that Attorney General John Cunneen will be named for Associate Judge. If this promise is not carried out, there will be merry war in the western part of the State. Their confidence is justified by the fact that the boomers of Judge D. Cady Herrick of Albany for a Court of Appeals nomination concede that the ticket will be Cullen and Cunneen.

HILL BUSY, BUT SILENT.

McCarren Active, Too, and Talking Grout—Peabody Booms Shepard.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, Sept. 19.—The situation began to take on real interest when David B. Hill and Senator P. H. McCarren arrived on the noon train. Both leaders went to the Grand Union Hotel. Hill was shown to his rooms at once and did not leave them again until it was time for him to go to dinner in the evening. Mr. Hill has a suite. He kept close to an inner room and there received leaders from all over the State with whom he desired to consult.

The door leading to his sanctum was closed and there was a man on guard, who let no one pass whom the Senator did not desire to see. To all others the invariable answer was "The Governor is busy." To the newspaper men who saw him during the afternoon Mr. Hill was uncommunicative. He said there was nothing to be said until after he had an opportunity of consulting with the leaders of all sections and ascertaining what their views were.

This much can be stated, however, on good authority—Mr. Hill has not received from Judge Parker any intimation as to Judge Parker's preference in the matter of Gubernatorial candidates and does not expect that Judge Parker will take it upon himself to make any suggestion. Mr. Hill is said to believe that any such course on the part of Judge Parker would be hurtful to the Judge's own candidacy.

Grout as a Vote Getter.

Senator McCarren's demeanor was just the opposite of Mr. Hill's. Senator McCarren came here with his mind made up, and he did not hesitate to express his opinions freely.

"I am for Grout," said the Brooklyn leader, "and I will be for him to the end unless he withdraws his name. If this convention wants to do the sensible thing its course is perfectly clear. It will nominate Mr. Grout. He is the man of the hour. No man can make the fight against 'Odellism' with the force that Mr. Grout can. He would carry Kings County by over 30,000."

"How about Manhattan?" he was asked.

"Mr. Grout has shown in the past that he can get more votes in Manhattan than any other Democrat. He ran ahead of his ticket in Manhattan when he was the nominee for Controller last year."

"But how is he to be nominated with Murphy opposing him?"

"If you will take the Tammany district leaders one by one from the Battery to Harlem and learn from them their individual preference you will find that nearly all of them think Mr. Grout is the strongest man who can be nominated. They would like a chance to support him. So far as I am able to learn, whatever opposition there is in Tammany Hall to the nomination of Mr. Grout is personal with Mr. Murphy.

"It is about time that the Tammany organization should have the privilege of expressing its preference for a candidate. The Kings County organization is not for Mr. Shepard. I can't find that there is any real sentiment anywhere among the party organization of the State for Mr. Shepard.

Doesn't Take Shepard Seriously.

"So far as the candidacy of Mr. Shepard is concerned, I have not regarded it seriously. But if it should threaten to become serious I think I would be able to prevent his nomination. Mr. Shepard is not the man for us to win with in this campaign."

"Suppose that at a conference of the leaders there should be an agreement on Mr. Shepard, what would be your attitude then?"

"He would have to be nominated without the votes of Kings County. Even though we could not get Grout we would not be for Shepard. But I repeat that the duty of this convention is plain, and that is to make Mr. Grout the nominee."

A half-dozen Tammany leaders were asked about the truth of Senator McCarren's assertion that if the choice of a candidate were left to the district leaders of Tammany the decision would be in favor of Mr. Grout by a large majority. John Oakley, Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas, and Electricity, who is the Tammany leader of the Fourteenth District, said:

"I believe the statement of Senator McCarren that a majority of the Tammany district leaders would prefer Mr. Grout as a candidate if free to express their individual preference is absolutely false. I have talked with a good many of the district leaders about this situation, and I have not heard any of them express any sentiment in favor of Mr. Grout."

Others Disagree with Brooklyn Leader.

Several other leaders expressed themselves in the same vein as Mr. Oakley, but it was ascertained from an unquestionable source that one of the most powerful of all of the Tammany leaders and his friends, while they will stand with Murphy if he concludes to carry on his fight against Grout to the bitter end, privately declare the nomination of Mr. Grout to be the best solution the convention could make.

George Foster Peabody, Treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, and Henry A. Richmond of the Erie Railroad are looking after the interests of Mr. Shepard.

"No headquarters will be opened for Mr. Shepard, and nothing in the nature of a boom for him will be started," said Mr. Peabody. "Mr. Shepard's friends believe that his eminent fitness for the honor ought to be sufficient of itself to commend his candidacy to the serious consideration of the delegates and leaders."

Mr. Richmond is the most active Shepard boomer. "Considered merely from the standpoint of practical politics," he said, "the nomination of Mr. Shepard would be the wisest choice the convention could make. There are thousands of Republicans up State this year who are so disgusted with the Republican administration which we have had at Albany that they are anxious for an opportunity to rebuke the Odell machine. The nomination of a high-class man like Mr. Shepard would give them just that opportunity.

Shepard and National Issues.

"The party owes it to Judge Parker to do the very best by him that it can. Whom could the party select who would be able to make such a presentation of National issues as Mr. Shepard could? I have found no one who has been able to name Mr. Shepard's equal in that respect, and therefore I think it ought to be clear that Mr. Shepard would be the strongest man the convention could name."

Two long-time lieutenants of David B. Hill have strongly dissented with Mr. Hill on the wisdom of nominating John B. Stanchfield for Governor. They are Elliot Danforth of Chenango and John N. Carlisle of Jefferson.

"I am pledged to nobody," said Mr. Danforth this afternoon. "My delegates from Chenango are uninstructed, as also are the delegates from all the counties in my Senate and Congress districts. These counties include Chenango, Sullivan, Delaware, Cortland, Broome, Tioga, and Tompkins, with a total of twenty-four delegates. We are for the strongest man who can be named, and are steadily urging in conference that a big man be nominated.

"It is wrong to say that I am against Stanchfield, but I do believe that we could nominate a man much stronger than several whose names have been mentioned. Some whose names have been under consideration are very vulnerable."

Mr. Carlisle took the same stand in the open, and quietly went to Mr. Hill twice during the day to point out objection to the nomination of Mr. Stanchfield. Mr. Hill advised Mr. Carlisle to go slow with his talk of opposition to the Elmira man.

CONVENTION CHAIRMEN CHOSEN.

Hornblower Formally Selected for Temporary Post—Place for Raines.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Formal selection of William B. Hornblower for temporary Chairman of the convention was made to-night at the meeting of the Democratic State Committee. The meeting was short and entirely taken up with routine matters. Not being a delegate to the convention Mr. Hornblower was substituted on the temporary roll for James W. Gerard in the Twentieth District, and as a substituted delegate will have a seat in the convention over which he will be called temporarily to preside.

Prof. Duncan Campbell Lee of Ithaca accepted the permanent Chairmanship, and now is at work preparing his speech. George Raines of Rochester has accepted the Chairmanship of the Committee on Resolutions, which will have charge of the presentation of the platform. Mr. Raines acted as the presiding officer at the April convention in Albany, when delegates to the National Convention were elected with instructions for Judge Parker's nomination.

GAYNOR NOT A CANDIDATE.

"I Am Not; Why Should I Be?" Is His Answer to Question.

RIVERHEAD, L. I., Sept. 19.—When Judge Gaynor was asked this afternoon if he was a candidate for the nomination for Governor, he replied:

"I am not a candidate; why should I be?"

Later when it was reported that William F. Sheehan had told him he was ex-Judge Parker's choice, Judge Gaynor made the same reply to interviewers.

McCARREN FOR McCLELLAN?

Rumor of Plan to Outwit Murphy If Grout Is Beaten.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Charles F. Murphy and his chief aide, Senator Victor J. Dowling, were thrown into a blue funk this evening by a report which reached them from the McCarren headquarters. It was to the effect that if he found he was unable to bring about the nomination of Mr. Grout because of the opposition of Mr. Murphy, McCarren was preparing to execute a bold flank movement on Tammany. According to the report, should he be convinced that all hope of Grout's nomination was gone, Mr. McCarren would walk into Mr. Hill's room and declare that, since Murphy could not be reconciled to the candidacy of Grout, he (McCarren) would urge the nomination of Mayor McClellan as the next best man.

He would advise Mr. Hill, it was said, to send for Mr. Murphy and give him the alternative of either withdrawing his opposition to Grout or agreeing to the nomination of McClellan. Senator Dowling was asked to-night what would be Tammany's answer to such a proposal.

"I am not prepared to answer at this time," was his reply.

"You have considered the possibility of such a situation arising?"

"Yes."

When the probability of McCarren putting up to Mr. Murphy the alternative of withdrawing his opposition to Grout or accepting Mayor McClellan as a candidate became a matter of gossip among some of the big leaders to-night, it was generally agreed that such a move on the Brooklyn leader's part certainly would be very embarrassing to the Tammany leader. If Grout could not be nominated, McCarren would have everything to gain and nothing to lose by such a move, and it was argued that the advantages he would gain were many. In the first place Mayor McClellan's successor would be Charles V. Fornes, who is generally understood to be friendly to the Sullivans, and the harmony of relations between the Sullivans and McCarren is well known. With a Mayor who would be friendly to him, and a candidate for Governor who would owe his nomination to him, Senator McCarren, it was said, need have no further fear about any efforts Mr. Murphy might be disposed to make against his leadership in Brooklyn. In fact, it was asserted the Tammany leader would be rendered absolutely powerless to do McCarren any political hurt under those conditions.

Senator Dowling said to-night that it had been his impression all day that the McClellan talk up State was a mere cloak for some such shrewd play on the part of McCarren as has been outlined.

There was a busy time at the Tammany headquarters from the time Mr. Murphy and his lieutenants arrived this afternoon. Leaders from various sections of the State dropped in on Mr. Murphy, and it was long after midnight before he had concluded his conferences.

From the beginning Mr. Murphy held to his determination not to advance any candidate on the part of Tammany Hall, but to throw this strength to the man whom the convention considers to be the strongest candidate. Shortly after his arrival Mr. Murphy received State Chairman Cord Meyer in his cottage at the Grand Union. Then Mr. Murphy, accompanied by Senator Dowling and Borough President Ahearn of Manhattan, went to see William F. Sheehans, and had a long talk.

Later in the afternoon, Henry Yonge, one of Controller Grout's managers, called at Mr. Murphy's headquarters and remained an hour. When he came away he declared that the prospect of Controller Grout's nomination was brighter than at any time since his arrival. About this time it became known that ex-Senator Charles A. Towne, who is one of Mr. Murphy's closest advisers, had been urging the Tammany leader to come out for Grout. Mr. Towne has advocated this move as the best way to cut the ground from under McClellan's feet in Brooklyn. When Mr. Murphy was seen in his cottage before the rumor of the McCarren move was spread, he declined to discuss the situation.

"Tammany has no candidate," he said, "and I see no prospect of its having one."

Senator McCarren has said that most of the Tammany district leaders favor the nomination of Grout, and would vote their delegations for him unless you give orders to the contrary. Is that true?"

"Well, McCarren can talk for Brooklyn, but he has no right to talk for Tammany."

"McCarren says he will oppose the nomination of Shepard to the very end."

"That comes under the head of Brooklyn matters, and I cannot discuss it."

"There has been some talk of taking up Mayor McClellan as a candidate, and in the event of a general sentiment developing for the Mayor would Tammany favor his nomination?"

"Tammany has no candidate."

"But would Tammany be willing to have Mr. McClellan run if the party wants him?"

"I cannot speak for Mr. McClellan," was the answer. "You will have to ask him personally if he will run if they want to nominate him."

FORNES FAVORS McCLELLAN.

Says a Good Word, Too, About Tammany Hall's Stand.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Charles V. Fornes, President of the Board of Aldermen of New York, arrived here to-day from Rochester, where he spoke yesterday at a barbecue with John B. Stanchfield. Mr. Fornes is an associate of Charles F. Murphy on the delegation from Mr. Murphy's own district, the Eighteenth Assembly. As to the situation in the State, Mr. Fornes said the Democrats had not had such a favorable opportunity to win in years.

"If I could altogether eliminate the personal element from the consideration of the best choice of a candidate for Governor," he said, "I would advocate the nomination of Mayor McClellan. In my opinion, he is the strongest man the Democrats could put up. But if I were to urge his nomination some people might say that my reason for so doing was to succeed to the Mayoralty. My belief is that Mr. McClellan would appeal to the voters of the entire State.

"There is a false impression among many up-State Democrats that Tammany is actuated by selfish purposes in all it does. That is not the case, and I think the hearty manner in which Charles F. Murphy is cooperating with the managers of Judge Parker's canvass is proof of my contention."

"Would Mr. Murphy be willing to have Mr. McClellan take the nomination for Governor in the event that the delegates to the State Convention should reach the conclusion that Mr. McClellan was the strongest man who could be nominated?" Mr. Fornes was asked.

"I think he would," he replied. "It has been said by some that if Mr. McClellan were to resign the Mayoralty to run for Governor it would create a prejudice against him among independent voters in New York City. In my judgment, there is no foundation for such a belief. I think that the best class of citizens in the City of New York would rejoice at the prospect of seeing a New York City man of the type of Mayor McClellan in the Governor's chair."

Ex-State Senator William F. Mackay of Erie County has been openly advocating the nomination of Mayor McClellan. He says that there is a strong undercurrent of sentiment in Erie County for him.

6,000 MAKE SPA LIVELY.

Democrats Parade with Brass Bands—Tammany on Deck.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Practically all the delegates, shouters, and bands struck town to-night and are holding high carnival with the 1,500 or more Tammany braves in the centre of the stage. To-night a dozen parades marched around at the same time, with colors flying and bands playing. Incidentally, the village and many of the shouters were well lit up.

With the exception of one train, all of the Tammanyites had arrived by 7 o'clock in the evening, the other train getting in at midnight. The first Tammany train arrived shortly before 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The Kings County contingent, some 500 in number, also arrived late in the afternoon and paraded around wearing Grout badges and whooping it up for the Controller. Fortunately for the peace of the community, the Tammany and Brooklyn parades did not collide at any point.

Up to this morning there were comparatively few Democrats in the village for the convention to be so near, but from early morning they have been piling in, until this evening fully 6,000 Democrats filled the principal hotels and kept things lively.

The leaders began to arrive early, but the most important accession came at noon, when ex-Senator David B. Hill arrived with Senator Patrick H. McCarren, Eugene D. Wood, Charles N. Bulger, Patrick H. McCabe, and William Gorham Rice. They were followed at 2:35 o'clock by a train bearing August Belmont, William F. Sheehan, Edward Murphy, Jr., and Charles F. Murphy. The Tammany leader was accompanied by President Frank A. O'Donnell of the Tax Board.

The first Tammany special brought the Bronx delegation, headed by Louis F. Haffen and John F. Cowan, with the delegations from the Twenty-ninth and Sixth Districts, headed by Thomas E. Rush and Timothy P. Sullivan. These contingents paraded through town headed by a brass band and were followed inside of an hour by the second Tammany special, with its band and paraders. From that time on the paraders and the bands came in so thick and fast that it was hard to keep track of them. If there is a Tammany officeholder or man of prominence in New York who is not here he should have his picture in the newspapers.

FORLORN FRANK CAMPBELL.

Deposed State Chairman Snubbed by Hill and Home Delegates.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, Sept. 10.—One of the most forlorn figures at this convention is Frank Campbell of Bath. Until last April he was the Chairman of the State Committee. Then Mr. Campbell delivered himself of some utterances about bosses and bossism, to which David B. Hill took offense. Shortly after this the State Committee named Cord Meyer as Chairman. Campbell was shorn of his power in his own County of Steuben, and resigned his seat in the State Committee.

Mr. Campbell to-day walked up and down the veranda of the Grand Union Hotel, endeavoring to make politicians take him at his former worth. This was plainly shown when three or four times he talked of delivering the Steuben County delegation to various candidates. The news of his partial promises got to the delegates—Recorder Rogers of Corning, Henry W. Bowes of Bath, and Charles A. Brewster of Addison. All of them promptly declared that Mr. Campbell did not control them, and that they stood entirely with James E. Parsons of Hornellsville, the new State Committeeman.

When the word got to Mr. Parsons he started for Mr. Hill's room, only to find Campbell in the parlor. Mr. Hill came out and called Mr. Parsons to come to the inner room. Campbell made a move for the inner room at the same time.

"You will have to wait awhile, Mr. Campbell," said Mr. Hill icily, "as I have some business I want to talk over with Mr. Parsons."

FUNNY SIDE AT SARATOGA.

Some of the Things Politicians Are Doing and Saying.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 19.—State Chairman Cord Meyer, Thomas F. Conway, John B. McDonald, the subway builder; George M. Palmer, and several others had a game dinner at Saratoga Lake last night, and discussed politics on the side. When the party got back to the hotel at midnight there was a group of newspaper men waiting for them.

"Say," said Mr. McDonald, looking the newspaper men over, "I am getting sick and tired of being approached at every turn for interviews. I have decided to turn interviewer myself this time. You all have got to come into the restaurant, and we are going to torture you for a while. Come right in with me and I'll blow you off to a subway."

For the next two hours Mr. McDonald and the others in the party amused themselves by playing the rôle of newspaper reporters to the reporters themselves.

On the way through the corridor to the restaurant Mr. McDonald stepped on three parlor matches, one right after another.

"Are those some of your funny cracks, John?" asked Senator Victor J. Dowling.

"No," replied the subway builder, "I had those matches put there to make me feel at home. They take the place of the subway blasts, you know, and then, with them there is no danger of turning a Park Avenue residence into a shore front."

Judge Daniel E. Finn, the Tammany leader in the First Assembly District, was standing in the corridor of the Grand Union this afternoon, when William Hepburn Russell came along.

"Who is that?" asked Finn. He was informed.

"You don't say so!" ejaculated Finn, with astonishment. "Why, he's one of my district delegates, and I never saw him before. Murphy told me to put him on; and I done it."

This information and Finn's astonishment at seeing Russell for the first time was conveyed to Mr. Russell. He seemed amused.

"Who is your choice for Governor?" Mr. Russell was asked.

"My district leader has not told me yet," replied the ex-Commissioner of Accounts, with a laugh. Then he went over and shook Judge Finn's hand as a preliminary to getting acquainted with his leader.

In front of the Grand Union Hotel is the old sign of the "Putnam Tavern Boarding House," which was the predecessor many years ago of the present Grand Union house. The sign illustrates the story of Gen. Putnam going into the wolf's hole to pull the animal out. Some Tammanyites were regarding the picture intently this afternoon.

"Say," said City Chamberlain Patrick Keenan, "that reminds me of Hill's visit to Jerome last week, only Putnam Hill could not pull out Wolf Jerome."

Thomas F. Foley, ex-Alderman and Tammany leader in the Second District, struck town to-night with a candidate of his own for Governor.

"My selection," said Foley, "is Asa Bird Gardiner on his 'to hell with reform' platform."

There is a big painted advertising sign on Broadway showing the finish of the first Futurity, with Proctor Knott winning. Electric lights set it off by night. To-night two Parker enthusiasts got ladders and started to climb up with a Parker lithograph which they intended to place on the back of the winning horse. They were just getting the lithograph in place when two of Senator Brackett's policemen came along and made them come down. It cost each of the Parkerites a two-dollar bill to square things and escape arrest.

Wife's Illness Upsets Harmon's Plans.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 19.—Reports from Judge Judson Harmon, who is now in London, indicate that he may not be able to return in time to take an active part in the campaign for Judge Parker, as he had promised to do. Judge Harmon's detention is due to the ill-health of his wife, who is under treatment in London.

TAMMANY HOSTS HALT TO SHAKE PARKER'S HAND

Special Trains En Route to Saratoga Stop at Esopus.

WESTCHESTER THERE, TOO

Delegates Shown About Rosemount Grounds—Candidate Not Coming to New York This Week.

Special to The New York Times.

ESOPUS, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Three delegations to the State Convention tarried here long enough to-day to get on good terms with Judge Parker. Two Tammany Hall trains were met at the Esopus station by the candidate, and the Westchester County delegation marched to Rosemount.

The first Tammany contingent arrived on a special train about 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon. As the long train came in sight scores of flags were waved from the windows, followed by the heads of as many braves. Then began a chorus of Tammany yells. It required no effort of the imagination, once the delegates and shouters swarmed about the candidate, to believe the scene was in the heart of "Battery Dan" Finn's district, so thoroughly Tammanyized was everything.

Senator Daniel J. Riordan of the Tenth District was one of the first out of his car, followed by Alderman Reginald S. Doull of the Eleventh District and "Tom" Foley, leader of the Second, who marshaled the crowd in front of the candidate to receive a handshake.

The second Tammany train arrived a few minutes after the departure of the first section. The Presidential candidate went through the same procedure with this delegation.

Westchester County delegates and shouters to the number of 125, headed by State Committeeman Michael J. Walsh of Yonkers and Chairman of the General Committee Frederick Allen of Pelham Manor, arrived about 3 o'clock and marched over the hill to Rosemount.

John G. Agar of New Rochelle, Matthew Clune of Peekskill, I. J. Beaudrias of Yonkers, Edwin W. Fiske of Mount Vernon, E. G. Sutherland of White Plains, J. J. Shaw of White Plains, with their several followers, lined up to meet the candidate on the front porch. Brief speeches were made, and Judge Parker responded fittingly. After all had been introduced to him by Mr. Walsh, the candidate escorted his visitors about the grounds.

The delegates from the Third District and others from the north end of the county were desirous that ex-Congressman C. A. Pugsley's name be presented to the convention as a nominee for Governor. Some of those from the lower sections of the county were for Justice Martin J. Keogh, but Shepard and Palmer was the ticket the great majority of the delegates favored.

It was authcritatively announced to-night that Judge Parker had no plans whatever for another trip, this week at least, to New York. The Judge retired at the usual hour to-night, despite the momentous proceedings at Saratoga.

Charles S. Hamlin of Massachusetts returned here to-night and will remain until morning. From all that could be learned it appears that Douglas will be the Democratic Gubernatorial nominee in the Bay State.

ADDOMS FOR SUPREME COURT.

Republicans Agree on Nominee for Justice Freedman's Place.

Mortimer C. Addoms will be nominated to-night for the office of Justice of the Supreme Court at the Republican Judicial Convention to be held in Murray Hill Lyceum. Mr. Addoms's name was decided upon yesterday, and there will be no opposition. The vacancy on the Supreme Court bench is caused by the retirement of Justice John J. Freedman, who reaches the age limit. The term is fourteen years, and the salary $17,500.

It has been reported that Mr. Addoms's opponent would probably be Senator Victor J. Dowling. The date for the Tammany convention has not yet been set. At the Republican Convention to-night John Palmieri, Judge of the City Court, acting under appointment by Gov. Odell, will be nominated to succeed himself.

Mortimer C. Addoms has never held public office. About ten years ago he was President of the Republican Club. He is a member of the Union League and Republican Clubs, the Bar Association, St. Nicholas Society, and Society of Medical Jurisprudence.

TAGGART STIRS UP ILLINOIS.

Consider State Debatable Ground—Indiana Situation Encouraging.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Thomas Taggart, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, arrived in Chicago to-day. This is the first visit of the National Chairman to Chicago since he became the party's manager and marks the beginning of the campaign in Illinois. Democratic leaders from all parts of the State gathered here to meet him, and he spent the day in conference with them at the Sherman House. Afterward he said:

"If the heartiness of Democrats manifested since my arrival here is any indication of the political condition, I would say that the Democratic outlook is excellent. The situation in New York is all that we could want. Indiana is in the best condition for Democratic victory I have seen there since 1892. Bryan men, Hearst men, and silver men are united with all other Democrats in laboring for party triumph."

"Is Illinois, in your opinion, debatable ground?" the leader was asked.

"It is, if the Democrats are harmonious," was the reply. "I am here to find out about that. I think things are progressing finely from what I have learned."

As to the truthfulness of the report that he had been practically supplanted as Chairman, Mr. Taggart entered an emphatic denial, saying that the National party leaders are working in the utmost harmony. He declined to make an announcement as to campaign plans in the West until his return to New York. It is learned, however, that Mr. Taggart's present inclinations are unfavorable to branch headquarters at any point in the West, his opinion being that the work can be best done from New York through State Committees. Mr. Taggart left for New York to-night.

WITHOUT CONDITION—HIGGINS.

Republican Candidate Says Nomination Also Came to Him Unsought.

OLEAN, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Lieut. Gov. Higgins, the Republican candidate for Governor, received an enthusiastic welcome on his return to Olean to-day. Mayor Waring delivered an address of welcome, to which the candidate responded in part as follows:

"To be nominated unanimously by one of the two great parties whose candidate will be elected for the high office of Governor of this Empire State is indeed a great honor. Especially so when that honor was unsought and came without compromise and without condition. If I am elected in November I promise you with all the sincerity I possess, and with such ability as God Almighty has given me, to be the Governor of all the people, and to faithfully, courageously, and honestly discharge the duties of that high office."

REPUBLICAN PLANS HERE.

Their First Big Meeting in This City Arranged for Oct. 18.

The Speakers' Bureau of the Republican State Committee, with Col. Lafayette B. Gleason in charge, has about finished the preliminary work for the campaign, and by the end of the week there will be 200 speakers making campaign speeches throughout the State. It has been so arranged that many of the men will speak in one county at a time for a week.

The most prominent of those who will devote their time to this State are Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson, ex-Senator John M. Thurston of Nebraska, Judge W. S. Kenworthy of Iowa, and Wallace Bruce, ex-Consul at Glasgow. The candidates on the Republican State ticket will also speak a number of times.

The first large meeting in this city will be at Durland's Riding Academy Oct. 18, under the auspices of the West Side Republican Club. The chief speaker will be Senator Knox of Pennsylvania. M. Linn Bruce and Julius M. Mayer, candidates for Lieutenant Governor and Attorney General, will also speak.

Ex-Gov. Frank S. Black will be the principal speaker at a Yonkers mass meeting Oct. 20. A meeting in Carnegie Hall is planned for the following week, and a monster mass meeting will be held about the end of October in Madison Square Garden. The chief speaker at this meeting will be either Secretary Hay, Secretary Taft, or Elihu Root. Senator Depew will also speak, as will M. Linn Bruce and Julius M. Mayer.

The last of the large meetings will be held Nov. 4 in Cooper Union. Senator Fairbanks, the candidate for Vice President, will be the chief speaker there.

JERSEY REPUBLICANS YIELD.

State Platform Will Contain Concessions to Equal Tax Men.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 19.—A platform that is expected to be adopted without opposition at to-morrow's Republican State Convention was drafted to-night by a subcommittee appointed by the Republican State Committee.

This committee consisted of former United States Attorney General John W. Griggs, former Assistant Postmaster General William M. Johnson, Congressman John J. Gardner, and former State Attorney General Thomas N. McCarter, Jr. The principal interest centred about the equal tax question. Mayor Fagan of Jersey City, Secretary of State Dickinson, and other Hudson County leaders, were here in the interest of the adoption of a plank that would meet the advanced views of the Hudson Republicans. The sub-committee, after a lengthy conference, agreed upon an equal taxation plank, which, it is understood, the Hudson men will accept, although it does not fully meet their views.

The plank provides for the taxation of all second-class railroad property at local rates. This will very materially benefit Jersey City, where the local rate is $2.75, while the present rate on second class railroad property is $1.50. Hudson County has a much greater proportion of second class railroad property than any other section of the State. All other matters of taxation, the platform recommends, should be left open pending the report of the equal taxation commission to the next session of the Legislature.

The Republican State Committee to-night formally agreed upon former Assistant Postmaster General William M. Johnson for presiding officer at to-morrow's convention. Clerk in Chancery Edward C. Stokes, who will be nominated for Governor to-morrow, is ill with a heavy cold, but his physician said to-night that he felt confident that Mr. Stokes would be well enough to-morrow to attend the convention. Ugal H. McCarter of Essex and Col. Washington A. Roebling of Mercer have been agreed upon for Presidential Electors at Large.

Simpson Crawford Co—Daily Bulletin

Men's New English Walking Suits, Second Floor, at $18.

NEW YORK, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1904.

☞ Visit our Restaurant on the 8th Floor. A dainty, inexpensive mid-day lunch.

ONCE there was a boy who was sent to the store for a pound of tea. "Green or black?" asked the store-keeper. "Don't make any difference," replied the boy, "it's for a blind woman."

In selecting their merchandise many stores seem to think that the lack of quality is of no particular consequence as most people are blind to quality, and only look at low prices.

But that's where they are wrong. The discriminating public does not stand in the same light as the boy and the tea.

Knowing buyers of to-day look to quality first and with this fact in mind we select our merchandise accordingly.

Quality first — prices afterwards. That's just why the name Simpson Crawford Co. is synonymous with the very highest standard of merchandise—why you prefer to trade here—why our business day in and day out shows such a marked increase.

We'd sooner merit your custom through the high standard of merchandise than low prices because we want your continued patronage and we know that we must satisfy you in every particular in order to earn it, and where quality is lacking satisfaction is impossible no matter how low the price may be.

Preliminary Opening

authoritative showing of the late arrivals and recent creations in Paris Millinery, Gowns and Wraps, Suits and Coats, Silk Waists and Silk Petticoats, Silks and Dress Goods and Laces and Trimmings.

The public are cordially invited to view the exclusive styles that were gathered with a view to portraying the approved styles that will be favored by smart dressers this Fall.

New Ideas in waists

This clever conceit is borrowed from the stage conception (worn by Henrietta Crosman,) and if you want a waist critically correct see to it that your waist has this stunning style feature. Other unique shapings are known as the "Peggy from Paris," (Cavalier, Rob Roy) and the graceful, puffed Dolly Varden.

Onion color (the new brown verging on the charming shades) is the fad of the hour, especially for pipings—(hats and gowns, too,) for that matter.

Here's another new waist in seal brown (piped with onion color) and still another new waist (a chic military design) in army blue shows the popularity of reseda green in pipings, brass buttons forming the main decoration.

The woman of ultra-daintiness will be delighted with a ravishing creation in sheer handkerchief linen, hand embroidered and embellished in Tom Thumb tucks.

The ever popular lace waist still commands attention among fashionable women, and the latest developments, shown here, combine a clever intermingling of "punched" (or Repoussé lace) and Irish lace.

You must visit our waist section if you want to catch the exact hints for fall; every model is exclusive and picturesquely fashionable.

$3.95 for taffeta or wool waists.

$4.50 for the new taffeta waists.

$5 for chifon taffeta. Crepe or Peau de Soie waists.

$7.50 for chiffon taffeta Crepe or Peau de Soie waists.

$10. $11.50, $12.50 upward to $75 for all the newest designs.

A bit of corset gossip.

THE demands of the Directoire gowns and Louis XV. coats have brought into evolution a new waist line and bust slope, (which French corsetières....) have been quick to introduce in a perfect fitting corset, combining beauty and comfort.

It is an undisputed fact that a perfect-fitting corset is the requisite of a perfect-fitting gown (and the waist line must be observed), if one wishes to aspire to enlistment among fashionable dressers.

Fashioned according to these principles the correct waist line of 1904 is fully an inch higher than last season (and the new bust is fuller), thus producing the desired youthful contour in shape.

The dip length is adapted to the minority of figures. The authorities (in the art of perfect symmetry of form) decided on a corset that would supply the clamoring majority who wished the lissome shaping and modified plumpness founded on Hogarth's immortal line of beauty.

Consummate skill obtained this (with no small deviation....) from the distinctive features of last year, as delineated by the familiar elongation, or extreme dip at the front.

Relegated to the past is the dip for (recognizing the requirements of the natural figure.....) common sense ruled against it.

The 1904 Judic is (sole representative.....) of the New Form shaping, and the woman of avoirdupois has been especially considered in the making. For her there is the tailor cut, designed to reduce that unsightly abdominal fullness four inches, and the hips in proportion. We are exclusive New York agents for the celebrated Judic corset.

There is no longer need for the woman of bad figure to bemoan her defects, for the most faulty shape can be made to conform to shapely lines, and grace and ease assured as well.

The close adjustment of the Princess gown requires primarily well-fitted corsets. A novelty (recommended for these gowns...) is the Sylchide, uniquely lacing at the front instead of at the back, which is fashioned similar to the hips, and fits smoothly.

Suggestions for the smart silk Gowns

YOU must literally be swathed in silk (lustrous messaline or chiffon taffeta) if you wish to be in fashion this season. Costume makers (of Paris, Berlin and London.....) have sounded this edict, and the mighty army of womankind will obey orders.

Glace silks (of the early Victorian epoch....) show the manufacturer's progress in a surprising kaleidoscopic coloring. Gold and brown, two-toned greens, jacqueminot red and black (and an infinite variety in the ever popular peacock tints.....) vie with the pansy shades. There is a new flame red and a pinkish Ruy Blas (which impregnate exclusive patterns) and French green demonstrates the unceasing popularity of this vivid tint.

The return to the flowered designs of the Trianon days (when Marie Antoinette with her court ladies played at buttermaking in flowered gowns) is charmingly evidenced in the beautiful and exclusive evening silks we are showing (in rose and violet enwreathed patterns and true-lovers' knots.....) which attract the eye in bewildering beauty.

Suggestions (for selection in colors....) will favor the varying shades of brown before all others. Next in Fashion's prejudice green will sweep sentiment to its choice. Black will be chosen by those whose taste prefers unobtrusive yet elegant effects.

Important silk announcement.

For to-day we've a lot of handsome novelty silks worth from $1.25 to $2—originally imported for reception and dinner gowns—Linings for evening coats and swell garments—They are just the thing for waists, petticoats, etc. To-day they are all on sale at 58c

New Autumn Fabrics.

THE fabric of the hour is broadcloth in the new chiffon weave. Chiffon broadcloth (in the German, French and domestic qualities) is the material par excellence (for correct early Fall wear.....) and the most popular colors are the fashionable onion and leather shades, followed closely by greens in a brilliant gradation from the silvery reseda to rich-toned ivy and myrtle.

Next to this in favor (appropriate for natty walking and traveling suits.....) are the indispensable tourist coat, come the English tweeds and suitings, in mannish effects. These worsteds are of quiet elegance (and unobtrusive in pattern.....) and show brokenly an introduction of brilliant coloring, suggestions of tomato red, (burnt orange) and apple green.

Pain Brule, (burnt bread.) marron brown, (melon or night blue), onion, ivy, myrtle and the leather reseda and mahogany shades are distinctive shades of the season. For the indispensable "trotter" (or "knock-about" suit) we've a host of demure yet catchy patterns in unobtrusive plaided and hair lines. The woman (whose duties summon her forth in all kinds of weather...) will appreciate their manifold storm and dust-proof virtues.

Eoliennes and voiles (because of their easy adaptability to current styles.....) have a firm sway among preferred fabrics, and there's strong indulgence toward the satin-finished cloths bringing into usage again lady's cloth (and French Flannel.....) which are difficult to distinguish from broadcloth.

Resplendent with the gleam of silk are the novelty dress goods for Autumn, and feminine taste will be caught by the exquisite embroidered effects (in the new silk and wool fabrics) which combine the virtues of the clinging softness of crepe de chine and the transparency of voile. Unrivaled for beauty and texture, the broadcloths stand pre-eminent, however, and at least one gown (of this correct material for the Autumn.....) should be included in the wardrobe. Main Fl.

$1.50 yd. for 50 and 52 in. English suitings, new effects.

Infants' 69c dresses at 39c

THESE surprising bargains in infants' wear (suitable for this time of year....) might leave the impression that something was wrong with the qualities (if we didn't vindicate them....), so we want to say to you that we will guarantee every garment to be of high grade material—sold for exactly what we say it's worth in other stores ordinarily.

The 69c short dresses at 39c are made of a fine white nainsook—yokes of lace and embroidery insertion—several styles—sizes 6 months, 1 and 2 years.

These are not all the bargains in our infants' department for to-day, but simply a very few examples (as we haven't space to tell you about all of them.....), so if you've any want whatever come prepared for a big saving.

50c for infants' 75c short dresses of nainsook and lawn—yokes daintily trimmed with laces and ribbons—numerous styles—all very good values—sizes 6 months, 1 and 2 years.

1.95 to 6.95 for children's wool dresses—all the leading colors and models of this season—also pretty Russian dresses of Galatea cloth—prettily trimmed.

Opening sale of the new laces.

THE variety is large but the individual importations are small, therefore dressmakers, designers and those desiring something very rich and exclusive should attend the opening sale and enjoy first choosing. This is a season of lace, in all of its unrivalled beauty. The point laces will usurp first place (in the feminine taste.....) and the robe de luxe will be the lace gown.

Old World patterns, (such as Reubens and Sir Joshua Reynolds loved to paint,.....) are revived and exquisitely combined with the cobweb foundations and sharp dentelles which the peerless St. Gall patterns are partial to. Brussels sends a priceless collection (of rare point patterns.....) heavily crusted with applique.

The Chantilly laces show the Marie Antoinette (and Directorate.....) wave (in all-over designs.....) in leaf and flower. Particularly new and chic are the Godet or circular shapings (for decorations, skirts, flounces,) and the decolletage of the evening bodice.

We've a marvelous and bewildering display with which to regale you (in silky transparent Point de Gaze.....), a few of which border on the novelty design in intricacy and workmanship. Masterpieces in creamy Lierre lace (perfected as never before) and shaped for mounting over a silk lining—ready to wear robes—rival the glittering meshes of the black steel spangled gown (on which capricious Dame Fashion has set the seal of approval.....) for general evening functions. There's a choice of great latitude offered in admirable combinations of Batiste and Venise laces, (introducing daring originality in incrustations of burnt orange...) the fashionable color of the hour. You can select the same pattern in bebe blue, lavender and reseda green. Main Floor.

One of the newest features is Rose Point with net top and petals standing out in heavy relief. Punch or Repousse dots add a frosted appearance. This comes in edges, bands, galloons, irregulars, medallion effects, from 95c to $8.75.

Colored medallions in novelty effects in Venise, showing the prescribed hues in demand, are designed for bodice decorations. In Venise we also have at your disposal an unlimited line in black, ivory, white, butter and ecru, from 65c to $10.75.

The Repousse laces have swung in on the Marie Antoinette wave, and are readily obtainable in exquisite two-toned pastel tints, in lavender and white, nile green, sky-blue, Malmaison pink and burnt orange. The Du Barry set or pattern is one distinction and Tourbillon is another. We've the bandings from 50c upwards, with edgings ranging from 90c up.

Lace robes will figure conspicuously in fashion's history this season and our designs represent the skill of modern lace-makers in point of design and elegance.

Spangled in opalescent, iridescent and silver effects —$45 to $85. Black Spangles, $10 to $65.

Black Chantilly, Renaissance and Figured Net robes in a variety of designs, $25 to $58.50.

Particularly chic are the shaded dot gauzes for bouffante evening gowns. These are procurable in all desired shades on white grounds, at the nominal price of $2.95.

Our real laces include Duchesse, Applique, Point, Irish Crochet, French Irish and others of equal value, from $1.95 to $45.

BETTERMENT
A Matter of Course

To say that WANAMAKER'S is better this Fall, than ever before, is trite. To say less would be to pronounce the death of the institution. Where there is life, there is growth. Those who have seen the eight years of WANAMAKER'S in New York will agree that the growth has been as rapid as good, sturdy health could allow.

It is true that the roots of the tree have bebome pot-bound by the confines of this old Stewart Building, which it has outgrown. That is why the new building, made necessary by this enormous growth, is now nearing completion across the street.

While the merchandise, so far as space is concerned, cannot really grow except by condensation, it is wonderful what necessity can contrive in the way of creating space where there is none. Many of the merchandise lines are greater and broader than ever before. Everywhere there is a satisfying fullness in variety which is amply shown by most careful comparison, to students of fashion, as well as experts in merchandise.

Winter stocks will continue to arrive for weeks to come; but the vast new lines already here, compose a matter of compelling interest to our public this September morning.

Some Dress-up Suits for Boys

The fine, ample Fall stock is so full of handsome clothing for the little fellows, that it is hard to get all around, or even say a good word for the most deserving.

We are never satisfied to put up with even the finest and best things that the manufacturers can bring out. We always have suggestions about the way WANAMAKER Clothing is to be made, with a knowledge of what mothers tell us they would like to have in clothing for their boys. These little touches, which we have not allowed to add anything to the cost of the suits, are just the things that make the clothing appreciated by parents who take pride in what their children wear.

Particularly attractive suits for dress-up wear, are these of hard-finished blue serge, with Norfolk jackets and bloomer trousers. They are tailored in splendid manner; are stoutly made to stand the wear, and keep their shapeliness through long service. Two handsome styles for boys of 9 to 16 years, at $9.50 and $10.50 a suit.

Top Coats to go with these suits, made of a handsome shade of tan covert, in sizes for 7 to 16 years, at $7.50.

A special lot of Boys' Knee Trousers, made of manufacturers' remnants of fancy cheviots used in dollar trousers; today at 75c.

The WALKING SUIT Is the Thing

The particular dress topic uppermost in the average woman's mind just now is—her Fall Walking Suit. It is unquestionably the costume of this especial season of the year—comfortable, convenient, just off the ground for easy walking, and, in addition, smart, jaunty and altogether charming by reason of the new Autumn fashions.

The epitome of Fall styles in Walking Suits is presented here—we're vastly pleased at our success in gathering such a fine collection—and, judging from contemporary criticism by women who know, other people are pleased, too.

New costumes are continually making their appearance; and in the matter of styles, materials, colorings and prices, selection is as broad as can be desired. $12.50, $16.50, $21, $24, $25, $28.50, to $60.

The RIGHT SCARFS For Men

The necktie-buying man can't go wrong, if he chooses from this WANAMAKER collection. Of course, there never yet was a scarf of distinctive pattern that was liked by all of a man's friends; but that's a matter of personal equation. And these new scarfs for Autumn are full of "known quantities"—style, originality, excellence, good taste.

The collection comprises Four-in-hands, at 50c, $1 and $1.50; Folded Squares at 50c, $1, $1.50 and $2—including at the highest price some particularly fine scarfs of English make.

In the matter of

Men's RAINCOATS And Equinox Weather

"About this time expect storms," as the patent medicine almanac says—the equinox is just about due. And if the "Equinoctial" does not materialize, lots of other storms will—and you'll be wearing your raincoat on lots of cool, pleasant days between-times.

That is due to the style and smartness of raincoats as we build them nowadays—made by our best overcoat tailors, and just like overcoats, with broad shoulders, loose backs, in Oxford mixtures, dark or medium, also browns, gray herring-bone, and black.

Styles are correct, and stock is large—we're too modest to call it the largest in the city; but there are over two hundred and fifty raincoats right here on our tables for you to get your size from.

Twenty-four Used Angelus Piano Players At $125

This splendid opportunity to secure an Angelus—the best Piano Player made, at half the usual price, comes to us and you because of the accumulation which came into the hands of the manufacturers. In changing to the new style, they had an opportunity to secure these earlier models in exchange, at a very low figure, through their agents.

The instruments were then sent to the factory, and gone over inside and out. The cases were made of beautiful woods, and have been re-polished and re-finished, so that they look absolutely new; then the interiors have been brought up-to-date as far as can possibly be done, practically all the new devices having been added; so that their real value has been doubled since they were brought to the factory.

The Angelus is famous for its possibilities of fine expression; and in this it is equaled by no other Piano Player made. A Piano Player is the life of a piano in any home, whether there is some one there who plays the piano by hand or not.

The Angelus is as easily moved away from the piano, as rolling a large chair, and as easily rolled back again.

This half price group contains mahogany, oak, and walnut cases, and you may select from the collection of twenty-four now remaining, at $125. If you are not prepared to pay cash, you can arrange the terms as easy as desired, and pay in little monthly sums.

Men's and Women's Shoes At $1.90

Low as this price is, these are good, serviceable Fall and Winter shoes; brand new; made up to our special order, in full and complete range of sizes.

While some manufacturers of $3.50 shoes think it is a great point to claim that the soles are oak-tanned, we consider this a commonplace virtue, as it would be unheard of not to have them in all WANAMAKER Shoes.

Men's Shoes at $1.90

Box calfskin uppers; straight London last with tips; heavy single soles of oak-tanned leather, welted and stitched.

MR. DAVIS'S ATTITUDE TOWARD UNION LABOR

FRIEND OF THE WORKINGMEN

F. S. Landstreet Testifies the Democratic Candidate for Vice President Always Has Befriended Them.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 19.—Letters bearing on the attitude of Henry G. Davis toward organized labor were given out today by Chairman O'Brien of the Democratic State Committee.

For some weeks the Republicans had been circulating statements among union men to the effect that the Democratic nominee for Vice President was bitterly hostile to union labor, and that he had severely treated union miners, dismissing them solely because they belonged to unions. It was also charged that ex-Senator Davis was the moving spirit in injunction proceedings against union miners.

Chafrman O'Brien, by letter, called the attention of Mr. Davis to the matter and forwarded to him copies of the Republican charges. Mr. Davis at once wrote to President F. S. Landstreet of the Davis Coal and Coke Company, 1 Broadway, New York. His letter is in part as follows:

"Elkins, West Va., Sept. 12.

"F. S. Landstreet, New York:

"The charge is made against me in the State of Indiana that I was a party to injunction proceedings and the eviction of miners from the houses of the Davis Coal and Coke Company, and I am accused of being hostile to union labor.

"As you know all the facts, I will be very much obliged if you make a statement in reply to this charge.

"Very truly yours,

"HENRY G. DAVIS."

The reply of President Landstreet, written from New York, Sept. 16, is in part as follows:

"The facts are that during your term as President of the Davis Coal and Coke Company no labor trouble occurred.

"The company only once during its existence evicted any men from its houses, and that was prior to your being President.

"The only suggestion for injunction proceedings by this company was in 1892, and in that case the minor officials of the company, including myself, who was then General Manager, urged that the injunction be obtained, but you refused to allow us to make application to court, and the proceedings were dropped.

"The only discharge of union men by the company took place in the Fall of 1903, fully a year after you had sold all your interests in the property and retired and I had been elected your successor.

"Until the severance of our business relations, more than two years ago, I had been associated with you in these corporate interests for about twenty years, and during that period you always showed the the greatest consideration and concern for the welfare of all the employes, wage-earners, and others of the company.

"Not only is this true as to the employes themselves, but you have manifested your concern for the welfare of their families by establishing various relief associations, hospitals, schools, &c., for protection of them.

"Very truly yours,

"F. S. LANDSTREET, President."

EACH FAMILY'S TRUST TAX.

Democratic Text Book Says It Averages $94 a Year.

The third installment of the Democratic Campaign Text Book which has appeared in proof contains arguments against the trusts and goes on to show how the tariff as it is at present constituted works to the advantage of these large combinations. The entire book will soon be issued. Some of the principal arguments under the caption "The Tariff and Trusts" are as follows:

"The tariff question is a business proposition that concerns every man, woman, and child, for it taxes the average home $110 a year, or more than one-tenth of the average family's total income. There is an average of one and one-eighth tenth earners in the average home. These contribute thirty days' labor each or fifty-four days' labor a year to the tariff tax collectors. If this $110 went as honest taxes to our Government to meet necessary expenditures no fault would be found, though the tax would be considered extremely high. But only a very small part of this $110 can be classed as legitimate taxes. By far the greater part goes to million and billion dollar tariff trusts and monopolies, which thrive now as never before in this country.

"These greedy trusts levy a tribute of $94 a year upon the average home, while the Government collects an average of about $15 a year in tariff taxes; the collection last year amounted to $3.49 per capita, or $16.52 per family of 4.7 persons. Do the heads of these 17,000,000 families, the voters, knowingly and willingly donate $94 a year to the hundreds of trusts?"

LONG ISLAND CONGRESS SEATS.

Republicans Nominate in All But One of the Districts.

Republican candidates for Congress were nominated in five of the six Congress districts in Brooklyn last night. At all the conventions save one, the Fifth, the nominations were made unanimously, there being but one candidate in the field in each case. The nominees are:

Second District—Dr. HERBERT J. KNAPP.

Third District—CHARLES T. DUNWELL, (renominated.)

Fourth District—CHARLES B. LAW.

Fifth District—GEORGE E. WALDO.

Sixth District—WILLIAM M. CALDER.

Seventh District—Adjourned, and committee appointed to select candidate.

The convention of the Fifth Congress District was enlivened by the fact that during the rollcall there were three candidates in the field. They were A. Stewart Walsh of the Sixteenth Assembly District, George E. Waldo of the Eighteenth Assembly District, and Henry D. Hopkins, who was put forward from the Seventh Assembly District, which is led by ex-Congressman Harry A. Hanbury. When the nominations were made, however, it was found that the Seventh Assembly District had withdrawn the name of Hopkins, and they combined with the Eighteenth Assembly District to nominate Waldo. The vote cast was 112 for Waldo and 94 for Walsh. This was afterward made unanimous.

MINEOLA, L. I., Sept. 19.—Assemblyman William W. Cocks of Nassau County was nominated as the candidate for Congress for the First Congressional District of New York by the Republican Convention held here this afternoon. There were five ballots for the nomination, and the final vote stood 16 votes for Cocks, 9 for ex-Senator William McKinney of Suffolk, and 3 for Dr. George A. Robertson of Suffolk. Mr. Cocks received the solid vote of the Nassau and Queens Counties delegates. William J. Youngs was Chairman of the convention.

Newark Democrats Nominate.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 19.—The Democratic City Convention held at the Kreiger Auditorium to-night nominated former Mayor and Congressman William H. F. Fiedler for Mayor, Irving G. Hooper for Commissioner of Public Works, and Dr. F. J. McGuinness for City Home Trustee. Frederick Seymour of East Orange was nominated for Congressman by the Congressional Convention.

CLUB SUES A HAVEMEYER.

Union Club of Chicago Says That William A., Jr., Owes It $500.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—William A. Havemeyer, Jr., of Chicago, a relative of the Havemeyers of New York, and until recently a resident of Riverside, has been sued for $500 in the Circuit Court by the Union Club, 12 Washington Place.

"The suit involves dues of the club, food, and lodging," said Attorney J. T. Gilbert of Gilbert & Gilbert, the club's attorneys. "We have tried for a month to get young Havemeyer. Once we started suit in a Justice's court, but the constable failed to find the defendant. Now we'll see what the Sheriff can do."

Havemeyer, it is said, contracted the bills during seven months' residence at the fashionable North Side Club. Treasurer Matthew Smith directed the filing of the suit. The Sheriff's Deputies are looking for the defendent at the Riverside Golf Club.

FAIRBANKS IN DELAWARE.

He Compliments the Republicanism of the State.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 19.—Senator Fairbanks, Vice Presidential candidate, addressed two mass meetings in this State today, the first at Dover this afternoon, and the other in this city to-night.

Mr. Fairbanks arrived at Dover from Washington shortly after noon. He was the guest of United States Senator J. Frank Allee. The Senator's speech at Dover was a short one. He reviewed National issues and paid a compliment to the Republicanism of Delaware.

Senator Fairbanks and his party arrived in this city this evening. The Opera House was crowded when the Senator was introduced.

Senator Fairbanks said that the triumph of Democracy would be a blow at the system of protection. The Republican Party, he said, has been consistent in its support of a sound monetary system.

This Absentminded Jeweler Gave Police a Burglar Scare.

Patrolman Levins was passing the jewelry shop of S. Raucher, at 253 Stanton Street, last night, when he noticed that the light in front of the store was not burning as usual. He tried the door and found it locked, but detected a strong odor of gas.

"Suspicious," thought Levins.

He went into the hallway leading to the tenement above and found a door leading into the store. It was not locked.

"Aha! Burglars!" thought the policeman.

He walked toward the front of the store and the odor of gas grew stronger. He located the jet and turned off the gas. Then he began to investigate. He found the safe and the door was wide open. He did not dare strike a match then for fear of an explosion, but he ran to the street and summoned another policeman. While the second man stood guard Levins found the jeweler. An examination was made of the safe and the contents were found to be intact.

"I guess I was a little absent-minded and forgot to lock the safe," said Raucher.

"But how about the gas?" asked the policeman.

"Come to think of it," said the jeweler, "I turned it on and meant to light it, but something attracted my attention and I forgot."

"Well, if you wake up poor some morning, don't blame me," said Levins.

SUICIDE IN SCHOOL CUPOLA.

Body of Assistant Janitor in Bronx Discovered Swaying from Dome.

High up above the street, in the cupola of Public School No. 5, at Webster Avenue and One Hundred and Eighty-ninth Street, Peter Morck, assistant janitor of the school, hanged himself with a school strap yesterday afternoon. While the last of the children and teachers were making their way out of the building homeward Morck's body swayed in the dome which he had made his home. He had first pulled down the American flag on top of the schoolhouse.

After the teachers had gone George Gabe, the janitor, went out into the street, but failed to find Morck, and then he looked up into the cupola. He walked away to see through the windows of the cupola and saw his assistant swaying in the air. He rushed to the cupola, and out of breath, spied the man hanging by the neck with a thin school-book strap to a rung of a ladder.

Gabe rushed down again, notified Fordham Hospital, and Dr. McGowan was soon in the cupola with a crowd outside. He said the man was dead. Morck's brother John said the assistant janitor was too much given to the study of mechanical engineering, and thinks study may have unsteadied his mind. His health had not been good.

POSTUM.
LAZY COFFEE.
Another Name for the "Sloppy" Sort.

Postum Coffee is not made like ordinary coffee, for it takes at least 25 minutes' cooking to bring out the heavy food value of Postum. It requires some effort for those things which are really worth while—making Postum requires a little care.

The grocer is in a position to hear of those lazy ones who will not take the trouble to make Postum correctly. "I am well acquainted indeed with Postum," says a grocer of Camden, N. J., "for I meet it not only at my breakfast table, but I am also associated with it daily in my business.

"Coffee drinking used to affect my nerves and stomach, but since we have been using Postum in our family in place of coffee the bloated feeling after eating has disappeared and my head is now clear and stomach and nerves all right. We all feel better in every way and find Postum just as satisfactory to our palates.

"I have met customers who complained that Postum was not good, but we always found this due to the fact that they tried to make it as they used to make coffee. Of course, we set them right by pointing out the reasons, telling them they must boil Postum 15 or 20 minutes after boiling commences. Then they get fine, choice, and delicious Postum." JAPAN'S GREAT ARMIES MARCHING ON MUKDEN

Kuropatkin Withdraws His Main Forces to Tie Pass.

CZAR PLANS A SECOND ARMY

Linevitch May Command It—Guard Officers Ordered to War Without Their Regiments Are Discontented.

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—Col. Gaedke, the correspondent of the Tageblatt in the Far East, telegraphs from Mukden under date of Sept. 19 as follows:

"The Japanese are advancing slowly with a broad front, the left resting on the Liao River and the right on the mountains, probably the Fushan coal mines, twenty-seven miles eastward.

"The Russian troops have recovered their spirits.

"Chinese officials are suspected of secretly aiding the Japanese."

A dispatch to the Lokal-Anzeiger from Mukden says:

"The Japanese dispositions are completely screened behind a line of outposts, and it is almost impossible to obtain information from behind this veil. The Russians cannot tell which of the four routes the Japanese advance will follow. Three Japanese companies are patroling the Hun River in junks.

"It is reported that Liao-Yang is occupied by only one company, and the heights northward of it by 2,000 men, the air of the vicinity of Liao-Yang being poisoned by exhalations from thousands of unburied bodies. Field Marshal Oyama's headquarters are a short distance north of Liao-Yang."

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 19.—While still insisting that Gen. Kuropatkin has sufficient troops at Mukden to contest the Japanese advance, the War Office admits that it is not likely that a decisive battle will be fought there. Everything goes to show that the main Russian position is now at Tie Pass, flanked by hills running out on the left and by the river on the right.

Official reports to the War Office are to the effect that the Japanese did not make any further move toward Mukden until Sept. 17, when a reconnaissance in force disclosed that they were still massing at Yen-Tai and Bianupuza. No Japanese have been discovered east of the latter point.

The reconnaissances, Gen. Kuropatkin says, were brilliantly carried out by Gens. Samsonoff's and Rennenkampff's Cossack Brigade, with a mixed detachment of infantry and artillery, under Rennenkampff's personal command. They captured a village north of Bianupuza, which was used as a pivot. The Russians drew off later, losing a few men killed or wounded, after securing valuable information regarding the Japanese strength and position.

A couple of days earlier Gen. Mitschenko's detachment of Cossacks reconnoitred toward Yen-Tai at the cost of a few score wounded.

Acting upon the advice of his military advisers, Emperor Nicholas has decided to form a Second Manchurian Army. It will be formed of the corps which are being sent to the Far East, and Lieut. Gen. Linevitch probably will have command of it. Gen. Kuropatkin will become chief of both armies, but probably without the title of Commander in Chief.

There is a story afloat that a sudden call has been issued to officers of the Guard regiments stationed at St. Petersburg to report for service at the front. According to report, the order directs that eight out of a total of fifty-six officers of each regiment should be chosen by lot and drafted to serve with regiments now in the Far East.

It is stated that the order has aroused great discontent. Whole regiments are anxious to go to the theatre of war, but the officers intensely dislike the prospect of the organizations being split up.

MUKDEN, Sept. 19.—All is quiet here today, but fighting is anticipated in the neighborhood of Sinmintin, thirty-five miles west of Mukden.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—A dispatch to a news agency from Harbin to-day says the Japanese are displaying considerable activity in North Korea. A skirmish is reported between Japanese troops and a regiment of Cossacks at Fu-chang, about twenty-seven miles northeast of Han-Huang.

RUSSIAN LOAN OUTLOOK POOR.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES
Special Cablegram.

Copyright, 1904, THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—A friend in touch with "la haute finance" of Paris told me to-day that the chances of raising a new Russian loan in Berlin had diminished and added:

"Our finance authorities are afraid failure to obtain money in Berlin would cause Russia once more to knock at our door."

The prospect evidently is not relished here. It was not without difficulty that negotiations for the last loan of 800,000,000f. was brought to a successful issue, and it was no secret that the State finance authorities scarcely looked upon the transaction with favor.

CONTENT NOW IN RUSSIA.

Prosperous Conditions as Noted by an Anonymous Investigator.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 20.—(Tuesday.)—Investigation of the internal conditions of Russia by a traveler who has just returned from an extensive tour of the interior, discloses a much better situation than foreigners generally believe to exist in this country.

The investigator found absolutely no evidence of an impending crisis, but, on the contrary, found special features in the situation making for contentment of the people. The greatest of all these is a wonderful harvest throughout Russia, excepting the three smaller provinces in the south, where drought ruined the crops.

On the Western border, all through the black soil belt, and especially along the Volga, in Southeastern Russia, the bountifulness of the yield is almost unprecedented. The demand for labor is so great and the wages paid are so high that men thrown out of employment in the mills and factories of the cities have returned to their native villages, where they find plenty of work. Bread for all allays discontent in Russia.

It is true that the observer found an intense activity on the part of various revolutionary organizations, especially in the Southwestern provinces. Circulars and proclamations of the most violent character, most of them printed abroad, had been spread broadcast among all classes of the discontented in the hope of taking advantage of the war in the Far East to ferment a revolt.

While it has been noticeable that the war has not been popular with the people, these appearances of disloyalty, especially in the midst of reverses to the Russian arms, are being resented, and, instead of producing the effect desired, have done much to arouse and quicken the patriotic spirit.

HEEDS AMERICA'S PROTEST.

Russia Agrees to Conditional Exemption of Foodstuffs from Seizure.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The State Department had received from Ambassador McCormick a cablegram summarizing the answer of Count Lamsdorff, the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs, to its protest against the seizure by Russian warships of food supplies of American origin carried on neutral ships. It follows generally the lines of the reply to Great Britain.

Count Lamsdorff says that instructions have been sent to the prize courts and naval commanders supplementing and explaining the regulations respecting contraband of war originally issued. The conditional contraband character of articles of dual use is admitted in the new instructions. If articles of dual use are addressed to private individuals in Japan they will not be subject to seizure and confiscation unless such private individuals are shown to be agents or contractors of the military or naval authorities of Japan.

The construction thus placed upon the regulations will firmly establish as a principle of international law the exemption of food stuffs conveyed under the conditions described from seizure, a matter which has not heretofore been one of universal practice. The burden of proof as to the contraband character of the goods is, for the first time, placed squarely upon the naval commanders attempting to make the seizures.

REJECTS BRITAIN'S DEMAND.

Russia Insists Sinking of Knight Commander Was Justified.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—Russia's reply to the British protest on the subject of Russia's interpretation of contraband of war includes a decision to reject the British demand in the case of the British steamer Knight Commander, (sunk by the Vladivostok Squadron off Izu and afterward adjudged a lawful prize.) It is understood that Russia upholds the principle that Admiral Jessen was justified in sinking the steamer.

The British Government is still hopeful of a settlement by means of an indemnity, but in view of the decision of the prize court at Vladivostok it is said that Russia does not see how she can comply with the British demands, as she thereby would recognize her officers to be at fault.

This question will be the subject of further negotiations between the two Governments, the British authorities appreciating the fact that Russia has made a substantial concession in differentiating between conditional and absolute contraband.

NURSE LAUDS JAPANESE.

Mrs. McKee Praises Behavior of Wounded Soldiers in Hospital.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—"The praises of the Japanese soldiers on the field of battle have been sung, but I wish I could sing those of the intrepid fighter as he appears in a hospital bed, wounded and helpless," writes Miss Anita Newcomb McGee, the Washington Red Cross nurse who is caring for wounded Japanese and their prisoners. Mrs. McGee's latest letter reached Philadelphia to-day from Hiroshima.

"No matter from what part of Japan the little soldiers come," she writes, "they are gentlemen. Not once have I heard a quarrel among the men in my division of the hospital. Really, I have begun to love them."

Mrs. McGee does not confine her praises solely to the Japanese, but mentions the fact that while the members of her party were quartered in the Korean town of Yung-am-po the Russians brought them wood from a distance of 100 miles and sawed it at a mill for them before they continued their flight from the pursuing Japanese regiments.

"The Japanese soldiers and officers are not acting as hypocrites in their treatment of captured Russians. The little brown men are perfectly sincere. They are treating their prisoners as they treat their own wounded."

PRESIDENT TO GO IN SYLPH.

Will Leave Yacht for Washington Train at Jersey City.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Sept. 19.—It has been decided that the naval yacht Sylph shall convey President Roosevelt and his family from Sagamore Hill to Jersey City next Thursday, when they start on their return trip to Washington. Heretofore on his trips to and from Washington the President has traveled on a special train between Oyster Bay and Long Island City, he and his party crossing Manhattan in carriages.

The Sylph will arrive in Oyster Bay probably on Wednesday evening or early Thursday. The trip to Jersey City will consume about three hours. At Jersey City the President and his family will be joined by the remainder of the Presidential party, including the clerical force of the Summer Executive offices, and the entire party will take special cars attached to the 1:14 P. M. Pennsylvania train for Washington. It is possible in the event of heavy passenger traffic that the President's cars will be run as a special train. The President is due to arrive in Washington at 6:15 P. M. Thursday.

It is quite likely that when President Roosevelt returns to Oyster Bay in November to cast his vote he will make the trip both coming from and going to Jersey City in the Sylph. He expects to arrive here early on the morning of Election Day, and remain only long enough to deposit his ballot. He will receive the election returns that night in the White House.

The President's visitors to-day included Collector Nevada N. Stranahan and James B. Reynolds. William J. Youngs, United States District Attorney for the Southern District of New York, and William W. Cocks, who was nominated for Congress to-day by the Republicans of the First New York District, made a social call on President Roosevelt to-night.

HAMLIN OUT FOR DOUGLAS.

Withdraws from Democratic Governorship Race in Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—Charles S. Hamlin of this city, who has been mentioned for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Massachusetts, announced to-day that he would not be a candidate, and at the same time pledged his support to William L. Douglas of Brockton. He said:

"From present indications it would seem that the unanimous wish of the party is for the nomination of Mr. Douglas. I rejoice in this choice. Mr. Douglas represents the hopes and the aspirations of Massachusetts manufacturers for extended markets, especially in Canada."

Say Young Man Swindled Architects.

James E. Meek, an architect, with offices at 1,133 Broadway, and living at 15 Madison Square North, accompanied by James McIntosh Lyle, also an architect of 75 Lexington Avenue, complained to the police of the East Thirty-fifth Street Station last night that a young man claiming to be from Port Jervis had been swindling architects and builders all over the city of sums varying from $1 to $5 on the pretext that he was an architect stranded in New York.

MISSING NEWBURG MAN A SUICIDE IN GEORGIA

C. A. Hurd Dead in W. C. T. U. Home at Savannah from Gas.

VANISHED FROM MT. VERNON

Visiting Mother There When He Disappeared—Had Been a Merchant Until Health Failed.

Special to The New York Times.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sept. 19.—Clarence A. Hurd, formerly a merchant of Newburg, N. Y., whose mysterious disappearance from Mount Vernon was reported to the police of that city on Sept. 10, committed suicide at the Women's Christian Temperance Union home here on Saturday night.

Hurd had slept at the home on Tuesday night, and returned Friday night, asking for the same room. This room was occupied, and he inquired particularly if he could get another room with a gas jet in it. He could not be accommodated, and went away.

Saturday night he returned when the room he had occupied Tuesday night was vacant. He went to bed, and on Sunday morning some one noticed an odor of escaping gas. When the door was broken open Hurd was found dead on the bed, with the gas turned on.

In a memorandum book in his pocket was found the addresses of his mother, Mrs. M. J. Hurd of 547 South Eighth Street, Mount Vernon, and other relatives. The relatives were communicated with and the body was shipped to them by express.

MT. VERNON, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Clarence Hurd was thirty-eight years old, and had a wife and children living in Newburg. He was a sufferer from asthma, which compelled him to give up his business there, and he came to Mt. Vernon to visit his mother. On Sept. 10 Mrs. Hurd reported to the police that he was missing. She is at a loss to know how he reached Savannah, as she says he took no money when he went away.

GORMAN'S SON-IN-LAW FAILS.

Brother of Thomas Waggaman Among Stock Broker Johnson's Creditors.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Richard A. Johnson, a stockbroker and son-in-law of Senator Gorman, to-day startled the business community by filing a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. This is Mr. Johnson's second failure, he having been a member of the brokerage firm of Gurley & Johnson, which did a large business until it went under in 1901.

After this failure Mr. Johnson became the Washington representative of E. A. McIntyre & Co., formerly McIntyre & Marshall of New York. He held this connection until Sept. 1, when he closed his office at 1335 F Street and withdrew from active operations in the market. In the interval he has made his home at Laurel, Md., with Senator Gorman. The summary of liabilities attached to the petition shows an indebtedness of $429,457. The assets are said to be $313,485. Of the liabilities $373,457 represent unsecured claims and $56,000 is "accommodation paper."

It is stated in the petition that the liabilities enumerated in the schedules were contracted over three years ago. The schedules disclose a claim of $50,298 against Perre Waggaman, brother of Thomas E. Waggaman, former Treasurer of the Catholic University, whose affairs are now before the local courts in bankruptcy proceedings.

GIRLS SLAY FATHER WITH AXE.

Attack Him While He Is Asleep—Eldest Sixteen Years.

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 19.—The mystery of the murder of C. H. Stuart, the Falls County farmer, who was beheaded with an axe while asleep at his home last Saturday night, has been cleared up by the confession of his two daughters, Willie, aged sixteen years, and Valmer, fourteen, that they committed the deed.

The act seems to have been done in self-defense, or at least the girls were frenzied with the belief that their father was going to kill them. Sheriff Greer, on finding incriminating evidence, accused Valmer, but she stoutly denied all knowledge of the crime. On going around back of the house the Sheriff found Willie weeping violently. He accused her as he had her sister, and she broke down and made a circumstantial confession. Valmer than corroborated her sister's confession. In substance the confessions were:

Stuart had two grown daughters living in Houston, with whom he was on bad terms. He wrote a letter to one of them, and this letter Willie and Valmer got possession of and destroyed. When their father learned of what they had done he became violent and declared he would kill them. When he went to his bed they heard him handling his rifle and ran out of the house carrying the axe with them. When they returned they crept up to the sleeping form of their father and first one and then the other wielded the axe until he was dead. The next morning they gave the alarm throughout the neighborhood that their father had been murdered.

MARLOWE AND SOTHERN OPEN.

First Performance of Actors in "Romeo and Juliet" at Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Considering the conditions under which it was given the presentation of "Romeo and Juliet" by Miss Julia Marlowe and Ed. Sothern at the Illinois Theatre this evening is deserving of praise. It was a painstaking endeavor to present in a dignified and artistic manner one of the classics of the stage. Most of the shortcomings were those incidental to a first performance.

Miss Marlowe delivered the lines of Juliet with dramatic breadth and authority. The potion scene became the climax of the evening because of this, and the friar's speech beginning "Hold thy desperate hand," was an inspiring moment for the same reason. The last scenes for Romeo in the play fell short because Mr. Sothern lent them melodramatic boisterousness or "modern" realistic whininess rather than tragic depth and sincerity.

CLOTHES NEWS OF DROWNING.

Father Taken to Pier to Learn of Son's Fate.

As Policeman Maroney of the East Thirty-fifth Street Station was at First Avenue and Thirtieth Street last evening, two boys, Charles Wilson of 508 First Avenue and George Fox, who lives next door, told him that there was a bundle of boy's clothes on the dock at the foot of the street. Maroney hurried down there with the boys and they at once said, "Why, those are Wolfers's clothes."

The policeman found that the boy whom they meant was Charles Wolfers, eleven years old, of 504 First Avenue. He went to the house and got the boy's father to go to the dock with him. At once the father recognized the clothes as those of his son. He had told his little brother George that he was going down to the river for a swim and had made the boy promise "not to tell" on him. The body has not been recovered.

MRS. EIDLITZ'S BURGLAR.

Woke Her Up and Successfully Hid from Police.

It developed yesterday that Mrs. Charles L. Eidlitz, wife of the President of the Building Trade Employers' Association, had an experience on Sunday with a burglar, who broke into her house, at 341 West Seventy-first Street, and was lucky enough to escape without being seen by any one of half a dozen policemen who searched the house from top to bottom. Mr. Eidlitz has been away for two weeks in St. Louis and returned yesterday.

On Sunday night Mrs. Eidlitz, who was alone in the house, had been asleep less than an hour when she was suddenly aroused by the clanging of the burglar alarm. She jumped out of bed with as little noise as possible and peered under the bedroom door. Every room in the house had been lighted up automatically when the alarm sounded, and beneath the door she saw the outline of two feet. At the same time she heard the floor creak and some one turned the doorknob.

Without saying a word, she slipped into an adjoining room and called Police Headquarters on the telephone. Six stalwart bluecoats responded a few minutes later, and the woman coolly unlocked her door and went down stairs to the front hall to let them in. She piloted the policemen through every part of the house, except the parlor, and when they attempted to look in there Mrs. Eidlitz said it was useless to search that room, as furniture of various kinds was piled against the doors which led to it, and the thief couldn't possibly have found his way in there. Thereupon the policemen gave up the hunt and went away.

Mrs. Eidlitz returned to bed, but was awakened not long afterward by a loud noise in the direction of the parlor. A moment later she heard footsteps and concluded that the burglar was only then making his escape. She ran to the window and saw a large man, wearing a mask, emerge from the front door and run post haste toward West End Avenue. There was not a policeman in sight.

In speaking of the affair yesterday, Mr. Eidlitz said that the thief had evidently concealed himself in the parlor, despite the fact that painters had been at work in the house and most of the furniture was piled up in that room.

"While the search for him was going on," said Mr. Eidlitz, "the intruder seems to have occupied himself by testing several pieces of dining room ware. We found a quantity of spoons to which he had applied acid and discarded, probably because they were not solid silver. So far, not a thing has been found missing. Mrs. Eidlitz in no way blames the police for failing to capture the burglar, inasmuch as they followed her advice not to enter the parlor."

A DIAMOND LABOR WAR.

Strikers Trying to Close Up the Van Dam Shops.

Diamonds are among the commodities now affected by labor troubles, relations being severely strained between employers and workmen in Amsterdam and Antwerp, although it is but a few weeks since a long strike was apparently settled, while the cutters in the New York shop of Edward Van Dam at 101 Beekman Street struck openly for advanced wages three weeks ago. The strikers, he says, are trying, through their union, to tie up his shops in the three cities, where he employs 450 men, and where, since the local trouble trouble developed, he has cut all stones for his American business.

Mr. Van Dam says that men who worked for him for $26 a week two or three years ago had been advanced to $40 a week when they struck for $52. The European trouble, however, is over apprentices. The men returned to work upon an agreement that the Employers' Association should name 150 apprentices to 500 designated by the union. During the strike independent employers gave work to union men and asserted that this agreement was unfair, as it gave them no apprentices.

The union then promised these independents 150 of their own quota of 500 and the employers' association is now making strong protest against this, saying that they had carried on the fight chiefly to get apprentices and will not allow any of the fruits of the conflict to go to their rivals.

WOMAN MORTALLY SHOT.

Self-Defense, Says Prisoner—Stray Bullet Strikes Passer-by.

Believing, he says, according to the police, that Marcelle Dupont of 133 West Twenty-ninth Street was about to draw a revolver on him, Vincenzo Valentina, a barber, living in Sheepshead Bay, drew a revolver whole they were standing on the stoop of the house and shot the woman. She was removed to the New York Hospital, and the physicians say she cannot live.

Valentina was followed by William Rowland, a special officer, who fired two shots in the air. He was captured by Charles Cauldfield, a fireman on the United States battleship Missouri.

Meyer Rosenthal of 127 Ludlow Street, who was standing at the corner of Twenty-ninth Street and Sixth Avenue waiting for a car, was shot in the right shoulder, and the police think the shot came from Rowland's revolver, as only one chamber of the barber's was empty.

SHOT TO DEATH BY HER SON.

Two Brothers in Virginia Accuse Each Other of the Crime.

BRISTOL, Va., Sept. 19.—Mrs. Minerva Greer, a widow fifty years of age, was shot to death by one of her sons at her home near Fort Blackman, Scott County, Va., yesterday afternoon. Each of her two sons, Robert and Grover, declare that the other fired the shot which ended the woman's life.

It is said the boys were drinking and in a room adjoining that occupied by their mother, firing their pistols, when she entered and asked them to stop. One turned his pistol on his mother and sent a ball into her heart, causing death instantly.

NO. 146 FELT 'ARF-AN-'ARF.

Wicked Cabman Got Unsophisticated Comrade's Drink.

"John Hickey is English and but lately came to New York. He drives a cab, which he pulled up at the Hotel Astor last night. Two young men alighted.

"You must be thirsty, John," said one.

"What'll you have to drink?"

"A little 'arf-an'-arf," said John modestly.

As the waiter at the Astor is not English he concluded that arf-and-arf was a new name for whisky and soda. He presently came out with the tray and bawled:

"No. 136!"

"Here!" said he. And he got the drink.

John Hickey doesn't know yet why his drink did not come. Present he said to No. 146:

"Crickey, ain't this 'ot weather! 'Ow do you feel?"

"Me?" chuckled No. 146. "I feel just about 'arf an' 'arf."

"But you got a w'isky an' soda!" said John innocently.

No. 146 wriggled in his seat and coughed and choked. No. 136 knitted his brows and muttered:

"They towld me in Lunnon these Americans was a rummy lot!"

METROPOLITAN ATHLETES MEET

Thirty-one athletic organizations were represented at the annual meeting of the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic Union held at St. Bartholomew's Club, in East Forty-second Street, last night, and there was a lively contest for the various offices. For the fifteen places on the Board of Managers there were twenty-four candidates, and after considerable wire pulling the following were elected: James E. Sullivan, Pastime Athletic Club; Bartow S. Weeks, New York Athletic Club; Thomas Nevins, St. Bartholomew's Athletic Club; H. Obertubessing, New West Side Athletic Club; Thomas F. O'Brien, Warren Athletic Club, Jersey City; F. W. Rubien, St. George's Athletic Club; J. A. Schofield, Brooklyn Athletic Club; W. J. Kelly, Mott Haven Athletic Club; John T. Dooling, Xavier Athletic Association; Daniel Reuss, National Athletic Club, Brooklyn; J. W. Stumpf, Grace Athletic Club; F. L. Gross, Central Y. M. C. A.; E. T. Hart, Mohawk Athletic Club; John Steil, New York Turn Verein, and M. J. Flynn, Star Athletic Club, Long Island City.

James E. Sullivan was re-elected President for his fourteenth consecutive term, with Thomas Nevins Vice President and H. Obertubessing Secretary-Treasurer. The three officers, together with Bartow S. Weeks of the New York Athletic Club, Thomas F. O'Brien of the Warren Athletic Club, and John T. Dooling of the Xavier Athletic Association were elected delegates to the Amateur Athletic Union. Thomas O'Brien was re-elected to the position of the official handicapper to the Metropolitan Association by a vote of twenty-three to eight for A. F. Copeland.

The report of the Treasurer showed a balance of $698.67, of which $213 was carried forward from the previous year. The receipts last year were $878.91 and the expenses $493.57.

John Steil reported on several cases of discipline which had been recently decided, chief of which was that of Isaac Ely of Pennington, N. J., the negro who won the 600-yard novice race on Sept. 4 at the Eccentric Firemen's field day meet at Celtic Park. Ely was entered as a member of the New West Side A. C., and ran a race which the handicapper, Thomas F. O'Brien, concluded at once was the work of a professional. An investigation subsequently by Mr. O'Brien developed the fact that on the day following, Sept. 5, Ely ran at Philadelphia in a professional race for 600 yards under the name of "Stout" of Trenton. Ely has been indefinitely suspended.

CONEY'S OLD AGE HUNT.

Octogenarian to Ride on Mardi Gras Float Criticises the Champagne.

Efforts to find the oldest man and woman residents of the town of Gravesend to appear on the float, "Coney Island's Youth and Old Age," at the Mardi Grass illuminated procession to-morrow night resulted in the final selection yesterday of Mrs. Israel Hubbard, ninety-one years old, and Abraham Emmons, eighty-six years old, at a meeting of the Citizens' Committee on the celebration at the Concourse Hotel.

Thomas Abbott, eighty-four years old, was first chosen, and Mrs. Hubbard and he were brought to the hotel in carriages with Abraham Stillwell, seventy-two years old, historian of the occasion. Old Mr. Emmons soon after walked into the room and showed credentials proving his claim. Messrs. Abbott and Stillwell will ride in an automobile as "The Old Cronies." Champagne was served to the venerable guests as they were about to go home.

"Two sweet, too sweet. Nowhere near hard enough," was Emmons's comment as he sipped. Messrs. Abbott and Stillwell, however, knew what it was and said nothing.

Youth will be represented on the float by James and Joseph Harrington, three and five years old, golden-haired youngsters who dig and delve at will, in overalls and sandals, in sand and soil.

ALL'S WELL IN WHEELING.

Republicans and Democrats Get Government Site for Common Tent.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Acting Secretary Taylor of the Treasury Department has granted a peculiar request as an exception to a standing rule of the department. The Republican and Democratic local Campaign Committees at Wheeling, West Va., chipped in to buy a circus tent in which to hold political meetings. After the tent had been bought it was found that there was no suitable central place on which to erect it.

The committees united in a request to the Secretary of the Treasury to allow them to use a tract of land in the heart of the city which the Government is holding as a site for a Federal building. Usually all such requests are refused, as to grant such a request to one organization or any private party would lead to a multiplication of similar demands on the Government. In the Wheeling case the request was granted because the place had no hall where a political meeting could be held, and the brotherly state of feeling between the committees seemed to be so phenomenal that, as Mr. Taylor says, "It seemed almost sacrilegious to turn 'em down."

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Greater New Yorks Take Lead Early and Beat Washington 4 to 3.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The Greater New Yorks increased their lead for the American League championship by defeating the Washingtons to-day by a score of 4 to 3. It was one of the hardest games the visitors had played this year, for when they seemed to have the game at their mercy in the sixth inning, the local team rallied in the seventh and some sleepy work by Griffith's men gave Washington two runs. All the luck appeared to turn to the home team, and in the next inning Conroy threw Stahl's bunt into the bleachers, putting "Patsy" Donovan's aggregation within a run of the New Yorks. Then Powell disposed of the batters as fast as they came up, striking out the last two in the ninth inning.

Powell was almost invincible up to the seventh inning, but three hits being made off him. The visitors batted Townsend hard in two innings. Keeler's one-handed catch of Townsend's long fly against the fence close to the foul line pole was the best play of the game, and one of the finest seen on the grounds this year. The crowd cheered the little fielder wildly. When the result of the Boston-Philadelphia game was placed on the score board the spectators again cheered, and the New York players joined in the enthusiasm.

The New Yorks scored two runs in the first inning on two baggers by Dougherty and Elberfeld and singles by Williams and Ganzel. Another run was added in the fourth inning on hits by Ganzel, Fultz, and Powell. The fourth run was due to a combination of bases on balls, a force hit, and Williams's steal, which drew a throw from Clark and Elberfeld slid over the plate ahead of the return.

Mullen beat out his hit to first in the seventh inning, and he reached third on Cassidy's hit to right field. Then Donovan placed a high bounder in front of the plate and McGuire, who got the ball, lost his head, thinking Mullen was coming home from third. Donovan reached first on the blunder. On Clark's fly to Dougherty Mullen scored. Townsend hit a grounder to Ganzel and the first baseman quickly threw home, being of the opinion that some one was trying to score. This put another man on the bases. O'Neill hit to Elberfeld, forcing Townsend at second, but Cassidy reached the plate. The last run was made by Stahl on Conroy's bad throw into the crowd. There will be two games to-morrow. The score:

GOLFERS TIE IN MEDAL ROUND.

St. Louis Players Lead in Preliminaries of Olympian Championship.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 19.—St. Louis golfers to-day captured eleven places in the thirty-six-hole qualifying round of the Olympian golf championship, two World's Fair City golfers, Ralph McKittrick and Stuart Stickney of the Country Club, tying at 163 for the gold medal honors. Chicago players, headed by the former Western champion, Walter E. Egan of Exmoor, finished strong in the charmed circle of thirty-two eligible for match play in the first round to-morrow. There were no upsets in the trying qualifying round, all of the men generally picked for match play honors getting in. Play began early in the day, when the links were soggy from a rain, and the greens not nearly as keen as they were when the Olympian team events were decided last week. Seventy-five elected to play, and all but one, C. B. Cory of Boston, finished the double round of thirty-six holes.

National and Western Champion H. Chandler Egan, overgolfed and stale, furnished one of the surprises of the day by totalling 164, just one stroke worse than his cousin, Walter Egan. After a heartbreaking round of 88 in the morning, due to his inability to show his usually brilliant long game, Chandler Egan, in the afternoon, made a gallant effort to overcome his serious handicap, and go after premier qualifying honors. As it was, he totaled 78, which equals the record of amateurs for the course.

D. E. Sawyer, recent runner-up in the Western championship, was apparently out of the running with 90 in the morning, but he gathered 79 for his afternoon work and was well up among the leaders with a score of 169. Three Easterners—W. P. Smith of Huntington Valley, Philadelphia; Allan Lard of Columbia Golf Club, Washington, D. C., and Raymond Havemeyer of Deal Beach, N. J.—just managed to get in, tied at 183 for the last places. The scores of those qualifying for the match play follow:

Stuart Stickney, St. Louis, 81, 82—163; Ralph McKittrick, St. Louis, 81, 82—163; C. A. Newton, Seattle, 80, 84—164; A. N. Stickney, St. Louis, 84, 81—165; Walter E. Egan, Exmoor, 80, 85—165; F. M. E. Phelps, Midlothian, 86, 80—166; H. C. Egan, Exmoor, 88, 78—166; A. B. Lambert, Glen Echo, 86, 82—168; D. E. Sawyer, Wheaton, 90, 79—169; George Lyon, Toronto, Canada, 84, 85—169; W. K. Wood, Homewood, 84, 87—170; B. P. McKinnie, Normandie, 86, 84—170; D. Cadwallader, Springfield, 88, 82—170; R. E. Hunter, Midlothian, 87, 84—171; H. Potter, St. Louis, 87, 86—173; Simpson Foulis, Wheaton, 89, 85—174; J. Carleton, Glen Echo, 92, 82—174; Harold Weber, Toledo, 88, 86—174; O. W. Jones, Toledo, 85, 94—177; N. F. Moore, Lake Geneva, 87, 90—177; S. T. Price, Jr., Glen Echo, 92—177; C. E. Smoot, Exmoor, 91, 87—178; A. Havemeyer, Deal Beach, 88, 90—178; H. W. Allen, St. Louis Field, 93, 85—178; E. M. Cumming, Exmoor, 88, 91—179; Fred Semple, St. Louis Field, 89, 91—180; J. D. Cady, Rock Island, 93, 88—182; A. C. Vickery, Glen Echo, 92, 90—182; H. W. Fraser, Toledo, 90, 92—183; W. P. COLUMBIA'S 'VARSITY SCORED ON THE SCRUB

First Practices of the Leading Eastern Football Teams.

DE WITT COACHING PRINCETON

Calls for Candidates at Yale, Cornell, and Annapolis—A New Coach for the Fordham Eleven.

Columbia's football team had its first scrimmage practice of the year yesterday in which the 'Varsity in ten minutes' hard work scored one touch-down. Had it not been for a fumble, the first eleven would have tallied again.

The practice, considering it was the first of its kind, was very hard, and Coach Morley, despite the warm weather, did not spare his men. The offense of both the senior and the scrub teams was good, but the defense on both sides was lamentably weak, and whichever eleven had the ball seemed able to gain almost at will. It was to the defense that Morley paid most of his attention, and the line men gave him considerable cause for hard coaching. The first time the team carried the ball across the subs' line Duell dropped it and Leslie fell on it, scoring a touch-back for the scrub. The second eleven, on the resumption of play, carried the leather about 25 yards, when the 'Varsity got it on downs, and then advanced the pigskin until Fisher, pulled by Thorpe, was forced over the line for the single score.

The first eleven was not as strong as it will be later in the week, as several of the best men were absent taking examinations. Among these were Smith, Frambach, Sedgewick, Browne, and Stephenson. Eight more men reported for practice yesterday. They were Griswold, formerly of Amherst; Burch, a sophomore; Heinz of the Pittsburg High School, Schulz and Boyle of last year's squad, Buell, end part of last season; Duell, 'Varsity half back last Fall, and Jessop, a new man. The line-up of the two teams was:

'Varsity.	Position.	Scrub.
Echeverria	Left guard	Boyle
Finnegan	Centre	Talbot
Stangland	Right guard	Wallace
Thorpe	Right tackle	Putnam
Buell	Right end	Griswold
Donovan	Quarter back	Burch
Duell	Left half back	Martin
Metzenthin	Right half back	Lindow
Fisher	Full back	Starbuck

Some excitement was created when a boy stole two of the eleven's brand new football during the practice, and was promptly chased by Morley and Harold Weekes, Columbia's famous half back, who was helping to coach. The boy proved elusive, and neither Weekes nor Morley was able to catch him, so he got off with his spoils.

The first practice of Princeton's football team was held under favorable conditions. In answer to Capt. Walter Foulke's call, thirty-six men reported in their suits, and were given thirty minutes of hard work. John De Witt, Captain of the 1903 championship eleven, took charge of the coaching, and was assisted in the work by Coach Holt and ex-Capt. Davis. After the usual preliminaries the candidates were divided into four squads and instructed in falling on the ball and passing the leather. The ends were tried out, while Bard and King punted. The former showed fine fettle, and promises to be one of the best punters at Princeton this season. The first day's work was concluded when De Witt selected two teams and tested their ability in starting under a kick. Ten of the veterans were in harness yesterday, but a larger delegation is expected Thursday, when a general call will be issued and the freshmen will report.

Although several members of the Yale football squad have been in New Haven for some time, and Capt. Hogan and a few men occasionally have been engaged in the lightest kind of practice, the first gathering of the squad as a whole took place yesterday afternoon at the Yale field, when twenty-three men reported to Capt. Hogan. Failing on the ball, catching punts, and other forms of early-season work were indulged in, Field Coach Rafferty and Capt. Hogan taking charge. The only veterans that reported yesterday were Rockwell, Hogan, Bowman, and Roraback. Bloomer, Shevlin, and other members of last year's team will report later in the week.

It is said at New Haven that Shevlin will be played at full back this year if the scheme is at all feasible.

Thirty-three candidates reported to head coach Glenn S. Warner for Cornell's first day of football practice. Four members of last year's eleven were on the field and three others are expected within a few days. The rest of the candidates were new men, and, as a rule, are promising material. Contrary to the custom of former Cornell coaches, Coach Warner immediately made the men up into elevens and ran them through signals. Later in the afternoon he instructed each eleven in one or two delayed pass formations which the men worked well under his direction. These members of last year's team will be candidates for positions this Fall: Capt. Lynah, Forgey, Schoelkopf, Halliday, Peterson, Bird, Rice, and Costello.

It has been found impossible to adhere rigidly to the system of non-professional coaches at the Naval Academy as had been intended, owing to the fact that little success has been achieved in having former stars who are now naval officers detailed to the academy. Olcott, last year's Yale centre, has been engaged to assist Prof. Paul J. Dashiell with the candidates and was on the field yesterday. Prof. Dashiell will however remain as head coach.

Fred Smith, the ex-Princeton player, will this season coach the Fordham eleven, and has begun his duties with the thirty candidates who reported several days ago. It is expected that Capt. Plunkett of last year's team will return to college. This will make the eleven stronger than at first anticipated, as the only losses from last year are Reching, end; Guthrie and Morgan, half backs.

ANOTHER HALIFAX BLAZE.

Starts Twice in One Day and Does $200,000 Damage.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 19.—Following close upon the half-million-dollar blaze of last Thursday, fire started again at 12:45 this morning on Black's Wharf, about a quarter of a mile north of the scene of last week's blaze. In the Black warehouse were large quantities of pitch, tar, and ship's stores, which proved such good food for the flames that the firemen were overwhelmed. They were compelled to retreat all the more quickly on account of powder and chemicals in the warehouse, which caused a number of explosions. There was considerable dynamite on the wharf, but it was thrown overboard in time.

The flames were thought to be under control at 3 o'clock, but, unknown to the firemen, the blaze worked its way through an elevator well and burst out with renewed and greater vigor in a new stone warehouse and new stone office building fronting on Water Street, and owned by Pickford & Black, the steamship agents. Half a dozen wooden shops and warehouses were destroyed besides, and the loss is estimated at $200,000.

The Fire Department was assisted by the soldiers from the garrison, and the flames were fully under control this afternoon. There is a theory that the blaze may have been of incendiary origin, as there had been no fire in the buildings on the wharves for twenty-four hours preceding the time when the flames were discovered.

ATTACK ON PRIEST, "BLACK HAND'S" ENEMY

Father Cigalaino Fought Assailant, but Was Injured.

HIS OWN NEPHEW ARRESTED

Man Was Chased Into the Woods—Port Chester Shoemaker Attacked at the Same Time.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT CHESTER, Sept. 19.—Father Cenozo Cigalaino, who is in charge of the Italian missionary work in Port Chester and who has been active in efforts to stamp out the "black hand" letter writers and blackmailers here, was assaulted and knocked unconscious on North Street late Sunday night.

The priest was returning from a missionary meeting, and was near the residence of John E. Parsons, the New York lawyer, when a man jumped out from behind a tree and said, "I want $35 or your life."

"I haven't $35," said the priest, "but I suppose you can have my life."

With this Father Cigalaino jumped for the highwayman, who struck him over the head and knocked him unconscious. While the priest was on the ground he received several more blows upon the head. Two Italians then happened along and they chased the priest's assailant into the woods, where he escaped.

About the same time that Father Cigalaino was assaulted Frank Morrow, a shoemaker living in Mill Street, who has received several letters of late demanding money and signed "Agent of the Black Hand Society," was attacked in his yard. His face was slashed with a razor. Morrow's assailant struck for his throat with the razor, but missed. The razor cut from the shoemaker's right temple to the tip of his chin, and the doctor took eighteen stitches in the wound. Fortunato Nessina, another shoemaker, who runs a shop directly opposite Morrow's, who is a companion of Urbano Alletti, Father Cigalaino's nephew, has been arrested charged with the assault. He has nothing to say.

The priest's nephew, Alletti, has been arrested, charged with assault. It is said that the priest accuses Alletti of being his assailant.

ARCHBISHOP AT RECEPTION.

British Primate Takes Part in a Public Function at Bar Harbor.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Sept. 19.—The Archbishop of Canterbury attended a reception this afternoon at the parish grounds of St. Savior's Church. This was the first public reception in which he has participated since his arrival in the United States, and he seemed to enjoy the occasion greatly. Several hundred persons were presented to him. The canopy under which the Archbishop and Bishop Codman of Maine stood was adorned with the American and British flags.

This evening Archbishop and Mrs. Davidson dined with Mr. and Mrs. John S. Kennedy of New York at their cottage.

DOWN WITH STAGE IRISHMEN!

Ancient Order of Hibernians Won't Have Compatriots Ridiculed.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 19.—At a meeting of the Ancient Order of Hibernians held in this city last night a boycott was unanimously declared upon all theatres and music halls where the Irishman is held up to ridicule on the stage.

All the societies of Passaic County were in session when the resolution was passed. This action is in accordance with that taken by the National Convention. The prohibition extends to relatives and friends of members, and is part of an organized movement for the abolition of the stage Irishman.

CAT ESCAPES WATERY GRAVE.

But Will Have to Live in Police Boat's Forecastle Because of Jealousy.

Capt. Dean of the harbor police was congratulating himself last night over the rescue of a big black cat by a crew of his men. He added the feline to the crew of the police boat Patrol as a mascot. It was shortly after the dinner hour yesterday when Roundsman Harry Dolbert and Policemen Robinson and Van Tassel, who had been up the North River on patrol, went to Pier A, at the Battery, in their rowboat.

Dolbert saw the cat clinging to the rudder of the steamboat J. S. Warden, which was moored at Pier 1. Already eight of its lives had

GIVE THE CONVENTION A CHANCE.

The last Democratic Governor elected in the State of New York was ROSWELL P. FLOWER. He was a very popular Democrat, and was the real choice of the convention that nominated him. No boss helped him very much. He was elected Governor by 48,000 plurality over Mr. FASSETT.

In 1894, a hopeless year for the Democrats, Tammany, with a fiendish and most unbecoming joy, forced DAVID B. HILL to become the candidate of the party. He was beaten by Mr. MORTON.

In 1896, when everything went to pieces, Mr. JOHN BOYD THACHER refused the Bryanite nomination and Mr. PORTER, who succeeded to the fatal honor, was beaten by FRANK S. BLACK.

In 1898 Mr. CROKER nominated Judge AUGUSTUS VAN WYCK, who was beaten by Mr. ROOSEVELT.

In 1900 Mr. CROKER and other enemies of HILL made Mr. STANCHFIELD, who was HILL'S friend and protégé, the nominee in order to prevent the naming of COLER, who was HILL'S candidate that year. Mr. STANCHFIELD was beaten by Mr. ODELL.

In 1902 Mr. HILL, with an obstinacy and foolishness for which nobody has been able to account, forced the nomination of Mr. COLER when it seemed that almost any other Democrat could have beaten Gov. ODELL. Mr. COLER did not beat him.

For ten years the Democracy has had boss-made and machine-made candidates. Not one of them has been elected. Wouldn't it be a good plan to let the delegates to the convention that assembles at Saratoga to-day deliberate among themselves and really take counsel with one another in order that they may, in the light of wisdom and good judgment, choose the strongest candidate to put before the people in opposition to Mr. ODELL'S candidate? Saratoga dispatches give great prominence to the name of Mr. SHEPARD. Let the convention examine and re-examine the qualifications of Mr. SHEPARD. If the delegates can find a better candidate, by all means let them choose him. But let them not fall below the standard of fitness which his name presents.

THE POLICY OF EXCLUSION.

The bulletins that issue at short intervals from the Bureau of Statistics at Washington might be entitled "Crumbs of Comfort for Convinced Protectionists." The Bureau has been worked overtime during the campaign, but its zeal never flags. The latest fruit of its statistical labors is a comparison of the exports of manufactures of the United States, Germany, the United Kingdom, and France. In tabular form it makes this showing:

	1880.	1903.	Increase.
U. S.	$102,856,015	$452,445,629	$349,589,614
Germany	460,000,000	780,000,000	320,000,000
United Kingdom	964,000,000	1,142,000,000	178,000,000
France	339,000,000	405,000,000	65,000,000

This works well. In this twenty-four-year period exports of manufactures from the United States appear to have increased nearly 340 per cent., against 69 per cent. increase for Germany, 20 per cent. for France, and 18 per cent. for the United Kingdom. In our exports of "manufactures," however, we include copper and refined mineral oils. Neither is a "manufacture" in the sense that agricultural machinery, iron and steel, and boots and shoes are manufactures. They are products of the mines or wells slightly changed by manufacturing processes. Our exports of mineral oils and copper in 1880 were $35,084,873, and in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1904, they were $128,895,500. It will be seen, therefore, that $93,810,627 of our increase in manufactures is due to these two products of the mines. The increase in exports of American manufactures exclusive of mineral oils and copper from 1880 to 1904 was only $255,778,987, or a little over $10,500,000 per year. This rate of increase is less than that of Germany. Yet protectionists boast without ceasing of the enormous and rapid expansion of our export trade in manufactured products. They quote the percentage of increase from 1880, when we had hardly begun to export manufactures at all, and roll their eyes to heaven in wonder at the miraculous achievements of our industries under the Republican policy of protection. Economists with a larger view see in the figures put out by the Bureau of Statistics an occasion for no little concern rather than an occasion for exulting. We have a positive genius for the manufacturing business; we have the varied resources of a vast continent; we have the most productive and best ing field. Yet, excluding oil and copper, Germany is increasing faster than we are in her exports of manufactures, and the United Kingdom, whose resources have been much longer under development, has been increasing almost as fast.

There is no trouble about making the goods—the productive capacity of our factories is vastly greater than the demand of the home market. The trouble is in selling them abroad. Somehow we do not get into the foreign market. The foreign purchaser eludes us. There is nothing strange about it. How can we expect to gain customers in countries of which we refuse to buy? How can we expect to sell goods in competition with foreign manufacturers who, not being burdened by duties on their raw materials, can in general undersell us? The trouble with our exports in manufactures is that we are still given over to the policy of exclusiveness. The Republican Party will stick to that policy until American manufacturing interests get their eyes open and demand a change. Then the Republicans will revise the tariff, and the poor, blind, stumbling Democracy will grope a dozen years before it will find another issue on which it might win.

JAPAN AS A "WORLD POWER."

The question of what will be the influence and the relations of Japan in the future with the European Powers is exciting the perplexed interest of the statesmen and the press in more than one country.

That Japan will emerge from this war practically victorious, that is, that she will be able completely to resist the aggressions of Russia against which she took arms, is not doubted apparently even in France or in Germany, where the desire to make the best of the Russian situation is strong. If she does so emerge she will instantly take her place as a fighting Power extremely formidable within the range of possible military and naval operations. She will be entitled to a voice and she may claim a controlling voice in the settlement of almost any question that shall arise in the Eastern seas. No nation, for instance, would care to try to take possession of any part of China, of Siam, of important points in the Eastern Archipelago without her assent. This means that she must be counted with in the territorial ambitions of France, of Germany, and of Russia. As to her own influence in China, it will necessarily be intimate and may be dominating. Probably she will limit its exercise to strengthening and improving the Chinese Government and to opening China more and more to the trade of the world. It does not appear that she will find any advantage in actual occupation, but she will make the most of Chinese markets. If she adheres to the principle of the integrity of China and the open door to commerce, the gain she will secure for herself will be also a gain for the rest of the world.

But there is another need of which she is conscious, that of expansion for her teeming population. For that she may claim Korea with entire propriety, and no one will say her nay. She may, however, no longer be content to suffer patiently the injurious and insulting exclusion laws which have been heretofore enforced against Japanese immigrants in most countries of the Occident having possessions in the East. That may introduce an element into the relations of Japan to the Powers of Europe, and even to the United States, which it will not be easy to deal with. In the recent past Japan has been most courteous in her dealings with other nations. Should she become resentful or angry, there are many points of contact with the West at which she could make infinite trouble. It would be interesting if the first mission of this "pagan" Power were to enforce decent equity upon the "Christian" Governments.

RETURN OF THE BATTLESHIPS.

Although the North Atlantic fleet of our navy arrived in United States waters some time ago, the officers and men were not able to feel that the traditional towline, by which sweethearts and wives pull back the stoutest warships when the "homeward bound" pennant is hoisted in foreign seas, had wholly ceased to draw until the chains rattled out of the hawse pipes off New York. While our seamen and marines are recruited from almost every State in the Union there is a large cosmopolitanism in their way of looking at life, and not till they mingle with the crowds on Broadway do they feel that they are really "at home." Now that they are returned, their neat uniforms are seen in numbers in our streets, and the orderly conduct of both seamen and marines shows how entirely they are to be trusted. The old-time theory that existed in the navy prior to the weeding out of the 80 per cent. foreign element among the enlisted men was that no self-respecting Jack Tar would remain sober any longer than was necessary to hoist aboard sufficient liquor to make him drunk. With an almost entirely American complement in our ships of war we have changed all that; and the exceptional case of intoxication on shore only proves the rule of sobriety.

As the cruise just completed by Rear Admiral BARKER'S squadron was the first one in which United States battleships in fleet have visited European ports it marks a possibly important event in our naval history—not because of anything that was done, but because of the influence that such a tour may have upon the people of the countries visited. While naval men everywhere have known, of course, that the battleships of our navy were at least equal to those of any other the newspapers and population of Southern Europe. No one wishes or expects these fine specimens of our "first line of defense" to go abroad with less peaceful purpose than that which governed their movements this Summer; but it is just as well that the world should have ocular demonstration of the fact that the United States has some very powerful battleships and that they can reach any port in the world where their presence may be desirable.

In the cyclone that swept the Atlantic coast a few days ago the vessels of the fleet showed that they have all the qualities necessary to withstand the stormiest winds that blow. This experience was particularly valuable as proving that the comparatively low freeboard given to some of our heaviest armor-clad craft does not make them unseaworthy. Many other professional problems have been investigated on this Summer's long voyage; but so far it has not developed anything radically or seriously objectionable in the build or equipment of the ships.

The plan of the Navy Department recently adopted is to create a North Atlantic fleet composed of eight battleships for fleet manoeuvres; and, when this group is assembled under one Commander in Chief—probably this Winter—it will be possible to have naval evolutions on a scale such as would exist in battle, in case a foreign fleet should ever come to our shores on a hostile errand. It is generally conceded that the day of the individual duel at sea is past; the future calls for the work of fleet against fleet.

One of the interesting results of the exercises of Admiral BARKER'S squadron has been the target practice with the main batteries, in which, by night as well as by day, it was found that the "man behind the gun" has not lost the skill that has always characterized the gunpointers of our navy.

RECIPROCITY LOOKING UP.

No one would have expected a couple of months ago when Senator LODGE turned down the movement for a reciprocity plank in the Massachusetts State Convention on the ground that it was an insult to the leaders of the party in the Nation that candidates for a Congressional nomination would, before the nomination was made, be quarreling as to which one is most in earnest in supporting reciprocity. But that is the case in the Twelfth District.

One of the aspirants for the nomination, Senator BEMIS of Foxborough, has challenged his rival, ex-Mayor WEEKS of Newton, to a public debate on the subject, while another aspirant, an avowed advocate of reciprocity, Mr. LOUIS A. COOK of South Weymouth, offers to enter the lists with Mr. BEMIS, and Mr. OSBORNE HOWES, who may be the Democratic candidate, asks to be admitted to the discussion. Meanwhile Mr. POWERS, the retiring Congressman, has issued a strong argument in favor of the adoption of the resolution of the Committee of One Hundred of the Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce urging liberal reciprocity. He says that "the welfare of the industrial interests of Massachusetts as well as the continued success of the Republican Party" demand that policy. This is plain talk. It amounts to saying that the policy of the Republican Party as stated in its National platform is so directly opposed to the industrial welfare of Massachusetts that the party cannot continue successful in that State unless the policy is reversed. And this despite the President's solemn declaration that "good Americans should refuse to change the National policy."

BUILDING HERE AND ELSEWHERE.

The thoughtful mechanic who is standing on the street corner with idle hands in empty pockets looking at the fronts of unfinished buildings and wondering how he is to meet his Winter expenses is not likely to find much comfort in the figures presented in the quarterly Bulletin of the State Department of Labor at Albany, which was printed in our news columns yesterday. The generally favorable returns as to the increased employment for labor throughout New York State are due to the fact that in most cities of the State building operations are especially active. They would be so here if the unions permitted. The plans filed with the Building Department and Tenement House Department of New York call for larger investments of capital in building operations than have ever been made in any year except 1901, but they are being undertaken only to a limited extent, and largely with non-union labor. It is nearing the season when no new buildings will be started, and should the tie-up now be called off by the abandonment of the unions of their opposition to the 1903 scheme of arbitration many of the trades connected with building would have but little to do until Spring. Will the largest possible harvest of benefits to the unions repay the cost of the seed planted in the long tie-up of the present year, following close upon that of last year? Many wage earners think not.

THE ENGLISH TRADES UNIONISTS.

Two interesting points appear in the proceedings of the recent Trades Union Congress in England. One is the decided opposition of the delegates, almost without exception, to the policy of Mr. CHAMBERLAIN or any other tainted with the same purpose, and the other is the rejection of the Australian policy of compulsory arbitration.

The opposition to Chamberlainism was expressly based on the argument that any form of protection would tend to restrict the market for labor and to increase the cost of living. There were but few of the delegates who avowed any confidence in the pretension of the Eng- arbitration seems to have been based on the inference that the unions could do better in free collective bargaining with employers than by resort to any tribunal that could be selected, and also on the view that such arbitration would involve responsibilities which the unions are not yet ready to assume.

FRENZIED FINANCIAL LITERATURE.

Mr. THOMAS W. LAWSON has a vocabulary of which he seems extremely proud. Considered simply as a vocabulary it is doubtless something to be proud of. But it can be overworked, and is.

Mr. LAWSON conveys the impression that he is ever hovering on the verge of terrible revelations, but somehow he does not quite reach the point of readiness to tell what he thinks he knows. His attack upon the Boston Stock Exchange is a case in point. If he has warrant for the accusation of practices designed to defraud the public by "wash" sales and false quotations, and feels called upon to make this knowledge public, he could accomplish great good by telling the plain truth in plain language. To merely threaten to insert under the corner of the Stock Exchange, immediately beneath the Governing Committee's room, a dynamite cartridge which, in exploding, will blow the whole institution seventeen miles higher than the top of Mount Washington, is characteristic, but not especially useful to those who might thereby be saved from indiscreet investments. Such threats have ceased to be impressive. The reader laughs, remarks that LAWSON is at large again, and straightway forgets all about him and what he has said. Not along such lines is the work of the reformer accomplished.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

—Up in Rochester, this State, the citizens who expect a Mayor to be something more than a politician, and those who, when they see one who works for the city's interests instead of for the interests of a local "machine," recognize in him a man to be commended, have come to the conclusion that—well, that they showed sound judgment last Fall when they elected JAMES G. CUTLER to serve them as Chief Magistrate. At the time a good many people had their doubts, since Mr. CUTLER was respected rather than popular in Rochester and his manner was not that supposed—for few reasons or none—to be most effective in winning votes. However, when he took office in January it was noticed that his first message to the Common Council consisted mostly of an enumeration of things that needed doing for the protection or improvement of the city, and the rest of it announced the intention of doing them as rapidly as circumstances would permit. This was a programme not exactly novel, but at least unusual is the fact that not only did the new Mayor set seriously about the execution of his plans, but he has developed enough control of circumstances—including the Common Council and the other city officials—to get done many of the things that needed doing and to get many of the others at least well started toward completion. The list of his accomplishments is already a long one, and not particularly interesting in its details except to Rochesterians, since it includes nothing unprecedented or sensational, but it covers all such important matters of municipal housekeeping as the Police and Fire Departments, the system of city accounting, park roads and public playgrounds, collection of back taxes, a new market and a new arsenal, and the relations between the city and public service corporations. It is stated that the expense involved in these improvements has been in great part met "by the use of revenue other than taxes and by a judicious conversion of assets." That is not quite easy to understand, but, anyhow, notwithstanding the large amount of work undertaken by the city, this year's tax levy exceeds the last by only 50 cents per thousand dollars of valuation, and is less than the rate for several previous years—which is no doubt consoling to the taxpayers. Mayor CUTLER was elected as a Republican, but a good many, even of his political opponents, admit that his party affiliations have not appreciably influenced his official actions, but that he has attended to the city's business on strictly business principles. That being the case, and we are credibly informed that it is, perhaps we should withdraw the assertion that there has been nothing sensational in Mayor CUTLER'S brief career.

—Among the many professional and trade papers that come to this office, few of them of real authority in their special fields contain so much of immediate interest to readers whose view of those fields is distant as does The Electrical Review. Of course there is a lot in The Review that is more or less unintelligible to all except the practical electrician who is also a scientist, and more that is pretty gritty provender to the layman, but electricity comes very close to almost all of us nowadays in half a hundred forms of utilization, so that most of us are amateur electricians more or less, and The Review, beyond most papers of its class—whether by intention or not, we would not attempt to decide—takes pains to publish matter which—well, which has supplied for this column not a few paragraphs that contained nice long quotations. With entire sincerity, therefore, and a keen sense of labor-saving favors still to come, we can rejoice to see that our learned neighbor, under the pleasing compulsion of prosperity, has just been forced for the second time in three years to increase the number of its already numerous pages and to enlarge its editorial and mechanical facilities. It is a well-written and well-illustrated publication, and we, at least, have never noticed that its occasional recognitions of the limitations of ordinary mortals has at all diminished its scientific accuracy or its professional value. Perhaps there are a few electrical papers that we ought to like better, but there is none that we do.

—Prince RADZIWILL'S account of conditions in and around Port Arthur is one that somehow carries conviction of the truth of all its essential details, and one remembers that he is a Russian official only when he declares that his beleaguered countrymen are still well supplied with food and ammunition. Not at all incredible is his declaration that the besieged and the besiegers alike have forgotten all the ordinary amenities of war, and that both are now fiercely trying to increase its necessary horrors for each other. We know that both the Japanese and the Russians are capable of showing humanity to an armed foe—when the foe has surrendered or is unable to fight longer. Stories of that kind have come from both sides, and both have maintained the accustomed means of communication between two opposed armies. At Port Arthur, however, Prince RADZIWILL says that all this has been dropped—that each of the forces has been content to reduce the struggle to a mere attempt to kill in any and every convenient way. As a result, the dead that lie in the marked by the slaughter of mediæval ruthlessness. This exaggeration of savagery, if it exists, is doubtless due to the long-continued irritation of temper produced by the frightful hardships endured within and without the fortifications. The battle was long at Liao-Yang, but it was counted by days, while at Port Arthur there has been almost constant fighting of the severest sort for months. This, between races so far apart in every element of character as the Japanese and the Russians, would inevitably create the bitterness of personal hatred that is often lacking in the course of ordinary warfare. Something like it developed between whites and Indians in our own Colonial days, when, if the Indians began the atrocities, they certainly were not alone in committing them. It is safe to assume that the Japanese officers will do their desperate best to prevent the indiscriminate butchery which the Russians apprehend at the fall of the city, for they fully understand the effect which such a crime would have upon their national reputation, and probably upon the ultimate consequences of the war.

—It would be interesting to know, first, exactly by whom the Dalai Lama has been "deposed," and, second, if the act was that of Buddhists, Tibetan or Chinese, the nature of the arguments by which, while retaining their ancient beliefs, they try to defend it. For, nominally and by vehement asseveration, the Dalai Lama is not chosen or elected; he is simply recognized as incorporating—that is, being, the deity. The recognition is by plain signs and personal peculiarities held to be conclusive proof of the incarnation, and what any political mistakes he may make have to do with the matter is beyond comprehension—or ought to be for those who were his subjects. They are saying, presumably, that he wasn't really the Dalai Lama, and, again presumably, they will at once look for and find another more to their minds, but for a logician they have overthrown their whole system of theology.

MR. SHEPARD'S COURTESY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There is no aloofness about Edward M. Shepard, if some may think that. I will tell you an incident that ought to make him interesting to all young men. When I came to New York four years ago I had the bee in my head that I was needed to transform politics. Accordingly I called on Richard Croker for his advice how to grow up with the political element. His replies consisted of a series of low grunts and impudent questionings as to who I was.

I called next on Edward M. Shepard in his office in the old building next to Trinity Church. He was very busy, I was told, yet he dropped everything and gave me fully ten minutes of his time. He expressed himself freely, and advised me to connect myself with the better element in my ward, &c. Great was my surprise next day to receive a note from him written out in long hand, urging me to attend a certain club meeting in Brooklyn that night.

A busy man like him who can take personal interest in strange young men reveals not only wide sympathies, but a co-ordination of daily functions which would be an ideal trait in a Governor. G. L. R.

THE BEST SINCE TILDEN.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If the Democrats desire to carry the State of New York they should nominate Mr. Edward M. Shepard. I was glad to see from your report that his nomination is probable, as it would insure the success of the National ticket, and because Mr. Shepard would make the best Governor we have had since the time of Samuel J. Tilden. LOUIS WINDMULLER.

WHERE JEROME IS STRONG.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Thousands of up-State Democrats and a host of up-State Republicans are eagerly hoping for the nomination of William Travers Jerome for Governor by the Democratic State Convention. The view that Mr. Jerome would not run well in the rural districts is not shared by those who are in touch with the voters of such sections.

The great majority of Central New York Democrats want Jerome and no other for Governor. They desire his nomination because they are anxious to see Judge Parker carry New York, and believe Jerome's candidacy will vitally aid in that result.

The Republicans of Central New York who are not mere followers of the party machine are for Jerome. They believe he is honest. They think the building of a one thousand-ton barge canal at the cost of $100,000,000 would be safer in his hands than in any others. They are eager to hear him flay Odellism on the stump, and believe he is the man to conduct a genuine house-cleaning at Albany.

That the overwhelming sentiment of this region is for Jerome is based upon interviews by the writer with hundreds of persons during the past two weeks as to their views of the political situation in the State. There was an 80 per cent. sentiment among the Democrats talked with for Jerome while scattering favor was found for Shepard, McClellan, Stanchfield, and Grout. Aside from Jerome, Lamont is the most popular choice in Central New York.

Where Girls Don't Wear Hats.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a story headed "Likes the Girls Without Their Hats," which you reprinted from The Washington Post, Mr. Samuel Golbey of London says that, though he has been all over the civilized world, he never saw girls walking in the streets in the evening without their hats until he came to America. Had he visited the beautiful City of Santiago de Chile and gone there to the "Alameda," he would have seen nightly hundreds and hundreds of young ladies walking and listening to magnificent band concerts, or had he gone to Lima, Peru, to the Plaza de Armas, he would have seen thousands of young or old people sitting or walking about, listening to the fine music, partaking of refreshments, or flirting with the gilded youth, and all without hats. The same practice holds good in every large capital of Mexico and Central and South America—in fact, it is a custom from time immemorial.

THE COST OF CLOTHES

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Tariff act provides that on clothing and articles of wearing apparel of every description, whether knitted or woven, whether composed wholly or in part of wool, the duty per pound shall be four times the duty imposed on one pound of unwashed wool of the first class, and in addition thereto 60 per centum ad valorem.

The following are the rates of duty now exacted on clothing and wearing apparel, composed wholly or in part of wool: Hats, caps, coats, waistcoats, trousers, underwear, shirts, socks, stockings, gloves and mittens, necktie, &c., 44 cents a pound, and in addition thereto 60 per centum.

Upon cloths or knit fabrics in the piece made wholly or in part of wool, valued at not more than 40 cents a pound, the duty is three times the duty imposed on a pound of unwashed wool of the first class. On fabrics valued at above 40 cents a pound and at not above 70 cents, the duty is four times that charged on one pound of unwashed wool of the first class. In addition thereto upon all the foregoing, 50 per centum ad valorem is charged, and so on, as the value of the cloth increases.

The duty on unwashed wool of the first class is 11 cents a pound, on the second class 12 cents, on the third class, the value whereof shall be 12 cents or less a pound, the duty is 4 cents a pound, and if the value exceeds 12 cents, the duty is 7 cents a pound.

Unwashed wool is wool in its natural condition from the sheep, without cleansing. If these wools are imported washed, the duty is twice as much; if scoured, three times as much. Yet wool is a raw material, and we do not produce enough to supply our manufacturers. In this climate clothing is a necessity. From Aug. 28, 1894, to July 24, 1897, clothing was free of duty under the Tariff act of 1894, known as the Wilson law. It was made dutiable under the Dingley act of 1897, as above stated. Under the McKinley act it was dutiable from Oct. 1, 1890, to Aug. 28, 1894, at about the same rates.

The duty on clothing and articles of wearing apparel made of cotton, linen, or other vegetable fibres, is about 50 per centum.

In articles of both woolen and cotton, the lower the value the higher the rate of duty—in some of the cheaper articles of wearing apparel and goods the duties are over 100 per cent. It is a feature of the present protective tariff act that all of the absolute necessaries of life are dutiable, showing it to be so contrived that a man cannot live and escape paying tribute to the special class whom protectionism was made to benefit.

President Harrison said a cheap coat made a cheap man. But he was not re-elected after making this statement. President Roosevelt's present Secretary of the Treasury said recently that high prices were a blessing, nevertheless the great masses of the people want to get their clothing at as low a price as possible.

This story is told of Speaker Cannon: Last November his daughter, who looks after his home, informed him that he needed a new Winter overcoat, his then Winter garment looking worn and shabby. Mr. Cannon replied it would do another Winter, that the tailors wanted too much for an overcoat, and that anyhow he would not pay more than forty dollars for one. Thereat his daughter went to a tailor, who told her he could not make an overcoat of good woolen cloth for less than $65. She said her father would not pay more than $40. The tailor replied that the duties made it high; that they almost doubled the cost of the cloth, and he could not make the overcoat for less. She decided to bring in her father. "And you tell him," she enjoined the tailor, "that you will make the overcoat for $40, and I will pay you the other $25." The programme was carried out, and when the overcoat was made Mr. Cannon paid $40 for it; his daughter paid the $25 additional.

Speaker Cannon is one of the high priests of protectionism. In his speech as Chairman of the Republican National Committee, and in his notification speech to Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Cannon dwelt on the blessings of protection.

The protectionists are willing to pass laws to make other men pay $5, $10, $15, and $25 more for their coats than they should, but they do not want to do it themselves. FAIR TRADER.

New York, Sept. 16, 1904.

Cockran's Challenge to Roosevelt.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the press accounts a vital point of W. Bourke Cockran's speech was entirely omitted by nearly all of the leading papers. Since THE TIMES has always stood for a higher Democracy, I desire to call attention to this vital point, for its disclosure, to my mind, will seriously affect the credibility of the Republican Party and make for the establishment of that higher Democracy. Speaking of the attitude of the Republican Party on the money question, Mr. Cockran charged that in 1897, one year after the party had been successful on its promise to maintain the gold standard, a commission headed by the late Senator Wolcott was sent abroad to make agreements by which the United States would again monetize silver.

This commission had nearly completed its agreement with the English Cabinet to the effect that if England would open the mints of India, then Germany, France, and the United States would agree to coin silver. I say that when this had nearly been completed, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach threatened to resign if it were put through. This squashed it. But for this it would undoubtedly have been agreed upon. All this took place, mind you, after the Republican Party had won solely and only on its promise to the business interests that the Republican Party stood for "sound money." Mr. Cockran challenged the President to deny the truth of his assertion. He challenged Mr. Hay to produce the records of that Wolcott commission, so that the public might determine if these facts were true.

I am quite sure that if these facts are true the Republican Party should be the last one to attack the Democrats for their change on the money question.

Waiter Couldn't Help Them Out.

From The Philadelphia Public Ledger.

A well-known Baltimore society man was recently spending a few days with his wife at Atlantic City, and in connection with his visit he tells the following story: When he seated himself in the dining room on the evening of his arrival he discovered that he could not read the menu, as he had left his glasses in his room, and his eyes were useless without them. When he passed it to his wife she exclaimed that she was in the same predicament. At a loss to know what to do, the gentleman called the waiter to him, and, pointing to the menu, said:

"Read that to me and I will give you a dollar."

Quick as a flash the waiter replied:

"'Scuse me boss, but I ain't had much ejicsation meself!"

FIND OLD VANDERBILT [illegible]

Subway Excavators Near Battery [illegible] Up Planking Commodore Laid.

Workmen excavating for the subway here yesterday, their picks striking the planks which covered the dock built by Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, near the foot of Whitehall Street. To and from this dock ran the old steamboats which in the first half of the last century plied between New York and Staten Island.

The discovery showed how far into the bay the land had been filled in, the spot where the timbers were buried being about seventy-five feet from the present water line. The planks were about seven feet below the ground. They are of oak, 4 by 12 inches, and apparently in as good condition as when they were laid. The stringers running lengthwise are of yellow pine, and are also in a good state of preservation.

None of the old-timers around the Battery knew when the pier was built, or could remember when it was last used. The diggers found a copper cent dated 1803 a little above the planking, and near it an English half-penny piece dated 1755. An old cannon ball bearing the English coat of arms and an engraved arrow was also found. The relics were sent to the office of Engineer Parsons.

YOM KIPPUR OBSERVANCES.

Made East Side Seem Almost Like a Deserted Town.

Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, which is to the orthodox Jew the holiest of all the year, was solemnly observed in New York. From sunset Sunday until sunset yesterday the Jews of the city gave themselves to prayer and meditation. Meanwhile they fasted religiously.

There were some streets on the east side which seemed almost deserted. From end to end the shutters were up in front of the shops, and the residents were gathered in their synagogues. Those who were abroad moved slowly, talking in subdued tones and bearing their Prayer Books under their arms.

Signs of the observance of the day were not confined to the Jewish quarter. There was not a business street in all the city along which there was not a large number of closed stores. Every synagogue was filled from early Sunday evening until the hours of fasting had come to an end.

Yesterday there was not a single shop in the Jewish quarter which ventured to open its doors. A few years ago a few eating houses tried to do business and were almost wrecked. Even on Ellis Island the Jewish immigrants gathered together yesterday and spent their time in praying. None of them touched food.

NO VACATION FOR P. O. SLEUTH.

Cochran Must Wait Until Congress Gives Him a Clerk.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—William E. Cochran, formerly Chief Post Office Inspector, who was rewarded for his services in running down the guilty in the Post Office Department investigation last year with appointment to the position of Purchasing Agent of the department at $5,000 a year, is confronted with the statutory fact that he cannot have the usual Summer vacation enjoyed by Government officials. He had made plans to go to Colorado and hunt bears, and then on the way back to Washington cast his vote for Roosevelt and Fairbanks.

When it occurred to him to designate some official to act in his place during his absence he found that there was no such official. Congress did not give his bureau a Chief Clerk. The legal officers of the department, when appealed to for advice, said that he must stay at home until a law was passed giving him a Chief Clerk. Cochran is under a large bond, and no ordinary clerk could be put in charge of his office.

GEN. ALGER HERE, CONFIDENT.

Says Americans He Met in Europe Think Roosevelt Will Win.

Gen. Russell A. Alger, United States Senator from Michigan and ex-Secretary of War, arrived in New York yesterday on the steamship Minnetonka after a three months' tour of Europe. He was accompanied by Mrs. Alger. The Senator said that from what he had seen in print, he thought that the Republican chances this Fall were as good as during any time in the existence of the party.

He said further: "There is a great interest taken in the coming election by Americans traveling abroad, and I have not met one who has not declared his intention to return to cast a vote. All of them seem to think that Roosevelt will win. American residents in foreign countries who have large business interests there look to Republican victory as the only salvation of the great trade interests we have abroad. Michigan will give a good Republican plurality.

SERGEANTS MUST LOOK ALIKE.

McAdoo Abandons Special Uniform for "Murphy" Detectives.

Police Commissioner McAdoo yesterday rescinded his order providing for a distinctive, silver-braided uniform for the seventy-nine Detective Sergeants whom he detailed last week to Roundsman's duty as inefficient. The Commissioner said that he had learned that he had no right to differentiate between the uniforms worn by these and other Sergeants of Police, with whom they still rank.

Replying to the assertion in an afternoon newspaper that the Police Department is demoralized, Commissioner McAdoo said:

"I have nothing to say in regard to such charges, except to state that the force is not demoralized. We are short of men and have been for some time. It is only a few days ago that I made a personal appeal to the Board of Aldermen for 400 extra men."

KING READ RIIS'S BOOK.

Roosevelt's Biographer Back from Visit to His Old Home in Denmark.

Jacob A. Riis landed from the steamship United States yesterday morning, after a four months' visit to his old home, in Ride, Denmark. He was very anxious to become acquainted with the political situation, and said that one of the reasons why he was most anxious to get home was to take as active a part as possible in the campaign in behalf of President Roosevelt.

Mr. Riis said that he visited the King of Denmark several months ago, and that at that time he presented a copy of his life of the President to the King. Before leaving the other side, Mr. Riis said, he again saw the King, who spoke very highly of the work. He said that he had read it through and that he had been interested in every page of it. He sent through Mr. Riis his greeting and best wishes to the President.

In presenting Mr. W. H. Crane in a part radically opposed to that to which he has been so long accustomed and with which he has been so popularly associated, Mr. Charles Frohman has, as of course he knew, taken a great risk. There were times last night at the Criterion when half-heard echoes of the Crane mannerism evoked long trains of Crane memories that jarred in the sinister atmosphere of Octave Mirbeau's "Les Affaires Sont les Affaires"; but in the able writing of the scenes, and above all, in the robust threatric values of the dominant character, actor and manager had the strongest of allies. Business may not be business on Broadway as it was in the Paris of Isidore Lechat, but there can be no doubt that the piece made a profound impression on people of intelligence in the audience.

M. Mirbeau is of the advance guard of Parisian novelists and playwrights. He was among the first to hail Maeterlinck as the Belgian Shakespeare, and is identified with a cast of political and social thought that tends toward the revolutionary. The protagonist of the present play is a sort of modern Shylock, or, to use a more acclimated phrase, a figure of titanic realism in the earlier French manner—the realism of Balzac. Of drama, properly speaking, there is none—no story and no sustained conflict of opposing motives. The three acts serve as a canvas to project in all its vastness and complexity a single character. But that character is so vivid, and affords such opportunities to the actor, that De Feraudy, who created it at the Comédie Française, made in it the success of his career, and passed it on to other great character actors of the Continent.

Isidore Lechat is the French version of the modern commercial pirate. He has been twice ruined and twice tried for the blackest crimes, and once put in jail. But his fortunes have triumphed. His nature is of the utmost complexity. Buoyant and jovial on the surface, he has at heart the greed of the wolf and a deep feline cruelty—he is called Le Chat, the tiger cat. So visionary in small things that he passes among the unthinking as half mad—he has spent thousands in futile and hare-brained experiments in the chemistry of agriculture—he is lynx-eyed when it comes to business. Professing popular and democratic principles in politics and in life, he lives in a royal palace, apes aristocracy, supports his worthless son, whom he loves, in the dissipations and luxuries of Paris, and is ambitious to marry his daughter into the family of a neighboring nobleman, whom he has been at pains to subdue with a burden of debt.

The great moments of the play come in the third and last act, and show the frustration of his dearest ambitions. Having forced the debt-ridden nobleman to consent to the marriage of his son with Germaine Lechat, he summons the girl and broaches the project. Germaine, a refined and "advanced" young woman who has learned to hate her father's villainies bitterly, refuses the offer, and, pressed for a reason, proclaims that she is compromised with a lover—Lechat's agricultural chemist, with whom she is about to face poverty in the world. Lechat has never cared for her, and in a savage rage drives her from his house. She leaves gladly, and with an outburst of passionate scorn for her father.

While Lechat is still in his passion of disappointment, news is brought to him of the death of his son—crushed to a jelly by being hurled from his automobile against the wall of a café. The news throws the father into a stupor of agony. At this crisis a pair of promoters, who have been bringing off a deal with him, appear and try to take advantage of his grief to make him sign a contract—minus certain hard conditions he has insisted on. Lechat tries to put them off. But they persist. His suspicions roused by their urgency, he subdues his rage and grief with a titanic effort, bends his mind to read clause after clause, detects the attempt to overreach him, and, while he is being implored to come to his dying son, dictates sentence after sentence that force his associates to bow to his harsh will. Even among the ruins of all he had hoped for and loved, business is business.

It cannot be said that Mr. Crane embodied with any great force the harsher and more animal moments of the character. The sinister note was almost absent, and there was not much of the titanic in his grief and his rage. When Germain confessed to her amour, suddenly turning all his plans to scorn, there was shallow laughter which a more commanding actor would have quenched. Those there were in the audience who declared that he was throughout the genial busybody and the amiably crusty old man we have all known and loved so long. But is not this to forget that the dominant surface mood was a certain Gallic ebullition of good humor? The French have a proverb that a man's gayety is the measure of his strength. With all due respect, Mr. Crane was never for a moment fussy, and even at his most whimsical more than crusty.

In every movement he had a cold eye to the main chance. His indulgence to his cynical and selfish son had touches of warm affection; but he was never amiable. A certain formality there was, as of art that has not learned to conceal itself in the perfect realization of a character; but the intention was always right, and the execution ably calculated, if uninspired. At the great crises of the last act Mr. Crane rose above himself, and swayed his audience with him. It was a memorable performance, and one that should encourage this able actor to lead his audiences into greener fields and pastures new.

The other characters were a sorry and unsympathetic lot. The wife was hopelessly bourgeoise, practicing shopkeeper economies amid all her splendor, and fretfully pining for the petty existence of her early years. Mrs. Dellenbaugh played the part with skill and sincerity, and in her scene of parting with her daughter roused the house to emotional enthusiasm.

The daughter was consciously drawn as neurotic and disagreeable, ill-dressed in the "modern" manner, tyrannizing over the masculine common sense of her lover, coldly critical and unsympathetic to her mother—a mere bundle of nerves disordered by the sordidness of the atmosphere in which she had been brought up. Miss Gray denoted the part unflinchingly, and in one or two moments raised outbursts of approval.

Mr. Wheelock lent his weary mien of high breeding, his slow, biting cynicism to the part of the son. But he had no such opportunity as he enjoyed as Mawley in "Lord and Lady Algy," or as the youth of the other jag in "The Other Girl." The others in the cast were not without ability, but were undistinguished.

The translation, by Robert Hichens, was tolerably accurate. The parts that were cut, notably the long political discourse between Lechat and the nobleman to whom he hoped to sell his daughter, were those that could best be spared. But the lines were often disfigured by translation English. A business contract is not a "treaty," and a cow that costs 10,000f. is not a cow of 18,000f." The French of the company lacked uniformity, to say the least. Either Lusheen or Luctang will do at a pinch for Lucien, but one such pronunciation is enough. Mr. Crane spoke of Rothschild blew, as if the royal palace of France were a sort of aqueous Flatiron Building.

It was much, however, that the play was given in the main as written. One of Mr. Frohman's interviews raised the horrid fear that he was intending to adapt it, making Lechat a Wall Street buccaneer, and thereby adding one to the dismal no-man's-land abortions consequent upon an effort to bring foreign plays within the ken of Broadway.

On the whole, a striking and intellectual play, ably rendered, and one that should command the attention of intelligent playgoers. Next to sincere native plays, good foreign plays honestly rendered do well.

If one had not ceased long ago to try to unravel the workings of the minds responsible for some of the things offered in the way of public amusements there might be cause for speculation as to the why and the wherefore of such a performance as "Mr. Wix of Wickham" at the Bijou Theatre last night. The term musical comedy is an extremely elastic one, but there is a breaking point. It has been reached before—it was reached last night—and will be again, so long as those engaged in such enterprises proceed upon the assumption that "any old thing" will do. One long ago ceased to expect in most of these entertainments much in the way of originality either in music or story, but it is at least not too much to ask for a certain beauty of environment, picturesqueness of costume and scene, and a fair degree of competency on the part of the singers and dancers.

If an occasional novelty differentiates the theatrical menu so much the better, for familiar dishes are often made palatable by proper serving and garnishing. "Mr. Wix of Wickham" is not even fair theatrical hash.

To go into the details of its commonplace story of a Duke's runaway daughter and her subsequent wedding to a young Australian heir would be a waste of time for several reasons. One is that the story is in no way important to the entertainment as a whole. The other reasons really do not matter.

Large bouquets and baskets of flowers were passed over the footlights last evening for each of the principals, thereby emphasizing the generally amateurish suggestion of the whole affair, for this pretty commencement exercise custom is hardly in strict accord with metropolitan and Broadway usage, or if it is, the sooner abandoned the better.

About the only laughter of the evening not prompted by friendly and personal interest in the performers occurred during the second act, when an extremely large lady in an extremely red dress made an effort to dance. As she is a person built upon a colossal scale, the effect may readily be imagined, and it is but truth to add that for the most part the audience laughed at rather than with her.

Edward E. Rice is the producer of "Mr. Wix," and for the sake of record his accomplices may be mentioned as they are set down on the programme: "Book and music by Herbert Darmley; additional musical numbers by George Everard and Jerome D. Kern, readaptation and many lyrics by John H. Wagner."

If, as seemed possible, the main object sought was noise, it may be said that the object was attained.

The poor actors need not be dragged into it. With the exception of Sydney De Grey, who had little to do but did it well, and Miss Thelma Fair, who sang one or two numbers prettily, there is no occasion for comment. Silence covers a multitude of sins.

PITTSBURG CHEERS HERBERT.

His Orchestra Plays Before Big Audience—Music for New York.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., Sept. 19.—Victor Herbert, with his New York Orchestra, began a week's engagement at the Western Pennsylvania Exposition this evening, and fully 5,000 people rose and cheered his opening selection. Herbert has not been long out of Pittsburg, where he resigned the directorship of the Pittsburg Orchestra under fire.

He was the most popular director ever in Pittsburg, and his friends showed their appreciation to-night. After the performance Herbert announced that he was preparing three new compositions to spring on New York this Fall—one to open the new Fields theatre "The Enchanted Isle," and an extravaganza similar to "Babes in Toyland."

IRVING'S FAREWELL SEASON.

Veteran Actor Begins It at Cardiff—Miss Matthison's Position.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—Sir Henry Irving began his farewell season in the provinces at Cardiff to-night, appearing in "The Merchant of Venice," with Edith Matthison as Portia. The house was crowded, and the audience gave an enthusiastic reception both to Sir Henry and Miss Matthison.

The report published in the United States that Sir Henry Irving has engaged Miss Matthison as leading woman in place of Ellen Terry is incorrect, the only basis of the story being in the fact that Miss Matthison will play such parts as Portia, Maud Fealy will support Sir Henry as Rosamond in "Becket," Julie in "The Lyons Mail," Nora in "The Story of Waterloo," &c., throughout his farewell tour here and in the United States. Sir Henry will play "Becket" here to-morrow.

NOTES OF THE THEATRES.

A second edition o "The Isle of Spice" was put on at the Majestic Theatre last night. The original three acts have been condensed into two and the action throughout has been accelerated. Several new songs have been introduced into the new version.

***

"Lettuce" is the name of the burlesque which Lew Fields and his company will produce at the Lew Fields Theatre. It is a travesty on "Letty," which is now at the Hudson Theatre. Glen MacDonough and Victor Herbert will write the words and the music. Several members of the company, including Marie Cahill, "Billie" Norton, and Fields himself, went to the Hudson to see Fave Templeton, Carlotta Nillson, and the rest of the performers in "Letty."

***

Owing to the continuation of the building strike the opening of the Yorkeville Theatre, with Henrietta Crosman in "Sweet Kitty Bellairs," has been postponed until Oct. 3. The Yorkeville is at Eighty-sixth Street and Lexington Avenue. The seat sale will begin next Monday.

***

***

"The Rogers Brothers" will play "Checkers" a game of baseball this afternoon at the American League grounds. The game will be called at 2 o'clock. The admission will be 25 cents and the proceeds will go to the Actors' Fund. A popular comedian will officiate as umpire.

***

John Drew's engagement in "The Duke of Killicrankie" has been extended three weeks. Mrs. Gilbert was to have come into the Empire sooner, but by postponing Sir Charles Wyndham's appearance at the Lyceum, Charles Frohman has arranged for Mrs. Gilbert to stay there three weeks before going to the Empire.

"Candida" at Berkeley Lyceum.

Arnold Daly revived "Candida," George Bernard Shaw's play, at the Berkeley Lyceum Theatre last night. The little house doesn't seat many people, but, such as it is, it was very well filled last night. Mr. Daly is going to keep "Candida" on one week. Next Monday he will produce Shaw's "How He Lied to Her Husband."

GIRL IN BOY'S CLOTHES NINE DAYS A TRAMP

SAYS SHE MADE A SWELL HOBO

When She Returned Her Father Knew Her Only by Her Voice—Young Companion Arrested.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 19.—Sixteen-year-old Grace Casler, who disappeared from her home on the night of Sept. 10, after having cut off her long hair and dressed herself in boy's clothing, returned to her home early this morning. She says that she led the life of a tramp all the time she was away, and that her companion was seventeen-year-old Willie Lambertson, who disappeared at the same time.

Grace says that on the night they left home they went to Waverly, where they got into a freight car. At nightfall the next day they went to Elizabeth, where they boarded a freight and made their way to Wilkesbarre, Penn., arriving there the next day. They remained in the vicinity of that city in barns and freight cars until yesterday, when they boarded another freight, which brought them back to Mauch Chunk. There they got on a freight, which they learned was going to Jersey City, and they rode on it as far as Waverly, four miles from this city.

At Waverly Willie left Grace and told her to go home. Still dressed in the boy's clothing, she walked to her home by way of the side streets. A black slouch hat which partly concealed her face kept her from being detected. When she reached home the family were all asleep, but she tugged at the bell until she awakened her father, who admitted her. He would not have known her except for her voice. Just the kind of reception she got, the girl would not tell, but she says she will never go away again.

During her travels she says she was not discovered except by two boys, former Newarkers, who were "tramping it" in Wilkesbarre. They were going further West, and Willie wanted to join them, but they were afraid that the presence of Grace might get them into trouble, and they refused to take Willie with them unless Grace was sent back home. Willie then concluded to bring her back as far as Waverly.

"I did not mind it," she said, "but I don't think I would care to go again. I made a 'swell hobo,' and it was great sport. Willie came here while everybody was out, and he cut off my hair. I am sorry now, though, that my hair is gone, but what could I do? I did not want to get caught, and it would have been a fine thing for me if my hat happened to blow off and I had the long hair.

"I had plenty of fun. I had some pretty dangerous jumps to make the freight trains. Once I fell, and Willie thought I was hurt. The train was going fast, but I got up and jumped on again. This happened while we were on our way to Wilkesbarre.

"It's great sport, but I had all I want of it. I read in the newspapers about the folks at home worrying, but I did not want to come home. I'm glad I am back now, though."

When Willie left Grace at Waverly he told her he was going back to Wilkesbarre to join the other two boys, and he started to Elizabeth to board a freight. He was seen hanging around the freight yard in that city and was arrested on suspicion. Later he was turned over to the authorities here.

AMUSEMENTS LAST NIGHT.

"The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" came to the Grand Opera House last night for a stay of one week. Harry Le Clair had the rôle of Queen Spadia, Arthur Rigby was King Bardout, and Rose Sartella appeared as Princess Beauty. There was a large crowd out to see the reopening of the Broadway success.

***

Prof. Harry Kellar, the juggler, made his reappearance at Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street Theatre last night. He had the assistance of Valadon, who is reputed to be the most wonderful sleight-of-hand expert in England. "The Yogi's Lamp" is Kellar's most mystifying "stunt."

***

"An English Daisy," the same musical comedy that enjoyed a short stay at the Casino last Spring, is at the West End. Murray and Mack, known as the "two happy boys," are in the cast.

***

***

At the New Star "Lighthouse by the Sea" made a hit last night. It tells the story of the perils of the lonesome life in a lighthouse. As far as the hero and heroine of this tale are concerned all the perils are overcome.

***

***

"The Cavaliers," which Julia Marlowe once produced on Broadway, was presented at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre last night by a competent stock company. Edwin Arden took the leading male rôle. Others in the cast were Isabelle Evesson, Marion Berg, Gertrude Berkley, Wallace Erskine, and Peter Lang.

***

The company at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatre are giving "Frou Frou" this week. The title part is taken creditably by Jessie Izette, who has among her supporters Henry Kohiker, Frank Sheridan, Bessie Barriscale, Ryley Chamberlain, and Mathilda Deshon.

***

"She" is at the Twenty-third Street Theatre. "She" is described as "the newest thing in dancing." There are four dances, depicting the four seasons. The heroine of the dances, "She," is a "decidedly attractive young woman, who has a French shape and the Italian grace."

Marshall P. Wilder is on the list for a monologue. Others are Klein, Ott Brothers and Nickerson, and Willie Zimmermann.

***

Helena Frederick, prima donna, is first on the bill at Hurtig & Seamon's. Other features are Rooney's Street Urchins, Simon and Gardiner, Kelly and Ashby, and Watson Hutchings and company.

***

There is a good and long vaudeville programme at Hammerstein's Victoria Theatre this week. There are two performances a day, the admission for the matinée being only 50 cents for the best seats.

***

"The Virginian" was revived at the Harlem Opera House last night. It ran at the Manhattan two or three months in the middle of last season. It is still under the management of Kirke La Shelle.

Barnabee at the Circle in Vaudeville.

Henry Clay Barnabee, who has won fame in "The Bostonians," was at the Circle Theatre last night in vaudeville. For some twenty years he was identified with the famous operatic organization, and his name has always been coupled with that of MacDonald. Barnabee played the part of The Sheriff of Nottingham in "Robin Hood." He appeared last night in a musical sketch which gave him opportunity for both comedy and music. Some of the others on the Circle's bill are Holcomb, Curtis and Webb, Rooker's Dogs, and Mamie and Mazette.

YEE YON HOPPED TO BELLEVUE.

All the Way from "San Flanciscio" Looking for His Wife.

Yee Yon Ying, gorgeous in a purple silk blouse, with tasseled cap, upon the front of which was a round, red knob that suggested a mandarin of the button, appeared at Bellevue yesterday afternoon.

Nobody knew where Yee Yon Ying came from, or how he passed the hospital gateman. His gorgeous apparel lent an air of Oriental mysticism to his appearance when he suddenly slipped from behind a tree and said to Roundsman Smith:

"H'lo!"

"H-h-h'lo!" gasped Smith. "Wh-where did you come from?"

"Me?"

"Yes, you."

"San Flanciscio."

"How did you get here?"

"Here?" pointing to the ground.

"Yes—here!" shouted Smith, who felt nervous.

"Me just hoppee 'long."

"From San Francisco? You must be strong on hopping, or I am on the hop myself."

"Oh," said Yee Yon Ying, blandly, "me hoppee all place, all time."

Smith wiped the perspiration from his brow and tried to lay the apparition to his luncheon.

"What do you want, anyway?"

"Me?"

"Oh, don't 'me' me any more," Smith gasped. "Answer me direct. What do you want? Yes—you!"

"Me lookee find me wife. Me no see her. Me hoppee back San Flanciscio."

"Don't hop just yet," Smith said. "Wait."

The Roundsman rushed to the psychopathic ward and found Dr. Gregory. When Smith returned, bringing the doctor, Yee Yon Ying was standing on a pathway looking at the blue sky.

"You see that?" queried the Roundsman, anxiously.

"The chink?" said Dr. Gregory.

Smith heaved a sigh of relief and got up enough courage to grip the solid substance of Yee Yon Ying, as the Chinaman said his name was, and take him to the pavilion.

There the mysterious Celestial made the remark that when he did find his wife he would be obliged for the loan of a pistol. Dr. Gregory is keeping him under surveillance as to his sanity.

LOST IN PHILADELPHIA, A PAIR OF BARE KNEES

Also a Red Sash and the Rest of Demetrius Pappadakis.

MISS BOYD'S CRETAN GUIDE

Police Think That Picturesque Attendant of Woman Explorer Has Dropped Asleep Somewhere.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Sept. 19.—There is lost, strayed, or stolen in the City of Philadelphia a tall, bronzed man attired in baggy trousers, with knees bare, high white boots, a high black hat, and a luminous red sash. He answers to the name of Demetrius Pappadakis.

The University of Pennsylvania, the American Exploration Society, and scientists high and low in Philadelphia are greatly excited over his disappearance. He is the Cretan guide of Miss Harriet Boyd, the American explorer, who discovered a buried bronze-age city in Crete, and who has brought home numerous archaeological finds to present to the university museum.

Demetrius was her faithful guide and attendant in her researches, and the contrast between the slight little woman and the tall and fierce-looking Cretan when they landed in New York excited marked attention. Miss Boyd arrived on the Cunard liner Pannonia yesterday and came to Philadelphia to present her curios to the museum.

Arrangements for the presentation were to have been made to-day, but when she came to count up her exhibits she found that Demetrius Pappadakis was missing. Miss McCue, the Superintendent of the museum, was taken into conference, and the two, with their friends, have put in a busy day hunting for Demetrius.

The police were notified, the hospitals were searched, and finally, late this afternoon, the scientists visited the City Hall and gave in Demetrius's description. It appeared at first that in view of Demetrius's sensational costume it would be easy to find him. But he has been swallowed up as effectually in Philadelphia as though he had never been. The police think that he has fallen asleep somewhere near the Broad Street Station.

Detectives have been informed of the discovery of various persons who might be Pappadakis, but on investigation they have turned out to be reputable persons with Irish or German accents, who resent the insinuation that they ever appeared in public with bare knees.

The most noteworthy fact established is that a man with bare knees, baggy trousers, a red sash, and a brigandish appearance can journey through Philadelphia without attracting attention.

IN THE SHOPS.

There is to be to-day a unique opening of original frocks and gowns in Oriental designs, materials, and embroideries. They are to be shown in the best way in which gowns can be shown—upon real women. There will be a continuous performance of hats and frocks, gowns to match the hats, and hats made for the gowns. These will be worn in succession for ten minutes or so at a time from 10 o'clock in the morning until 4.30 in the afternoon, with only an hour's intermission at noon. There will be evening gowns, afternoon gowns with the four-piece theatre suits which will be smart this Winter, skirt, bodice, coat, and hat, all matching with the small accessories of the toilet. There will be theatre, carriage, and automobile coats, and, to begin, one may mention a few of the latter. For a delightful, warm automobile coat there is one of silk sacking, a material which looks like its name. This is a loose, three-quarter garment lined with squirrel, with an ermine collar and deep cuffs of rich Bulgarian embroidery in colors, and jeweled buttons repeating the red which predominates.

***

Another long coat is also of the sacking, but a deep warm red, lined with squirrel skin, but with a black Persian lamb collar. The coat is fastened across the front with red silk frogs.

***

To go to another extreme in automobile garments, there is a beauty in a pongee, a long, loose coat with a cape with stole ends, this the exact shape of the old-time pelerine and done in exquisite embroidery in tones to match, the design a Chinese dragon, the work of a Chinese artist in Japan. The wide bell sleeves are finished around the edge with more of the same embroidery. It is the acme of elegent simplicity.

***

Something different in coats is a little carriage garment, a short box coat of brocaded silk in a graceful French design, in one tone, a champagne. This coat is trimmed with a gay Persian embroidery in a little, close-fitting, turn-down collar, pointed at the back and the front, a pointed strap across the back, two little straps of the embroidery at the opening of the two pockets set diagonally in the lower part of the front, a narrow, pointed strap across the back, and embroidery cuffs to match the general design. In addition to this, sharp points of the embroidery finish the two sides of the front of the coat, these outlined with champagne-colored braid.

***

Another short auto coat is also of the silk sacking, smartly cut, with front, back, and broad yoke, which also forms the tops of the sleeves, in one piece. There is more of the Oriental embroidery in a band around the neck, with small Oriental embroidery-covered buttons, and the embroidery with the buttons forms the cuffs to the sleeves. The sleeves are large, gathered into the deep cuffs and with big sacking covered buttons, matching those which fasten the coat, set down the length of each.

***

In the gowns here is one of the Mandarin style that is a beauty. It is a Mandarin gown because it is trimmed with the beautiful Chinese embroidery, shades of blue, worn in the plaited skirt of the Chinese Mandarins. The gown is made in similar plaits, with long lines repeating the effect as much as possible in garments so different. It is of Shimpan silk of a beautiful rich dark blue. The plaits are narrow, like those of the real Mandarin skirts, and each outlined its length with half-inch black satin ribbon. There is a panel effect to the front of the skirt, and the lower part is edged with the shaded blue Chinese embroidery which is more elaborate at the front. Bodice and sleeves agree with the skirt in the black outlined plaits and the blue embroidery. The sleeves are full, finished with a turnback cuff a little below the elbow, the under sleeve of shirred chiffon being carried below this to the wrist. The cuff is of the blue embroidery and deep burnt orange or copper, the new color of the season, to match the yoke, and, like it, embroidered with blue. The vest and corsage belt are of black satin, the former showing applications of blue embroidery. There has been a widely increased demand for fancy bodices and gowns made of or trimmed with Oriental embroideries. Where one or two were made at first as a trial and a half a dozen as a venture, the New York women now spend thousands of dollars in exclusive designs in them.

Oldest Man in Sussex County Dead.

Special to The New York Times.

SUMMIT, N. J., Sept. 19.—Thomas Martin, who was reputed to be the oldest man in Sussex County, died at his home near Springdale, in Fredon Township, on Saturday night, aged ninety-nine years. Mr. Martin resided with his daughter, who is about sixty-five years old, and who is his only survivor. Until recently he was able to attend to the duties of his little farm, and was remarkably well preserved. He was a native of and spent nearly his entire life in Sussex County.

LAST OF THE ELLISES DEAD.

Edward C. Ellis died of pneumonia at his apartments, in the Hotel Bellecliaire, Broadway and Seventy-seventh Street, yesterday morning, after an illness of but two days. Mr. Ellis, who was only twenty-seven years of age, was the grandson of the founder of the famous locomotive works at Schenectady which bore his name, while the young man's father was Edward Ellis.

Not long ago young Ellis's health became impaired, and he engaged in a course of physical training at the farm of "Kid" McCoy, near Saratoga. There he met Miss Estelle Earle, whom he afterward married. Ellis's estate, representing his share from the sale of the Ellis Locomotive Works, is estimated at from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000, all of which will be inherited by his widow, as he was the last of the Ellis family. "Bud" Ellis, his first cousin, with whom he used to associate almost constantly after his father's death, died some years ago.

On Friday last Mr. Ellis contracted a severe cold, but thought little of it. He was feeling too ill Saturday to leave his apartment, and on Sunday morning his condition having taken a sudden change for the worse, he summoned his physician, Dr. Bingham, who found that pneumonia had set in. Mrs. Ellis telegraphed for W. E. Walker, a friend of the family, who resides in Schenectady. He reached here that night, and, with Mrs. Ellis, was with the young man when he expired. The couple had no children.

Mr. Ellis's body has been sent to Schenectady for interment.

CAFE SAVARIN CHEF DEAD.

Caught Pneumonia While Helping to Put Out Night Fire in Jersey.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, N. J., Sept. 19.—Edouard Laperruque, chef of the Café Savarin, New York, died at his Summer residence at Bresent Park last night at 11:55 o'clock, of pneumonia. Mr. Laperruque came home from the city last Tuesday with a chill and arose at 1 o'clock the next morning at the sound of the town fire bell to help save a burning building. He caught a severe cold, which developed into pneumonia.

Mr. Laperruque was Master of a French Masonic lodge in New York City and a club member. He was with Delmonico for thirteen years and chef at the Savarin for about nine years. He was in his forty-seventh year and leaves a wife.

JAMES A. MINER DEAD.

Alpers Chemical Company Official Expires Suddenly at Grand Hotel.

James A. Miner, Vice President of the Alpers Chemical Company of 4 and 6 White Street, was found dead in his bed at the Grand Hotel, Thirtieth Street and Broadway, just after 6 o'clock last evening by a bell boy. Heart disease is said to be the cause of death.

Mr. Miner, who was sixty-five years of age, had retired from business in Chicago a few years ago and came to this city to live. Here he became interested in other enterprises. For some time he with his wife and their only son lived at 101 West Seventy-second Street, but the son died and the couple went to Europe for an extended stay. They returned last week, and Mr. Miner went to the Grand, as business required his presence in this city, while his wife went to her married daughter's home in Hornellsville, N. Y. He was planning to leave for that place to-day.

DEATH LIST OF A DAY.

Mrs. Jane Wolbarst.

Mrs. Jane Wolbarst, well known in Jewish charity circles, died suddenly yesterday morning at her home, 24 East One Hundred and Nineteenth Street, after a four days' illness. She was born in Russia fifty-eight years ago, and, coming to this country when about eighteen years of age, married Bernard Wolbarst, a merchant, who settled in New York City. Living on the lower east side until recent years, she saw much of the suffering that existed among the poorer classes, and spent much time and money in aiding cases of destitution.

She formed the Malbish Arumim, a society for furnishing clothing to the poor; was a Director of the Beth Israel Hospital Ladies' Auxiliary, the Home for the Aged, Daughters of Jacob Home, Society for the Aid of Poor Women, and various other similar organizations. She also had a number of private pensioners. She is survived by her husband, four sons, and two daughters. Services will be held at her late residence to-day, and the interment will be in Union Fields.

John W. Grace.

John W. Grace, a younger brother of the late William R. Grace of this city, died yesterday morning at his residence in London rather suddenly, after a surgical operation. Mr. Grace was a partner in the London house, the head of which is Sir Michael Grace. He was born in Ireland sixty-eight years ago, and became associated with the commercial enterprises of his brother at an early age. He formerly lived in this city, but about six years ago he moved to London. He is survived by a widow, seven sons, and two daughters.

Gen. Russell Hastings.

PETERSHAM, Mass., Sept. 19.—Gen. Russell Hastings of Bermuda died here yesterday of heart disease. He was born in Greenfield sixty-nine years ago, and the body will be taken there for burial on Wednesday. Gen. Hastings was living in Ohio when the civil war broke out, enlisted, and went out with the Twenty-third Ohio, a three-year regiment, in which were Rutherford B. Hayes and William McKinley.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.
Special to The New York Times.
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—The local market acted rather independently of New York to-day, the arbitrage stocks, of course, being exceptions to this rule. Consolidated Lake Superior issues came to the front as leaders, and, under an active demand, the common advanced 1%, and the preferred 2, with fractional recessions in the late trading. The buying and selling alike were scattered, but as there was not a large supply of floating stock, little difficulty was met in advancing prices. Lehigh Valley also developed strength, rising ¾. American Railways receded ½, and United Gas Improvement ¾, but the latter recovered its loss later. Philadelphia Company common was again heavy, but the preferred was up ½. Bonds were very quiet at practically unchanged prices. Total sales, 40,818 shares, $36,700 bonds.

Stocks Heavy; Call Money Easy, 1 3-4@2 Per Cent.

Business Upon the Stock Exchange Falls Off and Prices Yield a Little, but the Day's News Was Good.

Yesterday's volume of business was scarcely over half of last week's average, and the unaccustomed dullness was attended by the previously noted complement of yielding prices. Whether the dullness produced the softness or the softness produced the dullness, the fact remains that recently active business has only been with rising prices, and that the reverse in one respect was accompanied by the reverse also in the other. The declines were general but fractional, as a rule, and it might be said that nothing was done adapted to alter the estimate of values at all.

Off the Exchange, however, there were happenings adapted to promote values, however they affect prices. Two experts promulgated estimates marking a half billion bushels off the corn crop, and the Produce and Stock Exchanges agreed in rejecting them. Both corn and wheat closed lower, and another day has passed of the few during which this source of disturbance is possible. But there is an even better source of jumping these estimates than by the light thrown upon them by the prices which epitomize the judgment of market experts. The farmers know a thing or two about their own affairs, even if they know little about Wall Street. The farmers are accustomed to keep reserves of grain against a possible crop failure, and the marketing of these reserves is a good sign of whether the seller thinks his individual crop is likely to be small. In the aggregate this movement may outweigh opinions of experts of any calibre. The receipts of grain at primary markets are not consistent with apprehension of future shortage. And the returns of the wheat thrashers are excellent, the yield surpassing expectation, by two to four bushels an acre, and the grade being higher than anticipated. The customary outgivings by traffic managers on Mondays were yesterday highly cheerful. The billet pool was reported to have fixed the official price at $19.50, but this rather recognizes than alters conditions in the basic industry. Money showed some tendency to rise, presumably upon the bank statement, but the offerings at 2 per cent. sufficed to indicate benevolent care that nobody is to be frightened by unnecessary strength in this element of stock market calculations.

GENERAL BUSINESS ITEMS.

Guthrie, Oklahoma, dispatches state that the Kansas City, Okmulgee and Gulf Railroad Company has been incorporated to build a railroad 500 miles long from Kansas City to a point on the Red River in the Choctaw Nation.

According to dispatches from that city more flour orders came into Minneapolis in the past few days than for months.

The Platt Iron Works Company, with a capital of $1,600,000, has been incorporated in Ohio to carry on the business of the Billwell-Bierce & Smith Valle Company of Dayton, Ohio.

Live stock traffic at Chicago last week was the best in three weeks, the deliveries amounting to 271,272 head, an increase of 84,451 over the previous week and a decrease of 45,340 from last year.

The Ouray Chief Mining Company has increased its capital from $750,000 to $2,500,000 for development.

Arrivals of grain at Chicago during the past week amounted to 7,384,871 bushels, a decrease of 1,053,240 bushels from the previous, but an increase of 1,087,998 bushels over the same week last year.

It is stated in Colorado Springs dispatches that the Continental Gold Mining Company, capital $3,000,000, has been incorporated and will build an electric road from Buena Vista to its mines.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Efforts to Uncover Stop Orders—Distrust of Some of the Buying—Amalgamated Very Strong.

Prices in the cereal markets were less affected by Jones's estimate of 1,900,000,000 bushels as this year's yield of corn than was the stock market, in which the small corn estimate was taken as the signal for a good deal of selling by professionals as well as by others who thought the advance had gone far enough. Much doubt was expressed concerning the accuracy of the Jones estimate of the corn crop, but it was enough of a bear argument to make the general list assume a reactionary tone despite sharp advances in some issues. The day's declines in no way disconcerted some of the bulls, who steadfastly adhered to their earlier predictions of still higher prices. Among the favorites with the Street were the Steels and Amalgamated Copper. Steel preferred closed unchanged, and the common down ⅝, but Amalgamated was conspicuously strong and ended the day with a net gain of 1⅛ points. The bull movement in Amalgamated is said to be quite independent of general copper trade conditions, but the only other reason assigned for the stock's strength is the timeworn report of a settlement with Heinze.

Numerous Stop Orders.

One of the things that encouraged the bear element in working energetically to bring about a sharp reaction was the belief that a little below the opening prices numerous stop orders were in the market, and that if prices were depressed enough a great deal of stock which had been bought recently would be thrown on the market, making easy the taking of profits on sales made at the opening. The efforts in this direction were only partly successful, for less stock was dislodged than many of the traders had expected, and in places the market showed an inclination to rally in a way that indicated that the position of the market was not as weak as many had figured it out to be.

Venturesome Buying.

Evidence is accumulating that the outsider who for so long during the early part of the upward movement which has transformed the market during the past few weeks was very loath to take any part in the trading despite the inducements offered him has of late been mastered by the temptation to pick some of the fruit that was hanging so invitingly before him. But in this fact some profess to see a sign of the termination of the movement rather than an indication that further advances are to come. "It looks to me," remarked the manager of one large office yesterday, "as if we were going to have a really good reaction. There are many things that make me believe so, one of them being the way some of the people who got out of the market many points lower down are coming in again. I know of one man, a type of a good many others, who, when Steel common was selling around 14 and the preferred around 63, sold out a large block of each issue. Last week the same man bought the stock back at about 18 for the common and 69 for the preferred. He thought the market was already too high, but bought the stocks for fear they might go still higher and he lose the profit. If much of that kind of buying is taking place it is time for others to trim their sails."

Money Market Firm.

Time money was offered somewhat less freely yesterday, and as a result the tone of the money market was firmer, despite the limited amount of borrowing. Sixty-day money was still offered at 3½ per cent., but there was no disposition to take it at this rate. For ninety-day money 3½ per cent. was bid, and for four, five, and six months the rates were 3¾ bid, offered at 4. Some large lenders are said to be looking for higher rates, and for this reason are disinclined to put out much money at current rates. Transfers through the Sub-Treasury amounted to $200,000, which was sent to New Orleans.

"What Are Quotations Between Friends"

No one doubts that a good deal in the way of manipulation is going on at present, but only occasionally are the operations so conducted that all doubt of the artificiality of the trading is removed. It happened to a customer of one large house yesterday that he saw recorded on the tape a sale of a certain inactive stock at a price above that at which he had had the stock offered all day. He made objection, and so did the broker who represented him, who protested in the crowd in which the stock was dealt in that the transaction at the higher price could not stand. It was suggested that he drop the matter, but to this suggestion was added the offer "to send the transaction over the tape differently" if the earlier quotation was likely to prove embarrassing. Some one in the crowd did not relish what the trade remarked, suggestively, "After all, what is a quotation between friends?" The quotation stood and the broker found some way of his own to satisfy his customer.

PREDICTS SMALL CORN CROP.

H. V. Jones's Estimate Below Snow's and the Government's Figures.

Wall Street was treated yesterday to a series of conflicting reports regarding the probable outcome and size of the corn crop. H. V. Jones of the Chicago firm of Watson & Co. sent in an estimate of less than 2,000,000,000 bushels, as compared with Snow's estimate of 2,275,000,000 bushels and the Government indication of 2,491,000,000 bushels. His estimate, as telegraphed from Chicago, was, in part, as follows:

"The corn crop of the United States will be close to 1,900,000,000 bushels, or the smallest crop, with one exception, for seven years. Careful personal inspection in big corn-producing States shows the crop to be imperfect over the entire area, practically. In some States the crop is poor, notably in Missouri, and only fair in most of the others. There will be shrinkages of yield, due to imperfect filling, to lack of fertilization, (which is wholly deceptive in simply looking at a field,) and to considerable damage by worms.

"The seven States of the Mississippi Valley and the Southwest are estimated to produce 254,000,000 bushels less than last year. The States of Kansas and Missouri have 170,000,000 bushels less corn than last year. Nebraska is the only important corn State that exceeds the production of last year, the increase being about 28,000,000 bushels. Iowa runs well up to last year, but it will be about 15,000,000 bushels under without further frost damage. A large acreage in northern counties of Iowa has suffered serious damage from frost already. Yields in the northern counties will be spotted. The best yields will be in eastern and southeastern counties."

As a result of this report, the quotations for future corn fluctuated in an uncertain way, the price first rising and then falling again.

BLOUNT QUITS GREENE COPPER.

Disagreement with President Management as to Methods the Reason Given.

H. F. Blount, Vice President of the American Security and Trust Company of Washington, has resigned from the Directorate of the Greene Consolidated Copper Company, owing, it is said, to a disagreement with the present management as to the methods that should be employed in the affairs of that company. Mr. Blount was the representative of a number of Washington stockholders at the last anual meeting and held proxies for large blocks of stock.

In connection with Mr. Blount's resignation from Greene Copper, it is asserted that his name has been used without authority in the prospectus sent out by the Greene Consolidated Gold Company as being a Director of that concern, although he refused to accept the office. The same interests are connected with both companies and both companies have similar officers and a number of the Directors are identical.

THE LONDON MARKETS.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The demand for money was somewhat increased temporarily in the market to-day. Discounts strengthened, the condition of the Continental Exchanges, especially in Germany, causing slight uneasiness.

Trading on the Stock Exchange was fairly cheerful and, owing to the Jewish holiday, was quiet. Consols improved and closed easier. Home rails mostly had a better tone, operators being encouraged by the monetary tendency.

Americans opened dull, moved irregularly to above parity, and became rather idle. United States Steel was the feature of the firmness. Prices closed easy.

Foreigners were well supported. Japanese were active and higher. Imperial Japanese Government 6s of 1904 were quoted at 96¼.

Closing prices: Consols, for money, 88½; consols, for the account, 88 9-16; Anaconda, 4⅜; Atchison, 83⅞; Atchison preferred, 101; Baltimore and Ohio, 90⅜; Canadian Pacific, 130⅝; Chesapeake & Ohio, 44; Chicago Great Western, 16⅜; Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul, 162; De Beers, 18⅝; Denver and Rio Grande, 29½; Denver and Rio Grande preferred, 84; Erie, 32; Erie first preferred, 69⅝; Erie second preferred, 48; Illinois Central, 142⅜; Louisville and Nashville, 126⅜; Missouri, Kansas and Texas, 24⅝; New York Central, 131; Norfolk and Western, 70½; Norfolk and Western preferred, 92½; Ontario and Western, 34; Pennsylvania, 67¼; Rand Mines, 10¼; Reading, 34½; Reading first preferred, 43¾; Reading second preferred, 38½; Southern Railway, 33⅛; Southern Railway preferred, 98; Southern Pacific, 57⅛; Union Pacific, 100½; Union Pacific preferred, 95⅛; United States Steel, 17⅝; United States Steel preferred, 70; Wabash, 22; Wabash preferred, 43½; Spanish 4s, 87¾.

Three per cent. rentes, 98f 27½c for the account. Exchange on London, 25f 21c for checks.

ROPE AND TWINE APATHY.

Readjustment Plan Held Up Through Lack of Interest of Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the Standard Rope and Twine Company, successor to the Cordage Trust, which is scheduled to be held to-day at Elizabeth, N. J., may have to be adjourned again without a quorum, because, in spite of the efforts of the management, not enough proxies have been secured to make the holding of the meeting possible under the Jersey statutes. The annual meeting had to be adjourned three times last year for the same reason. The stock is said to be widely scattered, and much of it, formerly held by brokers, has been taken out of the Street without being transferred.

Three of the Directors are now holding office over their original terms, because no successors were elected last year, and it is probable that after this year's meeting there will be three more hold-over Directors. The lack of interest among the stockholders is also holding up a plan for a financial readjustment of the company. The stock is quoted around 1½.

Northern Securities Books Opened.

The transfer books of the Northern Securities Company were opened yesterday morning, after they had been closed by a vote of the Directors at a July meeting. It is officially stated that this action has no special significance.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES.

There was a considerable increase in activity in the trading in unlisted stocks yesterday, but this activity was confined principally to the low-priced issues. Several stocks such as the International Mercantile Marine displayed active trading and showed sharp advances. The feature of the day was the rise in Manhattan Transit to the high figure of 5 reached on the present move. It is stated on excellent authority that a person connected with one of the largest transportation systems in this city will be elected President of this company at a meeting of the Directors to be held later in the week. The buying was said to be very good and partly for account of the new interests that are shortly to be allied with the company. Standard Oil rose 8 points, to 649, but closed 4 points lower on active trading. The bond market showed large totals with the American Tobacco 6s the most active. The new 4s were traded in for the first time around 65, with sales of $20,000.

***

INTERNATIONAL MERCANTILE MARINE issues developed unexpected and unexplained activity and strength, with sharp advances on large transactions to 6 and 19½. The final sales were made at the highest and showed net gains of ¾ and 2½ for the common and preferred respectively.

***

SIMPSON CRAWFORD Co. new 8 per cent. cumulative preferred stock was offered for the first time at par, without any sales being reported.

BELDAME SHOWS HERSELF CHAMPION OF THE YEAR

SYSONBY'S JUNIOR CHAMPION

J. R. Keene's Entry First and Second in Big Gravesend Fixture for Two-Year-Olds.

It was Beldame again, and Beldame all the way for the most trying test of the Fall racing season, the First Special Stakes, weight for age, one mile and a quarter, at the opening of the Fall meeting of the Brooklyn Jockey Club yesterday. In front from the moment the barrier lifted until she passed the winning post in a big gallop, pulling back to the best field of the Fall season, Beldame wrung from reluctant turfmen the admission that she truly is a great filly.

All through the year horsemen have tried to believe that Beldame simply was a filly with some pretensions of stoutness allied to a phenomenal burst of early speed, and the commonest prediction of the racing season has been that some day a fast horse with a heart in him would take hold of her and show where she belonged. If there is a horse with speed enough to take hold of her and heart enough to hold her, the racing of 1904 has not brought him into the light. Beldame, on her record for the year, is champion without the question of a doubt. What she might do if she remained in training is open to conjecture, for she is as sound after her two years of racing as on the day she was foaled, while in every action about the stables and on the race track she rings as true as a newly coined gold eagle. It took time and quite a number of well-earned races to carry the conviction home, but some twenty thousand visitors to the Gravesend track yesterday had conviction stamped entirely through them after Beldame had galloped home, a winner in superbly easy style after a record-breaking performance for the stakes.

The contest was the fourth on the card, and was, in fact as well as name, the special attraction of the first day of the Gravesend Autumn meeting.

With weather of the most delightful description, a track fast and good, and every horse fit and ready, there were no excuses to be made.

There exists a certain prejudice on the part of close observers among the American horsemen against the Rayon d'Or cross in Beldame's breeding, and to some watchers it looked almost like a concession to the eccentricities of the Rayon d'Or blood that Beldame by special permission was led out of the paddock and up the stretch to the starting point, but the closest scrutiny of the great filly failed to disclose any evidence of temper or evil habits. From every appearance Beldame simply knows how to do only one thing, and that is gallop. She was ready to run when she came on the track, and it kept a 200-pound groom busy swinging to her head to keep her steady under Jockey O'Neil for even the quarter of a mile walk up the stretch.

Through the betting Beldame held her own as the favorite, the popular support she received being responsible for a speedy elimination of the even money offered against her, and, though a great weight of stable money went on Caughnawaga and Stalwart, Beldame from start to finish of the speculation held her place as a strong choice at even money or close about that point, backers having to lay odds at some period.

At the post Pulsus had the rail, with Beldame next to him, and Caughnawaga third, while Ort Wells had the extreme outside. There was but a short delay at the post, the barrier rising with Beldame the first to show as the horses broke into a gallop, and from that moment to the finish the race was over so far as the winner was concerned. Beldame went away under a steadying pull, reaching out and grabbing for her head with such energy that as they passed the stand the first time O'Neil wisely let her have her way and eased her for the run around the turn, which she took close to the rail, Caughnawaga and Pulsus then being lapped head and head two lengths behind her, while Stalwart galloped just at their heels and on the quarters of Ort Wells. Around the turn Beldame opened a gap of double the distance that she led by at the stand, and even before the field straightened out for the run through the back stretch Odom was shoving on Caughnawaga and Pulsus had ceased to fight against restraint, the crook in his long neck coming out with remarkable celerity. Ort Wells still held fourth place, but he was racing even then to keep within his distance, while Stalwart began to move up from the rear, Redfern seeming fearful that the others would get too far away from him.

The trailers did not know it, but the race really was over then, for the further she went, the harder pressed she had them, Beldame galloping on in front at a pace that, though a trifle irregular, always was fast. In the run to the stand for the first time she put in a quarter of a mile in 0:25, then as she made her move for the advantage on the paddock turn she let out a link and settled down to the comfortable like of her real racing gait, going the second quarter in 0:23 4-5, then, with a little steadying on the back stretch, dropped back to a third quarter in 0:25 1-5. That meant three-quarters of a mile in 1:14, however, and with such a sprinter's clip for the first part of the race, the lot behind were doing about all they could to hold their own.

Through all this Beldame in front was only galloping. O'Neil had both hands full on the filly as they reached the far turn, but Beldame at this point seemed to have made the discovery that she was doing what she wished to do, and simply luxuriating in the swift gallop, she ceased tugging against her rider, and settled down to the business of the struggle. Around the last turn and into the head of the stretch Caughnawaga first, and then Stalwart briskly buckled down to work and brushed after the filly, but she only brushed away from them, and even as the run down the straight was begun, Beldame was coming away. At that point both Caughnawaga and Stalwart were under hard pressure, but not an inch did they gain, even when whips were drawn and heels set to work. Into the last furlong of the race the backers of Beldame and all the partisans of the filly were in just a little doubt but that the task she assumed as pace maker might prove too much for her, but if there ever was a stage of the race in which the filly weakened it was not apparent to those in the stands, and O'Neil never knew it. At the last furlong pole Caughnawaga made a gallant last effort under the whip, and O'Neil for just a moment raised his hands and let Beldame have her head. With the same courage and speed that she showed at the start of the race the champion filly shot away again and made it so clear that she had the field beaten that O'Neil was called on to ease her up again at the end, Beldame passing the winning post in a romp, pulling back to Caughnawaga, which was a length and a half away, while Stalwart finished third, three lengths back and ten lengths in front of Pulsus, fourth. The fractions of the race by quarters were 0:25, 0:23 4-5, 0:25 1-5, 0:26 2-5, and 0:25 3-5, the fractional time of the race being: Three furlongs 0:36 2-5, half mile 0:48 4-5, five furlongs 1:01 3-5, six furlongs 1:14, seven furlongs 1:27, mile 1:40 2-5, and mile and a quarter in 2:06, the fastest race ever run for the First Special.

Two other important and valuable stakes were decided in the course of the day, James R. Keene's fast English bred horse Sysonby in a measure redeeming himself for the disappointment he caused in the Futurity by winning the Junior Champion Stakes in a canter. Summary:

W. K. Vanderbilt's Malta Won at St. Cloud.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—W. K. Vanderbilt's Malta won the Prix de Nezel at the St. Cloud races to-day.

Notes of the Thoroughbreds.

A report from the Stewards representing The Jockey Club at the Buffalo meeting was made yesterday to the effect that the jockey's license of John Daly had been refused for Daly's persistent offenses in rough and foul riding at the Buffalo track.

The Stewards of The Jockey Club have granted the request of the Maryland Jockey Club for dates for a Fall meeting at the old Pimlico race course at Baltimore, and have allotted seven days in November to the revival of racing there. The dates selected are Nov. 5, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12, dates on which racing also will be conducted in New York at the Aqueduct track.

Jockey J. Callahan, a plucky lightweight apprentice to F. M. Taylor, trainer for E. R. Smathers, had a very busy day at Gravesend yesterday. Callahan rode the winner, Dick Bernard, a few days ago at Brighton and won recognition for the first time with that performance. When he warmed up King Cole for the fifth race yesterday, the colt bolted at the paddock turn and popped over the fence like an old-time steeplechaser. Callahan was thrown and was stunned when picked up by the gatemen, and he almost wept at the prospect of not riding his race, but a few minutes later was out in colors and took some part of revenge by riding King Cole out to the last jump of the race. Still a little dizzy, Callahan then rode Jane Holly in the last race for Mr. Smathers and got her into third place.

Mars Cassidy resumed his duties as starter yesterday at the Gravesend track. Starter Fitzgerald, who has been at it all Summer, coming in for a rest through the meeting.

There is more than a little doubt as to whether the present season will end the racing career of the great filly Beldame. She is owned by August Belmont, who bred her, and who had decided that she shall go to his Nursery Stud, Kentucky, as a brood mare when she finishes her racing career, but under the terms of a lease of her running qualities to Newton Bennington for one year, ending with the Morris Park meeting this Fall, she will race in the Bennington colors up to that time. She has proved herself to be truly a great filly, and though she has raced since the first day of the New York season at Aqueduct, when she won the Carter Handicap, she is so fresh and sound that an argument has been made to Mr. Belmont to persuade him to change his determination. In view of the fact that Beldame is as sound to-day as she was as a yearling, it is possible that she may be trained on for the big weight-for-age specials next season, and after that be sent to the stud.

POLO CHAMPIONSHIP TO-DAY.

Big Game at Van Cortlandt Park Open to the Public.

Everything was in readiness yesterday at Van Cortlandt Park for the open championship polo game to be played this afternoon on the big polo field. The match will start at 3:30 o'clock and will be open, as are all the polo competitions at Van Cortlandt, to the public. Commissioner Schmitt of the Park Department in the Borough of the Bronx had the grand stand that was originally used at Pelham Bay Park, put in shape yesterday for the match. With the exception of a few seats that have been reserved for the officers of the Polo Association and the friends of the players, the stand will be free to the public.

The game will be refereed by Oliver W. Bird of the Meadow Brook Club. It will consist of four periods of fifteen minutes each actual playing time. Counting the intermission between periods and the necessary time always taken out after a goal is made, the game will last about two hours. The players will be John E. Cowdin, Lawrence Waterbury, J. M. Waterbury, Jr., and C. R. Snowden on one side and Foxhall P. Keene, R. L. Agassiz, Joshua Crane, Jr., and Devereux Milburn composing the second team.

Eby Plays Great Pool in Brooklyn.

Grant Eby showed form of the highest order at the Montauk Billiard Academy, Brooklyn, last night. During the past week Eby, in his exhibitions at the Montauk, defeated a number of well-known experts, and last night had "Doc" Gordon, the ex-amateur of Brooklyn, as an opponent. Eby was scheduled to make 100 to Gordon's 75, and in the presence of a large number of spectators Eby ran the game out in three innings, Gordon failing to count. The winner's runs were 33, 41, and 26. To-night Eby will attempt to score 100 to 75 for Frank Sealey.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

The Fall Buying Season Will Practically End This Week.

Wholesalers Report a Healthy Business, with Conservative Buying Wholly Natural in a Presidential Year.

The season for buyers to visit New York will end officially this week. The last of the buyers who have taken advantage of the Merchants' Association excursions are due home next Friday, and the "Fall rush" is over in most of the wholesale houses.

So far, representatives of the big wholesale and jobbing houses declare, the season has been a most satisfactory one. The number of buyers has been fully up to that of the best years, or even a little larger, many having taken advantage of the Grand Army Encampment excursion rates to Boston, which carried the privilege of a stopover in New York.

The buying, wholesale dealers report, has been, on the whole, satisfactory. It has been distributed over a very wide assortment of articles, but has been confined to comparatively small quantities of each. This, the wholesalers declare, is due entirely to a healthy conservatism, wholly natural in a Presidential year, and will be followed by a well-sustained reorder trade all through the Fall and Winter.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

New York City.

ALBERT RIEKERS.—Albert Riekers, grocer at 963 East One Hundred and Sixty-first Street, the Bronx, has made an assignment to Herman Both. He has been in the grocery business for twelve years. Wager, Acker & Wager, the attorneys, said that the liabilities are $8,000 and assets $2,000. The assignment was caused by depression in business and bad outstanding accounts.

ASSOCIATED MERCHANTS' TRADING COMPANY.—Deputy Sheriff Porges has received an execution for $19,650 against the Associated Merchants' Trading Company of 37 Park Row, formerly wholesale dealer in men's furnishing goods at 596 and 598 Broadway, in favor of George B. Tripler, who was President and Treasurer of the company, on seven notes of the company made between Oct. 8, 1902, and Nov. 9, 1903. The company was incorporated on May 1, 1900, with a capital stock of $3,000, which was increased to $500,000 in January, 1902. Last Spring the company gave up its place of business at 596 and 598 Broadway, and went into liquidation. The Sheriff found nothing to levy upon.

Out of Town.

PROVIDENCE.—Gustave Hamilton of Newport filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court yesterday. Assets were placed at $787,533 and liabilities $1,458.

CHICAGO.—The Western Supply Company, 18 West Randolph Street, an implement jobbing firm, was placed in the hands of a receiver to-day by Judge Kohlsaat in the United States Court. This action followed the filing of a petition alleging insolvency by creditors of the concern.

PETITIONS IN BANKRUPTCY.

LILLIAN COOPER.—Lillian Cooper of 50 West Ninety-sixth Street has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $2,837 and assets of $491 in debts due her by four persons. She owes $1,194 to Francis M. Jenks for rent.

N. & R. J. DALLIN.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Nathan and Rudolph J. Dallin, who compose the firm of N. & R. J. Dallin, dealers in dry goods at 635 Courtlandt Avenue, the Bronx, by Isaac N. Dallin, a creditor for $950. It was alleged that they are insolvent, have transferred part of their stock and accounts to creditors to prefer them, have made cash payments of $1,000, and permitted an attachment to be taken against them. The business was started in April, 1902, by Nathan Dallin, and his brother became a partner in January, 1904. Judge Holt of the United States District Court has appointed John Ewen receiver of the assets, which are estimated at $1,500.

E. C. FOERSTER.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against E. C. Foerster, manufacturer of silk goods, with an office at 415 Broadway, by the following creditors: Perier & Co. of Paris, $5,040; London and Hessen Bank of London, $3,945, both claims being for goods sold to the Slatington Textile Manufacturing Company, of which Mr. Foerster was Treasurer, and Morosini, Arsel & Co., $5,490, on a note of the Slatington Textile Manufacturing Company, which was indorsed by Mr. Foerster. It was alleged that he is insolvent and on June 6 transferred to his wife all his real and personal property. Mr. Foerster had charge of the silk department of an importing firm in this city for fourteen years, and in September, 1903, he became Treasurer of the Slatington Textile Manufacturing Company and sold its product. A petition in bankruptcy was filed against that company on June 9 last. He is interested in several other companies. He was Treasurer of the Asaba Company, manufacturers of horse attachments, which was incorporated in February, 1903, and was an incorporator of the Never Slip Cop Spindle Company, which was incorporated on July 20, 1904.

NEW TOBACCO STAMPS TO STAY

Trust's Protests Avail Not with Assistant Secretary Armstrong.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—It now seems as if the Tobacco Trust had failed in its efforts to prevent a change in the design and color of the customs stamp on imported cigars from a large glaring red to a medium-sized green stamp.

Although the proposed change had been before the Treasury Department for eight months, had been presented to both branches of Congress, and had been agitated by the trade for at least three years, the representatives of the trust professed that they never had heard of the proposition until two weeks before. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Armstrong thought they were a little late in making their protest, and, after listening to their arguments, all of which had previously been presented to and considered by the Treasury Department officials, said that he saw no reason to modify his order.

JUST A THIEF IN BROOKLYN.

So Judge Aspinall Dubbed Prisoner Said to be a Count in Germany.

"Count" Girard M. von Progen, who cut a wide swath at Brighton Beach a few weeks ago in a suit of clothes which he had borrowed from an officer on Governors Island during the latter's absence, was sentenced to one year's imprisonment in the Kings County Penitentiary by Judge Aspinall in the County Court, Brooklyn, yesterday. The young man had entered a plea of guilty to a charge of forgery in the second degree. His attorney pleaded with the court for lenient treatment.

"I think that this man is a German Count," he said. "He has some documents and photographs which seem to prove his claim."

"The prisoner may be a Count in Germany," replied Judge Aspinall, "but here in Brooklyn he is just a plain thief."

CHINESE LEPER STAYED.

Disregarded Order to Move, and Used Much Opium.

Sing Lee, a laundryman at 92 Bergenline Avenue, Union Hill, was recently reported as a leper, and the Board of Health, after an examination, ordered him to close his shop and leave town. The Chinaman was supposed to have obeyed, as his doors remained closed until Sunday, when some visitors climbed over the transom and found him lying apparently dead in the rear of the place.

A physician said, however, that his condi-

J. H. ONDERDONK MADE HOSPITAL SHUTTLECOCK

Sufferer from Locomotor Ataxia Found in Island Hospital.

TRANSFER RECORD MISSING

He Disappeared on Saturday After Breakfast—Is a Member of the Old Onderdonk Family.

John H. Onderdonk of 50 West Twelfth Street, who is very well known to the older generation in the produce business, and who is a member of the old Onderdonk family, is a private patient in St. Vincent's Hospital. He had been missing and was found only after a long search by his physician and his brother a patient in the Metropolitan Hospital on Blackwell's Island, where he was in charge of the Charities Department.

The first that was known of his disappearance was when Mrs. M. B. Dresner, with whom Mr. Onderdonk lived, reported to Dr. M. B. Feeney of 30 Seventh Street that Mr. Onderdonk had disappeared on Saturday morning. He had gone out for breakfast at a near-by restaurant, and had not returned. Dr. Feeney, who has been treating Mr. Onderdonk for locomotor ataxia, was alarmed and called on the various hospitals, but could get no word of his patient. Finally he learned that a man answering his description had been found by a policeman at First Avenue and Sixteenth Street and taken to the Presbyterian Hospital. There the doctors said that his trouble was old age, and he was sent to Bellevue. If he ever arrived at Bellevue there is no record of it, but it appears that he was put on the charities boat and sent to the Island. There he was able to give his own name.

Dr. Feeney got word of this on Monday, and, accompanied by Andrew Onderdonk of Greenwich, Conn., went to the Island, where he found his patient. The only explanation the doctor could give for Mr. Onderdonk's having been sent there was that he was not dressed so well as his means would warrant, and that he had not been shaved for a few days, as shaving greatly irritated him.

Mr. Onderdonk was too much excited by his transference from hospital to hospital after his attack of illness in the street to be able to give a clear account of what had happened and was too weak to be removed then. He was taken to St. Vincent's yesterday morning. The strangest part of Mr. Onderdonk's experience is that there is a record of his having been taken to the Presbyterian Hospital, from which he was sent to Bellevue, but there is no record at Bellevue of such a patient, the next being at the hospital on the Island.

A diamond ring which Mr. Onderdonk wore at the time of his disappearance and which is valued at $500 is missing, together with a check book, a card of identification, and personal papers that could be of no value to any one else. Mr. Onderdonk inherited a fortune, which he largely increased through his produce business at Barclay and Washington Streets.

DON'T FEAR GENERAL STRIKE.

Employers Believe Building Alliance Cannot Involve Outside Unions.

Judging by the results of the threat of the Journeymen Stonecutters' Union, which had declared its intention to "pull" every building where men were employed from the new unions formed by the Building Trades Employers' Association, officials of that organization considered yesterday that they had little to fear from the general strike ultimatum of the Building Trades Alliance. By this order, which is scheduled to go into effect to-morrow night, the Alliance has hoped to bring all unions not in its membership into the building trouble.

The stonecutters' strike, however, affected very little the general situation. A round of the walking delegates yesterday showed that strikes were in progress on the following buildings where new men working under the arbitration agreement were employed:

Metropolitan Life Annex, Twenty-fourth Street and Fourth Avenue; buildings at Thirty-eighth Street and Sixth Avenue, Thirteenth Street, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, and the Eighty-sixth Street Theatre. It was stated also that a strike would be ordered on a building at Thirty-first Street and Lexington Avenue.

Only a few stonecutters were at work on these buildings before the strikes were called. Among the other unions there were signs of disintegration, according to the employers. Lewis Harding, Chairman of the Press Committee of the Employers' Association, said last evening that there were many secessions from Electrical Workers' Union No. 3 and from Plumbers' Union No. 2, which is under suspension by the National union.

POLICE RAN WOMAN DOWN.

Sergeants Taking Care of Companion Were in Auto.

Three police Sergeants, it was learned yesterday, were the passengers in a big automobile which on Sunday night ran down Mrs. Annie Goldman of 307 Spring Street, on the Bowery. Charles Petersen of 753 Seventh Avenue, the chauffeur, went to prison in default of $1,000 bail rather than give his employer's name, when arraigned before Magistrate Mayo in the Tombs Court yesterday. He was bailed just as court was closing by the man whom he had sought to shield, who proved to be Charles Kemerleber, proprietor of an automobile place at 314 West Fifty-fourth Street. When asked who were in the machine he replied, "a lot of police Sergeants in charge of Sergt. McCann of the West Forty-seventh Street Station." As Petersen left court the Magistrate said:

"If you had been perfectly frank with me this morning I would have paroled you until your employer could have furnished bail, which, as I hear the woman is not dangerous injured, would have been merely nominal, and you would have saved yourself the better part of a day in jail."

ACCUSES HUSBAND IN COURT.

Charged with Murder Threat—Woman Says He Will Kill Her.

Marie McCormick, who was arraigned before Magistrate Flammer yesterday morning on the charge that she and her husband, Edward McCormick, had threatened to kill Lizzie Montfort of 207 East Fourteenth Street, astonished the court by saying that her husband would probably kill her, too. The Magistrate had just ordered the couple kept apart in the courtroom, as they were prompting one another in their evidence.

Mrs. McCormick, leaning over to the Magistrate, told him that her husband knew about a murder that had never been cleared up. She said that a little girl had been murdered here twelve years ago and that no one had been punished for the crime. She could not remember the name of the girl, but was sure that George Gordon Battle would know, as he was then the District Attorney. The Magistrate tried to get Mr. Battle on the telephone and, failing, committed the prisoners to six months in the workhouse.

Mr. Battle, when seen at his office, 170 Broadway, yesterday afternoon, said that

THE FAIR AT HARBOR HILL.

The fair at Harbor Hill, the country place of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay, for the benefit of the Nassau Hospital at Mineola, promises to be one of the largest and most successful ever given at a private house, for the opportunity of viewing the beautiful house and grounds has alone sold many tickets. The lower floor and the grounds are to be thrown open to the public.

A band will be stationed in the balcony of the large entrance hall, and around the sides of the hall are to be built eight booths, each representing a cottage of a different nation. Miss Eleanor Jay and Miss Cynthia Roche, gowned as Puritan maids, will assist Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont in one booth; Mrs. Butler Duncan, Jr., will have the French booth, and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and Mrs. Pendleton are to sell fancy articles. Mrs. Mackay will take charge of the tea and refreshment room, into which one of the drawing rooms is to be transformed; Mrs. N. W. B. Leeds will raffle off the tiny cart and harness used by the Duchess of Marlborough when a child, and the Duchess's mother, Mrs. Belmont, will furnish a donkey to go with the cart.

Autograph photographs of President Roosevelt and Mr. Parker will be raffled by Mrs. Mackay. A professional fortune-teller is another attraction.

Among the women assisting Mrs. Mackay are Mrs. W. Butler Duncan, Jr., Mrs. William Baldwin, Mrs. William Swan, Mrs. Edward Willets, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and Mrs. S. L. Pettit.

Tickets for the fair at 25 cents each may be procured by addressing Mrs. Mackay, Harbor Hill, Roslyn, L. I.

FATALLY HURT BY AUTO.

Victim Moans After Accident That His Family Will Starve.

George Cunningham, a butcher, of 447 Columbus Avenue, while on his way to work about 2 o'clock yesterday morning, was run down by a big touring automobile at the corner of Eighty-first Street and Central Park West, and so terribly injured that there is small chance for his life. The machine was in charge of two professional chauffeurs, Harry Bowen of 52 East Eighth Street and William Riley of 218 West Fifteenth Street. With them were two women.

Bowen placed Cunningham in the car, while the other chauffeur with the two women started to run away. Policeman Clark jumped into the machine, which was driven at top speed to the Roosevelt Hospital with Cunningham, who was still conscious. He moaned that his wife and children must starve if he died. The policeman and the chauffeur went in the automobile to the West Sixty-eighth Street Station, where they found the other members of the party under arrest. A messenger boy had been thrown from the automobile, followed, and told a policeman to arrest them.

The women were let go, but the two men were held by Magistrate Whitman in the West Side Court for examination to-morrow. Bail was furnished by Ralph Brooks, son of Belvedere Brooks, General Superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph Company.

MYSTERY IN BABY'S TRAVELS.

Hospital Has Baby, but Does Not Know Mother's Name.

A young woman with blonde hair entered the reception room at Bellevue Hospital yesterday afternoon with a pretty five-months-old, blue-eyed baby in her arms, and asked Dr. Erdwurm to receive the child as a patient. The doctor noticed that the woman did not carry the baby as if she was accustomed to the task, and said he did not think the child was hers. She thereupon walked out with the baby and sniffed disdainfully.

About an hour later a well-dressed young woman, who was highly excited, entered the reception room and asked if a baby had been received there. She gave a description of the baby and its clothing, and Dr. Erdwurm exclaimed:

"Why, your child was here an hour ago. Where did you lose it?"

The woman said she had been shopping in the dry goods district of Brooklyn, and left the baby in a carriage outside of a department store. When she went to look for the baby it was gone. She said she notified the police and visited many institutions in Brooklyn, and was told to go to Bellevue Hospital. As the baby was not there, and because the woman said she had reported the matter to the police, Dr. Erdwurm did not ask her name.

Shortly after 8 o'clock last night the young woman who Dr. Erdwurm says took the baby to Bellevue, entered the East Twenty-second Street Station with the child in her arms. She told Sergt. McDonald that she was Carrie Whelan of 147 East Nineteenth Street.

"I was passing the Bank Café, at 234 Third Avenue," she said, "when I heard an infant crying in the hall. I entered and found this little one. No one about the place seemed to know who it belonged to, so I brought it here."

The baby was entered on the blotter as a foundling, and Patrolman Power was sent to Bellevue with the infant. The police did not detain the woman, although the doctor later said that they had been negligent in not holding her.

Late last night the East Twenty-second Street Police remembered that early in the afternoon a woman who said that she was Mrs. Sarah Dunsheath of 120 Bergen Street, Brooklyn, had called at the station and reported the loss of her child. She said she had been shopping on Third Avenue in this borough. She is thought to be the same woman who inquired for her child at Bellevue. The police sent word to her that the baby was found, but up to a late hour last night had not heard from her.

DIED, BELIEVING WIFE ALIVE.

Mrs. Juchau Had Expired the Day Before—Husband Not Told.

Charles D. Juchau and his wife, of 418 Adelphi Street, Brooklyn, died within twenty-four hours of each other, Mrs. Juchau on Sunday and her husband yesterday. Mrs. Juchau died of paralysis and Mr. Juchau of lung trouble. They were natives of England and came to this country early in life. They had been married nearly fifty years. Mr. Juchau was for many years a manufacturer of fancy fans, and had a factory at 103 Pineapple Street, Brooklyn. Mrs. Juchau had suffered from paralysis for about a year, and some months ago her husband became ill.

Mr. Juchau was in constant attendance upon his wife during her illness, and when he himself had to go to the Seney Hospital several weeks ago for an operation the parting between them was most affecting. The two had been looking forward with pleasurable anticipation to the celebration of their golden wedding.

When Mrs. Juchau died on Sunday the doctors at the hospital had given up hope for the recovery of the husband, and the news of the wife's death was not communicated to him. He died yesterday afternoon in ignorance of her death. Mr. Juchau was eighty-two years old, and his wife seventy-five years old. They are survived by three daughters. Funeral services for both will be held to-morrow evening.

ASPHALT CARGO LANDED.

Threatened Action Against Trust Fails to Materialize.

The attorneys for the General Asphalt Company failed to carry out yesterday the threats they had made to have the cargo of asphalt of the steamship Kennet seized. The steamship docked at Long Island City, and there began to unload her cargo of 2,000 tons. It is consigned to George W. S. Whitney, formerly of the Standard Asphalt Company, representing Ambrose Howard Carner, who was appointed receiver for the Bermudez Lake works by the High Federal Court of Venezuela.

A statement was issued by stockholders of the Asphalt Trust yesterday, asking the voting Trustees to protect the stockholders' interests by protesting against the pamphlet of John W. Mack, the President, who characterized the action of the President of Venezuela in having a receiver appointed as violent and illegal. The statement asks for the publication of the facts in the re-

NEW CALENDARS AWAIT THE SUPREME COURT

More Than 11,000 Cases Now Ready to be Called.

AT LEAST TWO YEARS BEHIND

Cases Divided Into Three Classes—Calendars to be Called Simultaneously in Various Parts of Court.

The new court calendars prepared for the opening of the trial terms of the various parts of the Supreme Court were ready yesterday, but they will not be printed for a few days, as any new cases that may come up between now and the first Monday in October will be added. But as the new calendar will contain more than 11,000 cases, it shows that the courts are at least two years behind in their work.

As one of the clerks said yesterday, it would take at least two years to try just the old cases. The calendar prepared for the various parts of the Special Term of the court shows more than 1,200 cases, showing the same sort of congestion here. Of railroad damage suits for injuries received by accident, there are almost 2,000 cases alone. The twelve Trial Terms and the eight Special Terms of the court will open for business a week from Monday after a vacation of three months.

The new Trial Term calendar this year will be divided into three sections, or three distinct calendars. The first will contain actions to recover for personal injuries or death against railroad companies. The second will contain actions for libel, slander, false imprisonment, malicious prosecution, and all other actions sounding in tort except actions for personal injuries against railroad companies and actions to recover damages for conversion of property. Calendar No. 3 contains all other sorts of cases not specified as being on the other two calendars.

This is the first time since the Fall of 1902 that a new set of calendars has been prepared. In 1902 there were 15,000 cases on the calendar, but many of these were disposed of by trial or dismissal, the courts disposing of more cases daily than were added. In this way about 700 old cases were disposed of.

For instance, the first case on the new calendar is in thirty-six years old. It is that of the New York Guarantee and Indemnity Company against William H. Wickham, who years ago was Mayor of New York, and is an action involving a dispute over a contract. The counsel for the plaintiff at the time the suit was brought was the law firm of Butler, Stillwell & Hubbard, all of whom are dead. Their successors, for some reason or other, have never taken up the case, and it seems that nobody ever took interest enough in it to ask for any disposition of it.

The second case on the list, so far as age goes, is that of Thomas F. Lees against the Michigan Central Railroad Company. This action was commenced May 12, 1872, and the late Chester A. Arthur was counsel for the defendant. This also involves a contract dispute. There are six cases that date on the calendar for twenty-five years, and two that have a record of seventeen years. Altogether, there are 6,500 very old cases on the new calendar just prepared. This year more than 1,000 new cases were added to the calendar.

By a rule just adopted the Justices hope to dispose of more business during the coming year than ever before. This rule provides that when the cases on Calendar No. 1 are called they will be immediately assigned to certain Justices selected to try the cases on this calendar, while at the same time Calendar No. 2 is called in another part, and cases sent to Justices selected to try cases on that calendar. Calendar No. 3 will be called in still another part of the court. Thus three calendars will be called simultaneously instead of the cases being sent for trial indiscriminately to any part of the court, as they have been when lawyers answered "ready."

YEARNED FOR AMBULANCE RIDE.

Murray, with Foot Crushed, Went Home When It Was Over.

Charles Murray of 331 West Thirtieth Street was unloading ice from a wagon in front of a saloon at Twenty-eighth Street and Second Avenue yesterday afternoon, when one of the cakes fell on his right foot, crushing two of the toes. A policeman summoned an ambulance, and Dr. Palmer took the man to Bellevue Hospital. They had him on a stretcher and were taking him into the dressing room, when he got up from the stretcher, and, using his well foot, started to hop away.

"Where are you going?" asked Dr. Palmer.

"Home," said Murray.

"Aren't you going to let us treat that foot?"

"No, that's all right, Doc; I'll get that fixed up at home," said the man.

"Well, what in the world did you come down here for?" asked the surgeon.

"You see, I always thought I'd like to get a ride in one of them ambulances, and when the chance came this afternoon I couldn't resist the temptation."

And so saying, Murray hopped away.

Hoboken Alderman Held.

Herman G. Voll of the Hoboken Board of Aldermen was arraigned before Recorder Stanton there yesterday on a charge of extortion. He waived examination, and was held in $500 bail for the Grand Jury. The charge was made by Mrs. Julia Meyer, who has a saloon at 88 Garden Street, and who said that she had paid Voll $50 to have the license of the former tenant transferred to her. She and Robert Henn, who is employed by her, had been arrested on a charge of perjury brought by Voll, and immediately after she was taken into custody she made the accusation which led to the Alderman's arrest. Subsequently Mrs. Meyer revoked her allegation.

Court Officers Pay Heavily for Escape.

Court Officers Edward Frank and James Degnon, who were in charge of William J. Fields, alias Gillespie, a convicted forger at the time of his escape last Friday from the detention pen of the Court of General Sessions, were fined $100 each and severely lectured by Judge McMahon yesterday on a technical charge of contempt of court. Judge McMahon declared that he believed the escape to have been wholly and directly due to their carelessness.

Police Seek Dr. Mitchell of Vicksburg.

At the request of Dr. Alexander Duane, an alienist of 49 East Thirtieth Street, the police have sent out a general alarm for Dr. Alexander T. Mitchell of Vicksburg, Miss. Dr. Duane called at the Tenderloin Station last night and told Sergt. Wilson that Dr. Mitchell should have arrived in this city two days ago to undergo treatment for a nervous disorder, but had not appeared, although he had left his home on Tuesday. Dr. Duane described Dr. Mitchell

ARMED CLUBHOUSE RAID ON THE JERSEY COAST

Revolvers, Shotguns, Axes, and Sledges on Monmouth Drive.

NEGRO THREATENED TO SHOOT

Deputy Sheriff Smashed Window and Told Him to Shoot Through That a While—No Evidence Secured.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Sept. 19.—Monmouth County officials and an aggregation of Deal residents were baffled again early yesterday morning when, armed with revolvers, shotguns, axes, and sledgehammers, they surrounded the Home Club on Monmouth Drive, Deal, in the early hours of the morning and forced an entrance by chopping open the door with an axe after several vain attempts to knock it from its hinges with a sledgehammer. The county officials made an impromptu visit on last Wednesday evening, but were unsuccessful.

The Freehold authorities decided to make another attempt, and wended their way to Deal at 11 o'clock Saturday evening, led by Sheriff Bogardus, and met Mayor W. C. Hogencamp and his police forces. After surrounding the house Mayor Hogencamp and the police force rushed to the front door, and, it is said by members of the club, were so excited that they forgot to ring. They smashed the door open, and broke into the reception hall with revolvers and axes in their hands, but found only a crowd of excited men clad in pajamas, who, hearing the noise, rushed from their respective bedrooms to the main floor of the house.

The raiders searched the premises, but found only a basket of poker chips in the bottom of a trunk upstairs. The excitement lasted only a few minutes, so far as the house was concerned. The officers then searched the fields and inspected nearby hedges, but found nothing.

A member of the attacking party said this morning that, as the first blow was struck on the door a negro said: "The first man who comes in here will be shot."

Deputy Sheriff Close immediately took an axe and smashed the window, saying to the negro: "Shoot through that for a while," and then smashed the door.

The clubhouse is a three-story structure situated north of the Deal depot on Monmouth Drive. Its patrons are mostly New York and Philadelphia brokers.

ACCUSED OF KILLING SOLDIER.

Scow's Captain Arrested for Murder of Private Hammett.

Capt. Alexander Abrahamson, thirty-seven years old, of the scow Flint, now lying at West Seventy-seventh Street, was formally charged with the murder of Private Joseph T. Hammett of the Eighth United States Coast Artillery, before Magistrate Crane, in the Harlem Court yesterday. Hammett, who was stabbed to death with a bayonet, was found dead in the Westchester Creek on July 26 last. Abrahamson, who was arrested only yesterday morning by Detectives Bensser, Kennedy, and Powers of the Westchester Police Station, testified that Hammett, after leaving a hotel in Westchester village at about midnight, went aboard his boat, then lying near the Unionport Bridge, and that he had ordered him ashore.

Suicide Tired of Supporting Children.

Because, it is thought, that he was afraid that he was going to be discharged, Thomas Reilly, forty-three years old, a letter carrier, committed suicide at his home, 237 East Thirty-third Street, yesterday noon by taking a quantity of carbolic acid. After dinner, he complained to his wife that he was tired of supporting his children. A few minutes later she found him lying unconscious in the bedroom with a small bottle which had contained carbolic acid at his side.

FOUR GREAT CRUISERS PURCHASED BY RUSSIA

Vessels Sold by Argentina Reported to be at Libau.

MAY MEAN COMPLICATIONS

It Is Probable That the Ships Were First Bought by a Neutral Power and Then Transferred.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 20.—It is reported here that four warships purchased from the Argentine Republic have arrived at Libau.

BERLIN, Wednesday, Sept. 21.—A correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger has telegraphed from Revel an interview with Vice Admiral Rojestvensky, in command of the Russian Baltic fleet.

The Admiral declared that he expected three additional vessels before long, and that with the augmented squadron, after necessary manoeuvres, he would leave for the Far East.

The correspondent dimly intimates that the arrival of the squadron at Vladivostok need not be expected before the Spring.

It is possible that, if the St. Petersburg report is true, the sale of the Argentine cruisers will create international complications. That Russia began negotiations last May for the purchase of four warships built in Italy for the Argentine Republic seems certain, and it was stated later, on apparently reliable authority, that Argentina had broken off the negotiations because she did not want to sell direct to a belligerent.

Russia, it is understood, suggested that the sale be made through the medium of Venezuela, Costa Rica, or Bulgaria, the ships being acquired by either one of these States and by it transferred to Russia. But Argentina was still nervous, and insisted that if the cruisers were sold it must be to a bona fide maritime power.

When the negotiations were next heard of Turkey was reported to be conducting them through the Argentine Legation at Paris. Later it was asserted that France had been enlisted as an intermediary. A dispatch from Buenos Ayres on Aug. 5 said that a French corporation had made a proposition for the purchase of two of the vessels, but it was added that they were to be delivered in France and remain in a French port until the close of the Russo-Japanese war.

If any power has consented to aid Russia in this matter Japan may have something to say. The case of the two Argentine cruisers sold to Japan cannot be regarded as a precedent, for these vessels were purchased before the outbreak of the war, and reached Japan just prior to the first attack on Port Arthur by Admiral Togo's fleet.

The four warships which Argentina was willing to sell are quite modern and very formidable vessels. They are the Garibaldi, of 13,384 tons, and the General Belgrano, the General San Martin, and the Pueyrredon, of 13,000 tons each. The first and last were built at Sestri Ponente and the two others at Leghorn.

The Garibaldi and the Pueyrredon each carry two 10-inch guns, ten 6-inch guns, six 4.7-inch guns, ten 2.2-inch guns, and a large number of smaller guns. The General Belgrano carries two 10-inch, fourteen 6 inch, two 3-inch, ten 2.2-inch, and smaller guns. The General San Martin has four 8-inch, ten 6-inch, six 4.7-inch, twelve 2.2-inch, and other guns. All four vessels are heavily protected by armor. The speed of the Garibaldi and the General San Martin is over 19 knots, and that of the two other vessels over 20 knots.

The Baltic fleet is particularly weak in modern armored cruisers; and if it is reinforced by the four Argentine vessels it will be a very much more formidable squadron.

ATTACK ON PORT ARTHUR.

Japanese Endeavor to Take Wroks in the Northeast.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 20.—The general attack on Port Arthur, which began yesterday, and in which the Japanese fleet is cooperating, was resumed this morning.

The Japanese captured two important forts on either side of Sui-shi-Ying, north of Port Arthur.

CHE-FOO, Sept. 20.—Authoritative information has been received here of a general attack upon Fort Arthur by the Japanese forces, which began yesterday before daybreak and continued until dark.

Attack on Northeast Forts.

This is the attack for which the Japanese have been preparing for the past nineteen days, with slight hope of success. As forecast in these dispatches, the attack is directed against certain of the northeast forts. The main object is to capture the fortifications on Kik-Wan Mountain, Rih-Lung Mountain, and the intermediate forts.

The foregoing comes from a Russian of standing, whose previous information has been correct. He adds that the attack at the end of August, which was represented as two separate assaults, really constituted a ten days' battle, the fighting being heaviest during the first three days and the last four days of that period. Although the Japanese retired on Aug. 31 along the greater part of their line, they remained in four supplementary forts on the northeast front, which they had captured from the Russians. These include two forts fifty yards from Rih-Lung Mountain and two others at a somewhat greater distance.

Since Aug. 31 the Japanese have bombarded very slightly, while the Russians have been throwing approximately one

CONDEMN NEW YORK ALDERMEN

New Rochelle Board Threatens to Block Westchester Franchise.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The New Rochelle Board of Aldermen passed drastic resolutions to-night denouncing the New York Aldermen for holding up the New York and Port Chester Railroad and granting a franchise to its rival, the New York, Westchester and Boston Railway.

This, the Aldermen declared, was an assumed corporation put into the field solely for the purpose of obstructing rapid transit in Westchester County. The Railroad Committee wanted to go even further, and bind the board to oppose any application the New York, Westchester and Boston Company might make for franchises in Westchester County, but Mayor Clarke said that he didn't think this would be proper, inasmuch as no application was before the board. This resolution was reluctantly laid on the table.

The board also passed a resolution demanding that all candidates for legislative office and for Governor and Lieutenant Governor pledge themselves in advance to aid the New York and Port Chester Road in its efforts to get a franchise over and under the streets of the Bronx, so that it can proceed at once to construct its proposed rapid transit system for the eastern part of Westchester County.

Copies of the resolution were ordered sent to all Boards of Trade and Aldermen in Westchester County and to the Merchants' Association of New York.

The Aldermen also adopted a new ordinance against the smoke nuisance, going into effect Oct. 15. It makes the use of soft coal on the locomotives passing through the city punishable with a fine or imprisonment.

WANTED THEIR MONEY BACK.

"Rooters" Angry Because New Yorks and Cincinnatis Did Not Play.

Rain checks were given to each person who paid admission into the Polo Grounds yesterday to see the first game of the final series between the New Yorks and Cincinnatis, and because the game was not started a number of the "rooters" made a strong protest and demanded their money back. There had been only occasional light showers early in the afternoon, and at the time that Umpire Emslie declared the game postponed, 3:45 o'clock, there was a slight sprinkling of rain, but the diamond and outfield appeared dry and in fine playable condition.

Several of the men who demanded the return of their money said they had paid to see a game played, and that in their opinion the weather was not unsuitable. Others claimed that if the two teams had taken the field and started to play they would have been satisfied, even if the contest had been afterward postponed. Secretary Knowles said the demand of the few men for the return of their money was ridiculous. "We gave every one a rain check, which entitled the holder to see another game. The outlook was, even if the teams had begun play, that rain would have stopped proceedings, and it was thought better not to play at all."

DOG FOUND STOLEN HORSE.

Met Him on Street and Said "Howdy," Dog Fashion.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, Sept. 20.—Rex, a big St. Bernard dog, was the detective who to-day recovered for his master, "Doc" Rinard Deutscher, a horse that was stolen from his stable in July.

Deutscher was driving another horse through Main Street to-day when Rex jumped from the saloonkeeper's carriage, and, running at a horse attached to a huckster's wagon, proceeded to bark and wag his tail furiously. Then he ran back toward Deutscher's carriage and barked more furiously. Again returning to the horse with the huckster's wagon, Rex jumped up at the horse and licked the horse's jaw. The horse cocked its ears, lowered its head, and rubbed its neck against the dog's head. Deutscher tried to call the dog away, but Rex wouldn't leave the horse.

A crowd quickly gathered. A man who knew that Rex had slept for two years in the stall with the horse that had been stolen suggested to Deutscher that probably Rex had found the stolen horse.

Deutscher then examined the horse, and found that it was his. The animal's tail had been docked, his mane had been shorn, and several identifying spots had been dyed.

The huckster, willingly surrendered the horse, which he said he had bought from a Hackensack man, and he was got held.

FATHER TAKES BRIDEGROOM.

Mr. Rathbone Takes His Son from Altar After Ceremony.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Society folk here are interested to-day in the accidental disclosure of a secret wedding, the principals in which were separated after leaving the altar.

Early this Summer Rowland B. Rathbone, a son of B. P. Rathbone, an insurance man of New York, came here to spend his vacation. He met Miss Elizabeth Segler, and they made a trip to Lestershire, where, on Aug. 20 they were married by the Rev. J. M. Crandall. The relatives of the girl suspected something and wired for Rathbone's father, who arrived just after the ceremony had been performed and returned with his son to New York.

The young woman, when seen to-day evidently had some second thoughts about the marriage and said that Mr. Rathbone came after his son on her request. She said young Rathbone had "too many strings to his bow" to suit her.

It is said that steps have been taken to procure an annulment of the marriage on the grounds that both the contracting parties were under the age of eighteen when the ceremony was performed. The bride is a very pretty girl and her family is one of the best known in this section.

Collector Sues to Recover $3,500 Paid for an Alleged Dupre.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 30.—John N. Beckley, a Rochester financier, recently bought in Paris, for $3,500, a painting which was represented to be by Jules Dupré. After Mr. Beckley had placed the painting on exhibition in this city he says he learned that it was bogus.

The painting was purchased through Samuel Collins, who is now being sued in the Supreme Court here for the recovery of the purchase price and damages for the al-

GREAT BATTLE AT MUKDEN IMMINENT

A Japanese Army Advancing On the Manchurian Capital.

RUSSIANS MASSED ON RIVER

Kuropatkin Is Trying to Hold the Fu-Shan Mines, Which Supply Coal for the Railway.

MUKDEN, Sept. 20.—A battle is imminent.

The crops of tall millet have nearly all been harvested, affording a better field over which to fire on the flat plains.

The River Hun is the direct front of the Russian Army.

ST. PETERSBURG, Wednesday, Sept. 21.—The following dispatch was received yesterday from Gen. Kuropatkin:

"The reconnaissance made Sept. 17 established the fact that the Japanese position at Bentsiaputze was strongly held by a brigade with guns. There was none of the enemy east of Bentsiaputze, but Japanese reinforcements arrived Sept. 18 in the vicinity of that village.

"Large Japanese forces from Liao-Yang have already crossed to the right bank of the Tai-Tse River.

The sensational report that Gen. Kuroki has crossed the Hun River unopposed and that the whole Japanese army is advancing upon Mukden does not receive much credence here as being in direct contradiction of official news issued by the General Staff.

Gen. Kuropatkin announces that on Sept. 17 there was not a single Japanese east of Bentsiaputze. How, it is asked, could Gen. Kuroki, with his 100,000 men, slip past Gen. Rennenkampff's Cossacks and cross the Hun River near the Fu-Shan coal mines, thirty miles east of Mukden?

Fu-Shan is situated on the road from Bentsiaputze. This road is carefully watched by Gen. Kuropatkin's outposts between Mukden and Sin-tsin-Tin. A strong guard has been placed at the Fu-Shan mines, which Gen. Kuropatkin will not give up without a struggle, as the loss of the mines would involve the cutting off of the coal supply for the whole of the Manchurian Railway.

Nevertheless it is considered more than doubtful if Gen. Kuropatkin will make a decisive stand south of Tie Pass.

TROLLEY RUNS AWAY.

Eight Persons Hurt in Car's Dash Down Arlington Hill.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, Sept. 20.—Eight persons were injured, two seriously, in a runaway trolley car on Midland Avenue, Arlington, to-night. The car rounded the curve from Kearny Avenue into Midland Avenue, when, according to the conductor, Alexander Hartenstein, the brakes refused to work, and the car plunged three blocks down Midland Avenue and around a sharp curve, and continued one hundred yards across the tracks of the Erie Railroad, where it stopped. The injured are:

FINSTER, ISAAC, 182½ Midland Avenue; broken kneecap.
HOOLEY, GEORGE W.; injuries to body.
HOOLEY, Miss ROSE, 536 Chestnut Street, Arlington; injured about the body.
McDERMOTT, WILLIAM, conductor of the car; head and face cut.
SMITH, Miss EVA, 411 Forrest Street; cuts on head and face.
SHEPARD, ALBERT, Schuyler Avenue, Arlington; head cut and hand crushed.
SAUPER, CHARLES, 182 Midland Avenue, Arlington; slightly injured.
VAN EMBERG, GRACE, Schuyler Avenue, Arlington; head and arms hurt and internal injuries.

All of the passengers except Miss Van Emberg and Albert Shepard were injured by jumping. These two remained in their car and were painfully cut and bruised. Miss Van Emberg was rendered unconscious, and her injuries are thought to be serious. Miss Eva Smith jumped from the car at Forrest Street, and was picked up unconscious. When the car turned into Midland Avenue, the motorman opened the front door and shouted to the passengers:

"Look out for yourselves, everybody."

There was a stampede at once, and before the car had reached the incline at the foot of Midland Avenue, all of the passengers except Shepard and Miss Van Emberg had jumped. Hartenstein says that he was knocked from the car by the brake. He was not injured. Both the conductor and motorman were arrested.

SAYS BRYAN IS ANTI-PARKER.

E. Benjamin Andrews Believes Fusion Deal Is on in Nebraska.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 20.—Chancellor E. Benjamin Andrews of Nebraska University is of the opinion that Bryan Democratic votes in Nebraska are to be cast for Republican Electors in exchange for Republican votes for the fusion candidates for the State Legislature.

"At the present time there is every chance that Roosevelt will secure the electoral vote of Nebraska, that the Republican State ticket will be elected, and that the fusion element will dominate the Legislature and elect W. J. Bryan next Senator from that State," said the Chancellor to-day, after delivering an address at the World's Fair.

"I am not prepared to offer proof that there is an out and out deal between Bryan and the Republican leaders in Nebraska, but that is the talk throughout the State, and I am convinced that all of Mr. Bryan's personal following and another following which he is able to control will not support Judge Parker. It is the general understanding in Nebraska that the result of the election will be as I have stated in case present plans materialize on election day. It is Mr. Bryan's ambition, of course, to be Senator. I think he has lost very little of his personal popularity in Nebraska, and I believe he can influence this vote any way he desires."

Small Election Wagers.

Yesterday for the first time in a week or more there was some betting on the Presidential election, but it was confined to small wagers, of which W. G. Gallagher put up $100 on Roosevelt against $40 with J. J. Judge. About $2,000 was offered on Roosevelt at 2 to 1, but Parker men wanted 10 to 4½.

HORSE ON A RAMPAGE.

Dashes Through Store Windows and Then Lays Out Amateur Veterinary.

A horse hitched to a delivery wagon took fright at an automobile at Thirty-eighth Street and Eighth Avenue last evening just when the avenue was thronged with people, and bolted down the line quite out of the control of his driver.

At Thirty-sixth Street the driver, Antonio Ehrman of 304 West Twenty-sixth Street, pulled on the right rein so vigorously that the frightened animal swerved and plunged through the plate-glass window of the store of Edward Hunter, at the southwest corner. Even this did not stop him, and, cut and bleeding, the horse staggered through the other window at right angles with the one through which he entered. Then he ran into the store through the open door. There, before he could do any more damage, he was seized and led out into the street. The wagon, together with Ehrman, had been left at the curb when the horse broke up on to the sidewalk. Ehrman was not injured.

While the driver and bystanders were trying to bandage up the animal, Joseph Nolan, also a driver, of 509 Tenth Avenue, passed by with Miss Catherine Wolferth. He attempted to take charge of things, and set to work binding up the horse's hind legs. A kick from the horse sent him to the gutter unconscious.

A physician from Roosevelt Hospital spent some time in binding up an ugly wound in Nolan's face. When he regained consciousness, Miss Wolferth took him home in a cab.

THINK MINTO IS THE MESSIAH.

Doukhobors Hear of Governor General's Tour and Start on Pilgrimage.

ROSTHERN, N. W. T., Sept. 20.—Doukhobors, the Russian religious enthusiasts, who are settled in this district in large numbers, have created the greatest excitement among Canadian settlers by once more leaving their agricultural pursuits and starting on a pilgrimage in search of the Messiah.

On hearing of the great overland ride being made by the Governor General, Lord Minto, from Battleford to Saskatoon, accompanied by a mounted guard of police and much military pomp, they decided that this man, who was inspiring such respect on the part of the Canadians, must be the Messiah for whom they had been waiting, and they immediately started on one of their pilgrimages.

Several of them were promptly arrested by the police here and housed in a vacant building.

LAWYER DIES AT COURT HOUSE.

Francis Driscoll Stricken Just After Arguing a Motion.

Francis Driscoll, a lawyer who came here from Albany a few months ago and took up practice in the offices of Daniel F. Cohalan, at 271 Broadway, died suddenly yesterday in the doorway on the Broadway side of the County Court House, in the City Hall Park. He had just argued a motion in the Surrogates' Court for a Mrs. Bridget McGowan. She was leaving the court house with him, when he staggered and fell. Her cries brought several lawyers and a physician, who were in the building at the time. They ran to assist Mr. Driscoll, but found him unconscious. They carried him into the corridor of the court house. The physician, who helped to carry him, pronounced him dead, and said his death was probably due to apoplexy.

At the offices of Mr. Cohalan it was said that Mr. Driscoll was forty years old and that the news of his death had been telegraphed to his brother, the Rev. Father Driscoll, a Roman Catholic priest at Fonda, N. Y.

EXTRA POLICE FOR BROADWAY.

Bicycle Bluecoats Added—Mounted Men Planned for Theatre Crowds.

Police Commissioner McAdoo announced yesterday that in order to make Broadway safer he had created five special patrol posts for that thoroughfare. Two bicycle policemen will be on duty there from 8 P. M. to 4 A. M., one between Twenty-sixth and Thirty-eighth Streets and the other between Thirty-eighth and Forty-ninth Streets.

Three ordinary policemen will be put on beats from Twenty-sixth Street to Forty-ninth Street. The upper post will include Times Square, but the Commissioner is considering the establishment of a post to take in Times Square alone, believing that the big hotels and numerous theatres there will justify the addition.

The Commissioner is planning to put in service soon several mounted policemen, especially in the theatre district. He thinks that they are best able to control the crowds which swarm upon Broadway at the close of the performances. The Commissioner will have his force of policemen available for the more crowded parts of Manhattan and Brooklyn swelled to-day by the transfer of 100 men back from Coney Island and other Summer resorts.

W. B. S. WHALEY FAILS.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 20.—Owing more than a million dollars and with assets of $1,200, William B. Smith Whaley, the financial supporter of several cotton manufacturing enterprises in the South, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court to-day.

Mr. Whaley was the senior member of the William B. Smith Whaley Company of this city, and is a resident of Newton. For some time he has been interested in raising funds for textile industries in the Southern States, particularly in South Carolina. His total liabilities are $1,114,125. The secured claims amount to $1,087,951, and the unsecured to $26,174. In his petition he states that his only assets are personal property valued at $1,100, real estate worth $100, and household goods. There are ninety-one creditors. The individual claims range from $500 to $175,000.

JAIL GUARDS UNDER BEDS.

Alabama Militiamen Crawled to Safety from Mob, Says Witness.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., Sept. 20.—The Military Court resumed its inquiry to-day as to the conduct of the officers and men of Company F in connection with the lynching of Horace Maples.

Giles, the jailer, testified that several of the men were so badly frightened that they were worse than useless in the defense of the jail. Some of them, he said, took refuge under beds and in closets of the building, while the mob was besieging.

STANDARD OIL-HARRIMAN WAR OVER UNION PACIFIC

Rockefeller-Gould Party Threatens New Competition.

WANTS A HIGHER DIVIDEND

This Is Refused Lest a Profitable Bond Conversion Into Union Pacific Common Shake Control.

Rumors of trouble between the Rockefeller-Gould combination and the so-called Harriman group of financiers, which have been whispered about in Wall Street for several days, found confirmation yesterday in several well-informed quarters, and also in the stock market. That broke sharply, while, without any apparent reason, Union Pacific issues displayed extraordinary strength, recalling the first stage of the Northern Pacific corner of 1901.

The differences of opinion between these two great camps of capitalists have been, it is learned, gradually widening, and have now reached a stage where they can be described as very nearly acute. When the beginning was nobody knows exactly. The breach was a small one at first—something in which the Standard Oil had been offended—which, it was thought, would soon be forgotten. But instead of healing the breach widened. The latest trouble has been, so it is understood, due to the desire of the Rockefeller interests to get a larger return on their heavy holdings of Union Pacific stock. This stock now pays only 4 per cent., although the road is earning enough to make the payment of 5 per cent. dividends a matter which would not in the least strain its treasury.

The reason for Harriman's unwillingness to pay 5 per cent., according to the best information obtainable, is that he fears such increase would result in the conversion into common stock of $87,000,000 of bonds, necessitating the acquisition by himself and his associates of some $40,000,000 more of that stock in order to be certain of absolute control of the road. For it is now well established that unless control is held absolutely and is not in the open market its continuation is seriously jeopardized.

The convertible bonds above mentioned may, prior to May 1, 1906, be converted into stock at par. As these bonds are now quoted at 103⅝, such a proceeding would involve a loss of $40 on every bond, a very substantial sum, should any one undertake that method of securing control of the Union Pacific. If the common stock paid 5 per cent. dividends it would quickly rise to a point where the conversion would become profitable. Mr. Harriman is therefore guarding his fences in refusing to pay more than 4 per cent. on Union Pacific common.

A number of moves by Standard Oil which can hardly be considered friendly to the Harriman interests have been detected lately. The most recent and the most important of these moves was the entrance into the board of the Western Pacific, a new railroad which is to extend the Gould system to the Pacific Coast, of men identified with the Rockefeller-Gould combination, and the renewed reports of the contemplated extension to the Pacific of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul—a Rockefeller road through and through. Surveys for the latter extension were completed several years ago, but the plans were not hurried. Instead, the St. Paul was to have a traffic exchange with the Union Pacific. This was in the days when the Rockefeller-Harriman interests were supposed to be nearly identical, but it has been an open secret that the benefit to the St. Paul Road of this arrangement has not been what was expected.

The Western Pacific, again, when completed, will be a direct rival of the Southern Pacific's Central Pacific branch. Since the election of Gould-Rockefeller representatives to the Board of Directors of that road the project ceases as a paper railroad and becomes a threat against the monopoly of the Central Pacific. The unfriendly purpose of this project toward the Harriman lines has become especially apparent since the election to its board of Edwin Hawley, whom the Street supposes to be one of the bitterest enemies of Harriman.

That the Street was beginning to look with uneasiness on the situation showed itself in the course of prices yesterday. While the market as a whole was continuously declining, Union Pacific acted erratically, to say the least. Its fluctuations were violent, but it finally closed near the highest for the day, at 98⅝, after having at one time sold at 96⅝, being the one prominent exception to the tone of the market. Whether there was competitive buying or not it was impossible to ascertain, but it is known that for the heaviest purchases the name was given of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who are generally accepted as the immediate representatives of Mr. Harriman.

Harriman Said to Rule Alton Road.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—The Harriman interests in the Chicago and Alton Railroad have issued a call for proxies to be used at the annual meeting to be held in this city on Oct. 4. The blank proxies are made out in the names of E. H. Harriman, Mortimer L. Schiff, and S. M. Felton. No doubt is entertained in railroad circles that when the smoke of the battle has cleared away the Harriman element will be found still in control of the Alton.

A CONTRACTOR DISAPPEARS.

Wife of A. R. Gates Thinks Italian Employes Have Murdered Him.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Arthur R. Gates, a wealthy contractor of Baldwinsville, has disappeared and the Monroe County Deputy Sheriffs and Rochester detectives are unable to find a trace of him.

Mr. Gates drew $2,000 from a Syracuse bank on Saturday. On Sunday he drove his wife to the railroad station in Rochester, and started back to Penfield alone. The money was in his pocket. Some hours later his horse was found drawing an empty buggy. Gates's hat and some papers were found, badly torn, in the bottom of the vehicle.

His wife thinks he has been murdered by some of the Italian laborers he employed.

SAVED FROM TOMB OF SAND.

Workman Rescued from Cave-In by Fast-Shoveling Comrades.

A dozen workmen worked desperately with shovels yesterday afternoon and saved the life of a comrade, Joseph Mundy, thirty-two years old, of Jamaica, who had been buried in a cave-in while digging an excavation at Belmont Park, in Queens. The other men leaped to safety as the sandy banks, loosened by the rain, gave way. Mundy was covered completely from sight.

Jumping back into the excavation, Mundy's companions wielded their shovels as fast as they could. After ten minutes of the hardest of work they uncovered his head. Munday was unconscious. Ropes were tied under his arms, and as the sand was thrown back from around him by the rescuers he was hoisted clear. A crowd of women cheered the workers on.

Ambulance Surgeon Rourke hurried Mundy to St. Mary's Hospital at Jamaica, where it was said last evening that his condition was not serious.

DEATHBED IN TRAIN'S PATH.

Two Ohio Women, Wrapped in Coverlet, Lie Down on Track.

BUCYRUS, Ohio, Sept. 20.—Mary and Lizzie Kehrer, who lived alone on a small farm near here, wrapped themselves in a bedspread and lay down on the Ohio Central Railroad track last night. They were killed by a passenger train.

A few years ago Mary, who was fifty-eight years old, contracted a disease that was pronounced incurable. She brooded over her illness, and her melancholy was shared by her sister, two years her junior. They often discussed suicide with their neighbors, and the older sister remained steadfast in her determination to kill herself. Lizzie, who at first had argued against it, began to agree with her that it was justifiable.

Instead of going to bed last night, they wrapped the coverlets about themselves and went to the track in the darkness of early evening. It is believed that they waited nearly three hours for the train.

FOUR MEN KILLED IN MINE.

Giant Slab of Rock Fell in Gallery 1,400 Feet Underground.

Special to The New York Times.

DOVER, N. J., Sept. 20.—Four miners were killed, three of them instantly, in an accident in the Andover mine at Hibernia to-day. A seam in the hanging wall was responsible for the accident, which occurred 1,400 feet under ground.

The dead were Lawrence Bednacht, forty-four; John Koza, twenty-two; Borchuck Garyetz, thirty, and Stephen Debarick, thirty-three years old. Mike Kasina and John Polika were injured.

The men were placing a compressed air drill in position when a slab of rock weighing several tons fell on them. Volunteers rushed to the scene, but Bednacht, Koza, and Garyets were dead when they were reached. Debarick was removed to the Memorial Hospital, in Morristown, where he died later in the day.

Superintendent James Reed, who has been employed in the mine for more than thirty years, is at a loss to account for the cause of the accident, which, he says, is the worst that the mine has ever known.

CAN'T FIND HAVEMEYER.

Deputy Sheriffs Seek Man Sued by Union Club.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Deputy Sheriffs hunted in vain to-day for William A. Havemeyer, Jr., sued by the Union Club for a board bill of $500. They visited the Riverside Golf Club, where young Havemeyer was said to be living, only to find he had left there three weeks before. Friends said that he had gone South on a pleasure trip.

Secretary Mather Smith of the club declares that the suit will be prosecuted, but denied that there was any intention to strike Havemeyer's name from the club rolls. He admitted that Havemeyer had claimed that the bill was unfair.

HOSE CAUSES AUTO CRASH.

Two New Yorkers Among Seven Persons Injured in Chicago Accident.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—In an automobile accident at Twentieth Street and Michigan Avenue to-day Miss Neva E. Scott of Chicago was seriously injured and her six companions were slightly hurt. The party included, besides Miss Scott, Miss Helen Davies of New York, a niece of H. G. Davies; L. C. Murphy, a theatrical manager of Boston; Dr. Reginald Smith, surgeon at Bellevue Hospital, New York; Miss Grace Bowen of Chicago, Miss Zala Terry of Peoria, and Miss Helen Reidy of St. Louis.

A hose stretched across the street caused the automobile to swerve and crash into the curb, throwing the occupants to the pavement. The men, despite their injuries, assisted the bruised and frightened women to the grass plot beside the boulevard and summoned medical aid. It had been the intention of the party to start for St. Louis to-day.

G. W. VANDERBILT WINS POINT.

Has Damage Suits Transferred on Account of Local Prejudice.

Special to The New York Times.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Sept. 20.—An order has been granted by Judge Pritchard of the United States Court for the removal of four suits against George W. Vanderbilt to the United States Court. The order is based on the ground of existing "prejudice and local influence" which Mr. Vanderbilt alleges would prevent him from obtaining justice here.

The four suits are brought by former employes and administrators for damages. M. C. Graham, administratrix of D. H. Graham, sues for $20,000, and J. Z. Russell, administrator of Richard Russell, sues for $20,000. D. H. Graham and Richard Russell were ferrymen of Mr. Vanderbilt's and lost their lives in the French Broad River some time ago.

James J. Parker was injured by a corn-husking machine and wants $10,000. R. S. Clark was thrown from a mule and demands $15,000.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Senator McCarren early this morning handed out the following slate as the one which he thought would be put through at the convention to-day:

Governor—EDWARD M. GROUT of Kings.
Lieutenant Governor—RANDOLPH GUGGENHEIMER of New York.
Secretary of State—JOHN PALLACE of Monroe.
Controller—GEORGE HALL of St. Lawrence.
Attorney General—CHARLES N. BULGER of Oswego.
State Treasurer—EDWIN ATWATER of Dutchess.
State Engineer and Surveyor—THOMAS H. STRYKER of Oneida.
Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals—EDGAR M. CULLEN of Kings.
Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals—JOHN CUNNEEN of Erie.

That Controller Edward M. Grout of New York would be the nominee of the Democratic State Convention for Governor was already a settled conviction with the crowds in the various headquarters and in the corridor of the Grand Union Hotel when the big leaders went into conference at 11:30 o'clock in the rooms of ex-Senator Edward Murphy.

As a last stand to defeat, if possible, the nomination of Edward M. Grout, the delegates opposed to Hill and McCarren sprung the candidacy of Mayor George B. McClellan shortly before midnight and are pressing it before the leaders. The movement was brought to a head in the old Goodyear headquarters, in the Grand Union, where at 11 o'clock a meeting was held which was attended by delegates from various sections.

William J. Conners of Buffalo was one of the leaders in the movement, and as a starter he put in his twelve Erie County delegates. In addition to these there were representatives present from Niagara, Onondaga, Monroe, Dutchess, Putnam, Allegany, Cattaraugus, Chautauqua, Ontario, Genesee, Cayuga, and Otsego Counties.

Although the full delegations from these counties were not all present, those who attended promised a majority of the members in practically every case, and the entire delegations in many instances. Clinton County was not represented, but Thomas F. Conway sent word to the meeting that, while he was unable to attend, he was in sympathy with its object and would promise that the three delegates from Clinton would abide by the decision reached in the meeting. In all, more than fifty delegates attended, and none were from Greater New York.

Making McClellan Test.

Right from the moment the gathering came together it was determined to test the sentiment for McClellan among the other delegations. A committee was named to visit Senator Hill, William F. Sheehan, and Charles F. Murphy to urge that McClellan be considered. Martin Cary of the law firm of Bissell, Cary & Cooke of Buffalo, was named to head this committee, his associates being John Hogan of Syracuse, John J. Cummings, and John Dunphy of Onondaga, Frank H. Mott of Chatauqua, and Daniel McMahon of Cattaraugus.

Then the meeting took a recess until after midnight to give the committee an opportunity to carry out the instructions so it would be able to report back. While this meeting was in progress Murphy was dining at Saratoga Lake with friends. John B. McDonald was the host, and at the dinner were ex-Senator John Fox, President of the Democratic Club; Thomas F. Conway, George Weed, son of Smith M. Weed, and Senator Dowling.

Mr. Murphy had left word that he would be back in his headquarters shortly after 10 o'clock, but it was nearly an hour later before he appeared. Several of his lieutenants were waiting for him, including President Frank A. O'Donnel of the Tax Board, Congressman W. Bourke Cockran, and T. F. Smith.

They informed Mr. Murphy immediately of what had occurred up stairs, and the Tammany leader sent for Chairman Cord Meyer of the State Committee. Mr. Meyer was waiting in the State Committee Headquarters, which are right next to Mr. Murphy's rooms, and he came in at once. He and Mr. Murphy were together for a few minutes and then Mr. Murphy started for the suite of William F. Sheehan on the floor above.

At this time the committee, headed by Mr. Cary, had called on Mr. Hill to urge the name of McClellan, but did not see him. As Mr. Murphy entered the quarters of Mr. Sheehan and passed back into Mr. Sheehan's bedroom, the committee entered the parlor of Mr. Sheehan's suite also. They sent word to Mr. Sheehan, who left Mr. Murphy inside and came out to meet them.

Sheehan Embarrassed.

Both Mr. Cary and Mr. Hogan explained to Mr. Sheehan that they had been instructed to urge the candidacy of Mayor McClellan, and they further said that they represented between seventy and eighty up-State delegates who wanted to secure the consent of the New York delegation to use the name of New York's Mayor.

Mr. Sheehan looked worried for the minute. Turning to Mr. Hogan he said: "This move on your part at this time is somewhat embarrassing. We have just arranged to hold a sort of general conference, which I think may settle this entire situation to your satisfaction. If you will allow this matter to rest for a very short time you may find this to be correct."

Mr. Cary and Mr. Hogan assented to this and sat down to wait. Mr. Sheehan returned to the private room where Mr. Murphy was waiting, and then the two men crossed the hall by a side door and entered the room of ex-Senator Edward Murphy, Jr. There, waiting for them, were ex-Senator

Senator McCarren asking them to join the gathering. It then was past midnight.

August Belmont and National Committeeman Norman E. Mack joined the conference right after the message had been sent to Hill and McCarren. The latter was strangely missing, but Senator Hill was in his room, and Senator Murphy, with Mr. Mack, went to him and escorted him to the conference.

At 1:30 A. M. the conference in ex-Senator Murphy's room broke up and William F. Sheehan, acting as spokesman, said:

"There has been no decision arrived at and the conference has adjourned until 9 o'clock."

Sullivans for Grout.

Since 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when the boom of Judge D. Cady Herrick was disposed of through a conference held between certain influential leaders who were prominent in the movement to bring about the nomination of Judge Parker at St. Louis, and as the result of the position taken by the Albany County delegation against Judge Herrick's Gubernatorial aspirations, the Grout tide had been steadily rising. It reached the flood when the Sullivans, "Big Tim" and "Little Tim," openly espoused the Grout cause, "Little Tim" walking up to the McCarren headquarters and having a Grout badge pinned on him.

Emboldened by the stand taken by the Sullivans, other Tammany leaders began to voice the opinion that Grout was the strongest man that could be put up, thereby giving color to the assertion made by Senator McCarren yesterday that in opposing the candidacy of Mr. Grout, Mr. Murphy was going contrary to the sentiment of his organization.

Despite the great interest which was taken in the decision on the Gubernatorial nomination, the political significance of such an influential contingent of Tammany Hall as that represented by the Sullivans, in giving aid and encouragement to Senator McCarren in his fight for the nomination of Mr. Grout, was not overlooked. It was generally regarded to portend a change in the leadership of Tammany unless Mr. Murphy shows a change of front.

Guggenheimer for Second Place.

The best information obtainable to-night on the Lieutenant Governorship pointed to the probable nomination of Randolph Guggenheimer of New York. Francis Burton Harrison was said to be still under consideration, but the chances were much in favor of Mr. Guggenheimer. Both Mr. Hill and Senator McCarren said that Mr. Guggenheimer would be an entirely acceptable candidate.

The only reason why the nomination is still left open is because of a desire on the part of Mr. Hill to conciliate Tammany Hall, if possible. If Tammany should ask for the nomination of George Palmer for second place on the ticket its request would be conceded.

It is not thought likely that Tammany will make such a request, and therefore the probability is that Mr. Guggenheimer will be the nominee. When question was raised about the advisability of giving both the nomination for Governor and Lieutenant Governor to Greater New York, Mr. Hill was advised by several of the most influential of the up-State leaders that the counties up State would much prefer to have the nominations for some offices which command patronage rather than the Lieutenant Governorship, which commands none.

Tammany Hall gained one important concession from Mr. Hill to-day. It was in connection with the platform. As the platform was written there was no indorsement in it of Judge Parker's gold telegram to the St. Louis Convention.

When Senator Dowling and Congressman Cockran, the Tammany representatives, called upon Mr. Hill to-day they insisted that the position of the State organization on the money question should be made perfectly clear.

Gold Plank in Platform.

An understanding finally was reached between them and Mr. Hill that there would be added to the platform a declaration indorsing "the platform and the resolutions of the St. Louis Convention."

The only resolution adopted by the convention at St. Louis was that indorsing the letter of Judge Parker, in which he said that he regarded the gold standard as firmly and irrevocably established.

The platform will be about sixteen hundred words in length and will be mainly confined to a discussion of State issues. The record of the Odell administrations will be vigorously attacked. The one-hundred-and-one-million-dollar improvement of the Erie Canal will be indorsed, but the necessity of having a Democratic administration to prevent a repetition of the nine-million-dollar canal expenditure scandal will be urged.

That the judicial ticket will be Cullen and Cunneen is the prevailing opinion to-night. Senator McCarren and William F. Sheehan are inclined to favor the indorsement of the Republican judicial ticket, Cullen and Werner, but Senator Hill and many other leaders are much opposed to such action. They say that Attorney General Cunneen is entitled to the nomination for Associate Judge, and express their belief that the failure of the Democrats to indorse Judge Werner will not lose the ticket a single vote.

SHEPARD HAS NO SPONSOR.

Fatal Weakness in His Candidacy—Tammany, Though, May Vote for Him.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Changes in the situation to-day were so kaleidoscopic in character that the politicians in the corridors of the hotels found difficulty in keeping up with them. Early in the day all the talk was to the effect that New York City candidates had all been eliminated.

The Tammany leaders felt certain that they had headed off the Grout boom, and they acknowledged that there was little chance for Shepard, because, as they said, if Tammany were allowed to bowl over Mr. Grout, McCarren would claim the same privilege so far as Mr. Shepard was concerned, and it could not be reasonably denied him.

Whatever chance of the nomination Mr. Shepard may have had was considered to have disappeared after a conference which the friends of Mr. Shepard had with Mr. Hill this morning. Among the Shepard boomers who went to call on Mr. Hill to urge Mr. Shepard's claims were George Foster Peabody, Frederick W. Hinrichs, A. Augustus Healy, and Mayor Osborne of Auburn. When they had stated why they thought Mr. Shepard ought to be nominated, Mr. Hill told them of the objections which he had heard urged by up-State delegates against Mr. Shepard's availability.

"Mr. Hill said that the principal argument against Mr. Shepard's candidacy was that he had found no delegation which would stand sponsor for it. He asked what kind of policy we thought it would be for the party to take a candidate from a borough which not only did not wish to see him nominated, but the delegation from which was making an aggressive fight for another man. To that question one of our delegation replied:

"'You probably will recall, Mr. Hill, that a candidate for the Presidency once was selected from the State of New York when the State delegation was for another man.'

Hill Didn't Forget.

"'Yes,' responded Mr. Hill sharply, 'I have not forgotten that, and I will call your attention to a fact which you seem to have overlooked in that connection, namely, that the action to which you refer resulted in a rupture in the party from which it is only now beginning to recover.'"

Taking their cue from what Mr. Hill had said about Mr. Shepard's having no delegation to stand sponsor for his candidacy, Mayor Osborne and other friends of Mr. Shepard later made a call at the Tammany headquarters and told Charles F. Murphy that they could deliver eighty-one votes from up-State delegates for Mr. Shepard provided Tammany would present his name.

According to Mr. Osborne, the reply of the Tammany leader was that if the Cayuga delegation would present Mr. Shepard's name, Tammany would vote for him.

For two hours before the opening of the convention at noon nearly all the talk heard around the various headquarters was to the effect that the nomination lay between Judge D. Cady Herrick of Albany and George M. Palmer of Schoharie.

After the session of the convention there was a new twist in the situation. Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany leader, declared in favor of the nomination of William B. Hornblower, the temporary Chairman of the convention. When Mr. Hornblower started for the convention hall he was so apprehensive that his speech would not be especially well received by the convention that he asked Mrs. Hornblower, who is here with her two sons, not to attend the session.

She did remain away, to her sorrow. Mr. Hornblower probably never made a speech in his life which aroused more enthusiasm than that which he delivered to-day. It brought him compliments from all sides and led Mr. Murphy to come out for him as a man whom Tammany would heartily support for the Gubernatorial nomination.

Hornblower Out of It.

Although the general commendation of Mr. Hornblower's convention effort was entirely sincere, his boom was aptly described by one of Mr. Hill's friends as "of the parachute order—highest at the start." For an hour after Mr. Murphy launched the boom there was a lot of talk about it, and many nice things were said about Mr. Hornblower. Then the boom collapsed by general consent. Mr. Hornblower's record of opposition to Mr. Bryan in 1896 and 1900 was generally regarded as barring him from the list of availables.

No sooner had the Hornblower boom been effectually disposed of than the tip went around the Grand Union that it had been practically decided by the leaders that the nomination was to go to Judge Herrick. The Herrick boom grew steadily until 4 o'clock. Then some of the leaders who could not see in Judge Herrick that type of man desired for the present emergence concluded they would have to do something to put a stop to the Herrick talk.

Judge Herrick's chances appeared to be irretrievably lost after a meeting of the Albany County delegation. The meeting of the delegation was called to select a Chairman and name the choice of the delegation for membership on the committees. David B. Hill was chosen Chairman. There was no discussion of Judge Herrick's boom for Governor at the meeting of the delegation, but no sooner had the delegation adjourned than State Committeeman McCabe, the Albany leader, and Eugene Wood went to the rooms of David B. Hill.

Herrick, Too, Eliminated.

When they came out Mr. McCabe told some of the newspaper men who questioned him about the attitude of the Albany delegation on the candidacy of Judge Herrick for Governor that Judge Herrick could not get more than two votes out of the delegation to support him for that honor.

"We're for Judge Herrick for Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals," said Mr. McCabe.

As McCabe and Wood went down the stairs leading into the rotunda they met Senator McCarren.

"It's Grout," said Wood. McCarren and Wood held a few moments' earnest conversation, and then, after Senator McCarren had spoken a few words to one of the Grout boomers, the latter broke open a box of Grout badges and began to distribute them around.

The news was soon passed along to all of the Grout men, and in a very short while the enthusiasm for the Controller was running high, and his admirers were shouting that the fight was all over and that Grout certainly would be the nominee.

"It's a cinch for Grout," said Senator McCarren when he was questioned about 8 o'clock in the corridor of the Grand Union while he was surrounded by a group of up-State men, who were congratulating him, and to whom he was expatiating upon the good qualities of Mr. Grout as a candidate.

"There never has been a chance of naming any other candidate but Grout," continued the Brooklyn leader. "I made up my mind that was so some time ago, and that is why I came out for him as strong as I did. Eliminate Grout from the situation, and who else is there to nominate? Grout is a man of Presidential size. He will make one of the greatest campaigns this State has ever seen, and he will win."

Stapleton to Nominate Grout.

It has been agreed that Luke D. Stapleton is to make the nominating speech for Mr. Grout in the convention.

Notwithstanding the confidence of the Grout boomers that their man was certain to be nominated, Tammany leaders were still talking Palmer to-night. Senator Thomas F. Grady stated the argument for Palmer's nomination in this way:

"Palmer would be a logical candidate. He comes from the only Democratic county up State. He has been the leader of the Assembly, and no man could make a more forcible presentation of State issues than he could. There is not one man in the whole tentative list that would work better with a country audience. It is the meetings which are held in the towns in the afternoons that count. Palmer could hold that kind of a meeting better than the best orator we have."

Mr. Hill confessed himself as highly gratified that Mr. Hornblower's speech had made a hit. But when the suggestion was made to him that Mr. Hornblower ought to be nominated because of his speech, he remarked with a smile, "Wait until you hear the professor before making up your mind."

Mr. Hill referred to Prof. Duncan Campbell Lee, who is to be the Permanent Chairman of the convention. Prof. Lee was a leading candidate for the second place on the ticket and it was pretty generally agreed that he would be the man most likely to get the honor if it went up State. His selection for Permanent Chairman is one of the straws which is thought by the politicians to point strongly to the intention of Mr. Hill to select an up-State man for the first place on the ticket and let the Lieutenant Governorship go to New York City. Prof. Lee is said to be capable of a good speech. He is a young man and is expected to put considerable fire into his address.

Cockran and Dowling See Hill.

It was shortly after the convention had adjourned that Bourke Cockran and Senator Victor J. Dowling walked up to Mr. Hill's headquarters on the second floor of the Grand Union and were ushered into an inner room, where they remained in conference with Mr. Hill for over half an hour.

This was the first call which Mr. Hill had had from any Tammany representatives, and when the news spread that Messrs. Cockran and Dowling were closeted with the up-State leader there was the expectation of an important development in the situation. The departure of the emissaries of Tammany from Mr. Hill's quarters was awaited with anxious interest by a crowd of politicians.

Neither Senator Dowling nor Mr. Cockran was disposed to be communicative as to what had transpired between them and Mr. Hill. It was evident, however, that something had occurred which interested them mightily, for they backed off into a corner of the corridor and held an animated confab for a moment. Then Mr. Cockran suggested that they go to the hotel restaurant for lunch and continue their conversation. As they started down the stairs they were asked what had been the purpose of their call on Mr. Hill.

"We desired to talk over some things that Tammany wanted to have in the platform," said Senator Dowling.

"Did you suggest to Mr. Hill the advisability of taking up Mr. Hornblower as a candidate for Governor?" was asked.

"We did," responded Mr. Cockran.

"How did the suggestion seem to impress him?"

"I think it impressed him more than anything he has heard to-day," Mr. Cockran replied with a grin.

"Was the fact that Mr. Hornblower had opposed Bryan brought up?"

"It was not; in fact Mr. Hill made absolutely no comment upon the suggestion of Mr. Hornblower's name," said Senator Dowling.

Hill Isn't Worrying.

Senator Dowling called Mr. Hill's attention to the fact that the mention of President Cleveland's name in the convention had called forth a great demonstration, but Mr. Hill made no comment upon that incident, Senator Dowling said. When Senator Hill was seen and asked what had taken place at the conference between him and the Tammany representatives, he refused to discuss it except to say, "We had a pleasant talk and everything is moving along nicely."

The Warwick of the situation appeared to be in rare good humor. When the representative of one of the press associations asked him for a copy of the platform to send out in advance he refused it, saying laughingly, "We might want to make some change in it at the last moment." Then he went on to say that he was receiving suggestions from all sides as to what ought to go into the platform.

"I have here," he said, "a proposed plank committing the party to the advocacy of pensions for all employes of the State and of municipalities who are over sixty years of age and who are incapacitated for work. I think perhaps that ought to be amended so as to include old politicians."

"Politicians over sixty who retire?" suggested one of his auditors.

"No; I might be accused of advocating special legislation if it was put that way," responded Mr. Hill with a laugh. This persiflage was indulged in by Mr. Hill just after the call of Senator Dowling and Congressman Cockran, and was a clear indication that nothing which had been said in his talk with the Tammany representatives had given him cause for worry.

CONVENTION FORMALLY OPENED.

Murphy Declines to Act with McCarren on Escort Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Seldom has a convention listened with closer attention to the speech of a presiding officer, or with more approval, than was shown at the opening session of the Democratic State Convention to-day, while William B. Hornblower was delivering his address as temporary Chairman. Again and again was the speech cheered as Mr. Hornblower made telling points against the campaign arguments and issues of the Republicans, while at the close only the most favorable comments were to be heard on every side.

As is usual in such cases, the session to-day was late in getting started. Although called for 12 o'clock, the convention hall was not half filled at that hour, and none of the leaders of the party in the State had arrived. There was a band enlivening those who were waiting, and it was kept busy most of the time. From 11:30 o'clock the crowd began to pile into the big hall, and at 12:10 o'clock, when Senator McCarren came into the hall to take his seat at the head of the Kings County delegation, the place was more than half filled.

Senator McCarren was cheered and applauded as he went to his seat, the Kings County contingent taking the initiative, while the band struck up "The Battle Cry of Freedom," to the amusement of those familiar with the situation in New York and McCarren's attitude for the autonomy of Brooklyn. During the next few minutes ex-Senator Edward Murphy of Troy, William F. Sheehan of New York, and George Foster Peabody of Warren came in, and each was generously applauded. Congressman "Big Tim" Sullivan received many a hand when he entered, as did many of the others from various sections of the State.

Ovation for Tammany Leader.

The most generous applause of the day, however, came when Charles F. Murphy entered and took his seat with the New York contingent. Mr. Murphy, who came in at 12:15 o'clock, was accompanied by Congressman W. Bourke Cockran, Senator Victor J. Dowling, Congressman William Sulzer, and Charles V. Fornes. All the Tammany men cheered and applauded vigorously, and the band joined in the demonstration.

By this time everybody in the Convention Hall was on the lookout for the figure of ex-Senator David B. Hill, who undoubtedly would have been cheered to the echo, but the veteran convention master did not attend the session at all, remaining at his suite in the Grand Union Hotel while the proceedings were going on.

By the time State Chairman Meyer called the convention to order at 12:21 o'clock the hall was about three-quarters full, and it did not fill completely during any of the later stages of the proceedings. Smoking was going on quite generally, entirely unreproved by the Chairman, although it generally is the rule to forbid smoking in a convention.

"Looks as though you could smoke all you want in a Democratic Convention," remarked a Tammany delegate, looking around. "Yes," replied a Kings County man; "you can smoke anything but the pipe of peace."

When Chairman Meyer called the convention to order he promptly presented the name of Mr. Hornblower for Temporary Chairman, as the selection of the State Committee; there being no clergyman introduced to offer prayer, as is usual in such cases. There was a camera brigade on hand on the platform, however, and during fully half of the time given over to the proceedings of the day flashes went off every few minutes, punctuating the remarks of the presiding officer and startling the various delegates.

Murphy Refuses to Act with McCarren.

After the convention had ratified the selection of Mr. Hornblower, there was an incident, in which Charles F. Murphy figured, that caused general astonishment and much later comment on the part of everybody connected with the convention. Mr. Meyer, in announcing the usual formal committee to escort the presiding officer to the chair, named Charles F. Murphy, Senator Patrick H. McCarren, Samuel A. Beardsley, and Francis Burton Harrison.

There was some surprise shown at the placing of Murphy and McCarren on the committee, but it was as nothing compared to the astonishment that spread over the faces of the delegates when it was seen that the Tammany Hall leader refused to budge an inch from his seat to escort Mr. Hornblower. The latter arose from his seat and was met promptly by Senator McCarren and Congressman Harrison. Mr. Beardsley was absent from the hall.

Murphy continued to sit still, meanwhile glaring at everybody and at McCarren in particular. Congressman Cockran and Borough President Ahearn, who sat by the Tammany leader, variously cursed over and urged him to take his place by the side of Mr. Hornblower, but Murphy stubbornly refused to move. Although he had been made the Chairman of the formal committee, he refused to act, and Mr. Hornblower went to the platform with McCarren on one side and Congressman Harrison on the other, cheers greeting all three, while only curious and contemptuous looks were directed toward Murphy's seat.

From the very beginning of Mr. Hornblower's speech his words were received with marked favor by all, the first applause and cheers being when he declared that he did not appear as presiding officer on behalf of any faction or organization, but as the representative of the great body of independent voters.

Hornblower's Points Cheered.

This applause was redoubled when the Chairman asserted that the convention should do absolutely nothing except that would be in aid of the National ticket, but the greatest applause of the day up to that time came when Mr. Hornblower, in the course of his arguments, mentioned the name of President Cleveland.

The cheering grew in volume as it continued, and practically all the delegates and others in the audience came to their feet and waved their hats to spur on the cheering. Later, when the speaker referred to the Republican postal frauds, some one in the back of the hall blew a police whistle, which also joined in some of the demonstrations which followed.

Of all the demonstrations during Mr. Hornblower's speech, however, there was nothing to equal that which followed his statement that while the Republicans were urging Roosevelt on a platform of "doing things," the Democrats could well urge Parker on a platform that he "would not do things which the Constitution and the principles of a free Government would prohibit."

At this declaration hats were swung in the air, the audience rose to its feet, and the cheering and applause broke out afresh, continued, the band striking up "Rally 'Round the Flag," while the cheers were repeated again and again. Both Senator McCarren and Mr. Murphy, who sat almost directly across the aisle from one another, jumped up and urged on the cheering.

Mr. Hornblower's attacks on Gov. Odell for serving as Chairman of the State Committee while still Executive of the State also were roundly cheered, while at the mention of the name of Judge Parker in closing, there was a further demonstration, the band playing "The Star-Spangled Banner." Meanwhile Mr. Hornblower's speech was concluded at 1:15 o'clock, something less than fifty minutes being required in its delivery.

Applause for a Samuel J. Tilden.

There were many demonstrations for favorites as their names were called on the reading of the temporary roll of the convention. Thomas F. Smith, Secretary of Tammany Hall, read the roll in his capacity as an Assistant Secretary of the convention. The first applause came when the name of Hill was called as the head of the delegation from the Third Albany District, more applause greeting the name of Samuel J. Tilden, which was read as one of the Columbia County delegates.

This Tilden is a nephew of the late Gov. Tilden, who was the Presidential candidate in 1876. Cheers also greeted the names of McCarren and Murphy, the followers of each trying to give the better demonstration for their favorites. Borough President Cassidy of Queens, August Belmont, Edward Murphy, Jr., and George Foster Peabody also were warmly greeted when their names were called, as also were W. Bourke Cockran, Congressman Francis Burton Harrison, and Fire Commissioner Nicholas J. Hayes.

During the roll call from New York County, Assemblyman John F. Curry came forward and presented the notice of contest in the Seventeenth District, where Curry and Daniel F. McMahon had their bitter primary fight. No sooner had the roll call been finished, however, than ex-Asemblyman James Fitzgerald, who has been acting as counsel for the Curry people, was recognized, and took the platform to withdraw from the fight.

"Our contest, I see, is the only one in the entire State," said Mr. Fitzgerald. "Our delegation is not a paper delegation, however, and I want to assure you, gentlemen, that rarely does a delegation come to a State Convention with such merits for a contest as we have."

"We want Democratic harmony, but we protest against that harmony which carries primaries at the pistol point. We protest against that spirit of imperialism in a district; we protest against the policy which has held out the hand to the dive keeper of Chinatown, while it has robbed the people of our section.

Lone Contest Withdrawn.

"Yet because ours is the only contest in the State, and for harmony in the interests of Parker and Davis, we withdraw our contest. This leaves your Committee on Credentials with nothing to do, and, gentlemen, I congratulate the party on the fact that for the first time in twenty years we have a Democratic Convention without a single contest. This is most auspicious, and, gentlemen, I assure you that the men who actually won the fight in the Seventeenth New York District will be heart and soul with you for Parker and Davis."

Mr. Fitzgerald was heartily cheered as he took his seat, and a few minutes later, when Fred C. Schraub offered the formal resolution for the appointment of a Committee on Credentials, Charles N. Bulger moved to lay it on the table, a motion which was enthusiastically carried.

Chairman Hornblower then announced the appointment of the various committees, George Raines of Rochester being made the Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, which will have the presentation of the platform, and Andrew A. McLean of Newburg being made Chairman of the Committee on Permanent Organization.

This latter committee has formally selected Prof. Duncan Campbell Lee of Ithaca to be the Permanent Chairman of the convention. At 1:40 o'clock the convention adjourned until 11 o'clock to-morrow morning. The order of business then will be the perfecting of the permanent organization, the speech of Prof. Lee as Permanent Chairman, and the reading of the platform by Mr. Raines. After this has been done the convention will proceed to the nomination of candidates for Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, Controller, Attorney General, State Treasurer, State Engineer and Surveyor, and Chief Judge and Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals.

NOT PRESSING KEOGH.

Westchester Delegates Merely Suggested His Name for Consideration.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Friends of Judge Keogh in the Westchester delegation, which is led by John G. Agar, are not pressing the candidacy of Judge Keogh for Governor. While they all think well of the Judge and would do everything for his nomination if it should be seen that there was a chance to bring it about, they have merely placed his name before the leaders for consideration, and would be pleased if it were taken up.

Six of the nine delegates from Westchester are for Keogh, the remaining three being for Congressman Pugsley for Governor. Ex-Mayor Walsh of Yonkers, the State Committeeman from the Westchester district, with his delegates, is for Keogh as heartily as are the Agar delegates.

RIDDER TO HEAD ELECTORS.

Takes Woodward's Place—Two Electors Yet to be Named.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Herman Ridder of New York will be named in to-morrow's session of the convention to head the Parker and Davis electoral ticket. His selection will be to fill the place of James Wodward, who declined the nomination on the ground that as he is a National Bank director his eligibility to serve as an elector might therefore be questioned.

There are two other places to be filled on the electoral ticket, one to succeed Harry Payne Whitney as the second elector-at-large and the third to succeed Isidor Straus as a district elector. Mr. Whitney and Mr. Straus declined for the same reason as Mr. Woodward, after they had been selected by the Albany convention on April 18.

The selection of Mr. Ridder was made in deference to his position as a leading German Democrat.

PARKER WATCHING CONVENTION.

Stream of Messages Keeps Him in Touch with Situation at Saratoga.

ESOPUS, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Judge Parker to-day has been in close touch with political advisers who are in attendance upon the State Convention at Saratoga. Every few minutes messengers were to be seen climbing the hill from the telegraph office to the Judge's house.

The operator who handles Judge Parker's personal messages was busy most of the day, but in spite of many messages the candidate found time to issue orders to his men concerning the harvesting of the crops. There were no political callers at Rosemount to-day, and the Judge took a long horseback ride.

KINGS AND ERIE IN CAUCUS.

Shevlin Against Unit Rule—Erie Delegation Splits.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The delegations of Kings County and Erie both held caucuses to-day. At the Kings County caucus James Shevlin made a proposition to Senator McCarren not to adopt the unit rule until after the conference of leaders, which it was understood was to be held, had acted. He said that the anti-McCarren members of the delegation would like to vote with the delegation if possible. Senator McCarren agreed to an adjournment of the caucus without action.

The caucus of the Erie County delegation resulted in a split. The delegation divided in half, twelve of the delegates with John J. Kennedy at their head deciding to stick out for the nomination of Attorney General Cunneen as Associate Judge and the other twelve, led by Daniel N. Lockwood, deciding to help Tammany Hall to carry out any programme which Mr. Murphy might decide upon.

CHAIRMAN TAGGART BACK.

Situation in Indiana All That Could Be Desired, He Says.

Senator Gorman of Maryland arrived in the city last night. He refused to say anything about the situation other than that he would have a conference with Mr. Taggart to-day.

Chairman Taggart arrived from the West several hours before Mr. Gorman got here, and may go to Esopus to confer with Judge Parker. Mr. Taggart said that the situation in Indiana was all that could be desired, and he was very much gratified with it.

"Out there, there is no Bryan, no Hearst, the people are all just Democrats and working for the election of Judge Parker," he said. "I was never more satisfied with anything in my life than I was with the way things looked in Indiana."

Mr. Taggart said that it had not yet been decided to open headquarters in Chicago, but that the matter would be discussed to-day.

ROOSEVELT SENTIMENT ABROAD

Leopold Wallach, the New York lawyer, returned yesterday from a four months' tour of Europe on which he says that he found practically all American residents abroad hoping for the election of Roosevelt. Their opinion, he says, is that should Parker succeed, the agitation to reduce the tariff which would follow would completely upset trade interests abroad. On the other hand, he says, the people do not believe that Roosevelt is as dangerous and fanatical as he is pictured.

Mr. Wallach said that he noted abroad the great number of Americans of moderate means who were touring. "These people," he said, "are not the kind that go to the finest hotels or travel on the fastest steamships, but are people who are satisfied with the good time they can have for two months on $500. I have been across nineteen times, and I do not remember ever before having met so many people of this class as are traveling now."

ELECTION ARRESTS AT CONEY.

Six of Morgan's Prisoners Held—Thirty Gave Up Their Papers.

Mardi Gras week has brought many fakirs to Coney Island and Deputies of State Superintendent of Elections Morgan yesterday swept through the streets there and captured 150 small business men of foreign birth, mostly Italians, whom they suspected of holding fraudulent naturalization papers. Among those arrested were sellers of frankfurters, hot corn, peanuts, and fruit. They were brought to Manhattan, where they were at once examined by Deputy Superintendent H. B. Stowell, coached by a Government lawyer.

Only six were held for arraignment before United States Commissioner Ridgway, there being reason to believe that these understood that they had committed a crime. One said he had paid $25, and another $25, for their naturalization papers to a man who will be arrested on sight as a result of their revelations. Thirty others surrendered their papers for cancellation, and many broke into bitter lamentation over the double misfortune of being taken away from their expected harvest at the Mardi Gras and losing their standing as American citizens.

ODELL SEES CORTELYOU.

Both Governor and National Chairman Silent After Conference.

National Chairman Cortelyou and Gov. Odell were in conference at National Headquarters for several hours yesterday, and it was said that the Governor was asked for a statement of the situation in the State. Gov. Odell refused to discuss anything concerning the conference after it had ended other than to say that State matters were gone over in detail.

Higgins to Confer with Roosevelt.

It was said last night that Frank W. Higgins, the Republican nominee for Governor, would visit President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay to-day. He is going there, it is said, to talk over the situation in the State with the President.

TICKET IN GRANITE STATE.

John McLane Nominated for Governor by the Republicans.

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 20.—John McLane of Milford was nominated for Governor by the Republican State convention here to-day. The Presidential electors chosen were ex-Gov. Frank W. Rollins of Concord, Gen. Charles S. Collins of Nashua, Albert Batchelder of Northampton, and Herman F. Straw of Manchester. No other nominations had to be made, as all State officers except the Governor are appointed. There was no contest, and the proceedings of the convention were concluded in less than two hours.

After describing the Parker telegram as "sounding brass," Judge James W. Renwick, the Permanent Chairman, said:

"The man who left family, books, and station to face disease and death that Cuba might be free would not be a king, emperor, or autocrat of the Philippines, if we wanted him to be. The political party which emancipated and enfranchised a race of black men at home will not deny ultimate independence to our brown wards in the Orient."

Justice J. A. Robson Renominated.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The Republicans of the Seventh Judicial District to-day nominated Justice James A. Robson of Canandaigua to succeed himself in the Supreme Court.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 20.—Douglas L. Smith, defaulting paying teller of the National Tradesman's Bank of this city, was indicted by the Federal Grand Jury this afternoon for the embezzlement of about $70,000. He immediately pleaded guilty before Judge Platt, and was sentenced to five years in the State Prison.

GRAPE NUTS.

THE DOCTOR'S WIFE

Agrees With Him About Food.

A trained nurse says: "In the practice of my profession I have found so many points in favor of Grape-Nuts food that I unhesitatingly recommend it to all my patients.

"It is delicate and pleasing to the palate (an essential in food for the sick) and can be adapted to all ages, being softened with milk or cream for babies or the aged when deficiency of teeth renders mastication impossible. For fever patients or those on liquid diet I find 'Grape-Nuts and albumen water very nourishing and refreshing.' This recipe is my own idea and is made as follows: Soak a teaspoonful of Grape-Nuts in a glass of water for an hour, strain and serve with the beaten white of an egg and a spoonful of fruit juice for flavoring. This affords a great deal of nourishment that even the weakest stomach can assimilate without any distress.

"My husband is a physician, and he uses Grape-Nuts himself and orders it many times for his patients.

"Personally I regard a dish of Grape-Nuts with fresh or stewed fruit as the ideal breakfast for any one—well or sick." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

In any case of stomach trouble, nervous prostration, or brain fag, a 10 days' trial of Grape-Nuts will work wonders toward nourishing and rebuilding, and in this way ending the trouble. "There's a reason," and trial proves.

ONCE there was a young man who lacked a certain amount of enterprise, but on the other hand he could not refrain from telling what he would like to do.

"Last night as you stood in the moonlight," he said to his best girl, "I could not help but think how much I would like to kiss you."

"Well," she replied, "as the poet says, the thought of yesterday is the action of to-day."

That's our motto, too. What we plan to do to-day we see to it that it's done to morrow.

This "always going to do" is the next thing to a "Ne'er do well."

That's the art of 20th Century progress—carry out what you plan to do, and in doing this you sound the keynote of enterprise.

We're planning every day for store betterment and we're continually putting new ideas into practical working order, advancing in our methods every day.

Success continually dogs the heels of enterprise and perfection follows in the wake of action, and the thoughts of yesterday with us are the action of to-day.

Correct Fall coats for the street.

A STYLISH jacket is the most important consideration nowadays, for it may be a natty adjunct of a modish suit, or complete a costume with the addition of a neat "trotter" skirt. Being so indispensable, (it has appeared in several new forms and lengths....) so that all tastes can be satisfied, and, too, all purposes.

The newest lengths are the short girlish 25 inch, (the 28 inch, the 45 inch,) and the 50 inch. Black is a strong rival of the new brown and English green shades, in colors, and Broadcloth, Kersey and Covert Cloth furnish appropriate materials.

Taking the fashionable English Fatigue coat as a criterion (of prevailing modes.....) the tendency to military effects shows in the conventional silk braid ornaments and mannish-looking top-coat sleeves. Army buttons lend a finishing touch in true martial style.

The woman of small stature will admire the 28 inch coat, (which is handsomely plaited in long lines,) emphasizing slenderness and height. These are fashionably tailored, even the buttons used for decoration being of similar cloth to match.

The "corset fitted" coats serve to bring out so attractively the good points of a fine figure, that women so favored will not abandon these tight-fitting garments. There's a surprisingly handsome assortment (for their delectation in English covert..) bearing the inimitable Piccadilly stamp.

Among the ultra-fashionable designs the Tourist coat, (distinguished by... loose belted back,) is heralded the favorite for mid-winter travels and feats of pedestrianship. Familiarize yourself with its characteristic features, if you wish to be in the maelstrom of fashion this season.

Household Hints

A LUMP of porous pumice stone saturated with oil of lavender or rose will counteract any obnoxious fumes from the kitchen, mustiness, or the unpleasant odors arising from bad sanitary conditions. Salt sprinkled on the carpet makes the dust come off quickly and acts as a preservative to the colors.

All bath and toilet brushes should be thoroughly washed and cleaned in hot water in which a tablespoonful of ammonia has been poured, at least once a week. Perfumed ammonia in lavender or violet is good for the purpose.

Luncheon sets in fancy crepe paper with bordered decorations of roses, violets, &c., take the place of table cloths for tete-a-tete affairs. They make pretty covers for toilet tables, too.

A rocking chair in the kitchen gives rest to tired feet.

To prevent pie or cake burning in the oven, allow a pan of water to stand in the oven at the same time.

A valuable remedy for a cough is onion syrup, made by mashing the onion to a pulp, then strain off the juice and sweeten with sugar.

Soda is an excellent curative for burns. Sprinkle freely over the part affected and bandage lightly with old or soft linen.

A tablespoonful of salt in a quart of boiling water will set the color in any cotton goods and prevent fading.

The Autumn Exhibition of Millinery Is Announced

Today the new Hats for Fall and Winter are on display. There is an exceptionally broad and fine collection of hats from the foremost Parisian milliners.

Directoire styles are pre-eminent. The high crowns and broad, flaring brims of these picture hats are pleasing in their effect, and becoming to most women. The graceful plumes that are added only emphasize their beautiful lines.

This year the Picture Hat assumes a new role, and will be favored very extensively for evening wear. Paris has shown how superbly it harmonizes with the most charming evening dress.

But Picture Hats are only half the story. Some of the most exquisite hats we have ever seen are the Toques and Turbans exhibited in so many beautiful shapes; some glinting with beads and imitation jewels, others as delicate as a water-color painting. And yet throughout the entire collection you recognize the utility of all the hats shown. Everything is practical and serviceable both in form and coloring, meeting the wishes of all wearers.

It is hard to draw a line between the Paris Hats and Wanamaker Hats. It can only be done with inside knowledge. One is as beautiful and is as original as the other. Test this fact for yourself.

The Millinery Salon is full of new hats, and the overflow is shown in cases all around the Rotunda Balcony. It is an exhibition of unusual interest to our Public, and visitors who are in New York City at this time.

The New Laces are first shown today. The same skill, the same care and application among the leading markets of Europe, has been taken to secure the choicest of these fine Laces, as has been devoted to the gathering of the millinery. First our experts have studied the intentions and the productions of the foremost Paris dressmakers, to learn what the authentic decisions were for the making of the finest gowns for the coming season.

The buying was done unusually late, so that nothing but the very newest ideas would decide selections.

The collection of French Irish Laces is very broad. All the laces are hand-made, and include edgings, bandings, allovers and motifs.

There is a superb assortment of St. Gall Laces in matching sets of solid heavy effects, as well as edgings, bandings and ornaments.

There is a fine group of Silk Renaissance Laces in matching sets, as well as by the yard; in navy blue, emerald green, sky blue, burnt orange, burnt onion, black and white.

There are novelties in Net Ground Laces, in matching sets patterned in gold and silver; some with colors in combination.

Godet or Circular Lace Flouncings. French Model Laces, Black Net Top and Net Ground Laces in matching sets; and a large group of new imported Lace Robes.

New Neckwear for Women is one of the features of today's exhibition. The styles are most charming, and the collection is more than usually elaborate. Stock Collars of all kinds are still favored. Turnover Collars and Collar-and-Cuff Sets will be more in demand this year than ever before.

Neck Capes and Stoles are also in high favor.

Spanish Lace Scarfs and Fichus, used as mantilla head coverings, Fancy Printed and Crepe Scarfs, are fads of the season.

Lace Collars, $1 to $7.50. Fancy Yokes, $2.25 to $11.

Fancy Figured Crepe Scarfs and Squares, $1 to $10.

Real hand-run Spanish Lace Scarfs and Fichus, $5.50 to $22.

This Distinguished Collection of Foreign Wraps

We take unusual pride in directing public attention to these superb Coats and Wraps of our recent importations. There is no like gathering in the country.

We have bought lavishly for two reasons. First, because the foreign makers give to their coats style and character, which can only be copied by our American Manufacturers. They have at their command materials which we do not seem to secure on this side. Then with all their style and beauty, their splendid workmanship, the prices are usually lower than even mere copies can be secured for on this side.

This collection starts with the very finest Opera and Carriage Wraps that are shown in this country, and includes every variety of over-garments for women, down to simple black jackets for every-day wear; but in every line there is seen an unusually high character of tailoring and most artistic decoration and finish.

Here are suggestions as to the price-ranges:

Tourist Coats, at $25 to $42.
Covert and Beaver Coats, in beautiful shades of tan and olive, at $25 to $45.
Beautiful Foreign Coats, of plush and velour, at $60 to $125.
Black Silk Coats, at $40 to $225.
Havelocks and Dolmans, at $13.50 to $50.

Prince Albert Coats and Vests

When a man feels that it is necessary to purchase a new suit for afternoon dress, he naturally expects to pay a good round price for it. The Prince Albert Coat has always been the most particular piece of work that the tailor brings forth; its superb lines and perfect fit have always called for the highest skill, and brought the highest price.

For years we have been working to prove that high price was unnecessary, even to get fine tailoring in a Prince Albert Coat. In proving that superb tailoring could be supplied to particular men in ready-made clothing, we have built up the largest trade in the country for these fine Coats and Vests.

This Fall we are showing a new model in Prince Albert Coats, that is a distinct advance even on the fine coats that we have shown in the past. The shoulders are a little broader than heretofore, and the coat is cut more to the lines of the figure. It is an extremely dressy model; and we can fit perfectly men of all figures—regular, stout and slim.

The materials are of black thibet and vicuna; serge-lined, and silk-faced at $20 for coats and vests; all silk-lined at $25 and $35.

Striped Worsted Trousers to be worn with Prince Albert Coats, at $5 to $10.

HORNBLOWER SCORES REPUBLICAN RECORD

Blames Harrison Administration for Panic of 1893.

QUESTIONS CANAL TREATY

Temporary Chairman Says That President Roosevelt Acted Unlawfully in Pension Matter.

SARATOGA, Sept. 20.—The speech of Mr. Hornblower, as Temporary Chairman of the convention, was in part as follows:

"I have accepted the high honor tendered me by the State Committee of presiding as Temporary Chairman of this convention because I believed it to be not only an honor but a duty; not as the representative of any faction, but as a representative of the great body of Democratic and independent voters who are supporting the principles and the candidates of the Democratic Party in this campaign.

"The Republican Party claims to be the party of prosperity, and asserts with an amazing audacity of assurance that Republican Administrations, with high protective tariffs, have always been accompanied by prosperity, while, on the other hand, Democratic Administrations have been uniformly accompanied by adversity.

"It is, of course, essential to this proposition, that we should shut our eyes to the sixty years between 1801 and 1861, during which this country, with two brief exceptions, was under Democratic rule, and during which prosperity and low tariffs went hand in hand. If the excuse for disregarding this period be that it is ancient history, we are certainly entitled to recall the period which is within the memory of many of those here present, namely, the period from 1873 to 1877.

"We were then enjoying, and had been enjoying for a period of years, the blessings of Republican rule and a Republican tariff. The disastrous panic of 1873 and the heart-breaking years that followed, when we were all getting poorer and poorer and there seemed to be no hope for the future, was certainly a singular example of prosperity.

"In order to support the Republican claim, it is also necessary to forget the first Administration of President Cleveland, during which the country was so prosperous and the finances of the Nation were so carefully, economically, and wisely administered that a large surplus was accumulated—the principal embarrassment of the Administration being to prevent injury to business from this accumulation, and to keep the money in circulation for the benefit of the people at large.

Harrison Recklessness.

"This large surplus was handed over by the Cleveland Administration to the succeeding Administration of Benjamin Harrison. The reckless and wanton extravagance of Congress under that Administration, the passage of the Sherman silver law, and the McKinley tariff, dissipated the surplus and brought, as we all remember, or ought to remember, the Treasury to the verge of bankruptcy, so that when Mr. Cleveland, as the result of the aroused indignation of the American people against the extravagance and misrule of the Harrison Administration, was again recalled to office by an overwhelming vote of the people, it was to find the Nation trembling upon the verge of a financial precipice.

"The four years of Mr. Cleveland's second Administration were occupied in constant and successful efforts to prevent the plunging over this financial precipice.

"To charge the panic of 1893 against the Cleveland Administration is a willful perversion of the facts. That panic was caused by the Administration of President Harrison, and resulted directly therefrom, and but for the action of President Cleveland in calling a special session of Congress and procuring the repeal of the Sherman Silver act, the consequences would have been even more disastrous than they actually were.

"To charge the panic of 1893 to the Wilson tariff of 1894 is not only a willful suppression of facts, but is a manifest perversion of the truth. It would seem as if even a kindergarten would rise in protest against an argument like this, which yet is seriously advanced by statesmen supporting the platform of the Republican Party. In other words, the claim is seriously made and urged, and apparently accepted and believed by thousands of our fellow-citizens, that something done in 1894 was the direct and immediate cause of what happened in 1893—the year before.

"We all know, further, that the Tariff act of 1894 was not the low-tariff Wilson bill, which passed the House of Representatives, but was a compromise tariff bill as amended by the Senate, which Mr. Cleveland allowed to become a law without his signature and without his approval, on the ground that it was not a compliance with the Democratic platform or in accordance with Democratic principles.

"Yet Mr. Cleveland is held responsible by the Republicans for the alleged consequences of this tariff measure, for which he was in nowise personally responsible but which certainly did not and could not have caused the financial catastrophe of the preceding year.

Government's Colonial Policy.

"The arrogant assumptions of the Republican platform point with pride also to the colonial policy of the Government. Surely this requires an amount of audacity almost equal to the prosperity assumption.

"What shall we say of the millions of dollars expended in subjugating the natives of the Philippine Islands and in teaching them by force the principles of American liberty? What shall we say of the six hundred and sixteen thousand men, women, and children whom Gen. Bell reported to have been buried in the island of Luzon during two years, out of a population of 3,727,488 persons—being in the proportion of one to six? A similar percentage in this State would mean the death, during two years, of over one million two hundred thousand inhabitants.

"The Republicans further point with pride to the honesty and integrity of the Administration. They take credit to themselves for the exposure of the postal frauds. The President even congratulates and compliments himself on the alleged vigor with which this exposure has been conducted.

"We may be pardoned for questioning whether this exposure has been quite as vigorous and unrelenting as our Republican friends would have us believe. We have some recollection of proceedings in the House of Representatives which some evilly disposed persons have been inclined to criticise as of a smothering rather than an exposing tendency.

"Admitting, however, that the charges which were at first sneered at as 'hot air' have been thoroughly investigated and the wrongdoers thoroughly exposed, is it not a fair question to put to our Republican friends—Why the necessity of exposure? Is it cause for congratulation and self-laudation that frauds existed needing exposure?

"If so, then should the Republican Administration of the early seventies be lauded to the skies, for there were frauds galore, calling for and receiving exposure, such as the Credit Mobilier, whisky ring, and Star Route frauds.

"We are not aware, however, that there has been any pointing with pride to the exposure of these frauds. We must confess with shame and sorrow that there were no exposures under the Democratic Administrations of 1885 to 1889 and 1893 to 1897, for the doubtless insufficient but truthful reason that there were no frauds to expose.

"We are told that the acquisition of the right of way for the Panama Canal is a result accomplished by the administration which is of inestimable value to the people and to the country for all time to come. For the purposes of the discussion, this may be conceded. If, however, the acquisition of the right of way for the Panama Canal has been at the expense of a sacrifice of national honor, a violation of treaty obligations, and a disregard of international law, and has involved unseemly haste on the part of the executive by way of interference in the internal affairs of a friendly nation, the beneficence of the results accomplished is no excuse and no justification.

Canal Treaty Questioned.

"That a treaty by which we guaranteed the sovereignty of the United States of Colombia over the Isthmus of Panama authorized us to oust the United States of Colombia from the Isthmus of Panama; that a secession of a State from the Republic of Colombia justified us instantly recognizing the independence of the seceding State and forcibly preventing its subjugation, are startling propositions of international law—propositions which we should certainly refuse to recognize if applied as against ourselves in any controversy between the United States and any State of this Union which should undertake to secede and assert its own authority.

"So, again, with regard to the Pension Order, by means of which the executive department, by a stroke of the pen, alters the pension laws of the nation and usurps the function which belongs to the legislative body. It is no answer to say that the result is beneficent, that the old soldiers are entitled to be taken care of, and that the purpose and intent with which the thing was done are laudable.

"The bald fact remains that after Congress had refused to pass an act granting pensions based upon age, and had adhered to the provisions of law by which pensions were to be given only for disability and incapacity to earn a livelihood by manual labor, the President, by executive fiat, altered the law and, under the guise of a rule of evidence, donated, of his own will and mere pleasure, a largess to the wards of the nation, for whom Congress had already made provision according to its best judgment.

"It has always been a fundamental principle of our Anglo-Saxon free institutions from the time of Magna Charta down, that the power of taxation and the right to dispose of the people's money should be confided to the legislative department of the Government.

"When our ancestors framed the Constitution of the United States they not only guarded the power of taxation, but they also carefully guarded the power of disbursement, and provided that no money should be drawn from the Treasury except under appropriations made by law.

"No appropriation has been made by law of money for pensions based upon age, and the act of the President in drawng money from the Treasury for such a purpose is clearly unconstitutional and unlawful.

"The question is asked, What does the Democratic Party propose to do if it succeeds in this election? The question is a proper one, and it calls for a definite and frank answer. The platform of the Democratic Convention and the speech of acceptance of its candidate give the answer.

What the Democrats Would Do.

"First. We propose to do away with the iniquities of a high protective tariff, so far as that tariff operates to impose upon the people of the country an unnecessary and unjust taxation for the benefit of the producers, and especially for the benefit of those who are fostering monopolies. The Democratic Party stands, as it has always stood, for the principles of true political economy and true political morality, for the principles that the power of taxation is to be used primarily for the purpose of revenue, and not for the purpose of fostering favored industries, and that the right of the consumer to have the necessities of life at the lowest possible rate is superior to the right of the producer to exact from the consumer an artificial and unnaturally enhanced value.

"It is to be borne in mind that the American people have never as yet given any mandate to Congress to pass a protective tariff, nor have they ever approved such a tariff. The McKinley tariff of 1890 was the issue before the people in the Congressional election of that year. It was discussed in the press and on the platform throughout the country. The result was the disastrous defeat of the Republican Party and the overturning of the Republican majority in the House of Representatives.

"Second—We propose to give to the people of the Philippine Islands a promise of that independence to which we believe they are entitled at the earliest practicable moment, and thereby to vindicate those principles of free government which are embodied in the Declaration of Independence, and which are part of the heritage of the American people. We believe that it is to the interest of the United States, and that it is the duty of the United States to free the people of the Philippine Islands from dependence upon this country, and to make them, as soon as possible, a free and independent people, as we have made the people of Cuba a free and independent people.

Won't Boast of "Doing Things."

"Third—We propose to give the people an economical and not a spendthrift Administration of the public revenues; a peace-loving and peace-seeking Administration, not a blustering and war-provoking Administration.

"Fourth—We propose to re-establish in the Government of this country the distinctions between the Executive and the legislative functions. We propose that our President, if elected, shall not boast himself of 'doing things,' but shall take pride in refraining from doing what the Constitution or the principles of free government prohibit.

"The candidate whom we have offered to the American people has nothing spectacular in his make-up. He is an unassuming American citizen, but he is a man of sterling integrity, of strong convictions, a trained jurist, a lover of law, and a champion of the Constitution. We believe that if elected the people of the United States will find in him an Executive who will not be seeking for self-glorification, nor even for the glorification of his country at the expense of truth, justice, or liberty.

Odell Sharply Criticised.

"So far as the affairs of this State are concerned, we believe that the people of this State are thoroughly dissatisfied with the conduct of affairs by the Republican Party during the past two administrations of the present incumbent. My respect as a citizen for the office of the Chief Magistrate of this State compels me to refrain from repeating the caustic criticisms made upon him in his dual capacity as Chairman of the Republican State Committee and Governor of the State of New York in this hall only a week ago by certain delegates to the Republican State Convention.

"The impropriety of the conduct of the Chief Magistrate of the State—who is supposed to be the servant of all the people and of all parties—in assuming the functions of a partisan State Chairman calls for rebuke.

SIBERIAN CITIES' PLIGHT.

Many Will Be in Darkness All the Winter Unless They Get Oil Soon.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES,

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The Times's insurance correspondent says:

"Business is active in steamers with coal, oil, and stores for Russian account.

"It is clear that urgent measures are being taken to secure supplies for Siberia and Manchuria before the Winter. Underwriters are skeptical as to the weather permitting steamers which have still to sail from Europe to reach Vladivostok.

"It would appear that the stores consist largely of conditional contraband, probably intended for the civil population. It has been known for months that unless large quantities of oil are got out many of the Eastern Siberian towns will be in darkness during the Winter."

CZAR'S CONCESSIONS TO JEWS.

Russian Legal Journal Thinks New Privileges Amount to Little.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES
Special Cablegram.

Copyright, 1904, THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The Times's Russian correspondents say the Russian legal journal Pravo subjects to very severe criticism the recent modifications of the legislation relating to the Jews.

The most important paragraph provides that Jewish soldiers fighting in the Far East have equal rights with those. retired privates who have entered the service under the recruiting law, the only difference being that the latter, upon retirement, have the right to live freely in any part of the empire, while the former can only secure this right by distinguishing themselves in battle or giving proof of irreproachable conduct during the course of the war.

Even this privilege is rendered doubtful by reason of the latitude given to personal caprice in the estimate of the soldier's conduct.

The Pravo welcomes the paragraph, however, as a sign that the behavior of the Jewish soldiers has to some extent modified the hostility toward the Jews prevailing in the capital.

The other paragraphs the Pravo considers of slight importance. It ascribes all the concessions to the desire to secure during the war the greatest possible measure of internal peace.

thousand shells daily, chiefly against the four Japanese positions mentioned. Small sorties, referred to by the Novy Krai of Port Arthur, in efforts to recapture the positions have been of almost nightly occurrence, and have been uniformly unsuccessful.

Terrible Task for Japanese.

The Japanese have learned wholesome respect for the resisting power of the fortress, according to every Japanese who has recently arrived here from Dalny. They realize that if they succeed in capturing Rih-Lung Mountain or other forts this will be only one step, although an important one, toward the capture of Port Arthur. The Russians, who had been observing the new tactics of the Japanese, did not expect another attack before the first week in October. The Japanese are endeavoring to proceed slowly but surely.

During the fighting in August the attempt to capture Kik-wan Mountain cost the Japanese an entire regiment. This statement has been absolutely confirmed, and indicates the monumental proportions of the task which the Japanese have set themselves in attempting to capture the fortress, which is composed of many forts equally strong.

ST. PETERSBURG, Wednesday, Sept. 21.—Lieut. Gen. Stoessel, commanding the Russian military forces at Port Arthur, reports by telegraph, under date of Sept. 16, as follows:

"The enemy continues daily to bombard the forts and batteries inside the fortress, but still without showing any great activity.

"The wounded are recovering and eagerly resume their places in the ranks. They are heroes.

"The troops are in excellent spirits.

"At about 3 this morning at least one Japanese battalion attacked the redoubt protecting the waterworks. The garrison of the redoubt repulsed the attack, but the enemy received reinforcements and renewed the attack after half an hour. The garrison again repulsed them with rifles and machine guns, supported by artillery. The Japanese sustained great losses, and did not again attempt to take the offensive.

The last attack mentioned by Gen. Stoessel was directed against Redoubt No. 8, which protects the water supply of the city. The redoubt is about two miles beyond the line of permanent forts, and the attack upon it shows that the Japanese were not then within striking distance of the main fortress.

Germany Particularly Anxious to Protect Cotton from Seizure.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—I learn that Germany is anxious to call an international conference for the purpose of deciding on new rules regarding the rights of neutrals in time of war.

Germany is particularly anxious that the Russian rule that cotton is contraband shall be pronounced illegal. It is considered disastrous to the cotton trade of the world.

'MARTHA LAIMBEER' IDENTIFIED

Young Woman Was Margaret Lynch—Suicide, Priest Says.

The mystery surrounding the identity of the young woman who was found dead in Greenfield Cemetery, near Freeport, L. I., on April 2, and buried there a few days later as "Martha Laimbeer" was cleared yesterday, when it was established that she was Miss Margaret Lynch, daughter of Edward N. Lynch, a Brooklyn contractor.

The Rev. Father Burns of the Roman Catholic Church of St. John the Baptist, who is an intimate friend of the Lynch family, confirmed the identification and said that with members of the Lynch family he shared the belief that the young woman committed suicide. He added that he had in his possession a letter written by Margaret Lynch to her mother in which she threatened to take her own life, this letter having been received the day before the body was discovered.

After the girl's death, according to Father Burns, he went out to Mineola, accompanied by a member of the Lynch family. He saw the body at the Morgue and positively identified it as that of Margaret Lynch, but did not make the fact known even to the local authorities, because they feared the painful publicity that would follow. It was the next day that Dr. J. H. B. Denton, the Coroner's physician in the case, received an anonymous letter containing the one-hundred-dollar check which saved the girl from a pauper's grave, and the request that she be buried.

The denouement, Father Burns said, was made at this time only in order to put an end to the talk of murder. The priest said that a week ago he went to District Attorney Nielsan, showed him the letter, and told him the facts in his possession in order to stop the authorities from working on the false theories. In spite of the revelation made by the priest, the Nassau County Prosecutor said yesterday that he still was of the opinion that the woman found in the cemetery had killed herself, and that he was not altogether satisfied the dead girl was Margaret Lynch.

"There is absolutely no question," said Father Burns, "that the girl who was found dead in Greenfield Cemetery was Margaret Lynch, the daughter of Edward V. Lynch of 344 Vernon Avenue. There is likewise no question in my mind or in the minds of her mother and sisters that she took her own life.

"A little more than two years ago she became engaged to be married to Oswald Maune, Jr., the son of Oswald Maune, of 293 Vernon Avenue. Mr. Maune is the proprietor of a printing establishment in Manhattan. Both the Maunes and the Lynches are my parishioners."

The priest recalled that shortly after the engagement the young man's mind began to give way, and that after it was found necessary to send him to an institution, where he is still confined, hopelessly insane. It was said at the time that the young man had learned many things regarding his fiancée, and that what he had learned had preyed upon his mind. Miss Lynch, however, continued to be a welcome visitor in the home of the young man's parents, and finally went to live with them as their niece at the Woodcliff Inn in Freeport.

It was after a conference between the elder Maune and Mrs. Lynch, at which Father Burns was present, that it was decided to keep the identity of the girl both from her friends and authorities, and it was with the idea of stopping all further talk about the matter that the $100 check was sent to the Coroner's physician for her burial.

EAST SIDE'S LESSON TO BE CLEAN STREETS

Educational Movement Started Throughout the District.

TO TEACH IT EVERYWHERE

The Teachers and Rabbis to Urge Clean Thoroughfares — Commissioner Woodbury Approves Heartily.

The announcement was made last night at the University Settlement Building on Eldridge Street that a movement was to be started throughout the lower east side to educate the people up to the point of keeping their streets clean. It was said that all of the rabbis on the east side would be asked to address their congregations on the subject, while at the same time the Principals and teachers in the public schools would proceed along the same lines by delivering short talks on the hygienic benefits of having clean streets, and by appealing to the pupils in their schools to teach their parents how to keep the streets free from dirt.

The announcement was made after a committee representing the people who had assembled in mass meeting last Wednesday had called upon Street Cleaning Commissioner Woodbury to present their grievances. The committee consists of David Blaustein, representing the Educational Alliance, of which he is Superintendent; Samuel Goldberg, representing the Legal Aid Society, and Carrington Phelps and L. Lande, representing the University Settlement.

After having held a long consultation with the Street Cleaning Commissioner, Mr. Lande and Mr. Phelps met the reporters. Mr. Lande said that he had told Mr. Woodbury that the streets of the east side were in a filthy condition. The Commissioner replied that it was not the fault of the Street Cleaning Department, but of the people who reside on the lower east side.

"But Commissioner Woodbury admitted to us that the streets over here had not been flushed with water since Aug. 1," said Mr. Lande. "He explained this by saying that the hose used by the department had given out and that it was almost useless. He said that as soon as he secured new hose the streets over here would be flushed. In explaining his reason for not having new hose, he said that he had advertised for bids for the hose, but the hose burst when it was tried, so it was abandoned. He said he expected to get some new hose in about two weeks. He admitted that he had only three gangs of men at work cleaning the streets over here, but he said that as soon as he got new hose more men would be put to work here and the streets be cleaned up as they have never been cleaned before.

"He added that the people of the east side were responsible for the dirty condition of their streets, as they were in the habit of littering them with dirt from their windows."

"Well," added Mr. Phelps, "I guess there is a heap of truth in that, for our Assistant Secretary, Mr. Brubacher, came nearly being knocked down the other night by a big tin wash boiler hurled from a window of a tenement over here. He narrowly escaped by dodging when the wash boiler came his way."

The Citizens' Committee will wait for a couple of weeks, until Commissioner Woodbury gets the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to allow him new hose. Then as soon as they hear from Commissioner Woodbury the committee will report back to another mass meeting. But the educational movement will be inaugurated immediately.

CRANK AT OYSTER BAY HELD.

Wanted President to Help Publish Book on Heaven.

OYSTER BAY, Sept. 20.—A man who is regarded by the Secret Service officers and by the authorities of Oyster Bay as a dangerous crank was arrested here shortly before noon to-day. He says he is J. E. Reeves. He is a roughly attired man, about forty years of age. He was making his way to Sagamore Hill when he was arrested. He told Secret Service Agent Tyree, who arrested him, that he wanted to see the President on important business.

Realizing from the man's manner that he was probably insane, Officer Tyree took him before Justice Franklin for examination. To the Justice Reeves said that six years ago he died in a Jersey City Hospital and went to heaven in an automobile. While there he received an important message for President Roosevelt, which he was directed to deliver personally.

He declared to the Justice, however, that he had written a book on his experiences in heaven, which he desired to have published, as he was satisfied millions could be made out of it. The President, he said, undoubtedly would join with him in securing the publication of the work, and that was the reason why he was going to Sagamore Hill.

Reeves said that he was a resident of Baltimore. He had gone from that city to Hagerstown, Md., and to Washington to see the President. Learning there that President Roosevelt was in Oyster Bay, Reeves returned to Baltimore and made his way to Philadelphia, New York, Jersey City, and Hempstead, L. I. He arrived here to-day from Hempstead. He had in his pockets $2 in cash and some unimportant papers, but no weapons.

Justice Franklin, being convinced that the man was insane and very likely dangerous, deputized one of the Secret Service men to take him to Mineola, where an inquiry into the man's mental condition was held.

Drs. Finn and Skinner this evening declared that the man was insane. He will probably be sent to the King's Park Asylum to-morrow.

The police learned this evening that the man brought a kit of blacksmithing tools here and left them at a shop, where he said he was a carriage worker.

STOKES NAMED FOR GOVERNOR

He Appears in Convention, Accepts Nomination, and Indorses Platform —Hudson Men Not Satisfied.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 20.—In an enthusiastic State Convention the Republicans of New Jersey to-day nominated ex-State Senator Edward C. Stokes of Cumberland County for Governor by acclamation. Senator Stokes, who had been ill, appeared in the convention and accepted the nomination in a speech that was vigorously cheered.

The Hudson delegates had made it clear that they were not fully satisfied with the platform as it had been drawn, but they contented themselves with stating their position before the Committee on Resolutions. This they did without avail. The platform adopted provides for the taxation of second-class railroad property at local rates. This would add about $400,000 to the $1,500,000 of taxes paid annually by the railroads in this State. Of the $400,000 increase Jersey City alone would receive about $275,000. This is due to the fact that so much second-class railroad property is located in that city. Second-class railroad property is property used for railroad purposes that is outside of the main line or "main stem," as it is described in the law.

The platform indorses the National and State Administrations. It points to the primary election law, the factory inspection law, the creation of a tenement house Commission, and the securing of interest on State deposits in banks as among the achievements of Gov. Murphy's administration. It denies the Democratic charges of extravagance. While admitting increased expenditures, it says that these have been necessary and beneficial. The bulk of the platform is devoted to the subject of equal taxation.

It defines the present law, and says that the party believes that the time has come when there should be a modification of the present law for the taxation of railroads by providing that second-class railroad property shall be taxed at full local rates.

The question of taxation of franchises and the main stem of railroads is so far reaching, the platform declares, in its effect upon State revenues that any legislation on this subject should be deferred until the report of the commission which is now investigating the subject.

Upon the presentation of this report the platform pledges the party to a fearless and thorough consideration of the subject, to the effect that any lack of uniformity or irregularities now existing may be remedied.

The equal-taxation movement, Mr. Stokes declared in his speech, was not of Democratic initiation. On the contrary, he said, it sprang from the brains "of the gentlemen who are sitting in this convention and who share in our counsels." Continuing he said:

"The general railroad tax law of 1884 was hailed as a great advancement in railroad taxation. Prosperity has multiplied the avenues of commerce, and in some of our cities property that would otherwise be listed in the local tax ratables has been necessarily absorbed by the great lines of transportation and municipal revenues have been accordingly reduced. We say this property should be taxed at equal rates for equal lines, and that all inequalities should be remedied for the benefit of municipal treasuries and with justice to all concerned. I pledge myself to that end."

The nominations for Presidential Electors were then made:

At Large—U. H. McCarter of Essex, Washington A. Roebling of Mercer.
First District—Howard M. Cooper of Camden.
Second District—Lewis T. Stevens, Cape May.
Third District—Lewis S. Thompson, Monmouth.
Fourth District—Adolph Mack, Somerset.
Fifth District—Richard H. Williams, Morris.
Sixth District—J. Hull Browning, Bergen.
Seventh District—Henry Dickson, Essex.
Eighth District—Arthur B. Leach, Essex.
Ninth District—Jacob Ringle, Hudson.
Tenth District—Aaron S. Baldwin, Hudson.

The convention then adjourned.

"We will not bolt this convention," said a Hudson County leader, "but we can hardly be expected to hold our people in check. The second-class property in our town would include freight yards and such, while the terminals of the Pennsylvania, the Central of New Jersey, the Erie, the West Shore, and the Lackawanna will all go in the class rated as main stem and pay one-half of 1 per cent. Now the Democrats propose a far better plan, and our people are likely to follow Black and his teachings, no matter how hard we try to hold them."

BLACK FOR EQUAL TAXATION.

He Accepts New Jersey Democratic Nomination for Governor.

Charles C. Black, Democratic candidate for Governor of New Jersey, was notified of his nomination at his home, 80 Garfield Avenue, Jersey City. In his reply he said:

"The platform, expressed in language so precise and so simple, cannot be misunderstood, and shall not be misconstrued, adopting two cardinal principles of democratic government, economy in public expenditures and the equal taxation of railroad property in each municipality, at the same rate that is imposed upon the property of private owners, dollar for dollar in assessment of valuation, dollar for dollar in amount of tax to be imposed and paid to the taxing districts in which the property is located, meets my deliberate approval. In the language of the platform, by accepting this nomination I feel in honor bound to keep the pledge of the platform in letter and spirit, in case the nomination is ratified by the people at the polls.

"A system of taxation which by law grants a special privilege or partial exemption to the property of the steam railroads and canals, not granted to the property of private owners, is in violation of that spirit of fairness, which has been fostered by a State famed in the Nation for justice.

"The present conditions in the Republican Party are aptly described by the Republican Mayor of Jersey City, in his letter to the Governor in March last. He said: 'The present session of the Legislature is drawing to a close. The record, on the whole, is bad, and in some respects is disgraceful. Its control by corporate interests in the Assembly, at least, has been absolute. The bills for equal taxation demanded by a practically unanimous public sentiment in all North Jersey at least, have been buried in committee at the command of the railroad corporations, and every attempt to move them has been resisted by a solid Republican vote upon the test motions.'"

Mr. Black will speak on the subject of equal taxation in all the principal cities of the State. He opened the campaign last night at Newton, Sussex County.

Union League Plans a Rally.

The Campaign Committee of the Union League Club held a meeting last night relative to the action that the club will take during the campaign. It was decided to hold a large club meeting in October, which Republican speakers of National prominence will address. Cornelius N. Bliss said that it will probably be held on the regular club night, Oct. 13. The meeting will be held in the main meeting room of the club, and Mr. Bliss said that at least 1,000 members are expected to be present.

Senator Lefevre Up for Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Sept. 20.—State Senator Frank J. Lefevre of New Paltz was nominated for Congress to-day by the Republicans of the Twenty-fourth District. The district's present representative, George J. Smith of Kingston, declined to run again. Mr. Lefevre is a banker and a son of ex-Congressman Jacob Lefevre.

FIGHTING FOR CONNECTICUT.

Judge Robertson, Democratic Nominee for Governor There, Optimistic.

Extraordinary efforts are being made by the Democrats in Connecticut to carry that State for the National and State tickets and Democratic headquarters here are aiding in the work by sending some of its ablest orators into the field there. Judge A. Heaton Robertson, Democratic nominee for Governor, had several conferences in this city yesterday with Mr. McConville in charge of the Speakers' Bureau and with Mr. Nicoll. Judge Robertson said:

"We are conducting, and will continue to conduct, a vigorous campaign, and have every hope of success for both tickets. The situation in the State is very encouraging."

Daniel W. Morgan, who was Treasurer of the United States under Cleveland, came on from Bridgeport yesterday. Mr. Morgan said:

"There is no opposition to the National ticket on the part of Democrats, whatever their views have been on some questions formerly arising within the party. Practically all the voters who have ever been Democrats are heartily in favor of our National and State tickets, and I see no reason why Connecticut should not be looked upon as one of the most hopeful fields in this campaign. We have a splendid candidate for Governor."

ADDOMS AND PALMIERI NAMED.

Halpin Predicts Roosevelt Will Carry New York by 100,000.

According to programme, Mortimer C. Addoms was nominated for Justice of the Supreme Court and John Palmieri for Judge of the City Court last night at the Republican Judicial Convention in Murray Hill Lyceum. Martin Saxe was temporary Chairman, and Charles H. Strong permanent Chairman of the convention, which was attended by 213 delegates. The nominating speeches were made by Alexander V. Campbell for Mr. Addoms and Magistrate Ommen for Judge Palmieri.

William Halpin, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Campaign Committee, introduced a resolution indorsing the National and State tickets, and in an address predicted that New York State would go for President Roosevelt by 100,000 plurality.

BRITISH SKIPPER ARRESTED.

Had a Dispute with Woman Over His Gold Sovereigns.

A big, broad-shouldered man, who was hugging a bag of gold with one hand and arm, and was poking a woman in the eye with his free hand attracted a crowd and Policeman Converse of the West Thirtieth Street Station at Broadway and Twenty-eighth Street last night.

"I'm Cap'n Jack Macdonald," the man vociferously explained, "and that woman's got part of my dough. A thousand gold left, though," and he patted the bag.

The woman, who said she was Elisabeth Macharg, had a bruise under her eye, and she whimpered as the big man tried to get at her. The policeman took them both to the station house to explain.

"I'm Cap'n Jack Macdonald," said the man. "I run the steamship Moldavia over the other side. I runs over 'ere an' I meets this lady on the Ethiopia from Liverpool. I thinks as 'ow she stole some of me money. I'm short a 'undred, bli' me."

The woman denied the theft of any money.

"Wy, I wouldn't make a charge against her, anyway," said the Captain as he hugged his bag to him, sat down, and went to sleep.

He was held for intoxication and she for larceny.

ELEVATED RUNS OVER MAIL.

Batch of Letters, Many of Them Mutilated, Drops on Roundsman.

Roundsman Daniel Sheehan of the Mercer Street Station was passing under the elevated railroad structure at Waverley Place and Sixth Avenue late last night just after a north-bound train had passed when a big batch of letters fell on him. There were several hundred, many of them mutilated as if they had been run over by the train, and the Roundsman filled five big boxes with them. He took them to the Mercer Street Station house, and, the Post Office being notified, Transportation Agent Kemp took possession of them.

The letters, mostly, were postmarked at Station O, which is at Fifth Avenue and Sixteenth Street. It was figured out that the letters were aboard a south-bound train, off which they fell, and that the north-bound train ran over a lot of them, and they then fell into the street on top of Roundsman Sheehan. Some of the mutilated letters were so cut up that the mail clerks may not be able to make out to whom they are to be sent.

BOY DEAD, FATHER RETURNS.

Just to Make Money by Accident Suit, Wife Says.

Mrs. Ida Berkowitz, twenty-seven years old, of 76 Forsyth Street, whose son Benjamin, three years old, was killed by a truck four weeks ago, appeared in the Essex Market Police Court yesterday and charged her husband, Joseph, with non-support. She said that for two years her husband had been missing from home and she had believed him to be dead. Three days after the boy's death, she said, Berkowitz reappeared to bring suit against the owners of the truck. She said that what he wanted was to make something out of the fatal accident.

An interesting point will be raised in the Supreme Court when the suit for damages brought by Berkowitz against a concern whose wagon killed the boy comes up. Mrs. Berkowitz has also brought suit against the owners of the truck. The court will have to decide which parent has the right to damages in the event of a decision against the truck's owners.

SUBWAY NEARLY TO BATTERY.

Fulton and Pine Street Sections Will Be Joined To-night.

It is confidently expected by the engineers in charge that the two sections of the rapid transit subway south of City Hall by to-night will have been connected at Maiden Lane. Last night the laborers had but thirty-five feet of the upper heading to complete going north in the Pine Street section.

In the Fulton Street section both the upper and lower headings have been completed up to Maiden Lane, and a great deal of the iron construction work has also been put in. As far south from City Hall as Ann Street the track is already in, and the current has been turned on in the third rail.

In the sections south of Pine Street rapid headway is also being made, and but a very few feet, all told not over one hundred, remain to be excavated between Pine Street and Exchange Place. When this connection is made, the subway tunnelling will be complete from City Hall to the Battery.

Killed by Fall from Scaffold.

Charles Anderson, a bricklayer, whose address is not known, and Louis Zosa, a mason, of 306 East One Hundred and Fifteenth Street, fell off a chimney scaffold on the third floor of the Union Settlement Club building, at 239 East One Hundred and Fourth Street yesterday afternoon. Anderson sustained a fractured skull and died soon after. Zosa's left leg was broken and his body was severely bruised.

Southern Sea Trip for Prudential Men.

A party of 100 agents of the Prudential Insurance Company sailed yesterday afternoon on the steamship Princess Anne of the Old Dominion Line on a trip which will include Old Point Comfort, Richmond, and Washington.

RECIPROCITY NO AID TO OUR CUBAN TRADE

European Imports Are Increasing Much Faster.

ONLY A THREE PER CENT. GAIN

Minister Squiers, However, Expects to See American Goods Admitted on a Better Basis.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—In a report to the State Department Minister Herbert G. Squiers gives the footings of the imports of Cuba for the first quarter of the present fiscal year. The showing is most discouraging to those who look to see the trade between the United States and the island increase as a result of the existing reciprocity arrangement between the two Governments.

While our trade is still the largest as compared with that of Great Britain, Germany, France, and Spain, there has been but a normal increase since last year. For the same period in 1903 imports from this country were $7,057,000, and for this year $7,347,000, an increase of $290,000. But in the same time Cuba bought of Great Britain $735,000 more goods, of Spain $558,000 more, and of Germany $290,000 more.

"American merchants and manufacturers," says Mr. Squiers, "will find but little satisfaction in these figures. The imports into Cuba from the United States show an increase of but 3 per cent., while those from England, Germany, Spain, and France increased 20, 21, 16, and 8 per cent., respectively, and I am unofficially informed that the Cuban exports to the United States have very largely increased.

"I never fail to impress upon the President and the Cuban merchants and planters with whom I come into contact," adds the Minister, "the danger to reciprocity in the present uneven trade between the two countries, and that American merchants and manufacturers will not long support an arrangement which largely increases the market for Cuban productions and by comparison, at least, decreases the sale of our own. The situation is pretty well understood, and it will not be difficult to obtain from the Cuban Government a proposition for the admission of goods of American origin on a more favorable basis."

HAVANA, Sept. 20.—Mr. Squiers had an interview to-day with President Palma regarding the proposal to put sugar-grinding and other machinery on the free list. As a result of the conference it is probable that the bill will be amended so as to protect the United States in her rights under the reciprocity treaty. President Palma gave Mr. Squiers assurances that he would not approve of any legislation inimical to the treaty.

ROW OVER PROVIDENT LOAN.

Anderman Bought Ticket for Worthless Rings and Then Lost Watch.

Herman Anderman, thirty-four years, and his wife Regina of 716 East Ninth Street, were arraigned in the West Side Court yesterday afternoon on a charge of disorderly conduct. The complainant was Henry Phillips, manager of the Provident Loan Society of 119 West Forty-second Street. Policemen said that the couple had entered the offices of the society, got into an altercation with the manager, and refused to leave when requested to do so.

The Andermans had a lawyer to tell their side of the story. Anderman, it appeared from the lawyer's story, is an artist in crayons. He did some work recently for a man named Cohen, the bill for which amounted to $20. In payment, Cohen, Anderman says, gave him a pawnticket valued at $2, calling for two rings pawned for $18.

Anderman went to the office of the Provident Loan Society, where the goods where, and found that there was $1.44 interest accrued on the loan. Anxious to secure the bargain, Anderman pawned his gold watch for $19, put 44 cents to it, and redeemed the two rings. He says he found them to be the rawest kind of imitations, such as come with packages of candy on excursion boats.

When Anderman found out the nature of his "bargain," he demanded his money back from the pawnbroker, but was refused. Then, he says, he offered to pawn the rings for $15 or even $13, but the pawnbroker said he was not loaning any money on rings at that time. Then the husband and wife became thoroughly wrought up and made a scene. Every time a customer came into the store they demanded their money in loud tones, until the pawnbroker had them arrested.

When the pawnbroker's representative was asked in court to explain why his company loaned $18 on two patently valueless rings he could give no excuse, saying that he was no judge of gems. The Magistrate thereupon discharged Mr. and Mrs. Anderman.

As Anderman left the court he was heard to say, mournfully: "I am out my gold watch, my $19.44, my money from Cohen, and I was arrested. Where do I come in?"

WAS DRY DOCK HOTEL PATRON.

Now Rice Has Retained John G. Milburn to Prosecute Proprietor's Wife.

Rose Hertz, wife of the proprietor of the Dry Dock Hotel, at the Bowery and Third Street, was arrested last night on two charges, one being larceny and the other that of administering "knock-out" drops. The Complainant against the woman is Bernard Rice, a traveling salesman of East Buffalo, and an acquaintance of John G. Milburn, who has been retained to prosecute the case.

According to Rice's story, he was walking up the Bowery on Monday night, having just reached the city, and when in front of the Dry Dock Hotel a man stepped out and asked him if he wanted a room for the night. He says he replied in the affirmative, and that after he had taken a room the Hertz woman brought drinks up to him. Thereupon, he declares, he became unconscious, and, on awakening next morning, found that his gold watch, dress suit case, $85 in money, and several articles of clothing were missing.

He says the Hertz woman promised to "fix the matter up" with him if he would keep quiet about it. The case was placed in the hands of Capt. McDermott. When arrested Mrs. Hertz said the first time she saw Rice was at 11 o'clock yesterday morning.

Supreme Court Justice Gaynor of Brooklyn not long ago granted an injunction preventing policemen from standing on guard in front of the door of the Dry Dock Hotel.

GEORGIANS FEAR RACE WAR.

Gov. Terrell Notified That Bloodshed Is Imminent at Pitts.

Special to The New York Times.

HAWKINSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 20.—A race war is imminent at Pitts, a village in Wilcox County, twelve miles south of here. The hardware stores here have received orders to rush ammunition and arms by express to the place, in anticipation of an outbreak among the negroes.

On Saturday night Cecil Johnson, a white man, shot and killed a negro, and since that time the blacks have been holding secret meetings, 230 strong, many quitting their work to attend. The white men have organized, and say they are ready to fight. They are armed and awake to-night.

Gov. Terrell has been notified of the trouble by conservative citizens, who asked him to hurry troops to Pitts in order to prevent bloodshed.

CHAMPIONSHIP POLO AT VAN CORTLANDT

Waterbury Boys Defeat Foxhall Keene's Fast Team.

CROWD SEES SPIRITED PLAY

New Yorkers Triumph Over Bostonians by 1½ Goals—Cowdin and Milburn Thrown, but Not Injured.

Championship polo drew an unusual crowd to Van Cortlandt Park yesterday. It was an unusual game, being the first time in this country that an open championship competition has been arranged by the Polo Association. Then, again, it was an unusual aggregation of players, combining on the winning team, known officially as the Wanderers, C. R. Snowden, J. E. Cowdin, Lawrence Waterbury, and J. M. Waterbury, Jr. This team won the handsome challenge cup, scoring 4½ goals to 3 for the four known as the Freebooters, made up of Devereux Milburn, Foxhall Keene, R. L. Agassiz, and Joshua Crane, Jr. As all of the winners except Snowden were New Yorkers, while Keene was the only member of the opposing team not identified with a Boston club, the game also resolved itself into an inter-city championship, and the New Yorkers found delight in wildly crowing over the Boston delegation after the match.

The crowd also was unusual, for while in numbers it perhaps did not exceed 6,000 to 7,000, in its representation of the fashion and club life of the city, it was the most brilliant gathering ever seen at any public function at Van Cortlandt, not even excepting the casual assemblies of the Colonial Dames in the ancient Van Cortlandt manor house.

The grand stand, with a few reserved seats and the others open to the public, was on the west side of the field, and this, as well as the bank bordering that side of the field, was packed with people. On the eastern side of the field the officials of the Polo Association kept tally of the game, while the automobiles, coaches, and traps that brought scores of Rockaway, Westchester Country, Meadow Brook and other club members were lined up in a long and imposing array. The centre of the field was the dividing line between automobiles and horse-drawn vehicles. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt occupied seats on W. Goadby Loew's coach, Mrs. George Gould was with a coaching party including H. L. Herbert, Chairman of the Polo Association, and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Nicol had another large party. Squadron A had a coach in line, and two big Fifth Avenue 'buses brought up large polo delegations. There was much visiting among the traps between periods, and one almost forgot that he was in a public park, and not at a social and sporting event of some big country club.

The game was fast, spirited, well contested, and brilliant. It resembled the old-time matches of which the veterans of the Meadow Brook and Rockaway Clubs are ever fond of talking over. Foxhall Keene, rated for years as the best player in America, has not been seen in a tournament game in America for three years. It was a treat to see him once more in the saddle, astride of the black mare Texiana, acknowledged to be the fastest polo pony in the world. She came dangerously near being lamed in the third period. It came soon after Keene had made a difficult goal from an angle in the quarter field. In a scramble for the ball near the boards, Keene hit the sphere, but hitting so his pony slipped and struck its ankle heavily on the edge of the board. Time was called, but after a few limps the pany cantered off as sound as a dollar and before the period closed Keene made another goal.

The Wanderers wore red shirts, while the Freebooters wore white. All wore the regulation polo cap, and Keene attracted comment by carrying a small whip with him. Keene was fully up to his traditional high-class form.

Agassiz and Crane brought on their best mounts from Boston, Agassiz riding his celebrated Pink-Un, a winner of countless horse show prizes. Milburn had the least speedy ponies of all, but his work was marked by a thoroughness that stamps him as a royal polo player. He is a recent Oxford graduate, and while there rowed on the Oxford crew and was a prominent member of the Oxford polo team. It was to his father's home in Buffalo that the late President McKinley was carried after being shot at the Pan-American Fair, and where he died.

Oliver W. Bird of the Meadow Brook Club was referee. He threw the ball in soon after 3:30 o'clock, and the game started off at a fast clip. Back and forth went the ball, now dangerously near one goal and then almost between the posts of the opposite side for over ten minutes, until Cowdin amid rousing cheers from the crowd scored the first point. It was made after a splendid run down the field, in which the Waterbury brothers both hit the ball for long carries. Cowdin had originally taken the ball from Crane. Keene hit it once when near the Freebooters' goal, but in another try to run it up the field he missed his stroke, his pony going so fast that he was carried over the ball before he could strike at it.

Cowdin was right at his heels, and having a clear field for the goal sent it neatly between the posts. In less than half a minute Snowden made another goal, and "Larry" Waterbury closed the period with the third goal for the Wanderers, after Agassiz and Crane had made desperate efforts to head him off. During the hot play between the goals, Milburn was thrown heavily from his horse, and, although many averred that the pony rolled partially over the rider, Milburn was up in a twinkling, and in less than half a minute was out in the field on a fresh mount.

Foxhall Keene and the Bostonians hit up a faster pace in the second period in an effort to cut down the big lead of the opposing team. They almost succeeded in tieing the score, for Agassiz made two magnificent goals, getting the last one seven seconds over time.

Four goals were scored in the third period, Keene getting two by magnificent plays, but J. M. Waterbury and Snowden also scored for their team. In a moment of exciting play Keene, evidently forgetting that English rules do not obtain here, hooked the mallet of his opponent, and was promptly penalized half a goal. Crane was forced to make a safety, and this cost the Freebooters another quarter of a goal. Cowdin was thrown in this period, falling almost in front of the grand stand, but fortunately with no injury to himself.

Nothing was scored in the final period. Snowden was penalized half a goal for a foul, and Keene had to resort to a safety.

Rain began to fall before the game was concluded, and the crowd rapidly thinned out, the automobiles and traps moving rapidly away in a steady line. The defeated team cheered the victors, and the home-going crowd let out several yells of satisfaction, and the biggest and best championship polo game of the year was over.

Among those who were members of the various automobile and coaching parties were L. V. Froment, driving the Squadron coach, with Major and Mrs. F. C. Thomas, Miss Beatrice Flagg, Mr. and Mrs. Norman B. Gardner, Mrs. Daniel Manning, Mrs. J. D. Lawrence, Mrs. Allan Ryan, and A. A. Whitney, Jr., P. F. Collier, Robert J. Collier, William A. Hazard, Rene La Montagne, Mrs. Maude Berger Wallack, Harry P. Case, J. Insley Blair, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Brokaw, E. La Montagne, Mrs. J. P. Cowdin, Seaton Porter, Jr., Seward Cary, Howard Brokaw, Albert Franke, Daniel Chauncey, Jr., Robert C. Lawrence, Capt. Herbert Barry, Major Oliver Bridgman of Squadron A, and Mrs. Bridgman, Mrs. Charles P. Warren, John Dallett, Rene La Montagne, Jr., William C. Sands, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Potter, J. C. Cooley, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Waterbury, Mrs. Lawrence Waterbury, Col. Charles R. Treat of West Point, Mr. and Mrs. W. Goadby Loew, A. S. Borden, Leavitt J. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. George Adee, R. C. LOCAL TEAM WON TWO FROM THE WASHINGTONS

Boston Also Successful, but Griffith's Men Increased Lead.

NATIONALS DID NOT PLAY

Brooklyn Took One Game from the Pittsburgs and Second Resulted in a Tie.

Two victories for the Greater New Yorks and one for Boston yesterday placed the local team further ahead for the American League championship, and Griffith's men have one more game to play with Washington, which will be the last of the season between the two teams, while the champions will have their farewell meeting with the Quakers. Cleveland and St. Louis quit even on the day, but at Chicago cold weather stopped the contest with Detroit. In the National League the New Yorks postponed their opening game with Cincinnati, claiming rain as the cause, but at Brooklyn Hanlon's men beat Pittsburg the first game and in the second the score was a tie at the end of the seventh inning. Chesbro Pitches in Two Games for New York and Wins Both.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Both games of to-day's double-header were won by the Greater New Yorks. It required eleven innings to decide the first one, and it was a splendid contest. Orth was pitted against Jacobsen, and the pair prevented any runs being scored for six innings. It was purely a contest of the pitchers up to that time, for only three hits were made on both sides. But after that the visitors hit Jacobsen more freely and got two runs. In the ninth inning the local men rallied and tied the score. Orth disappeared then, and Chesbro finished the game, which was delayed in the eleventh inning by a shower. New York scored just before the downpour, and this proved to be the winning run.

Chesbro was in the box again in the second game, and while he was batted as often as Hughes, not a run would have been scored but for Williams's fumbled grounder. Hughes was hit freely in the first inning, two singles and two doubles giving Griffith's team three runs. The local men discovered that they were not so good in the mud as their opponents, and they were hopelessly beaten all the way, the game being called at the end of the sixth inning on account of darkness.

In the first game Elberfeld scored the first run, after hitting safely, on Conroy's sacrifice and Ganzel's single. The next run was the result of a base on balls to Fultz, McGuire's sacrifice, and Orth's hit. The Washingtons rallied in the ninth inning and tied the score on a base on balls to O'Neill, Hill's two-bagger, Stahl's sacrifice, and Huelsman's force hit. Hill got home before Williams could get Huelsman's hit ball to McGuire. In the eleventh inning New York won on a hit by Keeler, Elberfeld's drive, and Conroy's fly, which Mullen caught in centre field. Keeler crossed the plate. Hits by Dougherty, Conroy, Williams, and Ganzel scored three runs in the first inning of the second game. Two more were tallied in the third on hits by Keeler and Conroy and an error by Hughes. Singles by Stahl and Huelsman and Williams's fallown gave the locals a run in the sixth inning. The scores:

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Brooklyn Won One Game from Champions; Other Was a Tie.

The champion Pittsburgs began their last Eastern tour of the season at Washington Park yesterday in a double header with the Brooklyn team. Hanlon's men took the first game by a streak of hard and safe batting in the third inning, during which three runs were scored. Jones's delivery was puzzling to the Pittsburgs, only six hits being made off him. The fielding as a rule was excellent, the special features being the second base playing of Jordan and Ritchey and Bransfield's display at first base. Gilbert, one of the champions' new recruits, from the Little Rock Club of the Southern League, played at left field and acquitted himself creditably.

In the second game Mitchell was pitted against Robertaille. While the Pittsburgs outbatted the home team, the hits were not of a run-getting variety. Each team scored a run in the first inning, Gilbert tallying for Pittsburg by good hitting and Dillon scoring for Brooklyn on two bases on called balls and Sheckard's single. By agreement the game was called at the end of the seventh inning. The scores:

COLUMBIA 'VARSITY SCORES IN PRACTICE

Two Touch-Downs Made Against University Strong Scrub Team.

40 MEN IN PRINCETON SQUAD

Birmingham, Former Mercersburg Player, Reports at Cornell — Game Between Carlisle and F. and M. Canceled.

Effective work was done by the Columbia football team yesterday, when, in fifteen minutes' practice on South Field, the 'Varsity scored two touch-downs against an unusually strong scrub team. The scores were made by Fisher and Duell. The work was so strenuous that several of the men were laid out temporarily. Sedgewick twisted his knee and will probably be out of the game for several days. Smythe received a hard shaking up, but was able to resume practice. Putnam received a nasty cut in the head, and three men got bloody noses.

The offense of the 'Varsity was particularly good yesterday, and when it had the ball the scrubs were unable to check its rushes. At the start of practice the scrubs had the ball and carried it about twenty-five yards before being forced to kick. Then the scrubs were forced down the field until Fisher of the 'Varsity was carried over for a score. The 'Varsity was then given the ball on its twenty-yard line, and again took the leather the full length of the gridiron for another tally, after which practice was given Metzenthin and Donovan in drop-kicking. The new men out yesterday were Landers and Brown, both of last year's 'Varsity. The line-up of the 'Varsity team was as follows: Left end, Muir; left tackle, Browne; left guard, Echeverria; centre, Landers and Smythe; right guard, Talbot; right tackle, Aigeltinger; right end, Buell; quarter back, Donovan and Metzenthin; left half back, Duell and Metzenthin; right half back, Putnam; full back, Carter. Capt. Stangland did not play yesterday.

Harvard opened its football season on Soldiers' Field on Monday afternoon, when thirty-seven candidates reported, making a considerably larger squad than that of last year. Capt. "Dan" Hurley and Head Coach Edgar Wrightington had charge of the practice. Ex-Capt. Carl Marshall and "Andy" Marshall, left guard on the eleven for the last two seasons, assisted in putting the men through their work.

There were few freshmen out, and this year's incoming class is looked for to make a good contribution to the 'Varsity squad. The class of 1908 will get to work a week from to-day, and then the call for candidates from the freshman class will be made. Several men who are expected to make a good showing are now taking their entrance examinations. Brill, the former Exeter Captain and tackle, is among these.

The man to attract most attention was a big sophomore, Cuniff, who was ineligible for the eleven last year, as he came to Harvard from Boston University. He weighs 222 pounds, and has almost an ideal physique for the centre of the line, for which position he is a candidate. Another 220-pounder was White of last year's freshman eleven, and now a candidate for a guard's position.

Of last year's "H" men, besides Capt. Hurley there were but two men—Roger Derby, who played left tackle in the Yale game last Fall, and "Jim" Montgomery, who won his letter as a substitute end in the Pennsylvania and Yale games last Fall. There are a number of "H" men expected back, and it is thought that they will all report before the end of the week. Among the stragglers are Parkinson, who played centre last year; Mills, last year's substitute full back; Squires, one of last year's substitute tackles; Nichols, last year's left half back, and Meier, last year's left tackle. Lemoyne was not on the field yesterday afternoon, and it was rumored that he will not come back to college this Fall. The management has not heard from Lemcyne one way or the other, but it is sincerely hoped that he will come back.

Football practice at New York University yesterday showed a decided improvement over that of last week. The men handled the ball better, and the candidates for end showed up well in getting down the field under punts. Capt. Ridley had the men at work for nearly two hours, devoting most of the time to individual instruction to the line men in blocking and charging. Those of last year's team who have not reported as yet but are expected to be on hand this week are Coe, Miller, Callahan, and MacNamara. The work will be under the direction of Assistant Coach Saunders until after the close of the American League season, when "Dave" Fultz, the New York's centre fielder, will take control. Fultz has been actively connected with football for a number of years. He has acted as coach at Brown, Lafayette, and several other colleges, and also was Captain and coach of the strong team of the Homestead Athletic Club of Pittsburg.

Manager H. E. Nagle announced that he had arranged a game with Fordham College for Oct. 8, and had hopes of adding Rutgers to the schedule. The schedule to date is as follows: Oct. 5, Amherst at Amherst; 8, Fordham at Ohio Field; 15, R. P. I. at Ohio Field; 22, Trinity at Ohio Field; 29, Rochester at Rochester; Nov. 5, Haverford at Ohio Field; 8, Rutgers, (pending;) 12, West Point at West Point; 19, Union at Ohio Field; 24, Lafayette at Easton.

An hour's work was given the Tigers yesterday afternoon on their second practice of the season. The coaching was in the hands of De Witt, Short, and Davis, who instructed the men principally in forming their offense on heavy plays. Great stress was laid on punting, and the coaches are trying to develop a man who will follow De Witt as a kicker. Hampson, Munn, and Tooker were given a show, and will probably make good, but Bard is still one of the furthest punters. Seven new men reported for the first time, and the squad now numbers more than forty. Trainer Robinson says the freshmen will be called out to-morrow, that he is expecting some good material from the entering class. The Tigers will get down to hard work this week, as their first game comes with Dickinson on Sept. 28.

On account of rain Cornell's football practice yesterday consisted chiefly of a blackboard talk by Coach Warner. Several new men reported, the most important of whom was Birmingham, the former Mercersburg Academy back, who will enter the university. Birmingham brings with him the best record of any freshman who has reported so far this season, and many think he will be given a place in the Cornell back field. Rice, left halfback on last year's eleven, also came out yesterday.

The games scheduled for this afternoon between the Carlisle Indians and Franklin and Marshall at Carlisle was canceled by the latter team yesterday.

TRAINER M'CORMICK'S LONG CHANCE FIRST

Monet, in L. V. Bell's Stable, Won at 20 to 1 in Spite of Fouls.

RIDERS' CLAIMS DISMISSED.

Ormonde's Right from Sydney Paget's Barn Beat Mabel Richardson in the Handicap at Gravesend.

It helped to wake up things on what threatened to be a most commonplace day of racing at the Gravesend track yesterday when Trainer "Jimmy" McCormick achieved his annual feat, and, with Monet as the instrument, brought home the Winter's oats in the Bayshore Selling Stakes, a six-furlong sprint for three-year-olds and upward, Monet, with just enough stable money on to pay the help and keep everybody satisfied, winning at odds of 20 to 1. If there is any one in the world fonder of a 20 to 1 winner than Trainer McCormick himself, it is his employer, L. V. Bell, and so the coup was eminently pleasing to everybody connected with the establishment, including the stable jockey, Gannon, who had his semi-occasional winning mount on the victor.

When Monet went to the post in a field of ten for the Bayshore, there was quite a liberal distribution of the Bell and McCormick money at the prevailing odds, ranging between 20 to 1 and 30 to 1. Ascension and Mineola started about equal favorites, but from the first jump to the last Monet had the best turn and speed, and going to the front in the run through the back stretch, held command to the winning post, though he had to be hard ridden to hang on in front of Armenia, which was the contender through the greater part of the distance. At the winning post it was Monet first by a neck, with Armenia second, just clear of Ascension, third. As soon as they had made their weights there was a rush of jockeys for the stewards' stand, and claims of foul riding were made so fast that the stewards had to drive the boys out of the stand to get the chance to consider the facts. The backers of Monet were willing to take any chance to hedge their bets when the stewards reached the decision that Monet was no more to blame than any other horse and ordered the horses placed as they had finished.

One more really exhilarating incident happened in the course of the afternoon, and this was when Sydney Paget's Stable beat the Western mare Mabel Richardson for the mile and a furlong handicap. C. E. Rowe had both Colonial Girl, winner of the $50,000 handicap at St. Louis over Hermis, and First Mason in the same race with Mabel Richardson, but the Western horseman, having weighed up the New York horses, decided that Mabel was quite enough for the task in hand, and the other two were withdrawn. Mabel Richardson then started favorite, with Ormonde's Right the second choice in a field of six. For the first seven furlongs of the race Sonoma Belle was out in front, with the two three-year-olds, Ormonde's Right and St. Valentine, trailing her, while Mabel Richardson was close up. On the stretch Ormonde's Right brushed to the front with a smart burst of speed and won rather handily by two lengths from Sonoma Belle, while Mabel Richardson failed to get up in time to beat St. Valentine for third money. Summary:

FIRST RACE.—For three-year-olds, selling allowances; about six furlongs.

HIS OWN MASTER.

The man to be nominated by this convention should be, and I believe he will be, a man who will commend himself to the voters of this State as a man who will be his own master, who will stand for honest and efficient government, and who will represent no faction as against any other faction, and who will have no object to subserve if elected but the welfare of the people of the State as a whole, regardless of faction and of party.

If every delegate to the Convention would read and reread that passage from Mr. HORNBLOWER'S speech, and if, as a body, the delegates would choose for the candidate such a man as he there portrays, there would be not the slightest doubt that the voters of the State would put an end to Odellism this Fall, and that during the next two years we should have a Governor worthy of the fullest confidence.

RUSSIA AND TIBET.

Russia has some grounds for her protest, reported yesterday, to Great Britain as to the result of the expedition to Lhassa. If the terms of the treaty are correctly reported, the sovereignty of China has been distinctly impaired and Tibet will not be in the future the cloistered province it has been in the past. The treaty provides for some representative and adviser selected by the British Government, for additional facilities for trade on the borders, for the payment of an indemnity in installments, and for the holding of a portion of Tibetan territory until the indemnity shall have been paid.

One result of this arrangement, the one really most important to Great Britain and the most objectionable to Russia, is to render secret influence over Tibet by Russia, either through the entourage of the Lama or through the Chinese representative, very much more difficult than it has been heretofore. If the report, which as yet lacks definite confirmation, be true that a new Lama has been recognized by Great Britain and by China, then the change in the relations of Tibet to the outside world, and especially to Russia, may prove radical. Meanwhile Great Britain probably means to observe with entire good faith her assurance that no part of the territory of Tibet shall permanently be occupied, but if the indemnity is not paid, or if other points in the agreement be not observed, it is unlikely that Great Britain will abandon the only security she possesses or can use. Tibet may become another Egypt.

RECIPROCITY IN COAL.

New England manufacturers wish to buy cheap coal, in order to compete successfully with their more favored rivals in the coal districts of the South and West. Nova Scotia produces quantities of bituminous coal, and looks eagerly to shipping it free of duty to New England. The coal operators of Ohio and Western Pennsylvania, on the other hand, desire to sell coal and wish Canada to take her tariff off bituminous coal, which they could then export with advantage to Canada's central manufacturing districts. The duty exacted by either country is 67 cents a gross ton. Obviously there is need of reciprocity in the coal trade between the United States and Canada.

Nova Scotia cannot reach profitably the great and growing central portion of Canada; neither can Vancouver, which produces a high grade of the bituminous variety, largely used in the Pacific States in preference to their own coal. Convenient access to Canada's vital centres is found only from points in the United States by rail or water along Lake Ontario and Lake Erie from Oswego to Cleveland and Toledo. Moreover, Canada's consumption of coal far exceeds her production, and is rapidly increasing. In 1886 it was but a fraction over three-fourths of a ton per capita; in 1903 it reached 2.3 tons per capita, having fully tripled in seventeen years. The total consumption in 1903 was 12,720,455 tons, of which 6,678,450 tons were imported. She exported 1,979,951 tons, mainly from Vancouver to the Pacific States. Canada levies no tax on incoming anthracite coal, for she produces none. The central portion took 1,606,000 gross tons of anthracite from this country by way of Buffalo, besides 1,531,000 tons imported from the Cuyahoga district, which measures the importance of this trade to Ohio and Western Pennsylvania, and reveals their reason for wanting the duty off bituminous.

Under a reciprocity agreement American mine owners would gain practically entire control of the increasing central Canadian trade in coal, while New England and the Pacific States, which are already dependent upon outside sources for fuel supply, would get their fuel cheaper. Result, it would accrue both to the United States and Canada.

THE FRIARS' LANDS.

The payment for the lands of the friars in the Philippines, which began yesterday with an installment of $2,000,000, is the last stage in a plan which is among the most creditable features of the policy of the United States in the islands.

It would have been quite within the authority of the Government, and it was urged by many familiar with the situation, to leave the complications arising from the tenure and the conduct of the friars to be dealt with according to the principles prevailing in this country, sustaining such titles as could clearly be established and at the same time confining the friars to their rights as civilians. But it was ascertained by the successive commissions intrusted with the investigation of the affairs of the islands and with their administration that this would lead to endless confusion and to the perpetuation of ill-feeling among the natives. After much discussion and negotiation it was finally arranged practically that the lands should be purchased, that they should be sold or rented under conditions tending to promote industry and thrift among the natives, that the proceeds should in part be used for educational expenditure, and that the friars gradually should be withdrawn and replaced by priests who understood and would be faithful to the principles of the American system. There are some ugly chapters in our Philippine history, but this is not one of them. It is creditable both to the intelligence and the humanity of our Government.

JUDGE NEWBURGER.

Among members of the bar and persons who have occasion to observe the transaction of business in the courts the opinion widely prevails that the vacancy upon the Supreme bench caused by the retirement of Justice JOHN J. FREEDMAN on Jan. 1 next should be filled by the nomination and election of Judge NEWBURGER.

There are good and valid reasons for this opinion. In the first place, it would be a promotion for merit, which is the soundest principle that can be appealed to for guidance in making judiciary nominations. Fourteen years ago Judge NEWBURGER was appointed to fill an unexpired term in the City Court. Upon that bench he served five years, and was then, in 1895, elected Judge of the Court of General Sessions. Judge NEWBURGER has acquired a reputation for the rapid dispatch of business. He has a way of getting through cases that not only serves the interests of litigants, but serves the public interest as well. Yet Judge NEWBURGER has few reversals—very few, which is about the highest evidence of judicial capacity.

Judge NEWBURGER enjoys the respect, the esteem, and the entire confidence of the members of the bar, which is again good evidence of his soundness and fitness. It is a mistake and a misfortune for the community when a Judge who has made a good record is set aside at nominating time in favor of an untried man. If the Democratic County Convention in its search for a candidate considers judicial capacity and qualification above everything else it will not pass by Judge NEWBURGER.

TRUTH IN THE PENSION OFFICE.

Commissioner WARE of the Bureau of Pensions is developing an unexpected sense of humor. The legend painted on the wall of his office, "The Lord Hates a Liar," might very well express the conclusion drawn from his contact with the evasions, exaggerations, and subterfuges of the pension applications which incumber his desk. More of straight, up-and-down, unequivocal, barefaced lying has been done to get upon the pension roll names which do not belong there, or to increase the pension ratings of those originally classified below their satisfaction, than in any one other division of the public business.

King DAVID found occasion to explain and apologize for his remark to the effect that "all men are liars" by subsequently referring to it as a hasty and ill-considered generalization. Perhaps it was a bit too sweeping. This fault does not inhere in Commissioner WARE'S broad declaration, for which, we believe, very good Scriptural authority may be found. Grandfather Smallweed, as we recall, had the habit of projecting the remark, "I hate a fool," like an arrow in air, to hit where it might. Commissioner WARE follows the same method. Doubtless he would deem it inconsistent with his official dignity to call even a rank perjurer a liar, notwithstanding his affidavits of current date to prove forty-two years after the event that, on the night of Sept. 20, 1862, the applicant was on picket duty in the rain somewhere in Virginia and caught a cold which, at the age of fifty-nine, developed muscular rheumatism and unfitted him for the further prosecution of his calling as a builder of stone fences. It doubtless affords Commissioner WARE great inward satisfaction to raise his eyes from papers of this sort and rest them for a moment on the mural inscription referred to. The motto is strikingly appropriate to the place and its typical business.

THE CZAR A FATALIST.

Much that seems inexplicable in the situation of Russia obtains a partial explanation if we accept the statement of ERESNIEZ VON SYDACOFF that the Czar is a confirmed fatalist. Believing that his own wisdom and that of his counselors cannot control events, he may well have convinced himself that the inevitable clash with Japan might just as well occur at present as a few years later, and feel now that the destruction of the Russian fleet in Asia, the approaching fall of Port Arthur, the defeats of his armies in Manchuria will not affect the eventual success of the Russian arms. To a man profoundly sure that the stars in the ascendant at his birth were favorable, it is not a matter of greatest moment that there should be defeats in the beginning of the campaign. Victories like these mean to him a steady depletion of the wealth and available men of the enemy, while he remains confident that the capital and the supply of human food for cannon are still far from exhausted in Russia. The same serene belief that GOD is with him makes him easy to manage, so that he can be kept in blissful ignorance of the state of affairs, not only in his own country but in Europe and America. This ignorance on his part is the most dangerous thing on the Russian horizon.

NICHOLAS II. may be a dreamy, kindly fatalist like NAPOLEON III., who ended by allowing women and obsequious courtiers to ruin his land. The Prussians of the Orient have been making ready for years; but no one told him how prepared they were, although it is ridiculous to suppose that it was a secret to the men who should have informed him. The weakness of the Russian Navy may have been a surprise, but the army troubles have always been patent to any one who has read Russian history. Even the Czar could not have been quite hoodwinked in this respect. We must therefore accept provisionally as in the main true what we hear of NICHOLAS, that he has an almost Mohammedan resignation to kismet and endures these tremendous shocks to his vanity and family pride because fatalism provides an elastic groundwork in his mind from which there is rebound. Gossip says that a French spirit medium named PHILIPPE is a favorite with NICHOLAS, who through his aid summons the ghosts of departed Czars in order to interrogate them as to the future. The violent deaths of BOBRIKOFF and VON PLEHVE were also faced; so that NICHOLAS sees no reason to change the policy toward Finns and Russians which they carried out. The Russians are in a sad plight within and without.

THE CASUAL AND THE HABITUAL CRIMINAL.

The late Dean WAYLAND of the Yale Law School, in a memorable paper before the National Prison Congress, denounced as "monstrous and wholly indefensible" the idea that a criminal, unrepentant and unreformed, must be set at liberty on a certain day because, forsooth, his specific term has expired. He said:

It would seem that the bald statement of the proposition should be sufficient to expose its utter absurdity. Indeed, it would be ludicrous if there were not bound up with it so many and so serious evils. * * * When the doctrine is once practically, as well as theoretically, accepted, that the object of all imprisonment for crime is to protect society by confining and reforming the prisoner, we may hope that this flagrant abuse of the power of the State will be forever abated.

This line of thought leads irresistibly to the system of the indeterminate sentence. Such a system would very clearly differentiate between the first offender and the habitual criminal, and one of the latter class who might escape with a relatively short term by simulating reform and practicing good behavior, if returned to prison by reason of the misuse of his liberty, would have only himself to blame if he found it very much harder to get out the second time than the first.

Mr. G. C. SPERANZA, in a contribution on this subject to The American Law Journal, makes the strong point that notwithstanding many and important reforms in prison administration our criminal and penal legislation tends to encourage the survival rather than the elimination of the least fit. This the writer thinks is due to failure to discriminate between the habitual criminal who is immune to reformatory influences and the man who, although he may have committed a crime, is still amenable to reformative agencies. The fact that "persistence in criminal action" cannot be determined until more than one crime has been committed creates no element of embarrassment in dealing with first offenders. The object of prison discipline is to effect reforms in those who must be temporarily segregated from their fellows for the protection of society. The test of the habitual criminal is the lack of response to reformative influences. The beginner in crime, whatever his temperament or his apparent hardness of heart, is entitled to at least one opportunity to show whether he is thus amenable to reformatory influences or not. If not, and he persists in criminal action, the interest of society would seem to demand the indeterminate sentence and he must be made to understand that, having forfeited his chance to shape his own career, he belongs to the State, and that whether his imprisonment lasts for a shorter or longer period depends upon himself. There is good reason to believe that such a system would deter many who make the mistake of defying the law from becoming habitual criminals through long association with the irreclaimably bad during the formative stage of their careers.

JAPANESE TRAITS.

The remarkably interesting letter which we published the other day from the army of Gen. KUROKI under date of Aug. 12 contained some curious observations on the personal habits and characteristics of the Japanese soldiers and their officers.

Fans, fishing rods, and tea kettles are not in Occidental eyes precisely the indications of vigor and valor. From our own experience they would suggest rather a picnic or an old-fashioned militia "target shoot" than an army on the march in the enemy's country, with the crack of his rifles or the boom of his cannon likely to be heard at any moment. Fans hold no place in the equipment even of our curled darlings on an outing, and though we drink more tea than we used to drink it is usually associated with airy conversation and the charm of white arms above the table at the "five o'clock." As for fishing, the picture drawn of "the mild-eyed boys, sitting for long hours by the banks of mountain streams waiting for a three-inch minnow to bite at an angle worm," would excite derision in any modern Western disciple of IZAAK WALTON. But our account states that the rod and line are a part of every Japanese kit on the march, even that of Gen. KUROKI.

No one now needs to be told that these little customs, which to us or with us would seem the extreme of effeminacy, are those of a race of tremendous energy, marvelous endurance, audacious courage, and a heroic devotion to their high ideals of duty such as the Western world cannot surpass and only rarely equals. It is a lesson for us in the value of proportion in judging others, and every Western nation of us, other than poor Russia, may thank its stars that the lesson is not being taught at our expense.

THE ECONOMICS OF TYPHOID.

A correspondent of The Record of Philadelphia has compiled some statistics relative to the cost of preventable typhoid fever in that city during the past twelve months, which may be tabulated as follows:

Total number of cases	5,000
Number of deaths (10 per cent.)	500
Money value of 500 lives, estimated at $1,000 each	$500,000
Loss of time 4,500 persons—40 days at $1 per day	180,000
Expense for nursing, $1 per day	200,000
Medical attendance and medicines, estimated at $50	250,000
Funeral expenses, 500 cases, at $50	25,000
Grand total	$1,155,000

Some of these items are understated. Considering the fact that typhoid fever most readily attacks the young and vigorous and rarely the old and decrepit, to average at $1,000 each the value of the 500 lives lost during this epidemic in a year is to reckon life very cheap. The same is true of the loss of earnings, at $1 per day for forty days per case. This item might safely be doubled. However, in such matters it is better to understate than overstate the facts. The figures are sufficiently impressive as they stand, and serve without argument to show that the most costly economy which a community can practice is that which is effected in neglecting the means needed to maintain the purity of its water supply.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

—Discussing the anxiety with which locomotive engineers and firemen view the rapid substitution—likely soon to be complete—of electricity for steam as traction power, The Western Electrician doubts that this change will tend to replace highly skilled and well-paid labor by labor less skilled and cheaper, though the ordinary motorman neither possesses nor needs the long training or special capacities demanded of the men on a locomotive. It insists that ordinary motormen will not run the electric trains of the future, and it is disposed to believe that, after a transition period more or less long and painful, the engineers and firemen who adapt themselves to the new conditions will find their lot as satisfactory as it is now. "Men," it says, "upon whom the responsibility rests of operating a train, whether it be driven by steam or electricity, should be trained by long experience and should understand thoroughly the apparatus under their control. Thanks to the rigid system of 'weeding out' now in vogue upon the steam roads, a man can never go beyond the capacity of fireman until he is fitted for the more responsible position. As it is with the locomotive engineer so it should be with the motorman. He should be a first-class man in his particular line, and in order to encourage him to spend the necessary time and incur the necessary expense to become such, his pay should be equivalent to the service which he renders." Most of these "shoulds" can probably, in our opinion, be changed to "wills." The trolley car motorman, always having expert electricians comparatively near at hand, is not encouraged by his employers to attempt the remedying of any except the simplest troubles of his machine. He is, indeed, explicitly discouraged from doing so, and he meets all expectations if he runs his car with due consideration for the limits of its powers. Of the motormen who will control heavy trains moving at great speed over long distances much more will inevitably be demanded, and, as real electricians, they will need quite as much skill as does the locomotive engineer, and perhaps they will need more if the accidents of the service are not frequently to reduce them to helplessness at points where assistance can be obtained only after long delays. It is difficult to see, however, just how the would-be master of electric trains is going to get the practical experience acquired by the would-be locomotive engineer while serving as fireman. The so-called guards will not secure it, for their destiny will be, as now, to become conductors. Presumably the trolley lines will be the schools for motormen aspiring to the more responsible positions.

—A joy once common enough, but rather rare in recent years, is provided by The Chicago Inter Ocean, which prints in a prominent place and with big headlines one of the real old-fashioned stories about a man who has at last solved the "problem of perpetual motion" and is prepared—as soon as he finds somebody to supply the capital—to build a machine that will run itself and manufacture a lot of energy besides for the doing of any kind of work desired. This tale is well up to the best standards of its class. Its hero is one B. O. DOERR, a mechanical genius who lives at Grand Rapids, Mich., which is where most of the furniture comes from. On the night of June 9, 1901—date to be ever memorable—Mr. DOERR saw in a vision a great engine that moved all the wheels in a colossal factory—presumably of furniture, but of course that doesn't matter, and very properly Mr. DOERR passes lightly over a detail so trivial. On waking he immediately drew a sketch of the engine he had seen and immediately perceived that where so many mechanical geniuses had failed he was about to succeed. Month after month he worked over plans, aided by an occasional dream when he ran against a snag, and now he has absolute and indubitable achievement in its most permanent form—that is, on paper. Till the harmless necessary capitalist appears he isn't saying much about the machine for fear his idea will be stolen, but he has obligingly consented to explain its essential features. It has three driving wheels. Their rims are so constructed as to retain the spherical weights from which the machine gets its power. These weights run out of a magazine at the top of the machine and engage the upper part of one of the driving wheels. Their weight causes the wheel to revolve, on the same principle as an overshot water wheel. The ball then engages the second wheel and the third before it rolls back to an elevating device, which carries it back to the magazine at the top. A balance wheel is provided and the machine will develop power enough by the descent of the weights to work the elevating mechanism overcome friction, and still deliver 43 per cent. of original force exerted by the gravitating weights. Isn't that beautifully simple? No steam engine ever built delivers for use 43 per cent. even of the power contained in the coal burned to run it, 10 per cent. being about the best they can do, so it is evident that Mr. DOERR will soon have the industrial world at his feet. And why does the capitalist delay? Can it be for the absurd reason that the idea of weights going down the circumference of a wheel and going up near its centre has disturbed the sleeping hours and occupied the waking hours of a certain sort of mechanical geniuses ever since the dawn of history?

—Again there is reported the beginning of a determined effort to banish from the stage the fantastic imagining which there passes for the—or a—presentation of the Irishman. It is the members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in Paterson that have last assumed this rather large task, and they plan to accomplish it, or to do their part in accomplishing it, by sternly refusing to attend any theatrical performance that introduces the most familiar of broadly comic figures. It is not easy to understand the sensitiveness thus illustrated. The stage Irishman of the expansive brogue and grotesque garments is, indeed, provocative of laughter, but rarely if ever is he required to play the role of villain, and though he is often supposed to be densely ignorant, almost invariably he is credited with the intelligence required for witty speech, and his usual task is the defense of imperiled virtue. It is kindly laughter he excites, and many another race has better grounds for offense at the treatment its supposed representatives receive from the playwrights. And there are innumerable stage Irishmen to whom not even the most ancient of Hibernians could possibly object—stage Irishmen who possess all imaginable merits and the strength of mind and body to conquer the basest of British landlords with scarcely an interruption to the pleasant task of making love to the most beautiful maiden in the cast. And, curiously enough, the characters against which these Patersonians have declared implacable war are played, nine times out of ten, if not ninety-nine times out of a hundred, by Irish actors. Not a few presumably worthy sons of the Emerald Isle will find their occupation gone if the movement against the comic Irishman of the stage really comes to anything.

—Russia's refusal to lend countenance to the coronation of King PETER of Servia looks well on the face of it, for the circumstances of his arrival at the throne were certainly about as bad as they could be, but, unfortunately for Russia, there is something distinctly ludicrous in the idea that her diplomacy revolts at the recognition of a bloodstained crown, and in all parts of the world the obvious reasons for her present delicacy will be promptly dismissed as irrelevant. Of course the other nations will find reasons not obvious—they must, indeed, to excuse or explain their own unprotesting participation in festivities which mark the successful issue of a policy of brutal assassination. Their own position is that King PETER himself is not half so bad a fellow as he might be, that he had no known part in the murders by which he profits—if it is profitable to be King of Servia—and that he really is the King in fact and in such law as the vicinage provides. That this is not enough for Russia is an international joke of large proportions.

COST OF TRIP TO THE FAIR.

One Couple's Expenses $171—Had Three Days in St. Louis.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You have printed schedules showing how cheaply one can see the St. Louis Fair.

May I show what it cost a New York couple to make the trip comfortably, in five days, (three days at the fair,) including drawing room compartments each way on the best route, outside room with bath at the best hotel in St. Louis, carriages between station and hotel in St. Louis, meals at the best restaurants on the fair grounds, and a trial of all the various side to sight-seeing except the balloon, reasonable tips, and incidental expenses? Here are some hints:

All the Pullmans are crowded, and three days' preliminary reservation at each end is advisable. A telegram to the hotel, reserving room with bath, is helpful.

Street car service to the show is slow and crowded. The Wabash shuttle trains from the Union Station cover the distance in twelve minutes, against forty minutes by trolley, but the Wabash cars, while new and clean, have been built for freight service after the show.

Buy a guidebook and map before going on the train, and mark in the book the places you want to see. Wear old and heavy walking shoes. Check umbrella and wraps at parcel room at the entrance each morning. Add your checks at restaurants.

New York, Sept. 20, 1904. REUBEN.

Wasps' War on Telephones.

From The London Globe.

It is reported that the Chinese and Japanese Telephone Company of Shanghai has its aerial wires, which are enveloped in lead pipes, attacked by wasps, which breed in bamboos. In July or August they bore holes in the stems to lay their eggs clear of birds. In default of bamboos they have done the like with the lead covering of the wires. The company has coated the lead with boiled linseed oil and canvas, which the insects cannot penetrate.

FOR PRESIDENT'S USE ONLY.

An Administration Discovery of One Government Bureau's Purpose.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The letter in your issue of to-day (extracts from a letter addressed the President by Mr. H. B. Martin) is quite true.

My own experience with the Department of Commerce and Labor bears out his statements.

I inclose you a letter that shows exactly how Theodore I. runs the Government at Washington.

I may add by way of explanation that I had been repeatedly promised that this matter should be taken up.

I have always voted the Republican Presidential ticket, but in common with some others think it possible some one may exist who has brains besides the only Theodore.

It is an insult to the intelligence of the American people for any man, be he President or pauper, to sweep away one whose opinion does not happen to coincide with his own into the gutter. Others have memories, others know facts—why pervert the truth?

With thinking people who are not partisans nothing is gained, and besides it is un-American, ungentlemanly, and degrading. The brains of the whole American people are not contained in one head.

JAS. L. ANTHONY.

Department of Commerce and Labor, Bureau of Corporations.
Washington, April 6, 1904.

Mr. J. L. Anthony, 25 Broad Street, New York, N. Y.:

Sir: Replying further to your favors of March 11 and July 16, 1903, relative to the American Ice Company, and the clippings inclosed herewith, allow me to say that under the statute creating this bureau we have no authority to make such investigations as you desire for the direct use of stockholders. The bureau can, by the express terms of the act creating it, obtain information only for the use of the President. Very respectfully,

TO EDUCATE THE MANY.

Plan to Limit Hours of Attendance in Public Schools.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Could not the insufficiency of public school accommodation be temporarily remedied by such relay system applied to teachers and scholars as is necessary to the inclusion of all applicants?

Limiting the hours of attendance of some pupils would leave time for the education of others. The vacation excess plan could be modified to suit the term. Better that some be only partially instructed than that others go untaught. During the hours that some were excused lessons now apt to be neglected might be surely learned. And the number of teachers required would not be greater than would be needed if the unfinished school buildings were opened.

Too Much Tobacco.

From The London Globe.

A correspondent wishes to know what constitutes the excessive use of tobacco. It sounds a very simple question, but it is, nevertheless, distinctly hard to answer. In the case of alcohol it is easy to define the point where excess begins. But there is this difference, as the writer points out, between the abuse of alcohol and the abuse of tobacco, that a man often drinks to excess because the more he takes the more he wants; the sensation becoming more attractive with every glass. With tobacco, on the other hand, the effects of a pipe to many are so painful to the tongue and so unpleasant generally that the smoker stops as a rule just before that point. The smoker thinks he is smoking to excess when he finds the process physically unpleasant. Doctors look more deeply into the matter. Like most other affairs of health, the matter resolves itself, probably, into a question of how much each individual constitution can endure. What would be excessive in one man is harmless in another. These things are best left to common sense. There is, however, one test which is as nearly as possible infallible. If the smoker can leave off smoking—say, for a day or two days—at will, he may comfort himself with the reflection that he is not too greatly devoted to his pipe.

Seeing New York.

New York Letter to Pittsburg Post.

Two of the tallest new buildings in Gotham, THE TIMES and the Wanamaker, are being equipped with observation towers, and then "seeing New York" will become a very simple matter. It is always better to take a bird's-eye view of a city before going about, especially a place like New York. The map is thereby fixed in the mind's eye, and those who have the bump of location developed can get a comprehensive understanding of the city in a few days. New York's map is a good deal like the backbone of a fish. Broadway runs down the centre, making the spinal column, and the cross-town streets run off at regular intervals almost the whole distance to the Battery.

The down-town section is somewhat complicated, and requires a little special study, but altogether the city's scheme of distribution is rather simple. Eighth avenue, on the west side, is a sort of sub-Broadway, and the Bowery, on the east side, with its continuation of Third Avenue, occupies the same relation. The cross-town streets run east and west from Fifth Avenue, and from almost any given point one may take the right car after the key of the map is learned.

Inventor of Picture Postal Cards.

From The London Standard.

The German press has announced the death of one who claimed to have first had the idea, in 1872, of reproducting pictures and portraits on the backs of postcards. But France now comes forward with a previous title, dating from the year 1870. A small bookseller of the town of Sille-le-Guillaume, in the Sarthe Department, lithographed on the back of a number of postcards a design, which found a ready sale among the Mobile Guards of the camp at Conlie. Several of these cards still exist.

The design consisted of two allegorical plies of arms, and the inscription was "War of 1870, Conlie Camp. Souvenir of the National Defense. The Brittany Army." Then followed three lines upon which the Mobile Guard could write his name and a message. It was an easy way for the country folk in camp to let their families know that they were well; and although M. Besnardeau, the bookseller, sold many of these cards, he could certainly never have imagined what an industry the manufacture of picture postcards was destined to become thirty-five years later.

Were Adam and Eve Colored?

From The London Chronicle.

An American negro now in London (writes a correspondent) gives a curious description of the origin of the colored race. He does not think that Adam and Eve were whites. Indeed, all people had dark skins until Abraham jumped into a pool of clear water one day. The darkness of his skin was removed by a miracle, and he emerged a white man. Others near him followed his example, with similar results, until the water gradually became brown. The people who then bathed became what are known now as Japanese and Chinese. Some lazy niggers were then about to jump into the water when Abraham ordered the caravan to move on, and to this day they have remained black.

"Train Catarrh" in America.

From The London Chronicle.

Train catarrh has as yet no name in America or anywhere else, but here is its christening. The present writer has lately spent four nights in sleeping berths on American trains, and he has spent many other nights on Continental trains. Always there has resulted the catarrh, produced, one may presume, by changes of temperature and dust. Many travelers have suffered in the same way. What do the doctors say about this form of disease?

BRONX PARENTS PROTEST.

Object to Sending Children Several Blocks When Schools Are Nearer.

Public School No. 30, at One Hundred and Sixty-first Street and Eagle Avenue, the Bronx, was besieged yesterday by many protests from parents living in the neighborhood against the transfer of their children to Public School No. 35, at One Hundred and Fifty-seventh Street and Third Avenue, as the result of an order issued on Monday by Associate City Superintendent Thomas O'Brien.

The parents declared it was an outrage to compel their children to go, in some cases, six or seven blocks away from home, and cross busy thoroughfares in order to reach the schoolhouse. About twenty-five children have already been transferred to No. 35, which, although recently renovated, is one of the oldest school buildings in the Bronx. Fifty-five pupils have also been transferred to Public School No. 23, on One Hundred and Sixty-fifth Street. The children affected by the order are the youngest in the school, with the exception of the kindergarten scholars, which largely accounts for the parents' objection.

The Principal of No. 10 explained that the change had been made to relieve crowding in the lower classes. Some of the parents have threatened to make a formal protest to Superintendent O'Brien about the matter, and if that doesn't avail, to take their grievance before the courts.

MME. TERNINA NOT ILL.

The Great Wagnerian Singer in Fine Health, Resting in Crotia.

The reports that were recently brought to New York of Mme. Milka Ternina's serious illness, with a recurrence of her old trouble in the face and eye, are unqualifiedly denied by the most intimate friends of the great Wagnerian singer, who are in closest touch with her.

Mme. Ternina appeared in the recent Wagner festival in Munich with great success, her Isolde making a profound impression, and she was in no way indisposed. She is in the best of health at the present time, as she reported in a letter received here a few days ago; is at her own home in her own country, Croatia, not "living in a little cottage outside of Munich" waiting for the doctors to operate—and greatly enjoying a hard-earned rest.

FALSIFYING THE RECORD.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In glancing over the Republican campaign textbook the other day I discovered a most curious bit of meanness. It is so sly and so small as to be hardly believable.

The Democratic platform in referring to the bill for the reclamation of arid lands in the West calls it the "Newlands irrigation act," the bill having been introduced by Senator Newlands, and passed through his persevering advocacy, and being universally known as the "Newlands irrigation act." In the copy of the Democratic platform in the Republican campaign textbook the compiler was contemptible enough to change "Newlands irrigation act" to "new lands irrigation act."

Of course it is falsifying the record in perhaps an unimportant particular, but doesn't it show a sneaking meanness?

A DEMOCRAT.

New York, Sept. 20, 1904.

Weird Experience in a Chateau.

From The London Express.

There have been mysterious happenings at the Chateau de Taden, near Dinan, in Brittany.

A large party had been invited there for the shooting season. On the night of their arrival the guests were aroused from sleep by strange noises, and when an investigation of the chateau was made it was found that the sofas and arm-chairs had been ripped up and the clocks, ornaments, and mirrors had been smashed to pieces.

Similar occurrences have been taking place nightly ever since, in addition to which quilts and blankets and articles of clothing in the bedrooms have been torn to shreds.

Most remarkable of all, the dresses of the lady members of the party are cut and torn on their wearers in broad daylight, and yet no one is seen to approach them.

For the past few days gendarmes have remained on the premises both day and night with a view to solving the mystery. Much damage has been done, and, in spite of the gendarmes' presence, the guests are still subjected to rough treatment at the hands of their invisible foe.

A $350 Telegram of Five Words.

From The London News.

Among the contents of Anglesey Castle recently sold at auction in London were five telegrams from royal personages acknowledging congratulatory missives, inclosed in silver and gilt frames, with coronet, and a monogram, set in diamonds, which were eagerly sought after. The highest price, £70, was given for the King's telegram, which ran: "King thanks you for congratulation."

A wire from the Queen sincerely thanking the Marquis for his kind sympathy was sold for £60, but a lengthy telegram from the President of the French Republic realized only £28. All the telegrams were bought by private gentlemen after spirited competition.

Turkish Strategy.

From The Washington Star.

"There are a few points in naval construction that I'd like to study before ordering this new battleship," said the Grand Vizier.

"That is easily arranged," answered the Sultan. "We'll irritate some of the other nations a little, and have them send their navies around for inspection again."

Not His Record, but His Tag.

From The Boston Herald.

THE NEW YORK TIMES magnanimously allows that Gubernatorial Candidate Higgins is a good type of the up-State business man, and a gentleman in politics. It is reasonably certain that the Democratic issue in the State campaign will not be his record. It will be his tag instead.

His Business.

From The Pittsburg Post.

Housewife, (sarcastically)—What is your business, man? I suppose you have a business?

Tired Tiffins, (with dignity)—Yes, leddy, I'm a corporal of industry.

WAR.

Unangered columns hurled upon a foe;
Blood-guiltless souls made gory at the word;
Cheeks drenched with tears and widowed women's woe
In the long wail of cloistered sorrow heard.

Man at a cry made furious and grim
With scent of blood and smoke of bursting shell;
Dead faces on a field upturned to Him,
And spirits flown—to Heaven or to Hell?

Smoke, like the fumes from Hell's own caldron curled;
Men schooled to murder at a bugle's blare;
Emblems of empire from a staff unfurled,
Blades drawn from scabbards, bidden slay or spare.

Man and his brother, Man, the tie forgot,
Each with his eye light with the lust of Cain;
Blood, as the breech of belching cannon, hot
Leaping to splash the battled hill or plain.

Night! And long trenches with the dead thick laid.
Sleep! And wan beacons flaring in the sky.
Rest! Claims a truce the blood-incrusted blade.
Dreams! Of the dead and those so soon to die.

Hark! 'Tis a bugle! And, with bloody hands,
Sleep greets the dawn and murder comes from bed!
Lives are the ancient sacrifice of Lands.
Vainglory keeps her altar fires with dead.

Mr. George Ade's "The College Widow," with which Mr. Henry W. Savage last night opened his management of the Garden Theatre, may prove less popular than "The County Chairman"—or it may prove more popular; but as regards the author's grip on the art of comedy, it marks a distinct advance, and strongly confirms the judgment of those who have seen in him the making of a playwright of the first order in America or elsewhere. The former piece verged, on the one hand, upon the conventional pleasantries of the funny papers—as was, perhaps, an inevitable result of its dealing with politics; and on the other upon somewhat crude and conventional melodrama. It was not that Mr. Ade was ever actually stale or raw, but rather that his method of treating matters of common observation and dramatic interest was still at times unduly stiff and conventional. The present play is very seldom commonplace in its strokes of comedy, and the story it tells is much more truly in the key of comedy in that the characters from which it springs are more freshly observed and more instinctively created.

The keynote of the play Mr. Ade himself struck with his customary accuracy and shrewdness, when, in response to vociferous, and, as it seemed, spontaneous, applause, he stepped in front of the curtain to make what he said was his first speech in a metropolitan theatre. "We're not trying to caricature the college student, nor to set him up as a tin god," he said, with a smile on his lean face, and a snap in his observing eye; "we're trying to treat him as a human being. Perhaps he doesn't deserve it, but—" and here Mr. Ade dodged behind the proscenium arch and was seen no more. Nothing could better indicate the general office of the writer of comedy than the first sentence, and nothing could better suggest the right point of view toward the college man than the last unfinished suggestion.

As the slender thread of the story wound its way through the maze of neatly observed bits of character, we were treated to the humors of the undergraduate busy with college life and sport and sublimely impatient of mere learning; the boarding-house waitress who divided her time between dunning the students for unpaid board bills and flirting with them; and who, finally despairing of true love, married the college trainer. We saw the brawny and uncouth foundry hand rung in on the Faculty as a student of fine arts so as to get him on the eleven. We saw the perennial freshman half back, who wanders from college to college in search of the sport he loves, and the graduate who comes back to coach the team. We saw the athletic girl who wins the tennis championship, and despairs at the way a soft thing in pink absorbs the attention of the undergraduates. We saw the freshman who turns up a jaw only to blossom out as a sport, with flashy waistcoat and a cigarette and a flapping college yell, and ends by initiating his father, a State Senator from Squantumville, into the gay joys of college life. We were exhilarated with a football game just off the stage, and delighted with the absurd mummery of fraternity hand shakes.

Best of all, these details were composed into a series of scenes of life in a Middle Western college that had great verisimilitude. Details there were that seemed out of the picture. When Mr. Ade knows more about how football players are rubbed down between the halves he will not picture them running back on the field with the slime of the field still on their faces. A chaperon who welcomes the men back to college, each with a large kiss on the mouth, must be a rare bird, even in the freshest of fresh-water colleges, and coach and trainer do not usually in the dressing rooms when the crisis of the game is on. But these were venial and no doubt conscious departures from the prevailing truth and sincerity of the picture.

It was not in the main comedy situation that Mr. Ade most plainly showed his increasing insight and power. Atwater has suffered defeat at the hands of its traditional rival. The genial freshman half back, whom Walter Camp has put on his all-American team, turns up on his way to join the hated enemy. It is a case of do the enemy or die.

Now Atwater rejoices in a "college widow," the same who has grieved the soul of the ladies' tennis champion by the triumphs of her soft charms, and who, as we are informed, is responsible for the fact that the undergraduates of Atwater outnumber those of its rival. The graduate coach is in love with her, and the two agree that she is to charm the famous back, and claim him for Atwater's own.

In the hands of any but the ablest of natural comedians such a plot would be impossible enough, and there were times in the first two acts last night when it threatened to turn out sufficiently raw. It was saved by the sheer veracity and vigor of Mr. Ade's grasp of character. The coach was endowed with the easy scruples so sadly familiar in his kind. The college widow had all the characteristic arts of the veteran coquette, and the full measure of feminine partisanship. The half back was endowed with the simple, primitive blindness so characteristic of a certain order of athlete.

But this is not all. Beneath the surface, one divines in the college widow a truer vein of feeling, and in the half-back a manly sincerity that is outraged when he finds out the trick of which he has been made a victim, and of which every one but himself has full knowledge.

Best of all, perhaps, is the character of the half back's father, a shrewd captain of industry, who sees through the situation from afar, and comes to reclaim his son for his own (the rival) college. He arrives, of course, at the moment when his son, by a brilliant run, saves the day for Atwater, and by the sheer force of his humanity and humor, brings to the surface the fact that the college widow is at last really in love. It is not at all idyllic.

It is scarcely nice, even at the best. But it is very human, and very true of the life of the athletics-mad small college. All parties are represented as human beings, even though to a less racy spirit they might not at first sight seem to deserve it.

If any objection is valid, it is that Mr. Ade has not developed the full measure of his characters early enough in the game, and at best has indicated rather than fully realized them. In "The County Chairman" one felt that he was least successful in the romantic phases of character and drama. His work is firmer here, but is still stronger in its conception than in the full projection of his ideas. Before he has reached the level even of our best American writers of comedy, Mr. Ade will have to expand and deepen his grasp upon the fundamental essence of character, and develop a technique of the theatre that bites deeper into the sympathies of an audience.

It was in the by-play and ensemble pictures of the piece, which the programme not inaptly calls a pictorial comedy, that the audience found its chief delight. The campus scene at the opening of college, in which the town girls welcome back the students, was smooth and full of atmosphere. The scene at the Faculty reception and that of the football celebration were equally rich in reality and humorous suggestion. The great scene of all, and that which marked the play as a success of the first water, was that before the training quarters during the Thanksgiving Day game, with the corner of the grand stand just in view. The progress of the game was followed with deep interest, and the well-managed inrush of the victors was greeted with resounding applause.

Edwin Holt, late of the Murray Hill stock company, threw his quiet power and rich unction into the part of the half back's father. His exclamation to his truant son, "You bolt to this Jim Crow Presbyterian High School—you're a hell of a Baptist!" was greeted with shouts of mirth. Frederick Burton scored the comedy success of the evening with his portrait of the gawky freshman who turned out a college sport, evoking peal after peal of laughter. Frederick Truesdell denoted the half back's dense sincerity with a firm touch, and as the coach E. L. Davenport was altogether too sympathetic for his sad fate as a lover.

Dorothy Tennant was capable and charming as the college widow, if not particularly distinguished. Lida McMillan was breezy and agreeable as the kissing chaperon. Amy Ricard gave sprightliness and distinction to the lady tennis champion.

Mr. Savage like Mr. Ade made his maiden speech before a metropolitan audience, and voiced again in somewhat incoherent language his devotion to the native American play and playwright—the wisdom of which he is daily exemplifying for the benefit of his courageous and acute managers.

WON'T GO TO SEE "TAPS."

German Ambassador and Consul General Decline Shubert Invitation.

The German Emperor's disapproval of "Taps," which is now being played at the Lyric Theatre in translated form, has evidently been communicated to his representatives in this country. Both the German Consul General in New York and the German Ambassador at Washington have sent to the Shubert brothers very brief, rather curt, notes, declining the invitation to see "Taps."

"Thank you very much," wrote the Consul General, "I regret to be unable to attend the performance."

The Ambassador's note reads: "The Imperial Ambassador regrets that conditions are such at the embassy that neither he nor any of his attachés can possibly attend a performance of 'Taps' at the Lyric Theatre, to which they have been kindly invited by Mr. Shubert."

When the censor in Berlin got through with Beyerlein's play there he forbade its presentation in any garrison city in Germany. The Emperor's displeasure at the spirit of the play was so marked that Herr Beyerlein was forced to take it across the Austrian border, in order to have it produced.

"ROGERS BROTHERS" WIN.

They Defeat "Checkers" at Baseball—Score, 17 to 14.

A game of baseball was on between "Checkers" and "The Rogers Brothers" at the American League Park yesterday. With the score 17 to 14 and with two men out, Dave Braham, who plays the part of Push Miller, the tout, in "Checkers," came to the bat. Wild excitement prevailed among the spectators, many of whom were Thespians. "Push" had been up four times before and had knocked out three three-baggers and a single.

Like the immortal Casey, sung by De Wolf Hopper, "Push" greeted the writhing pitcher with a confident smile. Even after the second strike had been called, "Push" was still hopeful. But sorrow was in store for him and the "Checkers" rooters. Again, like Casey, he rent the air terribly.

"Strike three!" the umpire cried.

Checkers himself didn't play. It was too wet for him, probably; neither did Gus nor Max Rogers come to the aid of their team. But there was plenty of enthusiasm without them. The final score was "Rogers Brothers," 17; "Checkers," 14.

BRITISH PRAISE MAUD FEALY.

London Paper Says She Is a Worthy Successor to Ellen Terry.

LONDON, Wednesday, Sept. 21.—Maud Fealy, the American actress, played Rosamond to Sir Henry Irving's Becket at Cardiff last night and had a great reception.

The Morning Post says Miss Fealy proved herself a worthy successor to Ellen Terry.

NOTES OF THE THEATRES.

This will be indeed a novelty on Broadway.

***

Seats for "The Music Master," which will be presented at the Belasco Theatre next Monday, will be put on sale this morning at 9 o'clock.

***

The new Pinero comedy which Charles Frohman is to produce in London is to be named "The Wife Without a Smile."

UNION JACK MADE TROUBLE.

Hoisted by Mistake on Jersey Factory Without the American Flag.

The raising of an English flag without being accompanied by the Stars and Stripes on the buildings of the Insulated Wire and Cable Company, on First Street, Bergen Point, N. J., yesterday nearly made trouble. The firm is an English concern, and some of the stockholders who had been to the St. Louis Fair were viewing the works at the invitation of Gen. M. H. Whitlock, the American head of the concern.

An American flag was raised first, but in a little while was hauled down and replaced by the English. The union jack attracted much comment in Bayonne and on Staten Island. At a hotel on the Bergen Point shore the Second New Jersey Volunteer Veterans were having their reunion, and were talking over the days of 1861. The sight of the displacement of the American flag roused them, and a crowd gathered near the factory. Policeman Rigney heard enough to satisfy him that there might be trouble, so he called Police Captain Reilly on the telephone and explained matters. The Captain called the factory and asked that the American flag be hoisted with the English. W. D. V. Marquette, the Superintendent, had the two flags raised together. Last evening he explained the happening by saying:

"I gave a man in our employ the two flags, telling him: 'Hoist the American first and then the English.' He did as he was told, but I meant they should go up at the same time and fly together. He did as he was told, but not as I meant he should understand it."

RUSSIA INDIGNANT AT ANGLO-TIBETAN TREATY

Ambassador at London Ordered to Protest Against It.

BREACH OF FAITH IS ALLEGED

Intimations That Action Will Be Taken When the War in the Far East Is at an End.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 20.—Russia officially maintains that Great Britain has broken faith in the matter of the Tibetan treaty, and Ambassador Benkendorff has been instructed to lodge a general protest at the British Foreign Office.

According to the Russian view, Great Britain's pledges to Russia regarding the scope of the expedition only contemplated the regulation of trade between India and Tibet, and England disclaimed any purpose to meddle with the internal or political affairs of the country.

Russia alleges that a treaty was forced upon the Tibetans which goes much further, creating a virtual protectorate. Moreover, it is contended that the treaty is a restriction upon the sovereignty of China, inasmuch as while recognizing the sovereignty of China by requiring ratification by that country, the treaty once ratified transfers the sovereignty to Great Britain by compelling Tibet to consult Great Britain in dealing with the other powers. This is considered to be aimed directly at Russia.

The protest lodged in London will doubtless be followed up by one at Peking against the ratification of the treaty.

Great Britain is believed here to justify her action on the ground that she only agreed to confine herself to certain specified limits, contained in the assurances given to Russia, if the Tibetans did not oppose the British expedition.

As a matter of fact, little hope is entertained in official circles here that the Russian protests will be heeded either by Great Britain or China, as Russia is not in a position to make an issue. The general feeling is that Great Britain has profited by Russia's preoccupation in the war to make her position in Tibet secure.

Therefore the chief importance of the protest at this time is to serve notice that Russia does not acquiesce in Great Britain's Tibetan programme, and that she will feel herself at liberty to reopen the question when her hands are again free.

With the arrival here of the full text of the British treaty with Tibet the irritation of the Russian press is more pronounced. The Russ, which is considered to reflect the views of the Foreign Office, bitterly complains that Great Britain has gone beyond her promises.

The Russ foresees that the occupation of the Chumbi Valley by the British will be prolonged even after the payment of the indemnity, and adds significantly:

"The proclamation of the British protectorate must be regarded as an accomplished fact, but whether it will be real and lasting must depend upon future events in Central Asia."

London, Sept. 20.—No notification by Russia of her refusal to recognize the validity of the Anglo-Tibetan treaty has yet reached the Foreign Office, though it is well understood in diplomatic circles that the St. Petersburg authorities object to Art. IX., which gives Great Britain practical suzerainty over the affairs of the Chinese province, and to the provision that the British occupation of the Chumbi Valley shall continue in case the indemnity is not paid.

The Foreign Office here evidently does not apprehend an objection from any other power and reiterates that the assurances given to the United States that there will be no permanent occupation of any portion of Tibetan territory will be observed.

GRASS EATERS CALL TO AVER.

The New Food Reporter Gets Some Points on Edibles.

Two elderly men, each with a pasteboard box full of grass, of which they took frequent bites, called at the office of THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday.

"We got it from the lawn-mower man in Prospect Park, and it is fresh," said one of the visitors, Frank E. Taylor of 5,024 Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, referring to the grass. He said that he was in his seventy-third year, and hoped to reach a century because he had learned to eat grass. He had been eating it for five weeks, with an occasional crust of bread, and had gained five pounds in weight. The gastritis from which he had suffered was gone.

At this point Mr. Taylor smote himself sharply to show that the vicinity of his solar plexus was O K.

"Mr. Rockefeller suffers as I did, and if it is true that he spends millions for relief, why don't he eat grass?" demanded Mr. Taylor. "President Roosevelt has irritable spells sometimes, so that he wants to lecture the Nation. Why doesn't he eat grass?"

The reporter professed ignorance, and Mr. Taylor's companion, who said he was William G. Whiting of 119 East Fifteenth Street, helping himself from the pasteboard box, explained that he had been converted to the grass habit by Eusebio Santos, a Spaniard.

"It's fine," he asserted, as the two grass eaters departed.

CHINESE WOMEN MAY ENTER.

But They Must Marry Chinese Citizens, Says Latest Decision.

PORTLAND, Oregon, Sept. 20.—According to a decision rendered by United States Commissioner Staden yesterday in the case of Doe Gum Yip, a Chinese woman held for deportation, the doors of this country are open to Celestial women without number so long as they wed regularly admitted Chinese after arrival.

After Miss Yip was arrested, charged with entering our borders illegally, she was married to a Chinese citizen. This, says Commissioner Staden, entitles her to stay here, even though, as he expresses it, he was "certain the marriage had been performed for the purpose of enabling the woman to remain."

A DAY'S WEDDINGS.

ECKERSON—BRECK.

Special to The New York Times.

MOUNT VERNON, Sept. 20.—Miss Mary E. Breck, a granddaughter of E. B. Wesley, the veteran New York broker, and Dr. Albert B. Eckerson of this city were married this evening in the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Ascension, at Chester Hill. Mr. Wesley, who lives at Port Chester and is now ninety-four years old, was one of the guests. The bride was given away by her father, Charles A. Breck of Mount Vernon. The maid of honor was Miss Ida Breck, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids were Miss Ives, Miss Eckerson, Miss Metz, and Miss Fish. Wilber H. Eckerson served as his cousin's best man. The ushers were Frank Daily, Cornelius Eckerson, C. Wesley Breck, and William W. Rowe. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. M. S. Taylor, assisted by the Rev. Charles S. Lane. A wedding feast was served later at the home of the bride's parents.

CABELL—SCHOTT.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 20.—The marriage of Miss Charlotte Schott, daughter of Mrs. Ellen Schott, to Walter Coles Cabell of New York took place at Kay Chapel this afternoon, the Rev. E. J. Dennen, assistant rector of Trinity Church, officiating. The bride was attended by Miss Emily Warren as maid of honor, and Walter Blair Dabney of Richmond, Va., was best man. The ushers were Dr. Frederick Fraley and C. Bradford Fraley of Philadelphia, George Howe of Boston, and Willard C. Moore of Rochester.

The bride's gown was of crêpe de chine, and she wore a point lace veil which had been in her father's family for many years. The bridal bouquet was of gardenias. The maid of honor's gown was of white chiffon almost entirely covered with Mechlin lace, which belonged to Miss Warren's grandmother.

LAWYER ROBBED IN COURT.

Grateful Client Helps Himself to Watch After Being Helped to Freedom.

Charles Francis Howe, who frequently takes up the cases of persons too poor to hire a lawyer, was delighted yesterday when he succeeded in having acquitted several men in the Special Sessions. The men were charged with picking pockets.

The last of the group whose release was secured was a tall, thin, consumptive-looking fellow known to the police as "Tuberculosis" Finnegan. The case of "Tuberculosis" seemed to be acute, for it was told to the lawyer in whispers. Every time the prisoner whispered he got closer to Mr. Howe, and when the pickpocket was finally acquitted he grasped the lawyer's hand and said in grave-like tones:

"T'anks, old feller, de fust honest dollar dat I git'll be t'rown yer way."

"Don't mention it," replied the lawyer. "I'm always ready to help a man out when he's got no money."

When "Tuberculosis" had shuffled out of the courtroom Mr. Howe remembered an appointment to meet a man in his offices in the New York Life Building. He jabbed his hand into his watch pocket. The hand came out again empty. Mr. Howe then addressed the court as follows:

"My watch is gone. I can describe it minutely, for I had it a second ago, but the fellow that got it must have done time before. I'll place the case in the hands of the detectives, and within an hour they'll accumulate a rapid movement, for I know the Central Office works quickly in watch cases."

Then Mr. Howe called up the Detective Bureau and reported his loss, and by the time he reached his office he found a Central Office detective waiting for him with the news that the watch had been recovered with the aid of a stool pigeon. And the detective said:

"I wouldn't care to have smallpox, but I would like to catch Tuberculosis."

PHILHARMONIC'S CONDUCTORS.

Five Noted Europeans and Theodore Thomas Will Direct Concerts.

The Philharmonic Society has completed the list of its conductors for the approaching season and arranged the dates of its concerts. Last season's plan will be followed, by which eminent conductors will be invited from out of town to direct the concerts in rotation.

The men engaged for this are Gustav F. Kogel of Frankfort-on-the-Main, Edouard Colonne of Paris, W. J. Safonoff of Moscow, Felix Weingartner of Munich, Karl Pranzer of Bremen, and Theodore Thomas of Chicago. The evening concerts will be eight in number, each preceded, as usual, by a public rehearsal in the afternoon of the preceding day, and will be given on the following dates:

Nov. 11 and 12, Dec. 2 and 3, Dec. 16 and 17, Jan. 6 and 7, Jan. 27 and 28, Feb. 10 and 11, March 3 and 4, and March 24 and 25.

At the first rehearsal and concert Mr. Kogel will conduct, and Josef Hofmann, pianist, will be the soloist.

Of the six conductors who will direct the concerts this year, four—Messrs. Kogel, Colonne, Safonoff, and Weingartner—came for the same purpose last year, and all made an unequivocal success. The public interest in Mr. Weingartner's appearance was so great, indeed, that for the first time in its history the Philharmonic gave an extra concert outside of its subscription series, for the special purpose of bringing him again before the public. The appearance of Mr. Theodore Thomas at the last concert of the season at the head of the organization of which he was for so many years the leader will no doubt be made the occasion of a great demonstration by his many old friends in New York.

Karl Panzner is the only name on the list that is not widely familiar to New York music lovers. He has been conductor at the Philharmonic concerts in Bremen since the Autumn of 1899; before that he was conductor of the operas at Sondershausen, Elberfeld, and before that for six years, from 1893 to 1899, was chief conductor of the opera at Leipsic. He is a young man, thirty-eight years old. He was born in Teplitz, Bohemia, and studied in Dresden under Nicodé and Draeseke.

A "DETECTIVE" DETECTED.

French, Who Says He Is Secret Service Man, Jailed in Maine.

FARMINGTON, Me., Sept. 20.—Le Roy A. French of San Francisco, who says he is a member of the United States Secret Service force assigned to the State of Maine to apprehend counterfeiters, drove to this place to-day from Rangeley, forty miles away, and lodged in jail G. A. Harlow of Pittsfield, Me., charging him with counterfeiting.

Later in the day W. L. Butler, the livery stable proprietor from whom the "detective" secured the horse and buggy in Rangeley, had French arrested on a charge of stealing the horse and vehicle. French was captured while endeavoring to cash at a local bank three checks aggregating $400, signed by Harlow. He had taken the jailor to identify him.

The State police in this vicinity know of no Secret Service Agent named French. He will be arraigned in the morning.

WHAT IS DOING IN SOCIETY.

The annual arrival of Mrs. Astor in New York is regarded as a sure sign of the beginning of the town season, or at least of the close of that at Newport. Mrs. Astor will not return to Newport. She always enjoys the quiet of the Autumn in her own home, and receives intimate friends informally on Sundays.

ARMY IS OVERMARRIED, DECLARES GEN. CORBIN

Wants Officers to Ask the Secretary of War First.

SHOULD BE DEBT FREE, TOO

Doesn't Follow, He Says, That Married Officer Is Less Valuable Than Bachelor—Wants Colored Soldiers.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—That no army officer be permitted to marry until he first has secured the permission of the Secretary of War and satisfied that official that his income is sufficient to support himself and his family, and that he is entirely free from debt, is the recommendation made by Major Gen. Henry C. Corbin, commanding the Atlantic Division, and which was announced at the War Department to-day. Gen. Corbin, in explanation, says:

"Marriage of army officers who have made no proper provision for assuming the responsibility therefor is hurtful both to the army and to the officers themselves. To this broad statement there are, of course, exceptions, but the general fact remains that our army is overmarried.

"The pay of a subaltern officer is barely enough for his proper support and the expenses of his equipment and uniform. If to this is added the inevitable expenses attached to a family, it is not only probable but almost certain that when an officer strikes his balance at the end of the year he will be behind if he has no income but his pay.

"That a bachelor officer is more valuable to the service than a married officer does not follow, nor do I wish to be understood as so saying, but the married officer is less valuable if in marrying he has not exercised that prudence which should govern all transactions in life."

Gen. Corbin in his report advocates the re-establishment of the canteen, and says:

"If it were possible by my act to absolutely stop the manufacture and use of intoxicating drinks of any kind, I would do so; if it were possible by my act to prevent the use by any persons in the military service of intoxicating drinks, I would do so; but realizing that the impossible, however desirable, must give way to what is possible and practicable, I am firmly of the opinion that it would be in the interest of discipline to re-establish the canteen feature of the post exchange, recognizing that in this way the use of drink can be minimized."

The enlistment of colored men in the artillery, or their transfer to that corps from the colored cavalry and infantry, also is favored by Gen. Corbin.

He expresses his belief that colored soldiers in the artillery corps will aid that branch of the service by giving to it men who would "by their aptitude and love of the service commend themselves to the artillery officers, just as they have to the officers of the cavalry and infantry."

Gen. Corbin calls attention to the "very unsatisfactory condition of the accessories and surroundings of the Statue of Liberty, in New York Harbor," and strongly urges an appropriation to remedy these conditions.

In the Continental armies the regulation is that an officer of inferior grade must not marry unless his wife brings him a certain dowry. In France the prescribed dot is 80,000f., ($6,000,) which is about the average required by the military statutes of other Continental countries.

BREAK IN ATLANTIC RATE WAR.

German Lines Raise the Westward Steerage Fare to $15.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The first break in the steamship rate war occurred yesterday, when the North German Lloyd and Hamburg American Lines raised their steerage rate to New York to $15.

One of the Directors of the shipping combine said to a representative of The Associated Press:

"The news that the German lines have raised their steerage rate is very welcome, and doubtless will shortly be followed by our constituent lines. We are all heartily sick of this cut-rate war, which has done no one any good. Mr. Ismay, who is now in America, will doubtless take speedy action.

"What the Cunard Line is likely to do I cannot say, but I should think it would revert to the original rates."

No orders have been issued at the Cunard offices to increase rates, and the officials of the company say there is no indication thereof. They are inclined to the belief that the Cunard Line will adhere to its present rates, and add that the action of the German lines was not the result of any agreement reached at the recent shipping conference at Frankfort.

The Daily Telegraph's Liverpool correspondent says he hears that all steamship lines sailing out of Liverpool, with the exception of the Cunard Line, will increase steerage rates to $15 as a preliminary to resuming the normal tariff, and that it is believed it will not be long before the Cunard Line follows suit.

The Allan and the Canadian Pacific Railway Lines, the correspondent learns, also intend to increase their rates.

Conscience Money for School Books.

Conscience money to the amount of $7 has been received by Secretary Palmer of the Department of Education from a person who signs the name of "Clinton," and says that several years ago he forgot to return three or four volumes to the school library. As he cannot find the books, he incloses the money, which will be sent to Auditor Cook of the Department and turned over to the City Chamberlain to be added to the regularly established "conscience fund" of the city.

DEWEY'S MAN CLIMBED PILLAR.

Cried "Light-Ho!" to Policeman—A Red Light, Too.

John Evans, who said he was a gunner on the cruiser Minneapolis, was arraigned in the Yorkville Court yesterday, before Magistrate Flammer, on a charge of intoxication.

"Well, Sir," said the Magistrate, "what have you got to say for yourself?"

The prisoner answered solemnly, as all good sailors do:

"I was with Dewey at Manila!"

Policeman Winters of the East Thirty-fifth Street Station explained matters.

"When I arrested him, this man said that nobody could blame him for getting drunk. He said he had been accumulating a thirst in foreign waters for months, and that the very sight of the Bowery was enough to souse him, anyway.

"I came across him just as he had climbed an elevated railroad pillar at Thirty-fourth Street and Third Avenue, and was scannin' the horiz'n for strange craft. A bunch of boys was throwin' things at him.

"All at once the sailor saw a red light over a corner saloon, an' he puts his hand to his mouth an' hollers: 'Light, ho!'

"'Where away?' says I.

"'Three points to starboard, bearin' sou'west,' sez he.

"'Three points be blowed!' ses I. 'You're three sheets in the wind an' half seas over,' I ses.

"At that Evans ses 'I'll put you in irons,' he ses, an' he come down to do it, too. Then I grabbed him an' took him to the station.

"All night he was worryin' in his cell because the jailer wouldn't let him out to report that light to the Com'dore."

As Evans assured the Magistrate that he had been trying to do his duty when he sighted that red light, the Judge discharged him, particularly as the man wore numerous long-service and good-conduct stripes on his sleeve. He said he had been chief electrician on the Olympia under Dewey.

CONEY MARDI GRAS OPEN.

King and Queen of Island Jubilee Ascend Boardwalk Throne.

Promptly at 7:25 o'clock last night Coney Island from end to end, with guns, red fire, cannonading, horns, whistles, and general hurrahing, marked the opening hour of the three-day Mardi Gras celebration to commemorate Coney's semi-centennial as a pleasure resort. Twenty-four guns were fired from the bulkhead at the junction of the ocean and Ocean Boulevard.

Five minutes later the King and Queen of the Mardi Gras, appointed by the island's Citizens' Committee of One Hundred, which has planned the three days' fête, were discovered in a steam launch in the surf about ten feet from shore in the vicinity of the boardwalk. A crowd numbering probably 2,000 islanders armed with horns, crackers, torpedoes, confetti, and serpentine streamers, greeted the royal visitors.

The King and Queen landed and ascended an improvised throne on the boardwalk. Then they greeted their subjects, declared the island wide open to a season of gayety to continue for three days, accepted the mythical keys of Coney from Lewis M. Potter, Chairman of the Citizens' Committee, and conferred many mock honors and titles.

Capt. Dooley was made Faithful Turnkey of the Sabbath; Frederick Henderson, Prince Porterhouse; Louis Stauch, the Duke of Noodles; Charles Feltman, Grand Duke of Mullgatawney; Kenneth Sutherland, Royal Keeper of the Ocean; Charles Foley, Grand Duke of Mirth.

THE PRESIDENT'S CALENDAR.

Several Important Washington Engagements Are Already Made.

OYSTER BAY, Sept. 20.—As no visitors had engagements at Sagamore Hill to-day, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt left home early for a boating excursion on the Sound.

Several important engagements have been made by the President to be met after he returns to Washington. Next Friday M. Jusserand, the Ambassador of France, will present to the President at the White House M. Picard, the head of the French Commission to the St. Louis Exposition. On Saturday afternoon the President will receive the delegates to the Interparliamentary Peace Conference, which was held recently at St. Louis. On Saturday night the President and Mrs. Roosevelt will entertain at a large dinner given in honor of the Archbishop of Canterbury. The guests at the dinner will include members of the Cabinet and other notable persons in public and civil life.

IN THE SHOPS.

Here is a most seductive gown of champagne-colored silk. It has to be seen to be appreciated, but on a charming woman it is a frock to be remembered. It is all softness and long lines, perfect outlines and delicate fluffiness. The skirt is formed of narrow groups of small plaits, each edged its length with white plaits separating plain panels upon which are applied pointed panels of lace showing a tiny bit of pale blue. The bodice is very long in the front, with a jacket effect on either side, this outlined with a little shirred edge of white. The tucked yoke is of sheer silk mull and the stock shows the embroidery with the touch of blue. There is hand embroidery on the edge of the low-cut corsage of the gown proper below the mull yoke or gumpe, this done in white and repeating the bit of pale blue in the lace, a design of butterflies. The high corsage belt which runs up in folds high at one side of the waist in the back shows applications of the lace. A pretty effect is given by a rosette on either side of the little jacket front, with a sphere of rhinestones in the centre of each. The sleeves are in one piece with the shoulders of the gown, a broad piece shirred full down the centre and edged with the little fluting of white, while the lower and under part of the sleeve is full made of the silk mull, finished with wide tucks.

***

A pretty little dancing gown for a college girl is made of corn-colored shimpan silk, shading delicately from a lighter to a deeper tone. It is simple, but dainty and fluffy in effect, and trimmed with lace set with tiny motifs of velvet in shades of yellow. There are stock and corsage of chiffon set with the lace, brightened with the tiny motifs of velvet, and the yoke is outlined with folds of velvet showing three colors, toning from pale yellow to deep orange. Two deep points of lace with the orange yellow motifs cover the front of the bodice, the corsage belt is high at one side, the bodice shirred full down the back, and the sleeves are full, with a deep frill of lace outlining the outer seam and finishing it at the lower edge. Little loops of the three shades of velvet finish the gown at different points here and there.

***

There is a hat all of lace to go with this gown, not a large one, with folds of the velvet in the three shades finishing the edge and around the crown, and bird of Paradise feathers also in the orange shades.

***

Very charming is a black Japanese brocade silk made up with black satin, and with a hat to match. The skirt is in long lines made into little panels by the shirring of the silk at intervals. The noticeable feature of the bodice is to be found in broad bretelle-like bands carried from the shoulder to the waist, both back and front. These are two or three inches broad, and formed of narrow folds of satin, making deep crosses from edge to ed a policyholder (No. 173296) took a $25,000 straight life policy in the Connecticut Mutual Life, with accumulated surplus payable on demand.

This year his family collected claim of $25,000 plus $10,616.83 accumulated cash surplus—a total claim of $35,616.83.

Under a 20-year "Tontine," "Deferred Dividend," "Accumulation," or "Gold Bond" policy in other companies, the accumulated surplus would have been totally confiscated, because of Insured's death within the 20-year period.

Stocks Weak; Call Money Easy, 1 3-4@2 Per Cent.

Union Pacific the Exception to a General Fall, and Traders Want to Know Why.

All Wall Street's chips turned blue yesterday, and for the first time upon this movement there was a million-share day approximately, with a decline in excess of a fraction upon the average. It was hard to say what the depressing factor was, but many thought it was the strength of Union Pacific. The crop news was of the familiar sort, containing something to please every taste. For example, North Dakota's Commissioner of Agriculture says the State's wheat crop is one-third in excess of last year, and the largest wheat grower in the State says that damage reports have not been exaggerated. Respecting corn Mr. Hill confirmed the estimates which Monday's market rejected. The market has sometimes seemed to take a malicious pleasure in going counter to Mr. Hill's forecasts. It is true that Mr. Hill as a farmer has no especial claim to talk about the market, while as the head of several railways traversing the harvest territory he can come as near to stating facts with authority as any expert of them all. That this is the opinion of produce dealers appears clearly enough from the price of both wheat and corn, which simultaneously resumed their upward tendency. The money market showed no further uneasiness, although somewhat better rates for time money promised to give bankers some assistance soon. On the other hand, the fall of sterling below parity points unmistakably to a source of strength which the situation lacked last year.

This summary is not stimulating, neither is it in any respect alarming to buyers of stocks upon values. But those who take shorter views and alter their opinions of the market from hour to hour paid more attention to the movement in Union Pacific than to the weakness in scores of other stocks. Reasons were assignable specifically for the declines in most cases, and the technical situation was reason enough for some general reaction, but, without disputing Union Pacific's solid worth, there seems no sufficient reason why on the merits alone it should be strong in a falling market. Perhaps the list may turn strong tomorrow and Union Pacific become weak, but continued strength in Union Pacific alone will not be accounted strengthening to the market. A choice selection of the day's reports will be found in another column. They range all the way from a family quarrel to fresh combinations promising more competition rather than more traffic. The Street yesterday scarcely knew what to think, but the permanent interests of the market are bound up rather with community of interest and cordiality among the big fellows than in competitive buying, however stimulating to any individual stock.

Western Road's Expenses Cut Income.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—The annual report of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railroad for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1904, shows a decrease of $815,226 in the net income for the year, although the falling off in the total income was only $263,187. This difference is accounted for principally by one item of $500,000, spent for permanent improvements. The total income was $11,530,866, and the operating expenses were $7,239,614, or $366,249 less than last year.

B. C. Williams Sold Exchange Seat.

B. C. Williams, it was learned yesterday, is the member of the New York Stock Exchange who has sold his seat for $75,000, the highest price obtained for seats since the slump of last year. Mr. Williams entered the Exchange in 1885.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Western Traders Active on Bear Side—Strong Closing Under Lead of Union Pacific.

Further encouraged by the opinion expresed by James J. Hill that this year's corn crop will be a small one, those who had been selling the stock market on the prospects of a much reduced yield of corn redoubled their efforts at the opening yesterday, and as a result the whole list sold off in many cases even more sharply than it had the previous day. In this selling the Western houses were the most aggressive, and the stock sold in largest quantities was Steel preferred. It was commented upon as somewhat anomalous, even if not unusual, that Steel should be picked out to lead a selling movement, founded on expectations of poor crops. Among the active sellers of Steel preferred were Charles G. Gates & Co., who were credited with selling about 10,000 shares.

Strong Closing.

Under the lead of Union Pacific, which was bought aggressively in the last hour, the majority of the active issues ended the day considerably above the lowest, the close in many issues being decidedly strong. Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania, and the Steels all profited by the buying movement, which marked the close of the session. The trading between 2 o'clock and 3 aproximated 250,000 shares.

Bear Rumors.

Bears were active yesterday in supplementing their sales with various reports calculated to unsettle confidence in the market, and even some of the day's advances were explained in such a way that they appeared a menace to the market rather than a source of additional strength. Among the reports was one to the effect that further cuts in the prices of steel products were likely, which was an unpleasant suggestion, in view of the opinion which had been gaining ground that the general outlook in the steel trade was that any change from the present situation was likely to be for the better rather than the reverse.

Sterling Exchange Lower.

Time money rates continued firm at prevailing rates, and, in fact, advanced slightly for some of the longer periods, but the amount of time loans made was relatively small. Another transfer of currency through the Sub-Treasury was made to New Orleans, the amount sent being $300,000. The foreign exchange market showed further declines in rates, the price of demand sterling falling about 20 points, to $4.86¼.

London a Considerable Buyer.

London's trading in this market was fairly active, and a large majority of its transactions represented purchases. Out of about 50,000 shares traded in, about 30,000 shares were bought on balance. Prominent in the stocks taken by London was Union Pacific, which was considered rather significant, in view of the part London took in the buying of Union Pacific in the earlier stages of the advance, which occurred in the stocks several weeks ago.

Pennsylvania Very Active.

Pennsylvania was second in activity only to Steel preferred. In the early trading, when the price declined below 130, the stock seemed to get a good deal of support and it was for a long time held firmly at 129¾. But the selling eventually proved sufficient to force the quotation still lower and it fell to 129½. It rallied half a point and closed with a net loss of an even point. Predictions were heard that plans were being laid for a sharp upward movement in the stock but faith in these reports was somewhat shaken by the failure of the stock to hold at the price at which it seemed to be given so much support.

GENERAL BUSINESS ITEMS.

Articles of incorporation have been filed for the Frankfort and Ohio River Railroad Company, with its principal office at Chicago.

A call has been issued for a meeting at Charlotte, N. C., of all Southern hard yarn manufacturers on Sept. 27, the object of which is to make some arrangements, if possible, to improve the conditions in the trade.

The annual meeting of the Fitchburg Railroad Company will be held in Boston Sept. 28, when a proposition to issue $3,000,000 bonds will be submitted to the stockholders.

According to Joplin (Mo.) dispatches, the highest price reported paid for zinc ore during the week was $43.50. There was a general advance of $1 per ton, which on some lines of ore extended to $2 and $3 a ton.

Exports of general merchandise for the week increased $4,924,239, as compared with the previous week, and $2,945,687, as compared with the corresponding week last year.

Soo Line's Earnings Decrease.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 20.—At the annual meeting of the Soo Line to-day the old Directors and officers were re-elected. President Thomas Lowry reported that the gross earnings of the year showed a decrease of 2.9 per cent. The operating expenses increased so that the net earnings showed a decrease of 6.6 per cent. A total of 176.76 miles of road was built or acquired.

Crucible Steel Refunding Plans.

It was reported in Wall Street dispatches from Pittsburg yesterday that the Directors of the Crucible Steel Company had agreed on a statement for stockholders which would be ready by Friday. The funding plan to issue $4,000,000 5 per cent. bonds was adopted. This will pay off the floating debt of $3,000,000 at 6 per cent. interest, and leave a good balance.

New Office in Smelters.

At a meeting of the Directors of the American Smelting and Refining Company, held yesterday, all retiring officers were re-elected. W. Eccles was chosen Second Vice President in charge of the traffic department. This office is newly created. Mr. Eccles has been the traffic manager of the company for the past two or three years.

Mississippi Bonds Sold.

N. W. Harris & Co. said yesterday that the dispatch from New Orleans regarding their refusal to pay for $500,000 State of Mississippi bonds was somewhat misleading, as they expect to take up the bonds the latter part of this week, the delay being due to investigations as to the legality of the bonds.

Add Freight to New Billet Prices.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 20.—The new prices announced yesterday by the Billet Association are strictly "f. o. b. Pittsburg mills." The freight rates to whatever point the billets are to be delivered must be added to the prices fixed.

EXPORTS OF MERCHANDISE.

Exports of merchandise from the Port of New York for the week were valued at $13,326,249, compared with $8,402,010 in the preceding week and $10,380,562 in the corresponding week last year. Total since Jan. 1, $342,736,070, against $336,309,870 in the corresponding period last year.

THE LONDON MARKET.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Money was in ample supply in the market to-day, the demand was quiet, and rates were easy. Discounts were affected somewhat by a considerable inquiry for gold in the open market for shipment to Berlin.

Operators on the Stock Exchange were idle and prices were irregular. Consols were harder.

Americans opened dull and irregular, owing to the uncertainty regarding the tone of the New York market, recovered a fraction to above parity, reacted, and closed weak, especially United States Steel.

Japanese were firm. Imperial Japanese Government sixes of 1904 were quoted at 96¼. Russians were dull.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—There was evidence of realizing in this market today, but the buying on the decline developed such persistency that prices rallied sharply before the close. This was especially true of United Gas Improvement, which, after declining ⅝, made full recovery. Cambria Steel followed the United States Steel issues, but its loss was small. Camden and Trenton advanced 1, as did Consolidated Lake Superior preferred, while Electric Company of America advanced to par on active trading. Lehigh Valley started off well, but New York's weakness interfered with its manipulation. Philadelphia Company was weak, but Philadelphia Rapid Transit developed strength and crossed 16. Sentiment was badly mixed, but commission houses reported some outside buying on the decline. Total sales, 52,037 shares, $74,300 bonds:

CHICAGO QUOTATIONS.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—New York exchange was 10c discount to-day. Time and call loans were 4½@5 per cent. Selling of the preferred shares of the American Can Company was the principal incident of an otherwise routine day's trading on the local Exchange. Some small lot purchases brought prices as high as 46⅞, but the selling of nearly 700 shares to noon took the stock down to 45, with a partial rally. Can common shares were firm. In other issues business was small. Match was easy when small lots were sold. Swifts sold again at 103 on small orders, and Biscuit shares were about steady.

Trust Company of America Dividend.

The Directors of the Trust Company of America declared a quarterly dividend of 3½ per cent. yesterday, payable Oct. 1. The company's transfer books close Friday and reopen Oct. 1.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES.

Trading in the outside market yesterday was marked by irregularity which followed a moderately strong opening. Some sharp advances were shown, while in several of the active issues reactions which reached several points were shown after considerable trading. The bond market was broad, and the majority of the trades were made at declining prices, the most prominent of which were the eight-point loss in the International Mercantile Marine 4½s, which sold at 72, which creates a new low record for the year. Brooklyn Union Gas 6s fell 8½ points in addition to the previous day's loss of 2 points.

***

AMERICAN LIGHT AND TRACTION stocks both advanced to new high records for the year, with the common gaining 1⅝ points and the preferred 5 points over the last reported sales. The purchases of 400 common and 100 preferred caused these sharp advances for which there were no explanations forthcoming.

General Appraiser Decides Against Additional Duty on Pile Fabrics.

Slipper Uppers Woven in the Piece Not a Finished Article—Other Customs Decisions.

A decision of some importance to importers of goods which are woven in the piece, but with reference to their final use, was handed down yesterday by the Board of United States General Appraisers. It was written by General Appraiser De Vries and sustained a protest by Charles E. Dumbert of New York.

The goods were invoiced as "200 dozen slipper uppers" and consisted of pieces of woven cotton cloth, twenty-eight inches wide and four meters long, with a raised uncut pile. They were assessed at 12 cents a square yard and 25 per cent. ad valorem as a pile fabric and an additional duty of 10 per cent. was levied under the provision for "manufactured articles in any form known as bias dress facings or skirt bindings, &c." This additional assessment was protested against and it seemed to be based on the fact that in weaving the cloth, which was to be cut into slipper uppers, the form of the upper was outlined in plain cloth without the pile. Mr. De Vries ruled that inasmuch as the cloth was woven by the same process throughout, the additional assessment was erroneous.

In a decision by General Appraiser Fischer the Board rules that silk ribbons are not dutiable as trimmings at 60 per cent., but as manufactures of silk at 50 per cent. The importer in the case is W. W. Bevan of Boston.

Protests sustained yesterday were by Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, and R. Vogelsang, D. W. Hutchinson, J. H. Fithian & Co., William Schroeder & Co., George Borgfeldt & Co., and G. Hirschs' Sons, New York. Protests sustained were by Sibley, Lindsay & Curr, Rochester; Wakem & McLaughlin, Chicago, and the Mills Piatt Company, New York. Protests partially sustained were by the Florentine Alabaster Company, Chicago, and William Reiss, Perry Ryer & Co., and Worthington, Smith & Co., New York.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

New York City.

GEORGE A. MOSS COMPANY.—The George A. Moss Company, manufacturer of grocers' specialties at 165 and 167 Reade Street, which business has been established for fifty-four years, filed its assets before its creditors, having been unable to meet maturing obligations in full. Albert Higgons, James W. Wilson, and Frank A. Meyer, who were appointed a committee of creditors to examine into the condition of the company and report a basis of settlement, have sent a circular to the creditors recommending a compromise at 25 cents on the dollar, payable in notes in four, eight, and twelve months. The committee is satisfied that were any cash payment or any greater payment in notes required the company would not be able to continue in business. The liabilities are about $35,000 and assets $20,000. The business was established in 1850 by George A. Moss, who died on Sept. 11, 1903. His sons, Edward G. Moss and Charles J. Moss, inherited the business and incorporated the company on Nov. 7, 1903, with a capital stock of $100,000, with E. G. Moss as President and C. J. Moss as Treasurer.

Out of Town.

NEWARK.—Charles O. Hendrick, Treasurer of the Thomas Slaight Company of Newark, filed a bill in Chancery yesterday asking that a receiver be appointed for the company on the ground of insolvency.

CAMDEN.—Vice Chancellor Bergen, in Camden, yesterday, appointed George B. Drake receiver for the Excelsior Yacht, Launch, and Engine Company of that place.

PETITIONS IN BANKRUPTCY.

F. N. CLINTON & CO.—Frank N. Clinton and Blake B. Nation, composing the firm of F. N. Clinton & Co., who kept a restaurant at Peekskill, N. Y., have filed a petition in bankruptcy here with liabilities of $6,669 and assets of $806, consisting of utensils, $611; horses, wagons, &c., $170, and accounts, $25.

AUGUSTA F. KICK.—Augusta F. Kick, residing at 834 Eighth Avenue, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $3,780 and no assets. She was formerly a partner in the firm of A. N. Kick & Co. The debts were contracted in 1897 for goods sold to that firm or to the New York Milk Company, and for which a possible claim may be made against her.

LOUIS GREENBERG.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Louis Greenberg, cloak manufacturer at 263 Greene Street, by George Solomon, a creditor for $514 on an assigned claim for goods sold by Henry Potash, doing business as the Armor Silk Mills. It was alleged that the latter is insolvent, on Sept. 16 transferred part of his property to creditors, and on Sept. 19 permitted a creditor to obtain a preference by judgment on which a City Marshal seized most of the merchandise in the place. He began business in November, 1903, and claimed $11,000 capital.

ADVANCE MURDER NOTICE.

Sailor Writes That He May Not Reach This Port.

The Seamen's Branch of the Legal Aid Society received a letter yesterday from a man who said that he is a seaman on the schooner Lejok, whose home port is this city, asking that when she arrived here in a few days the society see that he is safe aboard or arrest an officer of the ship for having caused his disappearance. The letter was sent from Wilmington, N. C., and was signed by Patrick Cavanagh.

In the letter Cavanagh says that he has been a sailor on the Lejok since July, when she sailed from New York. He says that he had a fight with one of the sailors, and that the enmity aroused at that time has grown stronger, and that he is in fear of his life. On the trip from Wilmington he says that the sailor with whom he fought will act as an officer and will then have a better chance to do underhand work. Cavanagh says that he expects to be thrown overboard. He asserts that he appealed to the Captain, C. L. Smith, for his pay and his discharge, but could not obtain them.

Waldorf Bell Boy Pleads Guilty.

James Reilly, formerly a bellboy in the Waldorf-Astoria, who disappeared shortly after the discovery of large thefts from several guests of that hotel in July, pleaded guilty to a charge of petty larceny before Recorder Goff in General Sessions yesterday. The total thefts as announced at the time, amounted to over $8,000. Among the losers was Prince Poniatowski.

ORNAMENTAL PLASTERERS REVOLT AGAINST UNIONS

Plain Plasterers Oppressed Them with Unreasonable Rules.

TO FORM NEW ORGANIZATION

Rate of Work Limited and Best Men Debarred Under Past Conditions—General Strike Postponed.

The first actual revolt in a locked-out union since the present building hostilities began was reported yesterday to the Employers' Association. The ornamental plasterers had left the plasterers' society in a body, and they were at once formed into a new union under the arbitration agreement. In all, 400 men are involved, and they say in explanation that they were kept in subjugation by the plain plasterers for years, until conditions became so intolerable that they had to get out. One hundred of the men were put to work yesterday, and the remainder will be put to work to-day.

The news of this revolt caused considerable excitement at the Building Trades Club yesterday, and is expected to be followed by the disintegration of other unions. There are over 4,000 members in the plain plasterers' society, and the ornamental plasterers, who had a union of their own, say that when they were induced to amalgamate with the large union they soon found out that they had little or no voice in its councils.

Louis S. Masoimo, President of the seceding union, issued a statement yesterday in which he says that the ornamental plasterers joined the plasterers' society in good faith, but that the plain plasterers, who had the controlling voice, soon began to enact laws which limited the pace of work and were generally detrimental to the ornamental plasterers. These rules prohibited the casting of cornices, panels, and ceilings of intricate design in large sections with all the ornaments included. Instead of this, the union insisted that the slow methods of forty years ago should be followed.

The plain plasterers, Mr. Masoimo says, insisted on letting the tinsmiths put up cornices and ugly tin ceilings, and if the ornamental plasterers, though members of the same union, complained, strikes were ordered against them and the ornamental plasterers were fined from $50 to $100 for violation of the union rules. The last objectionable rule of the union was that all ornamental plaster work must be done by a practical plasterer who is proficient with the hawk and trowel. This, Mr. Masoimo said, would debar the most artistic men, who do not use hawk or trowel. He concludes:

"We invite the judgment of the public in this case. We are not strike breakers, but believe in unionism when conducted on true union principles. Above all, we love our liberty because we prize it as life itself, and, seeing our only opportunity, we freed ourselves from our oppressive bondage and broke the chain of slavery."

The general strike ultimatum of the Building Trades Alliance, it is learned, may not be issued for a week or more, if at all. The plan now is for the alliance to meet to-night and make reports, after which a meeting may be called later to arrange about the ultimatum. In the meantime the employers are going on filling the places of strikers.

SHIPYARDS TROUBLE ENDED.

Open Shop Continues—Wages Stationary—No Sympathetic Strikes.

An agreement was signed yesterday between representatives of the blacksmiths in the shipyards, numbering about 1,000 men, and of the New York Metal Trades Association, by which the present wages will be continued.

The wages in all the shop trades have been going down for some time. In consideration of this the representatives of the blacksmiths withdrew a demand for the closed shop, which threatened at first to cause trouble, and the agreement, which expires on July 31, 1905, is on the open-shop basis.

It is provided in the agreement that there shall be no sympathetic strikes, and that no persons other than those authorized by the employers shall interfere with the workmen during working hours. Among the firms included in the agreement are: Townsend-Downey Shipbuilding Company, Crescent Ship Yard Company, Elizabethport; Atkinson & Co., Hoboken; Burlee Dock Company, Staten Island; W. & A. Fletcher Company, Hoboken; Gas Engine and Power Company, and Charles L. Seabury & Co., (Consolidated,) Morris Heights; Quintard Iron Works, Logan Manufacturing Company, and Riley Repair and Supply Company.

ARREST BAYONNE COLLECTOR.

Business Mayor Had Robinson's Books Examined—$9,000 Shortage Charged.

Cyrillus L. Robinson, City Collector of Revenue of Bayonne, was arrested last night at his home, 28 West Thirty-third Street, Bayonne, on the complaint of Mayor Thomas Brady, charged with a defalcation of $9,000. Mr. Robinson has been collector for twelve years, and Mayor Brady says the shortages in the accounts may run to $30,000 or $40,000.

Mr. Robinson is seventy years of age. His habits have been regular, and he does not gamble, drink, or speculate, so far as can be learned. He lives in a handsome house with his daughter, but his manner of living does not exceed his income, so far as can be seen. He was taken before Recorder Lazarus after his arrest and held in $10,000 bail for examination.

Mayor Brady took office on the first of the year and announced he was going to conduct the city's affairs as if he were the head of a business house. He has made some sweeping changes and retrenchments. The department books have been undergoing examination, and those of the official accused have been submitted to an examination running back four years.

PREACHER'S SON ARRESTED.

Boy Caught at Window Says Former Methodist Is Father.

A seventeen-year-old boy who was caught in the yard of a Clermont Avenue house in Brooklyn yesterday morning, after he had been seen at a rear window, was arraigned later in the Myrtle Avenue Court. He declared that he was Forrest Simonsen, the son of the Rev. Svern Simonsen, who was at one time pastor of the Swedish Methodist Episcopal Church in Brooklyn, but who afterward severed his connection with the church.

The technical charge against the boy was that of vagrancy. He said that his brother Stanley and he ran away from their father's home, which is now at 24 Huntington Street, New Haven, three weeks ago. Their father caused a sensation in the Methodist Church four years ago by espousing the cause of Christian Science.

PEACEMAKER BADLY BEATEN.

Young Fighter Punches Doctor Who Interfered in Boys' Row.

Dr. Sarkis H. Abkarian, who is connected with the Health Department in Brooklyn, tried to play peacemaker in a boys' fight in East New York yesterday and he got a badly battered nose and two black eyes.

Israel Lippman, nineteen years old, is charged with doing the most of the strenuous work. He works in his father's dairy at Elton Street and Wortman Avenue, and is strong and big. Lippman has a young brother, and a crowd of other boys set upon the younger lad yesterday and punched him just to show that they could beat somebody in the family. Then Israel arrived. He sailed into the crowd, beating the fighters right and left and knocking the parents of one boy down. Then Dr. Abkarian interfered. Policeman Slott rescued him.

Israel, who, the smaller boys say, has bullied them, was arrested.

STRICTER RULE DEMANDED

Now Possible to Avoid Duty by Sending Machine Into Canada Every Three Months.

Domestic manufacturers of automobiles and the customs officers have discovered a "joker" in the circular governing the free entry of foreign-made automobiles under bond for touring purposes, which was issued by the Treasury Department on Sept. 2. They declare that if the rules laid down in this circular are allowed to continue in force the Government may as well give up all idea of collecting any more duty on automobiles at once.

The duty on automobiles is 60 per cent. It is a cheap foreign auto that does not cost $10,000. On this minimum price the duty would be $6,000, so that its evasion is quite an object to the man who is not so well fixed as to be able to throw $6,000 away.

The circular in question reads as follows:

Automobiles of foreign manufacture brought to this country for touring purposes, whether by foreigners or residents of the United States, and whether accompanying the owners or not, if to be actually used by them in this country, are entitled to free entry under bond for a stay of three months.

"Now just study that a minute," said a customs official yesterday, "and see what an easy old gentleman your Uncle Samuel is. You observe that the machine need not come with the owner, and that the owner may be either an American or a foreigner. Now imagine that you want to buy a French touring car worth, we will say, $20,000, and don't want to pay $12,000 duty. You'll do a good deal to save $12,000, even if you can afford to buy twenty-thousand-dollar automobiles.

"So you'll order the car shipped to you from France, and when it arrives you announce that you only want it in this country for touring purposes, and give a bond to re-export it or pay the duty in three months. It doesn't cost anything to give a bond. You use the machine for two months and twenty days, and then you say to your chauffeur:

"'Jimmie, just jump into that auto and take a run up to Montreal.'

"As soon as the machine crosses the border it is re-exported, and your bond is released. Then you telegraph the chauffeur to come back, give a fresh bond for three months more, and keep on repeating the process till the machine is worn out. A chauffeur can make a good many trips to Montreal for $12,000."

Another clause of the order makes it still easier to avoid the payment of duty on imported automobiles. It reads as follows:

Automobiles to be free of duty as household effects must have been used abroad for a period of one year or more by the owner or his family, whether driven by a chauffeur in his employ or not, but the use of an automobile by a chauffeur or friend unconnected with the owner or his family does not meet the requirements of the law.

This simply requires that the machine must have been used abroad for a year and driven by a chauffeur in the employ of the owner. A good chauffeur can be hired in Paris for $10 or less a week, and the use need not amount to more than a short run once or twice a month. Thus, at an expense of $500 for the chauffeur's wages and a very little wear, the American who is willing to wait a year to save the duty can get a practically new machine in free of duty.

It is likely that action will be taken shortly by the Association of Automobile Manufacturers to secure a revision of these rules. Customs officials report that in the last two weeks there has been a marked increase in the number of automobiles entered under bond.

DECISION FOR JERSEY TUNNEL.

Lackawanna's Protest Overruled by Vice Chancellor Stevenson.

Vice Chancellor Stevenson yesterday gave his decision in the suit for an injunction brought by the Lackawanna Railroad against the Hoboken and Manhattan Tunnel Company. The Vice Chancellor said his conclusion was that no proper case had been presented for an injunction. He discussed the covenant of Jan. 10, 1877, between the Lackawanna Railroad and the original tunnel company, which he held to be not binding on the Hoboken and Manhattan Tunnel Company.

The proposed tunnel is to extend from Sixteenth Street, Jersey City, near the Pavonia Ferry, to Hoboken, running under the Lackawanna yards. The suit of the railroad was based on the covenant of 1877, in which the original tunnel company agreed to carry the tunnel from the present terminal shaft west to the Henderson Street line, and not to proceed north and south from that point. The railroad company also contended that the running of the tunnel under its yards would interfere with the company's plans for the development of its yards and piers.

The question is also in the Supreme Court on certiorari proceedings. The new tunnel company was organized in 1903, and is a branch of the New York and New Jersey Tunnel Company.

CONSOLIDATED FIRM SUSPENDS.

George W. Harris Goes Under on "Little Board."

The suspension of George W. Harris & Co., members of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, with several branch offices throughout the city, was announced yesterday. A number of their contracts were closed out under the rule. On the floor it was reported that the firm had been forced to close out its contracts because of the failure of customers to deposit extra margin money.

At the office of Abraham Gruber it was stated that the liabilities would be in the neighborhood of $70,000, and assets about $30,000. The cause of the failure, it was stated, was the fact that the commissions of the concern had not amounted to enough to pay the running expenses of the office. A petition in involuntary bankruptcy was filed against the firm in the United States District Court. George W. Harris, Henry C. Robinson, and Benjamin J. Dreyer are members of the firm.

FORTUNE TELLERS GO TO JAIL.

Man and Wife Sentenced—First Conviction in Several Years.

Frank Horowitz and his wife, Charlotte, a middle-aged couple of 485 East One Hundred and Forty-fifth Street, who are charged with victimizing several residents of the Bronx by fortune telling and with causing their dupes to turn over property and money to them, were sent respectively to Sing Sing and Auburn Prisons by Judge McMahon in Part I. of General Sessions yesterday on charges of grand larceny.

Extortion had also been included in the complaints against them, but only the grand larceny charge was pressed, and Judge McMahon imposed sentence of not less than two nor more than three years for each.

This is the first conviction on such a charge since the famous Dias de Bar case of several years ago.

SAYS CROMWELL OFFERED HIM PANAMA PRESIDENCY

Colon Editor Puts Revolution Up to New York Lawyer.

WOULD NOT ACCEPT OFFICE

But as Fire Department Chief He Helped All He Could—Says Colombian Army Was Bribed.

Gabriel Duque, editor of The Panama Star and Herald of Colon, arrived in port yesterday on the steamship Advance, from Colon. He was one of those who helped to bring about the revolution against Colombia, and in telling the story of it William Nelson Cromwell, attorney for the French Panama Canal Company, and now counsel for the new republic, had offered him office for his assistance.

"Mr. Cromwell offered me the Presidency of the republic," said Mr. Duque, "if I would raise a small force of men and declare a secession from Colombia. He also said that if Colombia attempted to land a force in Panama, the United States Government would send a force and keep the Colombians out.

"I could not take the offer. I had great land interests in the country and could not afford to take the place as leader. I know, however, that the United States Government was aware that the revolution was being brought about and that the President had a force ready to go to Panama at once if the Colombians sent any force there.

"I helped all I could. I am Chief of the Fire Department, and I had my men all ready for the outbreak. The revolution was planned for 3 o'clock in the morning, but it had to be put off two hours. I told my men to hold back until 5 o'clock, and then we did the thnig up well.

"Other men in Panama were approached. Several of the Generals received a few thousand dollars for themselves and some money for their men.

"We were also promised enough money to establish a Government, so that we could put through the Panama Canal deal, but we did not need assistance in that line, for when we revolted we found about $200,000 in the Treasury Mr. Cromwell did not pay a cent out of his own pocket in bringing about the revolution, and I do not know who did pay. It was an exchanging of money for blood, and the successful event of the revolution was brought about by the liberal use of money. There was not a General who did not get at least $3,000. The Colombian officials were all paid off, and even the Colombian General who was sent to Panama to lead his forces against the revolutionists was met, on arriving, by an employee of the real head of the revolution, who also bought him off."

Mr. Duque also spoke of the trouble between Gen. Davis, the Governor of the canal zone, and John F. Wallace, the engineer in charge of the canal work. Mr. Duque said:

"The people in Panama do not like Gen. Davis. They think him too autocratic. As he rides through the streets in his carriage he is likened to the Shah of Persia. I have found him to be a just man, and it is only his way that is displeasing to the people. What brought about his disagreement with Mr. Wallace was his wishing to combine the rôles of Governor, canal builder, and everything else. Mr. Wallace has now had it clearly stated to Gen. Davis that he must not interfere in the work of building the canal, and things are now quiet. Mr. Wallace is in supreme control of all of the works.

"There never was a man in Panama better liked than he is. Beside that, he has already done excellent work in reducing the expenses of the canal. He showed me the figures for the work of July, in which the cost of removing dirt was 80 cents a cubic yard. August, during which he was in control, showed that the cost had been reduced to about 51 cents a yard. He believes that he can also reduce the cost of the locks along the canal route by several millions of dollars. The French in their studies of the soil about the places where locks are to be placed studied so far and then guessed at the rest. The American engineers must now go over the entire work and verify everything."

Concerning the reported protest of the Panamans against the establishing of two ports in the canal zone by the United States, Mr. Duque said that the people do not understand the right of this country as set forth in the treaty, one article of which gives the United States the right to do just as it is doihg.

Mr. Duque said that the opposition to the Government of Panama did not amount to much, being carried on by three members of the Liberal Party, who might be likened to the professional Revolutionists of the South American republics, but who are afraid to start any revolution in Panama because they know that the United States Government would not allow an uprising to go far. The leaders are Pablo Arosmena, First Vice President, and Dr. P. Borras, who is not a citizen and cannot be one. These men are antagonistic to Tomas Arias, the Secretary of the Government. They fight the Government with the cry that President Amador is selling the country to the United States. Few people heed them, Mr. Duque said, and when a notice is posted for a public meeting not more than a dozen people ever attend.

Mr. Wallace arrived here on the steamship with Mr. Duque, but he refused to talk of his work. He is here to engage several assistant engineers and to open bids for piping for carrying water all over the zone. He went to Washington as soon as he landed from the steamship.

CAPT. O'BRIEN HURT.

Run Down by a Trolley Car—Mr. McAdoo Escaped.

While standing with Police Commissioner McAdoo between the car tracks in Park Row late yesterday afternoon Capt. Stephen O'Brien of the City Hall Station, who has charge of the new traffic regulations, was struck by a car and received a severe scalp wound.

Mr. McAdoo and his secretary, William Howell, arrived at the City Hall Station shortly after 4 o'clock and Capt. O'Brien immediately escorted them to the entrance of the Brooklyn Bridge. After watching the working of the new police arrangements there the three started toward the Post Office. When they reached Frankfort Street and Park Row they stopped and stood between the tracks of the Fourth Avenue cars going north and the Third Avenue cars going south.

Capt. O'Brien was ahead of the other two. They did not notice an approaching northbound Fourth Avenue car until it was very near them. Mr. Howell was the first to see it, and he shouted:

"Look out there for the car."

The Captain failed to hear the warning, and the front of the car struck him on his side. He was thrown about five feet and landed on the top of his head.

Mr. McAdoo and Mr. Howell ran to him and carried him to the sidewalk. Sergt. McCullagh and several policemen ran up, and they carried Capt. O'Brien to the City Hall Station House. The cut on his head was then seen to be a bad one. The Captain's fine uniform was ruined. An ambulance was summoned from the Hudson Street Hospital and Dr. Stone responded. He took three stitches in the Captain's wound. John Toler, the motorman of the car that struck Capt. O'Brien, was arrested and taken to the City Hall Station while the Captain's injury was being treated. The Captain refused to make a complaint against him, and he was released. Capt. O'Brien was then taken to his home in a cab. In speaking of the accident Commissioner McAdoo said:

"We were standing between the tracks, and how it happened I do not know. I remembered when I saw the cars coming that I should stand straight, for I knew that some of the cars were wider than others and I did not want to get hit. We had just left Major Ebstein, who had congratulated Capt. O'Brien on his excellent work in handling the traffic. The Captain was stunned by his fall, and he will undoubtedly be laid up for several days.

"Capt. O'Brien has solved the traffic problem beautifully. It is improving day by day, and we have planned for an additional improvement, which I think will aid the police greatly."

The Commissioner declined to say what the new plan was.

CIGAR FIGHT NOT ENDED.

President Intervened and Both Sides Will Have Further Hearings.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Acting Secretary Taylor of the Treasury Department has in effect held up the order of Assistant Secretary Armstrong providing a new stamp for cigars imported from Cuba.

He to-day directed the Bureau of Engraving and Printing to stop printing the new stamps, and announced that all parties to the controversy over the use of customs stamps for cigars would have further hearings. It is understood that this action has the approval of the President, to whom the American Tobacco Company, known as the Tobacco Trust, appealed for the retention of the conspicuous stamp which is now affixed to its goods, and which has the effect of an advertisement of quality.

The action of Mr. Taylor is in direct disagreement with that of Assistant Secretary Armstrong, who has charge of customs matters, but as Mr. Taylor is Acting Secretary of the Treasury his authority is paramount.

Mr. Taylor to-night, when asked how the reversal of Mr. Armstrong's order came about, said that it was not for him to say. He could only state that it was decided, in the interests of fair play all around, that further hearings seemed necessary. He denied that political pressure or pressure of any kind had been employed in the interest of the American Tobacco Company.

It is stated on the best authority that the President, in approving the further hearings, has not taken sides with either party to the contest. The aim has been simply to give all concerned another day in court.

The independent tobacco men urge that the Government should not, as in effect it does, advertise the imported cigars of the trust when it was the aim of Congress, in letting in Cuban leaf tobacco at a low duty, to build up a home industry which is now discriminated against unfairly by the retention of the customs stamp. The new stamp which Mr. Armstrong had ordered was so nearly like the green internal revenue stamp that the buyer of cigars with this stamp would not be able to tell whether he was getting imported cigars or not.

The trust declares that a buyer of imported cigars should be enabled to know that what he is getting is genuine. The independent men say that they use the identical leaf tobacco that the trust uses in Cuba, that they make just as good cigars as the trust, and that they want to have the benefit of the quality of their goods.

The contest now seems but begun, and the hearings are likely to develop a hot series of arguments. No time has been fixed for the hearings, but it is expected that they will be within a few days, and that Mr. Taylor will sit as Acting Secretary of the Treasury to hear both sides.

SUBWAY CUT TO RECTOR ST.

But 125 Feet of Excavating Remaining for Connection to Battery.

The Broadway section of the rapid transit subway from City Hall south was connected with the Trinity Church section at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at a point just north of Liberty Street. Only 125 feet of excavating remains now to be done to connect with the Battery.

M. J. Degnon, President of the Degnon Contracting Company, was sent for when the Broadway extension reached the Trinity Church section, the gangs working in both directions dropping work until he reached the scene, when they made the passage large enough for him to walk through with a party of engineers, which included Mr. Rice, Albert Carr, H. B. Reed, H. C Sanford, R. B. Gustin, Theodore Paschke, George H. Cloud, and W. C. Briggs.

"One can now walk from City Hall to Exchange Place under Broadway," said Mr. Degnon. "I had not expected to see the two sections joined at such an early date. There will be a clear way from City Hall to the Battery within a week, and within a month it will be possible to run trains to Rector Street. As soon as the work at Rector Street is finished an underground passage will be dug under the subway from the Empire Building to New Street to make it easy for Wall Street men to get to their offices."

DYNAMITE ON TRACKS BLEW UP TROLLEY CAR

Nine Killed and Many Hurt in Wreck Near Boston.

BOX FELL FROM A WAGON

Car with Thirty-two Passengers Following Behind Struck Explosive—Six Killed Outright.

MELROSE, Mass., Sept. 21.—An outward-bound electric car containing thirty-two passengers was blown to pieces at 8 o'clock to-night near the corner of Wyoming Avenue and Main Street, this city, by striking a fifty-pound box of dynamite that had fallen off an express wagon.

Six were killed, three more died of their injuries within an hour, and nineteen others on the car were taken to the two hospitals suffering from all sorts of wounds. At least a score of people in the immediate vicinity of the explosion were treated for cuts from flying glass and splinters. At 11 o'clock to-night the following dead had been identified:

McLENNAN, Dr. MALCOM E., Melrose Highlands.
HAYNES, E. B., Fairmount Street, Melrose.
ROWE, WINFIELD, Saugus, Mass., motorman.
STOWE, E. E., 848 East Fifth Street, South Boston; died at Melrose Hospital.

The unidentified dead were three women and a three-year-old girl. One of the women died at the Melrose Hospital. The express wagon was driven by Roy Fenton. He discovered that the box had dropped off and rushed back to get it, but before he got within a hundred yards of the box the car came along and was blown up. Fenton was arrested.

Parts of the car were scattered in every direction, the front dashboard being hurled more than fifty feet. The ground in the immediate vicinity was strewn with legs, arms, and portions of the bodies of those who had been killed.

So great was the force of the explosion that two men standing in the door of a store fifty feet away were severely injured by the flying pieces, while every window within a radius of a quarter of a mile was broken.

The car contained mostly workingmen on their way to their homes in this city, but among the dead was a woman and her baby. At 9 o'clock to-night but few of the dead had been identified.

The explosion was heard for a long distance, and as soon as those in the immediate vicinity had recovered from the effects of the concussion they rushed to the scene of the accident.

All the doctors in the city were summoned and others called from Medford, Everett, and Malden, as well as some from Boston. The injured were lifted into wagons, carriages, and automobiles, and taken to hospitals. Those who appeared to be at the point of death were removed to near-by houses, while the police began the work of collecting the dead.

Within fifteen minutes after the accident a crowd of 3,000 persons was swarming over the scene. Relatives and friends of those on the wrecked car were rushing about trying to find their missing ones, while many others who thought that some of their families might possibly have been on the car were equally excited.

There were a large number of people on the car when it left Boston, but several got off at Malden and streets beyond. The conductor, who stood on the rear platform, was not injured in the least, and about ten feet of the rear end remained intact.

Of the injured seventeen were removed to the Melrose Hospital and four to the Sunnyside Hospital.

MARRIED AT MIDNIGHT.

Col. Renwick and Eleanor Bell Wed at Greenwich.

Col. Stanhope C. Renwick of 203 Macon Street, Brooklyn, and Eleanor Bell, the daughter of Edward Bell of King's Bridge Road and Creston Avenue, were the principals in a midnight marriage that took place in the law office of Judge J. C. McNally at Greenwich, Conn., on Tuesday night. Judge Charles D. Burnes, who has a record in Greenwich for marrying divorcees, officiated. The bridegroom was mentioned not long ago as co-respondent in divorce proceedings through which Mr. Bell's daughter became single.

Those who took part in the ceremony attempted to cloak it in secrecy. Judge Burnes refused to give the names of the couple and said that at the request of the bride he intended to delay the filing of the marriage notice for several days.

The wedding party went to the law office in a motor car and started back to New York in the vehicle. Yesterday the couple was at the residence of Mr. Bell. Both seemed much grieved that their marriage had become known.

The bride is a woman of about twenty-three years, and her husband about twice that age.

CALENDAR KNOCKED ASKEW.

November Temperature Sets All Ashiver, Especially Brooklyn.

November weather took a trip to town last night and sent the mercury tumbling down all over the city. Those who went to theatres last night found themselves fairly comfortable at 7 o'clock, but those same people at midnight were shivering with the thermometer at 44. In the early morning the late workers going home turned sadly to one another with remarks about overcoats while they tried to keep warm.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit officials did not think it cold enough to take off their airy Summer elevated cars, and every person who rode in one of them last night felt as if he were in a refrigerator.

The wind in the city reached a velocity of over thirty-five miles an hour at one time yesterday. The air was perfectly clear, and the marine observers reported that they could see as far yesterday as they had ever been able to.

BAYONNE COLLECTOR'S DENIAL.

Accused Man Says Accountant Found Books Correct.

Vigorous denial of Mayor Thomas Brady's complaint alleging $9,000 shortage in accounts was made yesterday by Collector of Revenue Cyrillus L. Robinson of Bayonne. Mr. Robinson said he would fight to the end to prove his innocence.

Collector Robinson said the accountant employed by the city had told him before he went on his recent vacation that his accounts were found correct. This, however, is disputed by Alfred Rose of 56 Beaver Street, Manhattan, the certified accountant who has directed a force of experts working upon municipal books many weeks.

MRS. MANSFIELD BADLY HURT.

Actor's Wife Thrown from Horse—May Be Invalid for Life.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 21.—Mrs. Richard Mansfield, wife of the actor, was thrown from her horse and seriously injured this afternoon at New London. Her spine is affected and it is feared that she may be an invalid for life.

She is being attended by New London physicians and a specialist from New York, who was brought there on a special train by Mr. Mansfield to-night. The accident happened in the cottage section on the shore, near the Pequot House. Mr. Mansfield has a cottage there, and met with an accident himself earlier in the Summer, spraining his ankle.

Mrs. Mansfield's favorite exercise is riding.

This afternoon she started out along the shore as usual, when suddenly an automobile came in sight and the horse became frightened. The machine sped on and the horse jumped into the gutter and fell on its side.

Mrs. Mansfield was pinned down by the horse, which jumped up and ran away, leaving Mrs. Mansfield prostrate. Her cries for help were heard in the McStay cottage near by. Several persons ran out and carried her into the house. Local physicians were summoned, and they found that, although no bones had been broken, Mrs. Mansfield's spine was badly wrenched and her back bruised.

Mr. Mansfield was notified in New York and he immediately ordered a special train to be made up. He found a specialist on spinal injuries and brought him with him to New London, arriving there at 9:30 o'clock. The New York physician says that Mrs. Mansfield is very seriously hurt. Mrs. Mansfield was Miss Beatrice Cameron, an actress, before her marriage. She is popular among the Pequot colony.

HUSBAND CUT OFF IN WILL.

Mrs. Hurst, Killed by Automobile, Leaves $50,000 Estate to Sister.

The will of Emma Augusta Hurst, who was killed in an automobile accident at Altamont, Ill., on July 23, was filed in the office of the Surrogate of Kings County yesterday. The woman's husband, Charles Hurst of 771 Putnam Avenue, Brooklyn, is completely cut off from participation in the fifty-thousand-dollar estate, his name not even being mentioned. The sole heir is Miss Mary Knapp, a sister of Mrs. Hurst, of 799 Putnam Avenue.

Mr. Hurst contends that the will is not genuine, and will make a contest. He says that even if the instrument is genuine, it was executed while under undue influence. Before the will came to light Mr. Hurst, believing that there was no such thing in existence, procured the issuance of letters of administration.

Mrs. Hurst was fifty years old, and had spent her life teaching school before she married Mr. Hurst, who had been married three times. Mr. and Mrs. Hurst were making a tour of the country in an automobile when a train of the Wabash Railroad ran down their car at Altamont, Ill., and Mrs. Hurst was so severely injured that she died a few hours after the accident.

SURGEON OPERATES ON SELF.

Cuts Away Diseased Tissue on His Foot Without Taking Anaesthetic.

Special to The New York Times.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Sept. 21.—Dr. C. H. Fisher, in charge of the main Wabash Hospital at Little Orleans, this county, performed the unusual feat of operating upon himself for blood poisoning this morning. For nearly a week he has been suffering from a violent infection of the left foot, and last night it became alarming, extending as far as the knee.

With the assistance of his hospital nurses, Dr. Fisher, without taking an anaesthetic, cut from the instep to the toes, down to the tendons and bone, scraping and gouging among the diseased tissues. He suffered great agony for nearly half an hour while the operation continued, and was exhausted at the close.

By his promptness and thoroughness he is in a fair way to save not only his life, but his leg and foot.

WIFE HAS SHRADY ARRESTED.

George Locked Up, but No Record of Charge Against Him.

George Shrady, one of the heirs of the Shrady estate, who lives at Bailey Avenue and Macomb's Dam Road, in the Bronx, was arrested at his home yesterday afternoon on a warrant obtained by Mrs. Shrady in the Morrisania Court. Being too late for court, Shrady was locked up in the King's Bridge Police Station, and up to an early hour this morning had not been bailed out.

The Shradys have been married about six years and have frequently had trouble before. There was a stormy scene at the arrest, and Mrs. Shrady came to the station house to make sure that her husband was put behind the iron bars. The blotter, however, bears no record of the charge against him, and those familiar with the circumstances would not discuss the case.

THEATRICAL MANAGER LOST.

Mrs. Ward Thinks Husband Is Wandering in City.

Mrs. Margaret Ward, an actress of 222 West Forty-third Street, asked the police yesterday to find her husband, Percival Ward, a theatrical manager, who has been missing since Sunday.

Mrs. Ward said that her husband went to Canandaigua three weeks ago to become manager of a theatrical company. When he arrived there he obtained a minor part in a play, but she says he is slightly demented and could not memorize the lines. She received a telegram Sunday from the managers of the theatre saying that he had left for New York and telling her to meet him at the Grand Central Station. She went there, but failed to meet him. She thinks that he arrived and is wandering around New York somewhere.

PRESIDENT NASON QUITS THE BUILDING ALLIANCE

Goes Out with Marble Cutters, Who Abandon Strikes.

MEN TALKING PEACE NOW

Employers Consider Backbone of Union Combination Broken and Expect Early Settlement.

The Building Trades Alliance received a severe shock at its regular meeting yesterday—an announcement on behalf of the Marble Cutters' Union that it had withdrawn from the Alliance and had called off all its strikes.

The marble cutters have not been locked out, but the union ordered a general strike, involving 2,000 cutters, about three weeks ago, in support of the Journeymen Stone Cutters' Union, which had a fight against the firm of Bradley & Son at the Trinity Building. Its members will return to work to-day.

The Marble Cutters' Union is the organization for which President William P. Nason of the alliance is walking delegate. Nason will therefore be out of the alliance, which will have to seek a new President at once.

All this coming on the heels of a split in the plasterers' society, made yesterday a bad day for talking about strike ultimatums. The programme of the alliance had been to notify the employers in the Building Trades Employers' Association yesterday that unless the lockout was declared off a general strike of all the unions, which would bring out from 40,000 to 50,000 more workers would follow. After the meeting of the alliance, however, there was only peace talk. The following statement was made on behalf of the alliance regarding the action of the marble cutters.

"The marble cutters have notified us that they have elected to withdraw from this body. They say they feel that the Alliance did nothing to bring about a settlement for them. That it to say, they want to be sure at all times that they are on the winning side. All the other unions have decided to stand by the Alliance."

One factor in hastening the decision of the Marble Cutters' Union to leave the Alliance was the comparative inactivity of the Journeymen Stone Cutters' Union, on whose behalf it went on strike. The stone cutters are not under the arbitration agreement, and few of them are on strike, while all the marble cutters were on strike. A few days ago the marble cutters issued an ultimatum to the stone cutters to the effect that if the stone cutters did not settle their trouble on the Trinity Building or order a general strike the marble cutters would return to work.

The plasterers society, it is learned, decided to adopt a new policy as soon as the ornamental plasterers seceded on Tuesday. At a late meeting on Tuesday night the plasterers began to talk peace, and a peace committee was appointed.

The general impression at the Building Trades Club last night was that the end of the building trades fight was at hand, and that a surrender of the unions, which found it too late to compromise, would take place shortly.

ARREST NEW YORK BROKER.

Henry Zuckerman Said to Have "Abetted" Gambling House.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Sept. 21.—Charged with "aiding and abetting in the keeping of a gambling house," Henry Zuckerman, a broker, with offices at 40 Exchange Place, New York, was arrested to-day on complaint of Mayor William Hagencamp. The accused was released on his own recognizance for a hearing later.

The arrest is the sequel to the capture recently by county detectives of a wagonload of gambling devices which the officers swore were taken from the Zuckerman home in Runyon Avenue. The gaming outfit, it is alleged, was operated this Summer by the Home Club, which was raided twice within the past fortnight by Sheriff Bogardus.

SNOW FLURRIES UP STATE.

MALONE, N. Y., Sept. 21.—This is the coldest Sept. 21 ever experienced in Northern New York. People are wearing fur coats, and flurries of snow have fallen during the day. A heavy frost is expected to-night.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Sept. 21.—The first heavy frost of the season occurred last night. The thermometer has been near the freezing point all day, with frequent snow flurries. At Saranac Lake the temperature was 25 degrees at 5 o'clock this morning, and snow fell for an hour.

KNOW TOO MUCH OF OUR NAVY.

Foreign Governments Have Made Good Use of Bureau Chief's Reports.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Because it is believed that foreign Governments are learning entirely too much regarding the inside workings of the American Navy and are picking from the annual reports of the Bureau Chiefs too much information which should be of a confidential character, a change will be made this year in the preparation of the annual reports, and much that hitherto has been included in these papers will be omitted.

It also has been decided to omit the unrevised estimates of the bureau chiefs.

Passaic Steel Company Reduces Wages.

PASSAIC, N. J., Sept. 21.—The 1,000 employes of the Passaic Steel Company were notified yesterday that there would be a general reduction in wages ranging from 10 to 20 per cent., owing to the reduction in the price of steel made by the manufacturers in Pittsburg on Monday. The employes in the electric crane department refused to accept the reduction, and their places were filled by other men. The officers of the company say it is either a case of reducing wages or closing the works.

LIGHTNING KILLS FIVE.

Another Fatally Hurt—50,000-Barrel Oil Tank Exploded.

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 21.—One of the worst accidents recorded in the history of the Beaumont oil district occurred at Port Arthur this morning. A thunderstorm suddenly broke over the city, accompanied by blinding flashes of lightning. A force of men were at work on the roof of one of the tanks of the Texas Company, which is a property of the Standard Oil Company.

Six of the men took shelter back of the side walls extending above the roof. A bolt of lightning struck the roof, causing an oil explosion which killed five of the men and fatally injured the other.

The oil tank that was struck by lightning and exploded contained 50,000 barrels of oil. The tank and oil were destroyed. The property loss will approximate $100,000.

LADY CURZON IS ILL.

Viceroy Postpones Departure for India Owing to His Wife's Condition.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Lady Curzon of Kedleston, (formerly Miss Leiter of Washington and Chicago,) wife of the Viceroy of India, is ill.

Lord Curzon's secretary telegraphs that Lady Curzon's illness "gives no immediate cause for anxiety," but the Viceroy has postponed his departure for India.

THRICE LEAPED BEFORE TRAIN.

But Station Hands Caught Aged Italian Determined to Die.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 21.—Francisco Zandall, eighty-eight years of age, of 3 Nesbit Street, made three attempts to end his life this morning by throwing himself in front of passenger trains at the Nesbit Street crossing of the Lackawanna Railroad, less than a hundred yards from his home.

Each time his plans were frustrated by the interference of three flagmen, who dragged him off the tracks, twice when a train was almost upon him. The man threatened to make a fourth attempt, but was arrested before he had the opportunity.

For many years the old man lived and worked for his son, Anthony Zendall, who conducts a fruit and vegetable store at 3 Nesbit Street. Old age at last made the father too feeble to be of service, and it is said the son declared his father a burden, and Tuesday night turned him from the door. The old man wandered about the streets all night.

C. B. SPAHR'S BODY FOUND.

Washed Ashore Near Broadstairs, Kent, and Fully Identified.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The body of Charles B. Spahr of New York was washed ashore to-day near Broadstairs, Kent. The American Consult has fully identified it.

Numerous documents and a considerable sum of American money were found on the body. Included among the property were a gold watch, a number of United States banknotes, a passage ticket by the steamer Aurania, a notebook, and a number of other articles.

The recovery of a body is very rare in cases of being lost in mid-channel, and it is probably due in this instance to the continuous strong east winds of the past few days. From the point where the body stranded it is supposed that Mr. Spahr must have fallen overboard when the vessel was about half way between Ostend and Dover.

Charles B. Spahr of King's Bridge, New York, editor of Current Literature, either fell or jumped overboard from the steamer Prince Albert on Aug. 30, midway between Ostend and Dover.

His mysterious disappearance was afterward reported by E. W. Ordway of Brooklyn, in whose company Mr. Spahr was making a tour of Europe for the benefit of his health.

CONSUL STRICKEN ON TRAIN.

Mexico's Representative Ill and His 81 Years Make Recovery Doubtful.

Juan N. Navarro, the Mexican Consul General in this city, was stricken with apoplexy yesterday morning on a New York Central Railroad train as it was pulling out of the Albany station on the way to New York. When the train arrived here he was in a critical condition and was removed to his home at 251 West Forty-fourth Street. Physicians were constantly in attendance several hours.

The Consul General had been on a three months' vacation with Mrs. Navarro and was returning from a visit to St. Louis, when he became ill. Several times on the trip across the country physicians had to be called to attend him. Mr. Navarro has been Consul General here since 1863. He is eighty-one years old, and because of his advanced age his recovery is considered doubtful.

CODY TO DROP DIVORCE SUIT.

Convinced That He Was Deceived Into Bringing False Charges.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Sept. 21.—Convinced that he was deceived into bringing false charges of attempted poisoning against his wife, Col. William F. Cody will withdraw his suit for divorce, which was to come up in Sheridan, Wyo., this week.

It is stated that he has already written to Mrs. Louisa Cody at her home, in Nebraska, admitting to the woman, to whom he has not spoken a word in fifteen years, that he was misled, and saying that he is desirous of obtaining her forgiveness. Their relations to continue as in the past.

The daughters have exerted their influence on their father not to press charges against their mother. Col. Cody's attorneys, it is said, reached the conclusion that the charges could not be supported, and urged their client to abandon his suit. Public sentiment in the West has also deterred "Buffalo Bill" from pressing the case to a conclusion.

BIG ELECTION OVERSHADOWED.

Betting Interest Turns to State Contest —Democrats Offer Even Money.

The interest in betting on the Presidential election was overshadowed yesterday by the State election. No wagers on either issue were made, and the odds ruled the same on the Presidential election of 10 to 4½ offered and 10 to 4 asked.

When it was announced that Judge Herrick was the selection of the Democratic Party for Governor J. J. Judge offered to wager $5,000 at even money in any lots down to $500 that the nominee would carry the State. Apparently the Republicans had not figured out the chances, for no money was offered at all against the $5,000.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 21.—The decision to make Judge D. Cady Herrick the nominee for Governor was not reached until noon to-day, exactly one hour after the time which had been fixed for the opening of the Democratic State Convention.

Judging from the acts of the leaders which they were unable to conceal and from the statements which were made subsequent to the convention, the selection of Judge Herrick was partly, if not wholly, in deference to the wishes of Judge Parker. There is not a particle of doubt that Mr. Hill and Senator McCarren controlled a majority of the convention, and that if they had acted on their own best judgment Controller Edward M. Grout would have been the nominee.

Hill came here with a preference for Stanchfield, but yesterday afternoon he was convinced that Mr. Stanchfield's nomination would be a mistake, and at the same time he was made a complete convert to the belief of Senator McCarren that Grout would be the strongest candidate who could be named.

There is every reason to believe that Mr. Hill, as well as Senator McCarren, remained of that opinion to the end, and it can be stated on the authority of Mr. Hill himself that he and his followers would have gone into the convention for Grout if Senator McCarren had not concluded that party harmony demanded his surrender to the pressure from Judge Parker's friends. Senator McCarren confirmed the statement of Mr. Hill on this point.

McCarren Loyal to Grout.

Grout's friends departed without the slightest suspicion in their minds as to the unswerving loyalty of Senator McCarren to the Controller. The Brooklyn leader did not surrender until he had been informed by William F. Sheehan that if the determination to bring Grout's name before the convention was persisted in he would feel compelled to take the platform and inform the convention that the friends of Judge Parker would not consider the nomination of Mr. Grout in the interest of Judge Parker's candidacy, owing to the hostile attitude of Tammany Hall against the Controller.

Realizing that the majority of the delegates were inclined to be with Hill and McCarren in the stand which they took for Grout, and wishing to show Senator McCarren all the deference compatible with their fixed determination not to submit willingly to the nomination of Mr. Grout, the friends of Judge Parker offered to Senator McCarren the alternative of taking either Judge Herrick or Martin W. Littleton, President of the Borough of Brooklyn.

McCarren could have named Littleton had he so desired, and his choosing of Herrick in preference to the President of his own borough was generally regarded to-night as indicating that in his advocacy of Controller Grout he had not been actuated by a purely personal motive, but had been moved by a sincere conviction that Grout was the best candidate to make the kind of a fight which it is generally desired by the leaders should be made.

While professing high admiration for Littleton, Senator McCarren said he thought objection might be raised against Mr. Littleton on the ground that he had not been long enough a resident of the State to be named for Governor, and for that reason he believed the candidacy of Judge Parker would be better served by the selection of Herrick if the choice were to be confined to Herrick and Littleton.

Honors may be said to be even between Senator McCarren and Charles F. Murphy, so far as the result of the convention is concerned, for while Murphy succeeded in preventing the nomination of McCarren's favorite, it was the final word from McCarren which settled the nomination of Herrick.

That Midnight Conference.

It was nearly 2 o'clock this morning when the conference begun at 11 o'clock last night by the leaders to reach a harmonious agreement if possible broke up without any brightening of the prospects. Nearly all of the big leaders here were present. The conference was held in the rooms of ex-Senator Edward Murphy, and William F. Sheehan presided.

In opening the conference Mr. Sheehan stated the purpose for which it had been called. He said it was a duty the leaders owed to the party to come to a harmonious understanding in order that the great opportunity the party now had in the Nation might be improved. He called upon each man in the conference to speak out exactly what was in his mind with respect to the situation and state whatever reasons he had to urge either for or against the candidacy of any of the men who had been proposed for the Gubernatorial nomination.

Responding to this invitation Senator McCarren arose and made a speech for Mr. Grout. He said he believed that Mr. Grout was the man above all others who could carry the State for the Democratic Party in the coming election. He cited data to show Mr. Grout's ability as a vote-getter, and made the claim that Mr. Grout's equal as a campaigner was not to be found in the organization's ranks at the present time. In making his plea for Mr. Grout he was careful to avoid any statement which would have afforded Mr. Murphy reasonable ground of offense.

Murphy Against Grout and McClellan.

When Senator McCarren concluded his argument for Grout, Mr. Murphy arose and said he was opposed to the nomination of Mr. Grout because he regarded him as a factional candidate.

"I would regard Mr. McClellan in the same light," Mr. Murphy said, "and it is for that reason that Tammany has not urged his name."

This announcement from Mr. Murphy occasioned surprise in view of the fact that only an hour before William J. Conners of Buffalo and other of the up-State Tammany allies had started a big boom for Mayor McClellan at a meeting which they held in the headquarters that had been reserved for Mr. Goodyear of Buffalo before he withdrew from the race.

Following Mr. Murphy, Senator Victor J. Dowling made a somewhat lengthy plea for George M. Palmer of Schoharie. He said he thought no better up-State man than Mr. Palmer could be selected, as he believed Mr. Palmer would appeal to the agriculturists of the State as no other man who had been mentioned would.

August Belmont presented the name of Cord Meyer, the Chairman of the State Committee. He said that Mr. Meyer was a man who had not been identified with any faction of the party; that he sized up to the place, and that he would make a good campaign.

Mr. Meyer, who was present in the conference, said he hoped that Mr. Belmont's suggestion would not receive any serious consideration.

"The fact that I voted twice against Mr. Bryan and that I have certain business connections which already have been dragged into this campaign," said Mr. Meyer, "ought to convince anybody of my unavailability at the present time."

Conference Sends for Hill.

Mr. Hill had not been in the conference up to this time. National Committeeman Norman E. Mack was sent to bring him in. Mr. Hill was asked who was his personal preference for the candidate.

"I came here inclined to favor Mr. Stanchfield," said Mr. Hill, "but since he has been eliminated from the situation there is no use of discussing that."

Mr. Hill did not say anything in favor of Mr. Grout, although it was generally understood that he had come to regard Mr. Grout as the strongest man who could be chosen.

Mr. Belmont next brought up the names of Judge Herrick and Martin W. Littleton in turn but nothing much was said about either of them, either favorable or otherwise.

It being apparent that there was no prospect of any agreement, some one suggested that a sub-committee of three, to consist of William F. Sheehan, Charles F. Murphy, and Senator McCarren, be appointed to further consider the situation and report their conclusions to an adjourned meeting of the general conference at 9 o'clock in the morning. The suggestion was adopted.

Mr. Murphy designated Senator Dowling to serve on the committee in his stead, and Messrs. Sheehan, McCarren, and Dowling went into Mr. Sheehan's room and remained closeted together for about a quarter of an hour. When they concluded to abandon negotiations for the night they were as far away from a conclusion as ever. The anxious and tired crowds in the corridor which had patiently waited the breaking up of the conferences, were therefore compelled to go to bed without the information which they had waited up to hear.

Unable to Agree.

The sub-committee met at 9 o'clock this morning, but after half an hour's deliberation parted as widely apart as when they had conferred the night before. As they had come to no decision there was no use of calling the general conference of leaders together again. It was decided that the best method of procedure from then on would be to confer with Mr. Hill. Senator Dowling dropped out at this juncture. There was no further need for him to remain in it, for it had become clear that the fixed determination of Mr. Sheehan was to bring about some decision which would be satisfactory to the Tammany organization.

When Senator Dowling dropped out August Belmont came in. Messrs. Sheehan, Belmont, and Senator McCarren went into Mr. Hill's private room. The contest at that time had narrowed down to Grout, Herrick, and Littleton. Shepard was still talked about, but his candidacy was not being pressed by any of the leaders who were to have the final say.

Despite the statement which Mr. Murphy had made in the conference of the night before with respect to the proposed candidacy of Mayor McClellan, the up-State allies of Tammany were vigorously pushing the McClellan boom along in the corridors and in the court of the Grand Union while the conferences were going on up stairs. They had had big placards printed over night announcing McClellan as a candidate for Governor, and these were posted up all over the piazzas of the hotel.

The McClellan boom, however, received little or no attention in the conferences up stairs. One of the big leaders in commenting on it said:

"To nominate McClellan now would be to put the tag on his nomination as conspicuously as the Odell tag is on the nomination of Higgins. The contest for the Governorship would dwindle into a contest between Odell and Murphy."

Luke D. Stapleton, who was to have made the nominating speech for Grout in the event of the Controller's name being presented to the convention, announced that the friends of Mr Grout had left his candidacy entirely in the hands of Senator McCarren. Mr. Stapleton said he did not expect Senator McCarren to press the candidacy of Mr. Grout in the convention unless he was absolutely certain that Mr. Grout would win.

When Senator McCarren came out of Mr. Hill's room at 11 o'clock he encountered State Committeeman McCabe of Albany County in the hall and told him that the evident disposition was to crowd Mr. Grout out and to ask him make a choice between Judge Herrick and Mr. Littleton.

"I am as good a friend of Judge Parker's as any man," said McCabe angrily, "but if you consent to the nomination of Herrick, I will take the platform and protest against his nomination on behalf of the delegation from Albany County."

At 11:25 Messrs. Belmont, Peabody, and W. S. Rodie came to Mr. Hill's rooms and were joined by Senator McCarren. A few moments later, when Mr. Hill came out into his reception room for a moment and was asked what was being done, he said:

"We are getting down pretty close now. If we can't agree in time for the first session of the convention we will have the convention take a recess. We are going to settle this thing right, and we are going to reach a harmonious decision."

This declaration was received with applause by the crowd.

Sheehan Delivers Ultimatum.

Mr. Hill had hardly joined Senator McCarren and Messrs. Belmont, Peabody, and Rodie in his inner sanctum when William F. Sheehan, who had been down stairs using the long-distance telephone, went in to join the other leaders. It was learned from one of those present that he and Mr. Hill went to one side and had what seemed a heart-to-heart talk.

From a good source it was learned that Mr. Sheehan served final notice on Mr. Hill and Senator McCarren that if Mr. Grout's name was presented to the convention he would feel it incumbent on him to take the platform and on behalf of Judge Parker urge the delegates not to vote for Mr. Grout because of the factionalism which his candidacy would foster, and that thereupon Mr. Hill served notice upon Mr. Sheehan that if Judge Parker did not desire Mr. Grout's nomination Judge Parker's friends must submit a definite alternative.

Mr. Sheehan, after being with Mr. Hill less than two minutes, came out and again rushed down to the long-distance telephone. He talked with Rosemount for perhaps five minutes. Charles F. Murphy was waiting for him near the telephone booth when he came out.

Mr. Sheehan whispered something to the Tammany leader which caused the countenance of the latter to beam with pleasure. Mr. Sheehan then hurried up stairs again and into the private room of Mr. Hill.

It is supposed that it was then that Mr. Sheehan said that either Judge Herrick or Mr. Littleton, as Senator McCarren should decide, would be acceptable to the friends of Judge Parker. Senator McCarren concluded to take Herrick. Mr. Hill gave cheerful acquiescence to the decision.

Senator McCarren was then asked if Kings County cared to name the Lieutenant Governor. After a short consultation with his delegation he announced that Kings County had nothing to ask of the convention. Upon the suggestion of Mr. Hill it was thereupon decided that the nomination for second place on the ticket should be given to Francis Burton Harrison.

Mr. Hill's consent to the nomination of Judge Herrick and his choosing of a Tammany member of Congress for second place induced Mr. Sheehan to ask if he would not go one step further in the direction of harmony, and make the nominating speech for Judge Herrick Mr. Hill said he would.

There then remained but one other matter to settle. That was the opposition to Judge Herrick from State Committeeman McCabe of his own county. McCabe was sent for, and informed of the agreement reached. When told that Mr. Hill had consented to place Judge Herrick in nomination McCabe backed out of the room speechless.

It was exactly noon when Messrs. Sheehan and McCarren came out of Mr. Hill's room and announced that an agreement had been reached, and that the ticket would be Herrick and Harrison, and that Cullen and Werner would be indorsed for Chief Judge and Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals respectively.

They were followed a moment later by Senator Hill, and the three started for the convention. Charles F. Murphy, who had remained at the hotel awaiting the outcome of the conference, also started for the convention hall about the same time.

Delegates Run to Tell the News.

The news of what had been done spread through the corridors of the hotel like wildfire, and some of the enthusiastic delegates dashed off to give to the convention the first tidings of the result.

By the time the big leaders reached the convention hall it was known to all of the delegates who had been decided upon for the first and second places on the ticket, and it only needed the entrance of the leaders to touch off the enthusiasm with which the convention crowd was charged.

After the convention was over there was one point upon which there was general curiosity. That was whether Mr. Hill had abandoned Senator McCarren in his fight for Grout or whether it was Senator McCarren who yielded of his own volition to the pressure from Judge Parker's friends. Mr. Hill was asked about this, and he said:

"We would have stood by Senator McCarren to the end if he had so desired, because apart from the consideration of harmony, we believed the sentiment of the convention was in favor of his candidate. But harmony was after all the first requisite. Senator McCarren bowed to that sentiment, and every credit is due him. He is a fighter and an able man. I never fully appreciated his ability until to-day."

When Senator McCarren was seen and asked for his version of how the final agreement was reached he was indisposed to talk about it, saying: "There were two other men present. See them and find out what they say."

He was told of Mr. Hill's version of what occurred at the final conference. "Mr. Hill stated it correctly," he said.

OWN MASTER, SAYS HERRICK.

If Elected Will Be Governor Himself, He Announces.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Judge D. Cady Herrick was on his way to the train to attend the funeral of his political lieutenant, ex-District Attorney Zeb A. Dyer, when he learned of his nomination for Governor.

The Judge opened his campaign this evening with a brief speech delivered at a demonstration made in his honor by the Albany Democratic Club on its return from Saratoga. Congressman Francis Burton Harrison, candidate for Lieutenant Governor, who was calling on Judge Herrick at the time, also made a few remarks.

Judge Herrick, who was introduced by State Committeeman Patrick E. McCabe, spoke as follows:

"Gentlemen of the Democratic Club, Citizens of Albany: From the bottom of my heart I thank you for this demonstration. I think you all understand that the honor which has been conferred upon me has come unsought, unsolicited. My hopes and aspirations were for a professional honor with which I might round out my career.

"You will not expect me to make a speech at this time. All I can say to you is, I have lived among you for over fifty years. You know me; you have made me what I am; you will soon be called upon to pass judgment upon my fitness for the great office to which I have been nominated.

"In doing so, bear in mind that I have always been my own master; that if elected, while I will court and welcome the advice and assistance of public men, I will be Governor myself. Furthermore, that I will be Governor of and for the people, and not for a party, and will, to the utmost of my ability, strive to give the people an honest and efficient administration.

"A word to the Democrats present: Bear in mind always that the better I serve all the people of the State, the better service I render to the party that has nominated me.

"Also, let me say to you, that I hope I am a large enough man to rise above factions, and while not ignoring or abandoning old friends, treat all men fairly who support the Democratic ticket."

David B. Hill, who had accompanied the club to the Herrick residence, also made a brief speech.

One of the first to congratulate him upon his nomination for Governor was Judge Parker. In addition to Judge Parker's message the following was received from Mayor McClellan of New York: "Heartiest congratulations on your nomination, which points to a great Democratic victory in November."

Among other messages were the following:

"I am greatly pleased, and send you my cordial congratulations.—Daniel S. Lamont."

"Accept hearty congratulations.—George M. Palmer."

Judge Herrick was busy all evening receiving those who called to congratulate him upon his nomination. Many of the delegates stopped at Albany on their way home from the convention to pay their respects.

Congressman Harrison arrived early in the evening and remained with Judge Herrick and his family until after the Democratic Club's demonstration, when he took the train for New York.

STATE ELECTORAL TICKET.

Vacancies Are Filled by the Democratic Committee.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 21.—The Democratic State Committee met after the convention to-day and filled the vacancies existing in the State electoral ticket. Herman Ridder of New York was placed at the head of the ticket as elector at large, in place of H. P. Whitney, and Edward C. Sheehy was made district elector, in place of Mr. Ridder.

GORMAN TAKES UP HIS WORK.

Many Democratic Leaders in Town to Confer with Judge Parker.

The most important Democratic conference so far will take place to-day with the arrival of Judge Parker, when he will make known his plans.

Senator Gorman took up his duties yesterday as an adviser to the Democratic National Committee. Chairman Taggart called on the Senator at the Fifth Avenue Hotel shortly after noon, and the two were in conference until after 5 o'clock. Mr. Taggart said that the whole campaign had been thoroughly discussed, but he declined to go into details.

A great number of prominent Democrats are now here for to-day's conference. Among them are Senator Daniel and Senator Martin of Virginia, Col. Guffey of Pennsylvania, Senator Latimer of North Carolina, Daniel J. Campau of Michigan, Timothy E. Ryan of Wisconsin, and Senators Bailey and Culberson of Texas.

HARMONY TRIUMPHS AT THE CONVENTION

All Differences Dropped and Party's Unity Proclaimed.

ODELL FIERCELY ATTACKED

Hill's Nomination of His Old Enemy, Herrick, for the Governorship Arouses the Wildest Enthusiasm.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, Sept. 21.—With harmony talk on every lip, with peace in every move, and with absolute unanimity in arriving at every result, the State Convention to-day nominated its ticket by acclamation and adjourned sine die. Every leader, every delegate, and every shouter expressed himself as more than satisfied with the achievement of developing a ticket on which everybody agreed that they could agree.

When the delegates began to gather in the convention hall for the second day's session everything was uncertain and everybody was anxious for information as to what actually was going on in the leaders' rooms at the Grand Union Hotel, where the final effort was being made to agree upon a definite programme. The session had been called to meet at 11 o'clock, but at that time not more than half of the delegates were in their seats and all the leaders were away. The visitors' seats in the gallery and on the stage were well filled and the band was working overtime trying to get the crowd in good humor and keep it there.

Standing Room at a Premium.

From that time on the crowd began to pile into the hall, and half an hour later standing room was at a premium. Fifteen minutes after the hour set for the opening of the session practically the entire Tammany parade entered the hall, with a band at the head of the procession and a second band further back in the column. The Tammanyites, cheering, marched around the hall and finally settled down to view the proceedings, the two bands taking up stations and playing during the intervals in the music of the regular band which had been engaged by the convention. Between the three bands there was scarcely a minute during the hour of waiting that remained when some popular melody or patriotic air was not entertaining the audience of fully 6,000 people.

During the wait the crowd determined to get all the fun possible out of the situation. As none of the big leaders appeared, some of the pent up enthusiasm was lavished on the minor lights. "Big Tom" Foley, who leads the Tammanyites in the Second District, came in and got a reception that would have flattered a State leader. Foley was so confused over this that he fell into three chairs before he actually got to the seat where he belonged. Senator Thomas F. Grady came in a few minutes later, and the performance was repeated, except that Grady maintained his balance and got into the correct row.

Even Congressman Sulzer, perpetual candidate, was cheered generously. With proper and becoming dignity he remained standing as long as he possibly could and bowed his appreciation. Shortly after Sulzer arrived ex-United States Senator Edward Murphy, Jr., came into the hall absolutely unnoticed and took his seat at the head of the Rensselaer County delegation.

All this time fully a third of the men in the big hall were smoking unreproved, until the atmosphere was literally filled with the tobacco fumes and smoke. As there were many ladies in the reserved seats, this caused considerable comment, but no move was made to check it until after the session had been formally opened.

Shepard Orator in the Gallery.

While some of the fun was going on and the bands were playing, a would-be speaker in the gallery tried to attract attention. He got up and commenced to say something about Shepard, but cries of "louder" and of other various things drowned his voice, and then one of the bands put him absolutely out of business. When the band ceased some enthusiast offered three cheers for Tammany Hall, which were given with a will, and then the would-be orator trailed along with the cry:

"And just a little bit of a tiger for Shepard!"

George Raines entered at this time and was applauded, a like mead of approval being given a few minutes later to Charles N. Bulger.

Then William B. Hornblower appeared on the scene and went to the chair to call the session to order. He was vigorously cheered and applauded, and at the same time the word was passed through the hall that the conference of leaders had agreed on a general Democratic ticket, with Herrick as the nominee for Governor. Intense interest was shown and there was a general scurrying to get all possible information.

At the same moment Senator McCarren, ex-Senator Hill, William F. Sheehan, and Cord Meyer, in the order named, entered the hall and went to their seats. Each was warmly received. Patrick E. McCabe accompanied Senator Hill to his seat, and quickly minor leaders clustered around those who had attended the conference, seeking information about the result. The effect of the announcement of the harmony agreement was electrical. Every man in the huge auditorium seemed to catch the spirit of the occasion at the same moment, and the enthusiasm was spontaneous and genuine.

It was 12:15 o'clock, an hour and a quarter after the set time, when Mr. Hornblower, as Temporary Chairman, called the convention to order. He requested that all smoking cease.

"There are many ladies present," he said. "They have made many sacrifices for the cause of patriotism, and the least we can do is to make this small sacrifice for them."

The Chairman was cheered and the cigars and cigarettes were put out.

Rousing Greeting to Murphy.

State Committeeman McLean arose to offer his report of the Committee on Permanent Organization, but the entrance of Charles F. Murphy, accompanied by Congressman W. Bourke Cockran and Senator Victor J. Dowling, at this moment started a roar of applause from the delegates on the floor and the Tammanyites in the gallery that for the moment made all business impossible. Roar after roar of applause followed the Tammany leader to his seat, but he was impassive through it all.

When this demonstration had subsided Mr. McLean reported that the Committee on Permanent Organization had agreed upon Prof. Duncan Campbell Lee of Ithaca as the Permanent Chairman of the convention. Mr. Lee was escorted to the platform, and at 12:30 o'clock was introduced and began his speech.

It took the delegates a moment or two to determine whether or not they liked the young-looking, smooth-faced man who stood before them. They decided they did like him, and from that time on all was easy. Mr. Lee was a bit timid at first—a sort of attack of stage fright—but the first bit of applause, when a gallerite offered three cheers for the young Democracy, put him at his ease. When he said he was glad the convention was no mere round-up of office holders of the Republican Convention had been, the crowd howled, and from that time on applause and cheers were given freely.

Lee Compliments the Convention.

"I congratulate myself," said Chairman Lee in beginning his speech, "that I am called to preside over a convention whose high character and serious bearing were a common remark yesterday among regular visitors at these conventions and among Saratogans.

"Last week in this hall a party convention made up largely of State officials, county officeholders, and Federal Postmasters, masking under the name of the 'party of Abraham Lincoln'—God save the name—set its stamp of approval upon the most disgraceful degradation of the Governor's office ever witnessed. Not merely a single, or dual, but a triple rôle did the Governor play. He sat there as Chief Executive of the State, as Chairman of the party delegation from Orange County, and as Chairman of the Republican State Committee.

"The Governor-Chairman should know that the fine sense of the fitness of things is not lost to our people. The State of New York, regardless of party, is blushing with shame at his shamelessness, recalling the fact that no Governor from Clinton down occupied at the same time the partisan position of Chairman of a State political organization, with one hand as political manager collecting 5 per cent. from every State employe for a party campaign fund and with the other writing an order inconsistently forbidding such collection.

"There are those that say there is no hope; that politics is hopelessly corrupt, that all public officials are grafters, and that we must accept the inevitable. There is no hope for honest Government from Higgins & Co. any more than there was from Odell & Co. The people are afraid of the silent partner. The Governor may resign—the Chairman remains. The Chairman may even retire, but the company will not be dissolved. The State grocery store will still be doing business along the old well-established lines.

"The honest efforts of a small band of Republicans to save their party and the State from the disgrace of the evident fixed determination of the canal ring to plunder the people demands my highest admiration. On this issue, across the conflicts of the campaign, we grasp the hand of the aged statesman from Tioga. The trap door of that convention through which he was unceremoniously ejected will yet be for him an arch of honor.

"A distinguished Republican lawyer of New York City—a former Secretary of War—knew how impossible would be the efforts of any man to stem the organized horde of Republican Huns and Vandals and Goths with their eyes fixed on the canal appropriation and their mouths watering for its sweets. He declined to be nominated for the highest office in the gift of our State and took to the woods."

The speech was interrupted many times by applause. A reference by Mr. Lee to the long record of personal honesty on the part of ex-Senator Hill, whose hands he said never had been soiled by personal profit or graft, was roundly cheered, even by many members in the Tammany delegation, but when he mentioned the name of Judge Parker, at the close of his speech, the biggest demonstration of the day followed. Hats went into the air, everybody in the hall stood up, cheered and applauded, and all three bands started in to play "The Star-Spangled Banner" at the same time.

For fully five minutes the demonstration lasted, and then at 1:10 o'clock, forty minutes after he had started his speech, Mr. Lee closed and announced that the regular order of business would be taken up.

The Convention's Little Joke.

George Raines of Rochester, the Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, was recognized, and proceeded to read the platform of the convention. His utterances were repeatedly applauded, but there was real fun injected into his performance when, with solemn face, he read:

"We denounce the Raines liquor law."

There was a roar of laughter at this time that swelled over the hall and back again, causing even Mr. Raines to join in heartily at the joke of the convention, which had made him Chairman of the committee which was called upon to denounce the law which his own brother, Senator John Raines, had framed and which bore his name. As the laughter continued Mr. Raines raised his eyes ceilingward and with mock fervor said:

"God forgive him!"

Finally when he could get his own face straight, and had won the convention back to silence, Mr. Raines completed the reading of the platform, and it was adopted without a dissenting vote.

The formal business of the convention, preliminary to the nominations, was next taken up. Assemblyman Dibble offered the resolution, which was adopted, empowering the State Committee to fill all vacancies in the State ticket, and Elliot Danforth secured the adoption of a resolution empowering the State Committee to make any vacancy nominations that might become necessary next year when no State Convention is to be held. Then at 1:30 o'clock it was announced that nominations for Governor were in order.

Clerk Mason stood up and called the name of Albany, first on the roll. In response ex-Senator Hill arose slowly from his seat and started for the platform to nominate for Governor the man whom he had fought bitterly for years, and whom he and everybody about him had come to look upon as an arch enemy. Cheer after cheer followed him to the platform, and cheer after cheer greeted him as he bowed to Chairman Lee, shook his hand, and then, turning, faced the shouting convention.

Ex-Senator Hill Pleased.

The ex-Senator was pleased, there was no doubt of that. He seemed to feel the harmony in the air, and to be exhilarated at finding such an atmosphere in a Democratic convention. When he could command silence he said:

"Permit me in the first place to congratulate the Democrats of the State on this most enthusiastic and harmonious convention. It becomes our duty now to select a ticket which will fitly supplement the grand platform just adopted.

"In behalf of the Democracy of the united Democracy of Albany County I desire to present to you for the consideration of this convention the name of an honored citizen of that county. He is not a stranger in Democratic Conventions; his name is not unfamiliar to the people of the State. He needs no elaborate introduction to you or any other Democratic audience of the Empire State.

"District Attorney of his county for one term, he conducted the criminal business of that county with great success and ability. He was afterward elected to the office of Justice of the Supreme Court in the Third Judicial District. He holds this high office to-day, and if nominated by this convention, he must sacrifice a portion of his term to accept the nomination, but this is a time when the Democracy must be prepared for sacrifices on the part of its loyal Democrats. [Great applause.]

"He has discharged the duties of Supreme Court Judge with signal ability. He has wronged no man. He has held the scales of justice even; he has always discharged his duty with ability, and, unlike possibly some others, in the discharge of his official duty he has always had the courage of his convictions.

Marks Close of All Differences.

"I need not tell you what you are all familiar with, what the Democrats of this State know—that there have been some divisions and differences throughout the State in the past. This convention marks the close of all differences previously existing. Hereafter our attacks will be made upon the common enemy, and not upon those in our own camp.

"To bring about this result, to bring about this presentation to-day of this nomination has required sacrifices by some individual Democrats in the County of Albany who have exhibited their loyalty to our cause by agreeing that this is not a time to exploit personal grievances, but to do that which strikes them as the best and the highest thing to do.

"This nomination which I am about to present to you for your consideration is one that can safely be made. I think the candidate I will name to you is one for whom every Democrat in the State of New York can honestly and sincerely cast his vote. He should be, and, I think will be, acceptable to all independent voters, whom we desire to be with us in this campaign. If elected he will treat every Democratic organization in every county with fairness and will deal fairly with every element constituting the Democratic Party.

"All believe victory is in the air. We believe the result of this convention will go forth to the people of the State and country with the promise of splendid results in November."

When Senator Hill concluded his speech there was a shout of approval, practically every person in the hall rising to his or her feet and shouting. Instantly many men appeared on the floor with ribbon badges of "Herrick for Governor" and passed them around among the delegations.

Convention Calls for Cockran.

As Mr. Hill started for his seat cries of "Cockran, Cockran," were heard from different sections, finally swelling into a complete chorus of demand for the Tammany orator. William F. Sheehan hurried down the aisle to where Mr. Cockran sat and hurriedly whispered to him. Mr. Cockran smiled and then, while the shouts for him continued, started for the platform. There was a smile on his face as he stood before the audience, which developed into a good-natured grin as the cheering and applause continued. Then slowly and deliberately he started in to second the Herrick nomination.

"This is an extraordinary gathering," he said, "marked by extraordinary and unprecedented features. I never believed that I would be permitted to sit in a Democratic Convention where there was no contest over the slate of delegates. Yesterday I beheld for the first time evidence of harmony. I confess that for a moment I was afraid it was almost too good to be true. I was afraid the Democrats had secured harmony after exhausting their resources with the preliminary conflict with themselves.

"We find a convention harmonious—harmonious not in composition, unanimous in its attitude in adopting its resolutions and platform, unanimous in the selection of its candidates, unanimous, aye, more than unanimous, in accepting the doctrine laid down from this platform by the temporary and permanent officers.

"Friends, in this moment of jubilee, I feel that it is a time of confession. I confess that until yesterday I felt myself somewhat aloof from the organization of the party at large. I have been fighting in New England and some other places. I began to feel as though I was several years ahead of the party. I rejoiced that yesterday the distinguished temporary presiding officer took ground just as distant and just as advanced as I had.

Party United at Last.

"At last we have a party not ashamed of its convictions, but eager to proclaim before the American people its fundamental principles and convictions, unanimous upon every point, unanimous upon every question, unanimous in the choice of candidates.

"My friends, we have in the selection of the candidates for President chosen the embodiment of the law, one who has spent his life in the study of it, in the interpretation of it, in the enforcement of it. We have to-day taken a step on behalf of the Democracy of the State which we believe will be not alone for the State, but for the Democracy of the Nation. We have selected a Democrat whose name is familiar to the people throughout the State and who will be governed by the law of the land in all his movements.

"To complete, then, this inspiring lesson which we offer to the Democracy of the Nation, on behalf of the organization of the Borough of Manhattan and City of New York, I second the nomination made by the Senator from Albany, and ask that the selection of the Chief Executive as candidate for Governor be made unanimous and by acclamation."

Enthusiastic applause greeted his references to party harmony.

As Congressman Cockran was making his way to his seat there were cries for Senator McCarren, but instead the Brooklyn leader sent Luke D. Stapleton to the platform for him. As Mr. Stapleton had been selected to make the speech which was to place Edward M. Grout before the convention, there was a shout of approval when Mr. Stapleton greeted the Chairman on arriving at the platform, and then, turning, displayed a huge Herrick badge pinned to his breast.

"An earnest and hopeful Democracy and an impatient and angry citizenry," said he, "demand in this convention that personal ambitions be subordinated; that factional animosities be suppressed; that the quarrels of party be refrained, and that territorial claims be reserved to the end that the crowning infamy of brazen official outrage and public plunder, which no term but 'Odellism' can fittingly describe, represented by the nomination of an Odell fledgling, shall be crushingly defeated at the polls by the sturdiest champion of the opposite view of public trust within the ranks of civic morality.

"Ten years ago the Democracy relinquished State control upon other than State issues. There was a freedom from bonded debt. The tax rate was the lowest in more than a quarter of a century. Official integrity was the boast of the party. Official efficiency was generally conceded. There was no unholy association between Governmental philanthropy and partisan politics. Taxation was measured by the needs of the Government economically administered, and the principles of imposition were scientific, candid, just and uniform, and the benefits of Government equitably, equally, and fairly distributed among localities. The supremacy in their speeches of the co-ordinate branches of the Government was maintained inviolate.

"The leadership of the party was the victim of partisan abuse, but the 'yell of hate, the hiss of envy, or the pray of folly,' then, before, or since never impugned his political or official honesty or his faithful observance of the purest concepts of public trust during the long course of that leadership.

"Extravagance is the distinguishing feature of Republican supremacy. The public service has been disgraced by the elevation of cheap politicians to high administrative offices. The Legislature has been swashbuckled by a brutal executive, and, when not pulled, debauched at public expense for nominal service in incompatible employments.

"For the first time in American civilization the temple of justice has been invaded for machine exploitation by a political adventurer. Official corruption has so fastened itself upon the body politic, and devices for public plunder have been constructed with such craft that a sense of safety is fast forcing the people to seek out leaders with sufficient strength and fearlessness to dislodge the one and dismantle the other."

Following the speech of Mr. Stapleton, Chairman Lee recognized ex-Congressman Hiram K. Rockwell of Chemung County, the manager of the Stanchfield boom.

"There is such harmony in this convention," declared Mr. Rockwell, "that my only impulse is to get on the band wagon also. I want to say a word for that honest, loyal, and fearless Democrat, John B. Stanchfield, like him is the epitaph which some of the Roosevelt cowboys wrote over the grave of their dead comrade: 'He done his damndest; angels could do no more.'"

Mr. Raines then moved that the Secretary of the convention be instructed to cast a single ballot for the nomination of Judge Herrick, and this motion was carried with a shout.

Herrick Declared the Nominee.

Chairman Lee saw the ballot deposited and at 2:15 o'clock formally declared Judge D. Cady Herrick to be the nominee of the convention for Governor.

Other nominations followed rapidly. Senator Thomas F. Grady was recognized to place Congressman Francis Burton Harrison in nomination for Lieutenant Governor. Charles N. Bulger of Oswego, who has opposed Senator Grady in many an oratorical tilt in former conventions, seconded the nomination. A single ballot was cast, and Mr. Harrison was announced as the nominee.

Only fifty-seven minutes elapsed between the time the nomination for Lieutenant Governor was announced and the final adjournment of the convention, yet in that time the other five State officers were named, as well as the two judicial nominees.

George Raines of Rochester placed John Pallace, Jr., in nomination for Secretary of State, pausing long enough after he had presented the candidate to pay tribute to the leadership of Senator Hill for bringing about the harmony that had been witnessed in the convention. Frank H. Moss of Chautauqua, nominee for the same office two years ago and a candidate for the nomination again this year, seconded Mr. Pallace's nomination, and Daniel F. Cohalan of New York also seconded.

Tammany's Offer to Up-Staters.

Mr. Cohalan attracted much attention by the tribute which he also paid to Mr. Hill on behalf of Tammany Hall.

"New York is second to no Democratic section of the State in its appreciation of the great services which Senator Hill has rendered to his party," said Mr. Cohalan. "We know him and we respect him, too. But while we appreciate Senator Hill I think it is wise at this time of peace and harmony to call the attention of the up-State Democrats to the fact that if they always will show reasonable toleration to the Democrats of New York, who for years have been rolling up the big Democratic majorities that alone have made possible the election of Democrats when they have taken office, we always shall be willing to meet them fully half way."

The candidacy of George Hall of Ogdensburg for Controller was placed before the convention by D. E. Lucey of St. Lawrence County. Fred C. Schraub of Lewis seconded the nomination, as did Henry G. Jackson of Broome, who added:

"It's a damned sight more credit to be a Democrat in Broome, where Democracy is considered a crime by most of the people, than to be a Democrat in New York, where to be a Democrat means to be in control."

James J. Barrett of Onondaga placed William Muench in nomination for State Treasurer, Fred C. Schirmer of Westchester and John W. Fisher of Erie County making the seconding speeches.

Attorney General John Cunneen of Buffalo, the only Democrat on the State ticket of two years ago who was elected, was presented for renomination by George H. Kennedy, who said that it was a sacrifice for Mr. Cunneen to be renominated this time, when he and his friends had believed he should get a Court of Appeals nomination. William Gorham Rice of Albany seconded the nomination.

For State Engineer Thomas H. Stryker was presented by John D. McMahan of Oneida County. Elliot Danforth made the seconding speech.

When the nominations for Judges were called for there were cheers for Senator McCarren as he arose and walked to the platform. The band played "We Won't Go Home Till Morning" as he faced the audience.

"That's a protest on the part of the musicians against continuing longer," said the Senator.

He said that after long conferences on the subject of the judicial nominations it had been deemed wise to indorse the action of the Republican Convention in naming Chief Judge Edgar M. Cullen of the Court of Appeals, a Democrat, to serve for a full term of fourteen years, and in naming Judge William E. Werner of Rochester, a Republican, for a full term also. Arthur McLean of Newburg and John W. Hogan of Syracuse seconded this, and the nominations were made.

Only the adoption of the scar as a party emblem and of the usual complimentary resolutions remained after the judicial nominations had been made. Then, at 3:37 o'clock, the convention adjourned sine die.

The rush for the trains began at once. Special trains, bands, and delegates, as well as shouters, all have departed to-night, and the town is deserted.

FIRST RATIFICATION MEETING.

Kings County Delegation Assembles in Saratoga.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, Sept. 21.—The first ratification meeting of the Democratic State campaign was held to-night in the parlor of the Grand Union by the Kings County delegation. Senator McCarren called the meeting of the delegation, and James Ridgway acted as Chairman.

Senator McCarren made the opening address, stating that the State ticket was deserving of the support of every Democrat and expressing confidence that it would be elected. Mr. Ridgway also made a rousing speech for the ticket. Alderman Maloney of William A. Doyle's district was present, as was also J. J. Walsh.

The anti-McCarren leader from the Second District also made a speech in favor of the ticket, but carefully refrained from any reference to the Murphy-McCarren differences.

SPECIAL FALL SALE

Exchanged PIANOLAS

At Reduced Prices

DURING the past four months many owners of Pianolas have exchanged their instruments for the new Metrostyle model. Before beginning our Winter business we desire to close out these exchanged Pianolas to make room for new goods. We have therefore divided them into three lots, which represent a decided opportunity when it is considered how rigidly prices are maintained by the Aeolian Company.

LOT I. $150 $15.00 down $7.00 per month

These Pianolas have, of course, seen use, and have given a great deal of pleasure in homes where the pianos were heretofore silent, but they have all been put in perfect order. In addition to a general overhauling they have been repolished, so as to remove all marks of previous use, and in some cases you would have to be an expert to distinguish them from entirely new instruments.

LOT II. $175 $20.00 down $8.00 per month

Most of the Pianolas in this special sale come under this head. We ourselves consider them practically as good as new. They have been refinished, their actions regulated, and at their price represent exceptional value. Each instrument has been pronounced by our inspector as being in first-class condition and justifying the strongest kind of guarantee.

LOT III. $200 $20.00 down $10.00 per month

Of the 200 Pianolas in this sale only twenty were included in this class. A few have been out on rental, others have been loaned to customers ordering special cases, while three have been used in recitals or in demonstrating to callers at our warerooms. Our own salesmen would be puzzled to distinguish them from instruments fresh from the factory. Very few in this class are now left.

Important to Remember: In buying instruments at this sale you are buying direct from the manufacturer, and the identical guarantee given by the manufacturer with entirely new instruments covers each purchase.

High Grade Pianos at Exceptional Prices

THE REASON why no other offering of used pianos is at all comparable with this is that nowhere else has the same inducement existed for owners to part with instruments so entirely satisfactory. These exchanges were all made for the Pianola Piano, a musical instrument of an entirely new type. The manufacturers represented include such well-known houses as

Weber, Steinway, Chickering, Wheelock, Steck and others, $120 and upward.

As the cost of the Pianola Piano is from $500 to $1,000, it will be readily understood that these exchanged pianos have come from some of the best homes in New York and vicinity, where the instruments have always received the best of care and have never been abused. Hence the remarkably fine condition of the pianos in this sale,

The Silk Waists With the New Leg O'Mutton Sleeves Are on the Second Floor.

NEW YORK, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1904.

ONCE there was a soothsayer who said: "You'll always notice there are two kinds of politicians — the kind that 'points-with-pride' and the kind that 'views-with-alarm.'"

There are more than two kinds of storekeeping though, and all are operated under some sort of policy.

We aim to have but one ideal and that's perfect storekeeping, and we strive to surround ourselves with all the attributes essential to accomplish our ideal.

First of all we deem quality the most important of all, for quality alone can insure satisfaction to our patrons.

With the standard of our merchandise thoroughly established we consider absolutely the lowest prices possible to quote and still maintain that standard the most important.

To help us realize our ambition—perfect storekeeping—we surround the customers with safeguards that make it impossible for them to meet with dissatisfaction while trading here. The most important of which are the exchange of goods or the return of your money when merchandise is returned in a reasonable length of time in as good a condition as it left our store.

Modish Fall flannels for waistings are here.

CLOSELY copying the appearance and quality of the most beautiful dress goods, the new flannels have burst out (from their customary neutrality in a marvelous transformation) from Great Britain, Germany and France.

The exquisitely patterned Scotch flannels are as fine as silk and come in the pale lavender and purple of their national thistle and, too, in all possible shades.

Viyella (so generally known the world over) is introduced in new guise. Only the educated eye can distinguish its compact, smooth weave from the more expensive material, French cashmere.

Saxony (a category by itself) is a splendid wearing flannel that will withstand the test of repeated laundering. We recommend it highly for shirt waists (the short underskirt) and negligee purposes.

Persian designs are exceedingly new, and (in the broches) suggest the old-fashioned Paisley shawls such as our grandmothers wore. French waistings can well take position with the finest challies. Entire house gowns (the comfortable kimona) and tea gowns are charming developments for this ideal woolen material. Printed designs (and embroidered conceits) attractively express the tendencies in style.

Imported Flannel Waistings, in all the new plaid effects; per yard, 58c.

French and German Flannel Waistings, in all the up-to-date Fall designs, including handsome Persian effects; per yard, 75c.

A tailored suit item full of absorbing interest.

WE'VE been doing a little experimenting, and the benefits of our triumph we share with you. We took one of the $50.00 (models of the world's) best manufacturers—an exclusive and very fashionable tailor made suit—and set out to see how much it would cost us to produce a number of identical gowns. We got the price down to $22.50, and this is our triumph.

They are exact reproductions of the $50.00 model (we even think they are a little better) especially the minor details and workmanship.

We'd like to have you come and see them, because even if you do not buy you'll catch the (essential attributes) that make our suit and coat business such a success.

This suit is made of a fine quality of pan cheviot in blue, black and brown, taffeta lined throughout—coat is 25 inches long—beautifully trimmed with wide silk band and silk ornaments; one model has velvet collar, cuffs and vest. The other model has the broadcloth combinations (in the new brown shades)—the new sleeves. Skirt is handsomely trimmed to match coat, at $22.50.

Feminine fancies in veils for the new season.

LITERALLY shrouded with the folds of chiffon (Tuxedo net, lace and maline) will pretty faces and hats be this ensuing season, for the veil has come to be the crowning glory of the correct attire.

Particular attention has been given to colorings (so that the most remote hue in dress goods can be minutely matched) for adjuncts of the toilette must be of identical color.

There are some catchy two-toned veils in the becoming Tuxedo net (dotted and with embroidered edges) in bright chenille flowers. The blue and black grounds are wrought with scarlet, and for pale complexions supply the necessary touch of color. White net (with burnt orange dots) is another happy selection for anaemic skins.

Applique lace veils in ivory white and colors lend themselves gracefully to the new shaped hats. Perhaps none is so genuinely pretty over a rosy cheek as the delicate Chantilly lace veils, (or the 3 yard Du Barry in gauzy chiffon), draping the hat and loosely knotted under the chin in scarf fashion.

Fashion's Fads

Veils in white applique and those stamped in flower designs are also novelties. Onion covered veils are chic for wear with black and brown hats.

Put a touch of Coque de Roche or burnt orange on your hat to be in style. Roses, feathers, quills, ribbon, foliage and trimming materials come in this gorgeous color.

The Marie Antoinette girdles in Dresden silk and varicolored messalines have buckles of brilliants at the front.

Buttons are dazzling. Crystal buttons and those that scintillate with brilliants and other cut stones will take the lead in favor.

Leather belts are indispensable for tailor suits demanding a skirt waist. Those worn at present are of wide dimensions.

Sashes at the back, secured in place at the waist line in rosettes, are new ideas from Paris.

In dress trimmings spangles, paillettes and gilt-incrusted lace appear.

Leather ties, turn over, and cuffs, distinguish some of the newest waists.

There is a new cuff called the "Rob Roy," and another called the Directoire.

New Autumn millinery

WE'VE a hundred and one surprises for you in our millinery sections, (exclusive importations and designs) which are the original skill of such eminent attelieres as Georgette, Deffontaine, Louison, Lewis and Charlotte.

Principal points in chapeaux will be high crowns (rolled high brims) and shirrings and diminutive plaitings.

Charlotte introduces some novelties in shirred ribbons (running through gradations of color) such as rich mahogany shading to light cerise, rose pink and ombre shades in all of the popular new colors in coque de roche, that brilliant burnt orange tint which impregnates all fashionable materials and creations — reseda (and American Beauty Red) which has been successfully revived for the season.

The collar effect in velvet (shirred taffetas) and ombre maline marks the designs from Georgette's and tells what the present whim of La Mode is. One attractive model in reseda (chiffon taffetas) is of the wide-brimmed sailor shaping with high rolled brim. The air of elegance (for which the French are so justly celebrated) is supplied in a velvet crown collar and simple tie bow.

Gainsborough hats are the workmanship of Louison, whose indefinable touch is revealed in pronounced effects (and gorgeous colorings)—for instance, seal brown and reseda green are uniquely united in a velvet model, with brown Val lace brim edgings and plaitings of brown taffeta over reseda velvet.

Grapes and roses in exquisite peachy-pink tints are a feature of a brown rolling sailor (with draped velvet crown), and, indeed, the grape may be said to be a conspicuous item in Fall hat decorations.

This hat is also one of Georgette's (as is a jaunty little Tam turban) in sage green velours, over the broad crown of which a tuft of fluffy Marabou feathers waves.

Here is one of the Continental shapes so becoming to womankind in general (and which will be much worn in fur beavers,) birds' breasts, and shirred taffetas and velvets. Birds of paradise in rich coque de roche (bright cerise and myrtle green) ornament many beautiful hats, most of which introduce the high crown and high rolling side.

D'ffontaine has a leaning toward quiet conceptions in gunmetal, and he shows one (Frenchy little) model having the new double crown wreathed with gray buttonhole roses and supporting a long ostrich plume. You will like a triangle hat (from this same hatmaker,) with entire brim facing of tiny pink buttonhole roses and contrasted with a shirred black chiffon crown.

Our imported Hats are on sale at $25 to $35, which is less than the actual cost abroad—but then they've served their purpose—as we've used them for models. Toffeta Silk Sailor Hats at $12.50.

Those $1.25 and $2.00 silks that stand alone at 58c. are selling very rapidly.

ONLY a few days more and this sale will be a thing of the past. Dressmakers and manufacturers have bought most liberally (because they recognize the price) to be less than cost of production.

It was an immense purchase, but good things go fast and this is certainly the best silk bargain of a decade.

Handsome evening silks, beautiful Lyons Silks, very fine imported novelties in Persian and plaid effects, over twenty-five distinct patterns to choose from—you can take our samples and find these identical silks on sale elsewhere at $1.25 to $2.00.

Silks suitable for evening and reception gowns, waists and petticoats, fine kimonos, linings for evening coats and fine fur pieces.

Some of these silks are so thick that they will stand alone—while they last at 58c.

55c. yard for 75c. Louisine silks; complete assortment of street shades: all checked grounds; 3,500 yards.

58c. yard for 85c. black imported taffetas: Messaline finish; very fine quality; 1,200 yards.

This Is the Season of The Picturesque In MILLINERY

The large picture hats are pre-eminent for evening as well as daytime wear. Yet so varied are the shapes, that each individual taste is amply met.

The full Autumn showing invites you.

The New Color Schemes of the Season

A dozen different whims have given us the beautiful combinations on these hats—indescribably bold and dashing, or faint and alluring.

When Marie Antoinette sat up all night with a gay party of friends to watch the sun rise, it made dawn pink the fashion. It is here in a marabout hat as soft as a cloud.

Because the Princesse de Lamballe affected shades of pink, lavender, blue, and green, wonderfully blended, this combination has been revived.

A certain shade of pale blue is much in vogue, as it matched Marie Antoinette's eyes.

The regal shades of eminence (a dark velvety, pansy purple), combined with glowing crimsons, were brought to notice in Paris, it is said, by the late disputes with the Vatican.

But, besides these, there is the whole gamut of vivid flame colors, ranging from the volcanic yellow of flamme du Fujiyama, down to dull, smouldering red.

There Are Also New Shapes

Crowns are high and brims are wide, to go with full skirts and larger sleeves. The hat seen most in Paris at present has a medium high stiff crown, elongated from back to front and slightly sunken at the top. The tall box-like crown—severe, uncompromising, yet regal—is also a favorite. The trimming is high in front.

Yet many people will wear what is to them most becoming, so that you will also find low crowns in this millinery display.

A Hint of the Novelties

Trimmings of marabout feathers have taken both London and Paris by storm.

Taffeta hats are in again, elaborated with every sort of shirring and plaiting.

Hand-work plays a larger part in millinery than it has for years. Nodding plumes and softest chiffons with velvets make the richest and most beautiful headgear.

We are making a special display of white and pale-colored evening hats, which are so necessary for theatre and dinner wear during the Winter.

The Hats By Our Own Milliners have missed none of the new points brought by cables and letters and models from Paris. It will not be at all strange if you pick up one of them, expecting to see a Paris label inside. We are proud of them all.

"I Want a Flexible Stetson Derby"

That is what the men say when they come into our Hat Store. They wore these comfortable Hats last season, and nothing but the Stetson will satisfy them, of course. The heavy, rigid Derby of the past has been condemned because it is uncomfortable, making an ugly, red mark around a man's head, eventually killing the hair, and making a man bald.

The flexible, feather-weight Stetson Derbies feel so good, that you scarcely know you have a hat on. Then you only need to compare a Stetson with any other Derby to see how much finer the fur is, and how much better the hat is made.

In black, and in the new browns at $3.50 and $5.

Other Derbies and Soft Hats, $2 and $3.

Wanamaker Special $15 Overcoats

a name that we bestow charily—in fact, like the bit of red ribbon that goes with the Cross of the Legion of Honor.

Made of Oxford mixed, all-wool Vicuna; Merveilleux silk-lined and faced to edge; or silk-lined cloth-faced; or 42 inches long, and lined with fine Venetian, Autumn weight, of course; and coats that every man who wants a handsome, stylish, well-cut and well-tailored overcoat for business or dress will be proud to wear. $15.

Another "Graustark" Story

By George Barr McCutcheon

Not for many a moon has there been such a fascinating tale as Beverley of Graustark, which has just come from the press. It is a book that you lay down with regret, and hurry back to at the first moment of leisure. It has all the fascination of being set with an old European principality as background, for the exciting and tantalizing love story of a brilliant American girl. From the first line to the finish it is a fascinating romance distinctly superior to the average of the last year or two. Price $1.08.

Buying a PIANO Is the Purchase of a Lifetime

Often the piano is bought for the purpose of giving the child its first lesson in music, and it is the proud treasure of the home until the days when the daughter, full grown, plays with expert skill for the pleasure of her friends.

It is a purchase that should be made seriously and with deliberation. Today buying a piano is safe and easy. The Wanamaker Store for years has been seeking out the best pianos made, from the matchless Chickering to the most inexpensive pianos of artistic qualities. Some of these pianos have been with us from the very beginning; others have come with us as they realized what a thoroughly dignified and artistic business the Wanamaker Store was conducting. Others have proven their merits to us, and new names have been added to the Wanamaker Roll of Honor.

It is not a range of Pianos starting from the superlative and running down to the cheapest, for in every range there is a piano which we are proud to point to, as being absolutely foremost in every way among pianos of its grade.

The present season finds several new names added to our list.

The Autopiano is a product of the present year that has been previously announced.

The Angelus Piano, a still more wonderful instrument, we have been unable to announce in the way it deserves, because of the inability of the makers to produce it in quantities that do not disappear as rapidly as they come on our floors.

Here is the list of superb instruments that are gathered here in this one Piano Store for your comparison and selection. There is no equal collection of pianos to be found under one roof anywhere else in New York City.

CHICKERING

VOSE — EMERSON

KURTZMANN

MERRILL — CROWN

GRAMER

J. C. CAMPBELL — FREDERICK DOLL

The ANGELUS

ANGELUS PIANO — AUTOPIANO

This splendid array of pianos proves beyond peradventure the WANAMAKER pre-eminence in the piano business. It makes WANAMAKER'S the one place where this important purchase can be made with a certainty that a thoroughly artistic piano will be secured, after most ample comparison, side by side, among instruments of various tone-qualities, and other matters of individual taste.

Whatever price the purchaser wishes to pay, we have to show the very finest instruments produced at that figure. In addition we offer the convenience of the WANAMAKER PLAN, which makes the buying of any piano very easy, as payments are arranged in conformity to the convenience of the purchaser.

The many thousands of pianos which we have sold in recent years, to satisfied customers, proves that the Wanamaker Piano Store can give you satisfying service, unequaled elsewhere, when making this purchase. We shall be glad to give you our best attention when you come to the store; or, if a visit is not convenient, our representative will call on you, by appointment, to tell you more of the Wanamaker Pianos, and terms of purchase. We assure you any such representative will act with the utmost courtesy, and will never offend you by pressing the matter beyond your desire.

Every Woman Wants a Raincoat

One might as well be without an umbrella as a Raincoat on a rainy day, but unlike the umbrella the Raincoat gives splendid service, rain or shine, until the weather becomes cold enough for furs. Nowadays no woman is without one, and most women have two.

There has never been a season when the demand was so great as it is this Fall. Our collection includes every sort from the practical garment for everyday wear, to handsome coats for protection of evening gowns.

All of the cloths are the best rain-proof fabrics; the styles are the handsomest that the weavers have produced. Prices range from $12 to $30.

The new Automobile Coats have just arrived from abroad. They are made of silk, rubber-lined; and, beautiful as they are, they are absolutely waterproof, even in a dashing rain.

Prices, $28 to $55.

GIRLS' COATS Pretty---Practical

They make themselves popular with mother and maiden. Splendidly made, for one thing, warm, snug and serviceable. Then they possess enough style to endear them to the little girls of 6 to 14 that are to wear them.

Linen Waist Patterns Under-Price

We picked up about a hundred of these fine pure-linen Shirt-waist Patterns from an importer at a price-concession. They are in a style that is popular as well as handsome—seven attractive floral patterns embroidered in highly mercerized cotton yarn, for the front; and sufficient plain linen, 36 inches wide, to make up the rest of the waist.

All neatly boxed, new and in perfect condition.

$2.50 Each, worth $4 Broadway.

A New 20c Chocolate—

"Chocolate Molasses Crums"—We didn't invent the name; which, though it doesn't describe the candy, still doesn't impair its daintiness.

Little bits of molasses taffy, crisp and fresh, have been moulded into irregularly shaped drops, held together with chocolate—a delicious combination.

PLATFORM PROCLAIMS ODELLISM THE ISSUE

Governor's Personal Integrity Called Into Question.

ONE-MAN POWER DENOUNCED

Pledges to Divorce the State Administration from Corruption and Abolish the Savings Bank Tax.

SARATOGA, Sept. 21.—Following is the platform adopted by the Democratic Convention to-day.

The Democrats of the Empire State proclaim anew their devotion to the principles of government which were enunciated by Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the Democratic Party, and make these declarations upon State issues:

The Issue of Odellism.—The paramount and overshadowing issue in State affairs is between official honesty and official corruption. We arraign before the bar of public judgment the one-man power that to-day dominates the Republican organization of New York State. The people elected Benjamin B. Odell Jr., to be Governor. In palpable violation of his sworn obligation to be the impartial servant of the whole people he has assumed to act as State Chairman of a political machine. His present dual relation constitutes a public scandal and amounts to the grossest contempt of duty in the history of the State.

Public Revenues Diverted to Private Profit.—For the first time in its history the Empire State has a Governor whose personal integrity rests under widespread suspicion. He has surrounded himself by high officials and advisers under whose malign influence the public revenues of the State are largely diverted to private profit. Instead of being opposed to extravagance and waste, the administration has become the open promoter of adroit schemes to [illegible] the cause [illegible] Thus the corruption of [illegible] tinued in power threatens to lower the Empire State to the level of Republican Pennsylvania; where the moneys of the taxpayers exacted from their income and earnings are transferred by political chicanery to the pockets of a ring of plunderers, who in turn yield a portion of their gains to perpetuate the political machine that supports them.

Taxation Is Always a Burden.—Prodigal and corrupt expenditures, devised to consume instead of to conserve public funds, have so swollen the cost of government that the party in power dare not levy a direct State tax to meet it; hence they resort to indirect taxation, in the hope of deceiving the people. Taxation, whether direct or indirect, is always a public burden, and however or wherever collected, its proceeds should be strictly devoted to public purpose instead of private enrichment.

Enormous Appropriations.—The appropriations of the recent Legislature were the largest known in the history of the State, reaching the enormous amount of $26,041,200. These appalling and unprecedented figures are the high-water mark of increase in State expenditures during the four years of Governor Odell's administration. During the last year of Democratic administration the total appropriations of the State amounted to $15,713,778. The taxpayers of the State, and they comprise every working man and woman within its limits, are invited to consider these figures and then discover, if they can, any improvement in administration which would justify or explain the enormous increase in its cost. All legitimate and reasonable public improvements can be conducted within greatly reduced appropriations, by applying to them the same care which able and enterprising business men apply to their private affairs.

State Charities.—Under the Odell administration, by legislation passed at his instance for corrupt personal profit and party purposes, a political machine has seized control of the State charitable institutions and hospitals for the insane, in disregard of the interests of the unfortunate wards of the State and against the united protests of organized philanthropy. We demand the repeal of all such legislation.

Recreancy to Public Trust.—Under the Odell administration neither the Governor nor the Legislature which he controlled has taken official cognizance of graft charges publicly made against a Supreme Court Justice of this State in connection with the postal frauds and other scandals. The recreancy to public duty is in keeping with the whole policy of the present State administration, which has subordinated the true welfare of the judiciary to political considerations.

Political Assessments.—We denounce the system, put to practical use in this campaign, of levying assessments upon the salaries of State employes, which are being collected by State officials, at the head of whom is the Chairman-Governor, by express or implied threats of dismissal. This is a flagrant violation of both civil and criminal law of the State, made doubly demoralizing for the fact that it is perpetrated by the Chief Executive who is sworn to enforce the law and defend it. We pledge the Democratic Party to undertake the prosecution of all such offenses.

Canal Expenditure.—The interest of all the people demands that the proposed canal expenditure of $101,000,000 shall not be intrusted to that political party which through its machine organization and complaisant State officials wasted, squandered, and misappropriated the former appropriation of $9,000,000 for canal improvements.

Excise Reform.—We denounce the legislation known as the Raines liquor law, which has fostered immorality as no previous liquor law ever did, and, violating the essential rights of localities, concentrates the entire control of the whole liquor traffic in State officials at Albany, all of one party, with a horde of partisan deputies, attorneys, spies, and special agents supported at public expense. This constitutes a powerful auxiliary to a political machine which is relentlessly used for purpose of favoritism, intimidation, and political advantage. Excise reform is demanded for the best interests of this great State and its numerous cosmopolitan cities.

Purity of the Ballot.—We call attention to the failure of the Republican Party to take steps to stop corrupt practices at elections. We favor the passage of a law providing that where a candidate shall have been elected by corrupt practice of himself, his agents, or his committees, his election shall be annulled and he shall be debarred thereafter from holding office in this State for a period of years, and providing a short term of procedure for effecting such annulment through the courts of this State.

Savings Bank Tax.—We reiterate our opposition to the Odell tax upon the surplus of savings banks, which is an unnecessary and oppressive tax, as well as a crude and unscientific imposition upon those least able to bear the burden. This unjust law was advocated by the present Republican candidate for Governor, who supported and voted for it when a member of the Senate. The plank in the Republican State platform recently adopted, if sincere, is a confession of a Republican wrong and blunder; if insincere and disingenuous, it warrants popular suspicion as to the good faith of the entire Republican policy on special and indirect taxes. We pledge the Democratic Party to the abolition of the savings bank tax.

The People Must Decide.—The patronage and powers of the two inconsistent offices, of party Chairman and Governor, unscrupulously combined and used, enabled their holder to control absolutely every act of the recent Republican State Convention. He dictated a plank of fulsome laudation of the Administration, and he directed the selection of every man on the Republican State ticket. There is thus presented to the people an issue broader than any merely partisan question, namely, Shall the methods and administration of Gov. Odell be indorsed and continued? This the people must decide. The Democratic Party, if successful at the polls, pledges itself to divorce the State Government from corruption and "graft."

Civil Service Reform.—We favor an honest and just enforcement of the State civil service laws, according to their letter and spirit. The present State administration, by evasion of the Constitution, by official juggling, and by a multitude of indefensible exemptions of partisan advantage has successfully nullified these laws and rendered them practically ineffective for the betterment of the public service.

Public Schools.—Not even the public school and educational system of the State has been exempt from the political greed of those who now control the State Government. We denounce the so-called "unification bill," as in many respects a piece of Republican hypocrisy. The Republican Legislature in choosing a non-partisan board of eleven Regents, who are to have general supervision of the educational system of the State, selected ten Republicans and one Democrat. The same Republican Legislature enacted a law providing that these Regents shall be chosen on joint ballot of the Legislature, in the hope that under the present unfair legislative apportionment the Republican Party may have perpetual control of the public schools, academies, colleges, and universities. We are in favor of the public schools and the entire educational system of the State from the realm of partisan politics, and to that end demand that a fair and honest representation on the Board of Regents shall at all times be accorded the minority party, whichever party that may be.

Good Roads and Grade Crossings.—We favor the construction of good roads. Such roads should be built under a wise and comprehensive plan, safeguarding the interests of the taxpayers and avoiding the defects of existing laws, which permit disjointed and fragmentary construction, instead of a complete and intercommunicating system. We demand that the present grade crossings law be enforced, and all grade crossings abolished as rapidly as possible.

Home Rule.—We favor local self-government for municipalities. We are opposed to the constant centralization of power in the State Government to the detriment of localities, and if any constitutional changes be deemed necessary to cure this evil, we pledge ourselves to aid in their enactment.

National Platform.—We indorse the Democratic National platform and resolutions adopted at St. Louis in July last as a complete exposition of Democratic principles and policies upon all the living issues of the present time. We approve the sound sentiments so admirably expressed by our National candidates in their speeches of acceptance. We cordially indorse the Democratic nominations for President and Vice President of the United States. New York has been greatly honored by the Democracy of the Nation in the selection of the candidate whom it presented for the Presidency. An able jurist, an unswerving Democrat from his earliest participation in public affairs, a firm believer in constitutional government, a bold defender of the rights of the people, always consistently and sincerely a friend of all who labor, never an advocate of special privileges, ever an opponent of monopolistic combinations which oppress the people, his election to the Presidency will signalize a return to the paths marked out by the founders of our Republic. His associate upon the ticket is a self-made man, long identified with large business interests, whose success in commerce strikingly illustrates the results that may be won by individual merit under political institutions which open equal opportunities to all, who has served the people and his party with fidelity and wisdom in the Senate of the United States, and who in the Vice Presidency will sustain the best traditions of that high and honorable office.

Signs Point to Democratic Triumph.—The signs of the times point auspiciously to a Democratic triumph. Not in many years have the independent voters manifested so decided a disposition to act with the Democratic Party. Even in a hopelessly Republican State like Maine, there has been a great Democratic reawakening, a marked increase in the Democratic vote, and a sweeping reduction in the Republican plurality of nearly 8,000 from that of four years ago. We unhesitatingly promise the Democracy of the Nation that the Electoral vote of the Empire State will be cast for Alton B. Parker and Henry G. Davis.

THE DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES.

Careers of the Men Selected for the State Ticket.

D. Cady Herrick, the Democratic candidate for Governor, who is an Associate Justice of the Appellate Court, has been a striking figure among the Supreme Court Justices since his elevation to the bench, because he has continued to be the political boss of Albany.

Judge Herrick was born in Esperance, Schoharie County, in 1846. His father was a merchant in Albany, and on his death left him $75,000, which is the Judge's estimated fortune now. He gained his education in the Albany Classical Institute and Albany Law School, and his first lessons in practical politics from the Albany Young Men's Association.

He was elected District Attorney of Albany in 1880. At that time Daniel Manning was the Democratic boss of Albany, and Herrick became his chief lieutenant. Manning was appointed Secretary of the Treasury by Cleveland in 1884, and Herrick succeeded him as the Democratic boss of Albany. Hill had the State patronage, while Herrick, through his connection with Cleveland and Manning, controlled the National. Herrick consistently has opposed Hill in all the differences that have taken place between them.

Herrick, on his appointment to the Supreme Court bench in 1887, did not resign his leadership, and he retained it after his election to his present position in 1891. He did, however, resign from the State Committee on going on the bench, and since then has never served on any committee or been a delegate to any convention. He has been, however, as absolute a boss as ever, and his followers have filled all the positions.

Judge Herrick has a reputation among lawyers of both parties of being fair, impartial, and able. He upheld the civil service law and fined the State Board of Canvassers for canvassing the returns of Dutchess County when Hill tried to get the Senatorship through Maynard. He has been a candidate since the opening of the campaign for the office of Chief Judge to succeed Judge Parker.

Francis Burton Harrison.

Francis Burton Harrison, the candidate for the Lieutenant Governorship, was born in New York thirty years ago, and is the youngest man on the ticket. He was graduated from Yale and the New York Law School. He is the son of the late Burton N. Harrison, private secretary to Jefferson Davis during the civil war. He was nominated in 1902 by the Democrats to contest the Thirteenth Congressional District, and was elected by a majority of 1,537, although it was thought by his opponents that he would not make more than a good showing.

Attorney General Cunneen, who has been renominated for that office, is known both as a successful politician and lawyer. He was born in County Clare, Ireland, in May, 1848, and came to this country at the age of fourteen. After working as a farmhand for several years at Albion, N. Y., Mr. Cunneen studied law, and was admitted to the bar in 1874. In 1880 he moved to Buffalo. He was a delegate to the National Democratic Concention of 1892. In 1895 he became a member of the Democratic State Committee and was elected its Secretary.

Judge Edgar M. Cullen, who has been nominated by both parties as Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals, was born in Brooklyn in 1845. He was graduated from Columbia University at seventeen, and then entered Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, at Troy, to study civil engineering. At the opening of the civil war he secured an appointment as a Second Lieutenant in the First United States Infantry. In December, 1862, Gov. Morgan secured his detachment from the regular army, and in spite of his age—nineteen—made him Colonel of the Ninety-sixth Regiment, New York State Volunteers. Col. Cullen was severely wounded before Richmond, and was compelled to retire from the army shortly before the close of the war. He resumed his engineering studies after his recovery, and practiced his profession for a year. He then took up law, and was admitted to the bar in 1867. In 1880 he was elected to the Supreme Court bench of the Second Judicial District, and at the end of his first term, in 1894, was re-elected. He is now serving as Chief Judge in succession to Judge Parker, by appointment of Gov. Odell, and will serve until Jan. 1, when his full term will begin.

Justice William E. Werner, candidate for Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals, is a Supreme Court Justice, serving as an additional Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals by a designation from the Governor. He will have to resign his Supreme Court place before Jan. 1, when his full term will begin. He was born in Buffalo on April 15, 1855. At fourteen he was compelled to make his own way because of the death of his parents. He went to work on a farm, and afterward entered a factory in Buffalo. He attended a night school and studied bookkeeping. After working as a bookkeeper he saved enough by the time he was twenty-two to go to Rochester and study law. In 1879 he was appointed clerk of the Municipal Court, and a year later he was admitted to the bar. In 1884 he was elected County Judge on the Republican ticket, re-elected in 1887, and again in 1888. When Justice Macomber died, in 1894, Judge Werner was elected in his place. In 1902 he was nominated by the Republicans for Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals, but was beaten by Judge John Clinton Gray.

John Pallace, Jr., of Monroe, candidate for Secretary of State, is the member of Assembly from the Fourth Monroe District. He resides in Brockport, and is a practicing attorney there. He was nominated by his party for Assembly in 1902, and defeated Supervisor Albert F. Beebe of Parma, nominated by the Republicans. He was re-elected in 1903.

George Hall, the nominee for Controller, is one of the wealthiest men in Northern New York, and in addition is the Democratic State Committeeman for the Senate District which includes St. Lawrence and Franklin Counties. Mr. Hall has been four times Mayor of Ogdensburg, although a Democrat living in the strongest Republican section in the State. He is largely interested in lake shipping and in St. Lawrence River shipping, owning several steamers and docks in that section, as well as having large coal and iron interests.

William Muench of Syracuse, the nominee for State Treasurer, never has held public office except as Civil Service Commissioner and Excise Commissioner. He had the backing of both Onondaga County factions in his candidacy. He is in the drug business.

Thomas H. Stryker, nominee for State Engineer and Surveyor, lives in Rome. He has served as City Engineer in Rome, and has been an Assistant State Engineer.

LEADERS' VIEWS OF HARMONY

All Indorse Result of the Convention and See in It a Certainty of Democratic Success.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Out of the conflict, the intence factionalism, and the bitter personal feeling which have marked the deliberations of the Democrats assembled here for the past three days for the purpose of nominating a State ticket, there came to-day an exhibition of party harmony which was almost unbelievable of men. Whatever may be the judgment of individuals as to the merit of the ticket chosen, there is no doubt that the convention to-day will pass into history as one of the most memorable, if not the most memorable, that ever has been held by the party in the State.

To-night there is not a leader of any degree of prominence in the party who does not say that the result of the convention meets his hearty approval, and will, in his judgment, bring success to the Democratic Party in the Nation and State. Such a complete wiping out of old scores as was brought about by the action of the convention was beyond the most sanguine expectations. It caused general rejoicing.

In fact, when David B. Hill, amid the plaudits of Tammany braves, McCarranites, and men of all factions of the party took the platform for the purpose of placing in nomination for Governor his ancient and unyielding political enemy, Judge D. Cady Herrick, the emotions raised in the breasts of many of his faithful followers were quite beyond their control. The enthusiasm may be said to have bordered on the hysterical.

Carried Away by Emotion.

That Hill increased his prestige with Democrats of all factions by his conduct to-day is the verdict of all. Many old-time Democrats were so affected by his course of action and the promise of party success which it held forth, that after the convention, when they went to his room to compliment him, they actually embraced him in the excess of their emotion.

Friends of Judge Parker were delighted over the outcome. Up to within half an hour of the opening of the convention they did not believe that such results were be achieved were possible. They expressed entire satisfaction with the ticket nominated, had nothing but words of praise for Hill, McCarren, Murphy, and all of the leaders who bore a prominent part in the harmony negotiations and were more than delighted with the good feeling which was manifested on all sides over the conclusion reached.

One of the first acts of William F. Sheehan, Judge Parker's personal representative, after he left the convention was to send a message of congratulation to Judge Parker on the general good feeling over the convention's action. Mr. Sheehan looked as though a great weight had been lifted from his mind. When asked what he thought of the situation, he said:

"I believe the maximum of good results has been obtained in what was a very trying situation for the party. What has been achieved did not seem possible yesterday. The animosities which existed had to burn themselves out.

"A great many personal sacrifices had to be made. I don't believe the sore spots which are left will cost the party a vote. Ex-Senator Hill acted magnificently, and I think he has increased his prestige as the leader of the up-State Democracy. Senator McCarren, too, showed splendid loyalty to the interests of the party."

When Mr. Hill returned from the convention to his headquarters he was surrounded by a crowd of his admirers, who expressed their admiration for his conduct in extravagant language. In response to the compliment from one of the up-State leaders, Mr. Hill said:

"I think I have convinced everybody of my sincere desire to do what would be for the best interest of the party regardless of any personal consideration. During all the conferences we have had during all our differences, I think I can say that none of us has for a moment lost sight of the central idea that our chief duty at this convention was to take such action as would be most conducive to the success of the National ticket."

"Some of our up-State fellows did not like the indorsement of the judicial ticket of the Republicans a bit. We had plenty of votes to overthrow that programme if we had desired, but we concluded to swallow anything rather than take any action which would subject us to the charge of firing from the rear.

"I want to say that everybody has acted magnificently, sacrificing personal preferences in the interest of the whole party. All individuals did not take the same views of things at the beginning, but all were animated by a desire to nominate a winning ticket. What has been brought about to-day shows that we have a grand Democracy in the State of New York. We have nominated a good ticket from top to bottom. If we cannot win with the ticket we now have, and on issues we now have to present, it is hard to see how we can ever win.

"But I am confident that we will win, both in the State and in the Nation."

Charles F. Murphy seemed happier at the close of the convention than he has been at any time since he came to Saratoga. In defeating the nomination of Controller Edward M. Grout the Tammany leader felt that he had gained all that he had any reason to expect. He and all of his followers were perfectly satisfied with the result. Mr. Murphy made the following formal statement on the outcome of the convention:

"The action of the convention to-day sounds the call for the united Democracy throughout the State and means absolute harmony. The ticket nominated is a high-class one from top to bottom and will appeal to Democrats generally as well as invite the support of and encourage the young men in the party. I have no hesitancy in predicting that it will sweep the State and add great strength to the National candidates."

McCarren Has No Fault to Find.

Senator McCarren, although admitting his disappointment over the failure of Controller Grout to get the nomination, said that he had no fault to find with the result.

"The convention did the best it could do, all things considered," he said. "I think we have a winning ticket, and the Kings County organization certainly will do its best to roll up a big majority for Herrick and for Parker. This time it is the party that has won—not any individual."

William B. Hornblower, who was the temporary Chairman of the convention, when asked what he thought of the ticket nominated, said:

"I think the convention has acted wisely and that its course will be such as to please Democrats of all factions."

Martin W. Littleton, President of the Borough of Brooklyn, between whom and Judge Herrick Senator McCarren was asked to choose when Mr. Grout had been eliminated from consideration on account of the implacable attitude of Tammany, said:

"The leaders of the party have all acted splendidly. There is no fault to be found with anything that has been done. The magnanimity shown by Mr. Hill in taking the platform to nominate Judge Herrick ought to be an inspiration to all Democrats and ought to win for Mr. Hill the admiration he deserves as a leader. It is time the assaults which have been made upon him should stop. I know from personal knowledge that he was not justly criticised for the part he took in the National Convention at St. Louis, and his conduct to-day was noble."

National Committeeman McCabe of Albany County, who was opposed to Judge Herrick's nomination up to the very last, put on a Herrick badge after the convention and said:

"Away down deep in my heart I am heartily glad of the action which the convention took. I feel that we have all got on a higher plane of politics through what was done to-day, and that the Democracy is to become militant in the State and the Nation once again."

There was not a discordant note heard from any quarter. The up-State Democrats, apparently, were all highly pleased with the make-up of the ticket and the harmony of all factions filled them with enthusiasm. The general talk among them was that Judge Herrick would get a surprising vote up State, and that if Greater New York gave him anything like the majority it gave to Coler he would carry the State by a big margin.

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Smith M. Weed to-night expressed his satisfaction with the nominees of the Democratic State Convention, and said that the ticket would have the support of a united Democracy in Clinton County.

ASTOR PLACE AND FOURTH AVENUE

JUDGE PARKER COMING TO NEW YORK TO-DAY

Will Tell Leaders About Some Campaign Plans of His Own.

HE CONGRATULATES HERRICK

Candidate Is Pleased with Solution of the Saratoga Problem—Takes a Cold Weather Swim.

Special to The New York Times.

ROSEMOUNT, ESOPUS, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Soon after it became known here that the Democratic State Convention had placed the ticket of Herrick and Harrison in the field Judge Parker made arrangements for another trip to New York. He will start to-morrow morning at 7:05 o'clock over the West Shore and is due to arrive at the Weehawken station at 9:15. The candidate expects to return on Friday evening. He has made appointments to meet many of the Democratic leaders. Particular interest is attached to the meeting between Chairman Taggart and the Presidential nominee.

Judge Parker is understood to be planning the second trip to New York on general lines. With the State candidates before the people, it is understood that the candidate feels free to put into operation certain plans of his own in reference to the conduct of the campaign generally, and more particularly in regard to the work in the State.

No one apparently is more anxious to put his shoulder to the wheel than Judge Parker, and when he outlines his views more at length in the conferences of the next two days his desire will be evident to all. It is understood that the solving of the problem which was presented to the State leaders by the rival candidacies of Grout, Jerome, Herrick, Palmer, Shepard, McClellan, Keogh, and Pugsley gives the Presidential nominee great satisfaction.

When Judge Parker learned of the nomination of Judge Herrick for Governor and Representative Francis Burton Harrison for Lieutenant Governor he declined to make any comment for publication. He gave out, however, the following telegram, addressed to Judge Herrick:

Accept my hearty congratulations. The action of the convention assures the party a good candidate, and the people a good Governor.

Congratulations also will be received from Judge Parker by Harrison, Cunneen, Pallace, Cullen, and the balance of the ticket.

It is known that the selection of Cullen and Werner gave the Presidential candidate the greatest satisfaction. It is thought that whatever prestige might have attached to the Republican ticket owing to the Republican Convention's action in regard to Cullen is equalized by the action at Saratoga to-day.

BLOW AT ODELLISM.

Democratic Ticket Non-Factional All Through, Says Nicoll.

Local leaders were very optimistic in discussing the Democratic ticket yesterday. Delancey Nicoll said:

"The ticket is from top to bottom eminenetly satisfactory. Justice Herrick is a man of great ability and unimpeachable honor. The nominations ought to command the support of all who wish to overthrow Odellism in the State. Mr. Harrison is a man of fine ability and high character, who has already won a notable position in public life, and from whom notable things may be expected in the future. The rest of the ticket is made up of men of the very highest reputations, who are thoroughly qualified to fill the offices for which they have been nominated. The entire ticket is non-factional, and will please every wing of the party."

Ex-Senator Charles A. Towne said: "On my arrival at Saratoga I was very emphatic in telling to up-State leaders that the right nominations by this State Convention would mean 5,000 votes for Parker and Davis in Indiana. As it stands now I sincerely believe that the nominations of Herrick and Harrison will add largely to the Democratic vote in Indiana. That State and New York, in my judgment, are the pivotal points, and I think we are in excellent shape to carry both of them. Judge Herrick is a man of eminent ability. He accompanied Mr. Bryan during his whirlwind trip across the Empire State, and his nomination is an assurance to the Democrats not only of the State, but of the Nation, that there is no reaction in the party, but that its present attitude is a conservative preservation of the progress heretofore made."

John E. Risley, who was Minister to Denmark during Mr. Cleveland's second Administration, said: "The nominations are excellent. Justice Herrick is an able and upright man of large experience, and will make an exceptionally strong candidate."

In every quarter Democrats while expressing satisfaction over the selection of Justice Herrick, said, too, that the indorsement of Judges Cullen and Werner would add material strength to the ticket.

TAMMANY BRAVES CELEBRATE.

Chief Murphy Reviews His Followers —Hill Parade, Too.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Tammany enjoyed itself hugely to-day. Starting in this morning with a parade and grand review, the Wigwam braves attended the convention in a body, celebrated the nomination of the ticket in true Tammany style, and to-night left in a body on the seven special trains which brought them to town.

Six hundred Tammanyites were in line in this morning's parade, which started at the comparatively early hour of 10 o'clock, which did not fit in well with the celebrations of the night before. As iced headgear was prohibited in the line of march less than half of the Tammany men in town appeared in it.

Two bands were engaged and the line of march was through Broadway, past the big hotels and the Town Hall and back to the convention hall. On the return march Leader Murphy came out to the curb stone in front of the Grand Union Hotel and reviewed his followers.

While the review was going on the Albany Marching Club, followers of Mr. Hill, came up and gave three rousing cheers for Hill.

GROUT PRAISES TICKET.

Believes It Will Harmonize All Factions of the Party.

Controller Edward M. Grout was dining in the Hoffman House last evening, when asked for an expression on the ticket nominated by the Democratic Convention.

"Justice Herrick," said Mr. Grout, "is an able lawyer and an able Judge. I think that this ticket will do what it was designed to accomplish—harmonize all the factions of the Democratic Party."

HERRICK HAS NOT THE EXPERIENCE, ODELL SAYS

He's Been Too Active in Politics, Platt Avers.

REPUBLICANS FEARED GROUT

Governor-Chairman Thinks He Would Have Been Stronger—All Satisfied, However, with Ticket.

Republican leaders expressed themselves yesterday as well pleased with the nominations made by the Democratic Convention at Saratoga. Gov. Odell said:

"I am greatly pleased with the ticket, and I consider that it is one that is easy to beat. Judge Herrick has neither the executive ability nor the experience in State affairs that Mr. Higgins has. I hear that Senator Hill placed the name of Judge Herrick before the convention. I would like to know if he grew very eloquent in his address. Not only do the nominations please me, but they please every Republican with whom I have so far spoken. Controller Grout would have made a much more formidable candidate. In my opinion he was the only safe man for the Democrats to have nominated."

Senator Platt said:

"There would appear to be no suggestion in the action of the Democratic State Convention of a departure from pure factionism in their recent nominations. They have not only countenanced its existence, but have concretely emphasized it in a nomination for the Governorship of a man who, while a Justice of the Supreme Court, yet maintained his grasp upon the party machinery of his county, manifesting without semblance of reserve a wholly unjudicial, not to say an injudicious, political activity, in which factionism was essentially its chief characteristic. Wherein such a nomination can be expected to be promotive of united party support or to entice the support of voters of independent proclivities, who covet broad Gubernatorial administration and adhere tenaciously to the ideal of an untrammeled judiciary, will have to be left to Democratic harmonizers of the Hill-Murphy-McCarren stripe to explain.

"I think a happy contrast may be drawn between the Democratic struggle at Saratoga and the action of the Republican Convention held during the previous week. While there were sharp differences of opinion between Republican leaders at Saratoga from the moment that Gov. Woodruff mounted the platform and in his frank and generous manner pledged to Mr. Higgins the votes of his delegates and bespoke of his followers a support of the Republican ticket more ardent and enthusiastic than he could have asked for himself—from that moment any doubts as to the existence of Republican harmony vanished, and it can be safely assumed that the ticket headed by Higgins and Bruce, even though the names of Roosevelt and Fairbanks were not inevitably linked with theirs, will sweep the State.

"The silly claim that Mr. Higgins is any man's man, or the candidate of any man, will be effectually disposed of within a week after the active campaign is commenced. If any such thought is in the minds of the voters of our State, Mr. Higgins is not any man's man. He is every man's man. He has been, and is, just as sincerely a friend as any one in public life has ever been."

William Barnes, Jr., Chairman of the Executive Committee of the State Committee, said: "I voice Gov. Odell's sentiments in regard to the ticket nominated by the Democrats to-day. In my opinion we will have no trouble in beating Judge Herrick, and his nomination makes the State all the more sure for Roosevelt. I consider that the Democrats had a chance at Saratoga to do something to make us feel at least uncomfortable, and as usual they signally missed their opportunity."

Lieut. Gov. Higgins, who returned last night from a visit to Oyster Bay, declined to express an opinion.

EDITORS' VIEWS ON TICKET.

"No Tag," Says The World—Evening Post Dissatisfied.

Some of the editorial comments of other newspapers on the nomination of Justice Herrick for Governor are printed herewith:

The World.

The nomination of Judge Herrick for Governor gives to the Democracy a candidate who at least wears no boss's collar and bears no man's tag. His ability, courage, and honesty will be questioned by none. He has in the past been the resolute opponent of both Hill and the Tammany bosses. The quality of his Democracy is attested by the fact that he was, as Mr. Stetson reminds us, "the ardent champion of Tilden, Robinson, and Cleveland." John E. Parsons, J. Edward Swanstrom, Henry B. Anderson, Everett P. Wheeler, and other leading lawyers bear testimony to Judge Herrick's high character and ability.

The main criticism that has been brought against him relates to his political activities while a Judge. But this objection will not exist when he resigns from the bench, as he will do in accepting the nomination for Governor. His active aggressiveness, on the high plane of principle, is indeed very much needed in a State campaign wherein Odellism is the chief issue.

The Sun.

It is the duty of every rightly constituted citizen to register at the appointed season and then on election day to cast his ballot as his patriotic convictions prompt him. In our opinion the public welfare will be best subserved by voting for Roosevelt and Fairbanks in the Republican column and for D. Cady Herrick and Francis Burton Harrison in the Democratic.

The alternative as to the State ticket is to vote for the continuation of the power of the man thus described in the most extraordinary plank ever put into a platform in this or any other State:

"For the first time in its history, the Empire State has a Governor whose personal integrity rests under widespread suspicion. He has surrounded himself by high officials and advisers under whose malign influence the public revenues of the State are largely diverted to private profit."

Sweep all of Odell's creatures, great and small, into the Hudson River.

The Evening Post.

The Evening Post cannot advise anybody to vote for D. Cady Herrick. His ability we do not question. On the bench, so far as we know, he has been an impartial Judge. But are we to attack Odellism with a candidate adept in all the disreputable arts of Democratic politics in Albany County? Are we to ignore judicial propriety while nominating a man who has been a local party boss though a Judge? It will be said that Herrick was a useful organizer for Mr. Cleveland. So was the notorious Raisin of Balcare, but that does not fit him to be Governor.

That Herrick has long been Hill's enemy will be brought forward as a conclusive argument, but that alone is not enough. No one earnestly desiring as it does the success of the Democratic National ticket, The Evening Post has its own character and consistency to sustain, and will not support Herrick. Governor Odell has passed by Jerome and Shepard to nominate him, the Democratic Convention deliberately threw away its great opportunity.

The Staats Zeitung.

All Democrats will be satisfied with the nominations made in Saratoga, and the Independents will, during the course of the campaign, understand that between Odell and Herrick there is such a wide difference as between day and night.

The Brooklyn Eagle.

We have never approved of his close alliance with the Democratic organization in Albany County or of his mixing in local campaigns there, and for that reason we opposed his nomination as a Judge of the Appellate Court, but now that Judge Herrick has been nominated for an office that is within the political area, these arguments lose their strength.

We hold that Judge Herrick is a good and strong candidate. It is, too, especially important to note that the Democratic candidate has during his entire political career waged a war against the people who would have used the organization to their own ends. He will be his own master, and that alone is worth much.

The Press.

The Democrats have again gone to the bench this time for a candidate for Governor, and justice to Mr. Parker demands that we confess his party has done infinitely worse in taking Judge Herrick than it did in taking Judge Parker; for, search all the courts of New York and all their parts and branches, and we know of none which could furnish any one else so widely and unfavorably for a "political Judge" as Judge Herrick.

The Tribune.

The much-lauded "open convention," which up to the hour of assembling yesterday did not know what it was to do and rather expected to be told to take Mr. Grout, obediently and unanimously nominated Justice D. Cady Herrick, who had at the last moment been agreed upon by Hill, Sheehan, and Murphy, under strong pressure from Judge Parker to appease Tammany by dropping Grout. The delegates had as much to say about it as about the rise and fall of the tide off the Battery. The strong man desired by independent Democrats, such a man as Mr. Shepard, Mr. Grout, or Mr. Jerome, was ruthlessly thrust aside, and the most notorious example of judicial impropriety in the State of New York is put forward by a party which is banking on judicial dignity and strict separation of the functions of Government.

The Public Ledger of Philadelphia.

Whatever else may be said of the New York Democratic State Convention, it very certainly must be said to have been an "open convention," in marked contrast to that in which Gov. Odell "jammed through" a predetermined slate. There were many conferences among the various party leaders at Saratoga, but until the day after the convention organized there was no agreement on the ticket, and the candidate finally nominated for Governor is not one whom any of the leaders is known to have particularly urged or who had any conspicuous "boom." This in itself is encouraging to those who still believe in popular government.

Though Judge Herrick is less widely known outside the State than two or three others whose nomination was discussed in advance, he is inferior to none of them in ability and character. He holds a very distinguished position in the Judiciary of the State, which he has served with uprightness and dignity. He is a Democrat of the school of Cleveland, of whom he was always a warm supporter, and the manner of his nomination sufficiently indicates that he bears no man's "tag."

The New York Democrats in this nomination have not missed their opportunity to make a clean, strong, hopeful fight against Odell and his obnoxious machine. As far as known Judge Herrick is without any personal or factional animosities. Immeasurably superior to his opponent in strength and ability, his candidacy should not only unite his own party, but gain a large independent support with a very fair prospect of success. The election of a Democratic Governor would not necessarily carry the State for Parker, but the chance will at least have a vivifying influence upon the National campaign.

KINGS SENATE CONVENTIONS.

Odell Men Are Defeated After Contests in Two Districts.

Conventions were held by the Republicans in the seven Senate districts in Brooklyn last night to select candidates for the coming election. In two districts adjournment was taken because of inability to find candidates, these districts being overwhelmingly Democratic.

The convention in the Eighth District was enlivened by a contest between Senator Henry Marshall, the present representative, who is an Odell man, and Charles Cooper, who was placed in nomination by the Platt forces. After four ballots had been taken Cooper was declared to be the nominee. The same state of affairs existed in the Fourth Senate District, where Eugene Travis, the Odell candidate, was defeated by John Drescher, Jr. Candidates named were as follows:

Fourth District—John Drescher, Jr.; Sixth District—Frank J. Gardiner; Seventh District—Edgar H. Hazelwood; Eighth District—Charles Cooper; Ninth District—Frank Ehlers.

NEW CAMPAIGN SIGNS.

Parker, Prudence, Peace, Progress, Prosperity a Pod of P's.

The latest wrinkles in campaign signs made their appearance in Madison Square last night. One of them is on the roof of the Bartholdi and the other is atop the Lincoln Trust Company Building. Both are brilliantly illuminated by electric lights.

That on the Lincoln Building shows an enormous pea pod just opening and disclosing five peas within. The caption in large letters is: "A good pod full of P's." The middle pea bears a large portrait of Judge Parker, and the other four are inscribed "Prudence, Peace, Progress, and Prosperity."

The sign on the Bartholdi Hotel bears in enormous letters the word "Which," followed by an interrogation mark. On one side of this query appears the gloved hand of a Rough Rider grasping a sword, and on the other is a hand from which drapes the black gown of a Supreme Court Justice, the hand bearing the evenly balanced scales of justice. The signs were erected by Tammany Hall.

"CAMP ROOSEVELT" IN HARLEM.

Republicans Up There Using Big Tent —One Speaker Exhorts in Poetry.

The Republican campaign was inaugurated last night in Harlem by the opening of Camp Roosevelt. The entrance to the camp is at 255 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street and the rear in One Hundred and Twenty-sixth Street, where is erected a large canvas tent with a seating capacity of 1,500. In order to give the camp an entrance in One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street three solid brick walls were cut through. The camp is the idea of Tax Commissioner Samuel Strasbourger, the Republican leader of the Thirty-first Assembly District.

The tent was packed last night when the meeting was called to order by Col. A. P. Ketchum as Chairman. James S. Whittle, Clerk of the State Senate; J. Leslie Gossin, and George Brinton Chandler were the speakers. Mr. Gossin put the most of his argument in the form of poetry.

$320,000 FORECLOSURE SUIT.

Solvency of City Homes Improvement Company Is Attacked.

The Knickerbocker Trust Company yesterday began an action in the Supreme Court against the City Homes Improvement Company of the Borough of the Bronx to foreclose a mortgage of $320,000 given to the trust company to secure the payment of the City Homes Company's bonds and interest on them.

The property on which the trust company asks to foreclose the mortgage is on a block near One Hundred and Thirty-seventh Street and Willis Avenue, and includes the Mestanique Apartments.

In its complaint the trust company alleges that the interest on the City Homes Company's bonds has not been paid, and that the City Homes Improvement Company is insolvent.

HIS LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE

Gold Standard, He Declares, Is No More "Irrevocably Established" Than Are the Tariff Schedules.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 21.—Senator Charles Warren Fairbanks, the Republican candidate for Vice President, has sent to Elihu Root, the Chairman of the Notification Committee, his letter of acceptance. It is in part as follows:

In accordance with the promise made when you formally notified me of my nomination for Vice President, I avail myself of this opportunity to submit to you, and through you to my fellow-citizens, some further views with respect to the questions in issue before the people.

The principles which are so frankly and felicitously expressed in the platform adopted by the Republican National Convention meet with my heartiest approval. In the main they have been subjected to the test of actual experience and have been found to be well suited to our industrial and National needs. They have brought us to a high state of material development, and have made the Nation's name respected among the powers of the earth.

The utterances of political parties must be interpreted in the light of that practical construction which they have put upon them when intrusted with power. It is not alone what they say, but what they will do which should weigh in determining their capacity to administer public affairs.

We have had two Administrations in the last seven years which have been governed by the same policies. We may consult the trade reports in vain to discover when the one ended and the other began. Both were obliged to make vast expenditures for much-needed public works. The rapidly expanding needs of the Government business must be met. The National equipment must keep pace with our National growth, yet always with due regard to the principles of sound economy in public expenditure. We have pursued no parsimonious policy on the one hand nor indulged in extravagance on the other. We have measured the public expense by the public necessity.

The convention did well in its hearty commendation of the Administration of President Roosevelt. This is sharply challenged by the opposition. We accept the issue with confidence. The President assumed the responsibilities of Chief Executive with a pledge to carry out the policy of his beloved and lamented predecessor. He kept the Cabinet of President McKinley, composed of statesmen of eminent ability, in whom the country placed entire confidence. He carried forward the unpleted work faithfully and successfully. The pledge has been kept scrupulously; the promise has been fulfilled. Peace and good order have been maintained. Domestic and foreign trade have increased and relations of amity have been preserved with foreign powers.

Foreign Policy Firm.

The foreign policy of the Administration has been conservative, just, and firm, and has made for the advancement of peace. Time and events have given us a larger place in international affairs. While we have enlarged our foreign commerce, we have increased our prestige abroad, not with the sword, but with the peaceful agency of enlightened diplomacy.

Thirty treaties have been concluded and proclaimed, and stand to the credit of the Administration. Some of these are of far-reaching importance. Among the number are the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, superseding the Clayton-Bulwer convention, which stood in the way of the construction of an Isthmian canal; the Panama Canal treaty, the Alaskan boundary treaty, and commercial treaties with China and with Cuba.

Events in the Far East suggest the wisdom and necessity of a continuance of the present foreign policy. We have maintained exact neutrality between Russia and Japan. At the beginning of the war between them they assented to the suggestion made by the Administration limiting the zone of hostilities. This seems to preserve the open door in the Orient, so important and so much desired in the expansion of our commerce. It is the policy of the Administration, predicated upon the soundest National prudence, to settle and remove by treaty, so far as possible, those international differences which lead to future friction.

We favor the adjustment of international disagreements by an appeal to reason, rather than to arms. A great majority of the questions which arise between nations may, without compromising the National honor, be submitted to arbitration. The Administration of President McKinley did well to aid in the creation of The Hague Tribunal, and President Roosevelt is entitled to great credit for being the first to invoke its jurisdiction in the settlement of the Pious Fund cases.

Our relations with the world were never better. We have avoided all entangling alliances, and, in the language of the eminent Secretary of State, "we are without an ally and without an enemy."

The convention wisely declared in favor of "protection which guards and develops our industries," and that "the measure of protection should always at least equal the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad."

Protection Cardinal Doctrine.

This principle was embodied in the platform of the convention which first nominated Abraham Lincoln, and it has continued to be one of the cardinal doctrines of the Republican Party during the forty-four years which have elapsed since then. It has become incorporated into the public law and has become the foundation of our industrial system. It has been regarded by the Republican Party as a reasonable and appropriate exercise of the legislative power when imposing duties upon imports to discriminate in favor of American industries. This principle is dictated by a due regard for our enterprise and industry, and is founded upon the highest considerations of National interest.

The Democratic Convention which lately assembled at St. Louis denounced "protection as a robbery of the many to enrich the few," and favored a "revision and gradual reduction of the tariff."

The issue is thus distinctly made. It is by no means a new one, for while the Republican Party has uniformly adhered to the policy of protection, the Democratic Party has been consistent in its opposition. It has held to the doctrine of a revenue tariff, and during all the years of the contest has manifested the same hostility to what, when opposed to good morals, in contravention of the Constitution and in violation of sound economics: "no objections which are now urged against it are only a repetition of those which have been uttered for many years. The difference between the parties is radical and fundamental. It involves the principle of protection, and not simply the measure of the duties to be laid.

A revision of duties should be made only when conditions have so changed that the public interest demands their alteration, and they should be so revised as to preserve and not destroy the protective principle.

A revision and reduction by those who regard the tariff as a robbery must awaken serious apprehension among all whose capital is employed or who are engaged at labor in the various enterprises throughout the country which depend in large measure upon the maintenance of the protective system. A revision of the tariff along revenue lines means the increased importation of the products of foreign manufacture which come into competition with our domestic production. It means a loss to the American wage earners and to American capital. This is, therefore, not a theoretical question which is presented to them, but is one of immediate and practical moment. It can be settled by them, and by them only.

Both Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt attempted to negotiate a treaty of reciprocity with Canada. The negotiations, after with the Alaskan boundary and other matters, was submitted to a joint high commission for consideration, but the differences which arose between the American and the British Commissioners with respect to the boundary made it impossible for the commission to agree upon any of the remaining subjects submitted for its determination.

The American Commissioners desired to remit the boundary dispute to the two Governments, but the Canadian Commissioners refused to consent to this course. The matter was created and the boundary line has been settled, but no agreement has been reached for further consideration of the remaining questions embraced in the protocol. It is hoped that the two Governments may be able to agree in due course to take up the subject of reciprocity with Canada according to the principles laid down in the Republican National platform.

The platform appropriately recognizes combinations of capital and labor as the outgrowth of our economic development, and as entitled to the equal protection and subject to the like restrictions of the law.

The administration has enforced the Sherman Anti-Trust act, which was of Republican origin. In cases where combinations have been formed in violation of its provisions. The law, which was regarded as ineffective by a Democratic administration, has been invoked by the President against combinations in restraint of wholesome commerce, and it has been upheld by the courts.

The Congress last year enacted a law to expedite the hearing and determination of suits arising under the Anti-Trust and Inter-State Commerce acts, so that the ends of justice might not be defeated by delay. It created the Department of Commerce and Labor, with authority to obtain necessary information with respect to the creation and operation of corporations engaged in Inter-State commerce. It also amended the Inter-State commerce law so as effectually to abolish the pernicious system of rebates under which large shippers could crush their smaller competitors. These are important, practical steps taken by a Republican President and a Republican Congress for the protection of the people against the encroachments of combined capital.

The Democratic Party has done nothing toward safeguarding legitimate interests and restraining combinations effected for extortion or other improper purposes. It proposes as a principal remedy for unjust combinations to remove the tariff from trust-made goods, thereby inviting the foreign producer to occupy our home market in an attempt to regulate our own industries. It has assumed that the so-called trusts are either created or fostered by the tariff. The assumption is fallacious. Trusts are found in free trade countries, and they control commodities in this country which are upon the free list.

Republicans and Gold Standard.

The Republican Party is more direct and rational. It does not strike down good and bad alike. It invokes the authority of Congress and the power of the courts to deal with specific, well-defined combinations in restraint of the rights and interests of the people. It is as insistent upon the protection of capital employed in wholesome enterprise as in preventing its use in contravention of the public interests.

The convention very properly declared it "to be the duty of the Republican Party to uphold the gold standard." There is no more important duty than to maintain the stability and the character of the money of the people. Their manifold exchanges should be effected in a currency as free from blemish as the National integrity. The Republican Party has been essentially the guardian of the financial credit of the country and the steadfast supporter of sound currency. It has maintained the National credit and preserved the soundness of our monetary system against persistent and powerful opposition.

The money question has seemed to be settled at various times, but the contest has been revived by the enemies of sound money whenever they have thought that they might be successful. We should not relax our vigilance in upholding the integrity of our currency so long as a considerable element of our country are at war with it. When Democratic candidates cannot hope to win preferment in a National Convention without industriously concealing their monetary views, and when Democratic National and State Conventions dare not declare their faith in the virtue of the gold standard, the hour has not arrived when the forces of sound money should disband and leave the field.

We not only established the gold standard, but we provided such safeguards as will maintain our silver and paper currency at a parity with it. But all of this may be changed at any time by a hostile Congress or endangered by an unfriendly Secretary of the Treasury. Our past experience warns us that it is only a question of time when those who are always opposed to a sound monetary policy will again seek to overthrow it.

The Republican Convention did well not only to pledge anew our fidelity to the gold standard, but to declare its purpose to uphold "the integrity and value of our National currency." There should be no equivocation or doubt as to our inflexible purpose not only to maintain the gold standard, but to keep all silver and paper currency at a parity with it.

The assumption that the gold standard is "irrevocably established" does violence to the law. It was established by an act of Congress, but the Congress may alter, amend, or repeal that act at any time. It is no more irrevocably established than are our tariff schedules. The one may be changed as readily as the other.

Sound money is so vital to our welfare, so important to our industrial development, that we should let its open enemies or negative friends know that we abate nothing of our determination to uphold and defend it.

Since 1896 we have improved the system as well as increased the volume of our currency. We have now in circulation $3,621,151,527, or $880,042,008 more than we had seven years ago. The increase has not been due alone to the larger yield of gold, for $262,659,559, or nearly 30 per cent., of the increase is composed of silver and National banknotes, which, under the Republican policy, are essentially the equivalent of gold.

If in the future the exigencies of business, which no wisdom can now foresee, should make additional monetary or financial legislation advisable, the Republican Party may be intrusted to enact it along rational lines.

The President's course in Panama merits the most generous approval. He dealt with a delicate and difficult situation clearly within the lines of his rights and duties as to make possible the early completion of an Isthmian canal, which has long been demanded in the interest of our commerce and the National defense.

His conduct of the negotiations with Great Britain for the abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. He negotiated a treaty with the Republic of Colombia for the requisite rights and franchises for the construction and operation of a canal. Its ratification was contemptuously refused by the Colombian Government. Thereupon the people of Panama renounced their allegiance to the parent Government and declared their independence. The President, acting within the limits of his executive authority, and in conformity with well-established precedent,

REPUBLICANS ATTACKED FOR THE PANAMA AFFAIR

Democrats Show How Constitution Was Violated.

POSTAL FRAUD ARRAIGNMENT

To Find Who Got Graft an Argument for Overturning Present Majority in Congress, Textbook Says.

The final installment of proofsheets of the Democratic campaign textbook deals with "the Panama Affair" and the postal frauds. The Republican claim of all the credit for connecting the Pacific and Atlantic by canal is refuted, and the President is arraigned for his methods of getting possession of the route.

The message of the President of Jan. 4 last in which he said that it had been his intention to consult Congress "as to whether we should enter into an arrangement with Panama direct or take other steps needful in order to begin the enterprise" is quoted, and the book goes on to say:

But, on reflection, he evidently concluded it was unnecessary to "consult Congress," and took all the "steps needful" before Congress assembled.

President Roosevelt recognized as the Government of a sovereign State as large as the State of Indiana a baker's dozen of conspirators whose so-called rebellion was not even known to the people, and before they had either an army or a navy, or a treasury, or had fought a single battle with the parent Government. Further, he violated the Constitution of the United States, which gives to Congress the exclusive right to declare war, or to begin war. The President has no right to levy war against another country with which we are at peace without express authority from Congress. He sent warships to Panama, then an integral part of Colombia, in expectation of an insurrectionary movement which had not then occurred, and ordered their commanders to resist with force the landing of Colombian troops sent there to prevent an insurrection. An order to commit an act of war is itself a declaration of war.

In conclusion the book quotes the opinion of William Morton Grinnell, an authority on international law, who was Third Assistant Secretary of State under President Harrison, who said of President Roosevelt's action:

His conduct with regard to the Panama Canal is ridiculous. It is more absurd than illegal, for it amounted to an association of the doctrine of eminent domain applied to a foreign State. The whole affair was a violation of international law, and it is needless to say that nothing of the kind would have taken place had the country concerned been England, France, or Germany instead of Panama. The action of the President with regard to Panama was nothing more or less than giving sanction to, or at least conniving at, the dismemberment of a republic which was in a sense the ward of the nation. As a result, those South American countries which formerly looked to us for help and protection have grown to hate the Monroe doctrine.

In summing up, the chief features of the scandals and proved frauds in the Post Office Department are set down as follows:

"The extraordinary extent of the frauds and the number of persons involved.

"That the higher officials knew of the a Republican Congress in both branches has voted against investigation.

"That President Roosevelt was either kept in ignorance of the frauds until January, 1903, or did not care to expose their astounding character until public notoriety compelled action to be taken."

"If it is ever to be known," says the textbook, "whose pockets were lined with these 'graft' proceeds it will be through the election of a Democratic majority in the next Congress and a consequent thorough and searching investigation. No political party has ever made a thorough investigation of the misdoings of its own partisans, and the Roosevelt Administration is no exception to the rule."

It is stated that most of the frauds were known to exist nearly four years before any steps were taken to stop them. Charles Emory Smith treated the first charges in 1899 as frivolous. Finally, it is stated, the Democrats in both houses of Congress demanded an investigation of the whole Post Office Department, but the Republican leaders refused to allow the passage of the resolution, and in this they were supported by the practically unanimous vote of the Republican majority in Congress. The textbook contains the following statement on the President's attitude:

The Republicans claim great credit for exposing the rottenness in the office of the First Assistant Postmaster General and of the Assistant Attorney General, but the long delay that occurred before the investigation was ordered makes it clear that persons high in authority were intent on suppressing all evidence of the true state of affairs, and that it was only determined upon after evidence of misdoings had been published again and again, and finally forced on President Roosevelt's attention by influential journals.

The evidence is that either President Roosevelt ignored the charges that frauds and scandals existed, which were commonly talked of, and had been published in the newspapers, or that this information had been kept from him.

The President's memoranda calling for the investigation are then given, and this statement follows:

were the only persons that knew the amount of the appropriation, in December, 1902? Only three persons above named kept such a matter from the President, is it not strange

JAPANESE ATTEMPT TO SEIZE DA PASS

Preparations at Mukden for a General Engagement.

RUSSIANS ARE INTRENCHING

Both Armies Again in Condition to Fight—A Winter Campaign Is Now Talked Of.

BERLIN, Thursday, Sept. 22.—A dispatch sent from Mukden at 9:18 o'clock last night to the Lokal Anzeiger says:

"The Japanese on Tuesday attacked Da Pass, fifty miles southeast of Mukden, with what result is not known.

"The Red Cross institutions here are making ready for a general engagement."

PARIS, Sept. 21.—A dispatch to the Temps from Mukden, dated 7:30 P. M. yesterday, says:

"Russians executed reconnaisances Monday which developed that the main army of the Japanese is about twenty-two miles southeast, under Ken. Kuroki, with two divisions at Yen-Tai.

"The Japanese junks turned back after succeeding in getting up the Liao River almost to Sing-min-Tung.

"A great battle is expected along the Hun River, which fronts both sides."

Tokio Expects a Big Battle.

TOKIO, Sept. 21.—The impression is growing general that an engagement will soon occur at Mukden.

Gen. Kuropatkin is evidently preparing to make a determined resistance to any attempt to dispossess him, and is intrenching and constructing defenses. He has an immense force available, but the opinion is expressed that Tie Pass would be a more favorable location for defense. The Russians, however, are unwilling to suffer the loss of prestige which would be involved by the abandonment of Mukden.

Both armies have now recovered from the effects of the battle of Liao-Yang. They are in condition to fight, and the weather is favorable for military operations. The roads are drying, and the Japanese are speedily restoring the railway.

A party of military attachés who recently went to Liao-Yang from Tokio, were dragged for one hundred miles in open trucks by coolies. The army is now forwarding rolling stock with captured cars and engines, and the service will soon be thoroughly organized.

With the Liao River open, the task of transporting men and supplies to the advanced base of operations at Liao-Yang is simple.

There is much speculation as to the extent of the Fall and Winter campaign. It is generally thought that Field Marshal Oyama will continue pressing Gen. Kuropatkin back until the Winter falls and will then strongly guard his advance line until Spring. The Japanese carried on an aggressive campaign against the Chinese during the Winter, but conditions are different in this war.

Japanese Pushing Northward.

GEN. OKU'S HEADQUARTERS IN THE FIELD, via Fu-San, Sept. 20—(Delayed.)—The Japanese are slowly pushing northward. The outposts are in touch near Yen-Tai, and skirmishes between outposts and patrol parties occur daily.

It is believed that the Russians are gathering a force at Yen-Tai, preparatory to making a strong stand for the protection of the coal mines.

The Japanese are rapidly changing the gauge of the railroad from Niu-Chwang, and it will probably be in operation to Liao-Yang in a fortnight. The Japanese are rushing forward supplies of ammunition.

ST. PETERSBURG, Thursday, Sept. 22.—There is further delay in the receipt of decisive news from the front.

Gen. Kuropatkin, telegraphing under Tuesday's date, stated that the situation at the front was unchanged. He described an outpost fight on Tuesday at Da Pass. A Japanese force, consisting of four companies, marched up from Dalantchan, twenty-three miles northeast of Saimadzi, and tried to capture the pass and turn the Russian left flank, but the Russians repulsed the attack and the turning movement was checked by Russian cavalry, supported by machine guns.

WOMAN TELLS OF ESCAPE.

English Wife of Officer Describes Port Arthur Scenes.

CHE-FOO, Sept. 21.—Mrs. Anna Kratchenko, the English wife of a Russian army officer, who arrived here the night of Sept. 17 with Lieut. Prince Radziwill from Port Arthur, is the first woman to run the blockade from the Russian stronghold since the Japanese increased their vigilance to prevent egress from the port.

Her trip was rendered extremely perilous because she came out with the Prince and his companion, Lieut. Christoforoff, who carried messages from Lieut. Gen. Stoessel to Gen. Kuropatkin. Both these officers were disguised, and had they been captured by the Japanese they would certainly have been put to death.

Mme. Kravtchenko was so worn out and exhausted by her adventure that she was unable to see the correspondent of The Associated Press until to-day. In an interview she said:

"We left Port Arthur at 8 o'clock on the night of Sept. 15. There was a good wind and the moon was bright. We were successful in avoiding the danger of the first Japanese blockading line. We came up to the second line when the moon was under a cloud. Searchlights were flashing on all sides, but our junk was not discovered.

"We suddenly discovered ourselves close to another junk with a Japanese crew on board. They presumably were pirates, but we outsailed them and drew away.

"At 6 o'clock the next morning we saw a steamer coming in our direction. She had the appearance of a cruiser, and I was terribly frightened. When we saw the cruiser Prince Radziwill and Lieut. Christoforoff went below. I stretched myself out on deck and covered myself with dirty blankets. Chinese were lying at my feet, and for nearly an hour, although nearly smothered, I kept my position. I never uttered a more thankful prayer than when I was informed that the steamer we had seen was a Red Cross vessel, and that her Captain had no intention of overhauling us.

"Wonderful things are being done by the staffs of the different hospitals at Port Arthur, who are assisted by women. There are thirty nurses for each thousand patients. The ladies devote most of their time to the making of clothes for the soldiers. The laundry work is done by the poor women and the wives of the enlisted men. The sick and wounded are thus kept supplied with clean clothing. The laundry work has to be done in dreadful heat.

"There are no contagious diseases at Port Arthur, but many deaths are resulting from the bite of a large red-headed fly, which feeds on the decomposing corpses scattered over the battlefields. A doctor who was bitten on the thumb by one of these flies instantly severed that member. He then had his arm amputated, but not before the poison had reached his heart. The result of the bite was fatal.

"Every day in the week the band plays at one of the hospitals.

"The wounded men recover quickly from the wounds inflicted by Maxim projectiles and by the bullet of the Osaka rifle, but the wounds resulting from explosive bullets are awful, and recovery is impossible.

"The old town of Port Arthur is almost entirely wrecked. The streets are filled with holes made by exploding shells. The loss of life in Port Arthur from the bombardments has been remarkably small. Once I counted fifty-seven Japanese shells fired at a Russian battery, not one of which reached its mark.

"The Russian garrison is cheerful. It would be impossible to imagine a braver or finer set of men. They return from their day's duty in the trenches with songs on their lips. Although many places in the ranks are vacant, all the men have unlimited confidence in their power to hold the fortress against the enemy.

"I assure you that I believe Port Arthur will stand against the Japanese. I don't think the stronghold will fall."

DRIVING WEDGE IN FORTRESS.

Corroboration of Previous Reports as to Japanese Plan at Port Arthur.

LONDON, Thursday, Sept. 22.—According to Japanese informants of The Morning Post, the two of "Kuropatkin's forts" the Japanese are said to have occupied in the vicinity of Shui-shi-Ying, Port Arthur, are Nan-Tsai and Chang-kia-Tun, and their value to the besiegers consists in the former being close to the Antsz-Shan forts and the latter to the Dragon Hill forts, the object of the Japanese being to thrust a powerful wedge in the gap between the eastern and western fortifications through which the railway passes to Port Arthur from the north.

Antsz-Shan overlooks this gap, and though the Japanese failed to penetrate it sufficiently in the assault of three weeks ago, the persistency with which they returned to the charge is held to prove that to secure the gap is as essential to the Japanese plan of campaign now as it was a decade ago.

A mass of more or less reliable reports emanates from Che-Foo and elsewhere.

The correspondent at Tien-Tsin of The Daily Telegraph says that Japanese gunboats have left Yin-kow preliminary to a renewed, and, it is expected, final attack on Port Arthur.

The Daily Telegraph's Che-Foo correspondent says Japanese official circles thought that the fall of Port Arthur would be coincident with the Mikado's birthday, but that they admit it has been postponed until Spring.

"It is significant," the correspondent adds, "that Winter quarters are being prepared at Dalny. When Niu-Chwang is frozen up Dalny will be the main base for the whole operations."

The Daily Telegraph's Shanghai correspondent, cabling under date of Sept. 20, says:

"A general attack from three points on Port Arthur was resumed yesterday, the fleet co-operating."

From the numerous conflicting statements in the dispatches it is impossible to get an idea of Port Arthur's resources in ammunition and food. It is alleged that foreign refugees receive supplies of good clothes and food in order to deceive the outside world.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 21.—A Chinese, who left Port Arthur last Monday reports that, owing to the incessant bombardment of the harbor by the Japanese the Russian fleet is determined to break out this week and endeavor to reach Tsing-Tau, the German port on the Shan-Tung Peninsula.

TOKIO, Sept. 21.—A renewal of the attack upon Port Arthur on newer and more aggressive lines is expected this week, and it is predicted in well-informed quarters that the reduction of the fortress will be accomplished within ten days or a fortnight.

The authorities continue silent concerning operations there. The publication of a small list of casualties in the naval brigade operating on land is the only recent official utterance in reference to the siege.

ALEXIEFF BLAMED FOR DEFEAT.

Equally Responsible with Orloff for Kuroki's Success at Yen-Tai.

BERLIN, Thursday, Sept. 22.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg to the Tageblatt, apparently prompted by the Russian War Department, puts the blame for Gen. Orloff's failure to hold the Yen-Tai coal mines equally upon Viceroy Alexieff and Gen. Orloff. The correspondent says:

"Alexieff detained Orloff on trivial pretexts, so that he reached the mines at noon on Sept. 1, wholly uninformed as to the situation.

"Gen. Samsonoff transmitted to him Gen. Kuropatkin's strict order to hold the mines at all costs; but when Orloff heard the cannonading in the direction of Sykwantun he marched toward that place, leaving Samsonoff alone to hold the mines.

"Gen. Kuroki fell upon the left flank half an hour afterward. Orloff was not possessed of a single cavalryman, and was completely surprised. His troops, composed mainly of reservists who had been long out of the service, were uncontrollable, and broke, going in the direction of Yen-Tai instead of back to the mines.

"Gen. Kuropatkin personally led the First Siberian Corps to the support of the hard-pressed Samsonoff."

ARGENTINE SHIPS NOT SOLD.

Minister Says None of the Offers Made Has Been Entertained.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 21.—Señor Betbader, Minister of Marine, was interviewed to-day regarding the report that four warships purchased from Argentina had been added to the Russian Baltic squadron at Libau.

The Minister authorized the statement that the report was without any foundation, and said further that there was no basis for rumors of the sale of Argentine warships, although numerous offers had been received recently through commission houses. None of these offers was entertained by the Argentine Government, and no negotiations whatever were pending for the sale of vessels of the navy.

All the warships of this republic are at present in Argentine waters.

COLORADO DEMOCRATS MEET.

Ex-Gov. Adams Nominated for Governor —Eight-Hour Law Demanded.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 21.—Ex-Gov. Alva Adams of Pueblo was nominated to-night for Governor by the State Democratic Convention. The convention then took a recess until to-morrow morning, when the rest of the ticket will be nominated.

The platform adopted affirms allegiance to the National platform adopted at St. Louis and to the nominees of that convention. The Republican State administration is accused of violating every safeguard guaranteed to the individual by the Bill of Rights, and the platform says:

"We declare the right of every man to earn his living unrestricted and untrammeled."

Of the eight-hour law the platform says:

"The demand for an eight-hour law has been incorporated into our Constitution. It is therefore beyond discussion, and the General Assembly must comply with the public mandate."

The Governor is accused of deliberately violating the law which forbids the increase or decrease of an incumbent's compensation.

TAFT TO SPEAK IN NEW JERSEY.

Republicans Send Wilson, Foraker, and Others to Doubtful States.

The Republicans are sending some of their strongest spellbinders into the doubtful States. Secretary of War Taft will speak in Elizabeth, N. J., on Nov. 4 and E. P. Brown of this city will speak at Morristown to-day on the occasion of the assembling of the Republican Congressional Convention for the Fifth District. Secretary Taft will also speak in New Haven on Nov. 3.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and Senator Thurston will speak in this State, beginning at Perry on Sept. 26. They will also speak in Friendship on the 27th and in Binghamton on the 28th. Senator Thurston will deliver six speeches in West Virginia in October, and at a big rally to be held in Charleston, West Va., on Sept. 24 Secretary Wilson and Senator Foraker will make addresses. Secretary Shaw will also make three speeches in West Virginia, and William Dudley Foulke of Indiana will make addresses in New Jersey and Connecticut.

POOR PRACTICE BY COLUMBIA 'VARSITY

Second Team's Offense Showed Surprising Strength.

MEIER RETURNS TO HARVARD

Yale's Practice Consisted in Drilling New Candidates—Local Season Opens To-day.

Columbia's second eleven had things pretty much its own way with the 'Varsity in yesterday's practice at South Field. The first eleven not only was unable to score at all, but it was only after a very hard struggle on its one-yard line that it succeeded in staving off a score by the second eleven. Given the ball at midfield, the scrubs by consistent playing took the ball by yard and two-yard plunges straight down the gridiron until at the twenty-yard mark Lindo got around right end for a fifteen-yard gain. Then the 'Varsity picked up in its playing, and made a strenuous resistance that in four downs allowed the scrub only four of the necessary five yards. With the ball then in the 'Varsity's possession, Coach Morley stopped the scrimmage practice, and with a short run around the field, the work for the day was concluded.

Morley, in commenting on the day's work, said: "Despite the gains of the scrub the 'Varsity showed better defense to-day than heretofore; it made a good stand close to its goal, when it obtained the ball on downs. Then, too, it must be remembered that the 'Varsity was playing against a stronger scrub team than it had before."

Three new men reported for practice yesterday—Slocum, formerly of Brown, and C. R. Toy and Suydam, the latter pair novices. Slocum is expected to be of great assistance to the team, as he was one of the best ends ever at Brown. He has been at Columbia for the past two years, and so is eligible to play by the one-year-residence rule. He should help the team where it was weak last year. The 'Varsity lineup yesterday was as follows: Left end, Post; left tackle, Browne; left guard, Echeverria; centre, Smythe; right guard, Stangland; right tackle, Aigeltinger; right end, Buell; quarter backs, Metzenthin and Donovan; left half back, Metzenthin and Fisher; right half back, O'Loughlin, and full back, Duell.

The Tigers took advantage of the cool change in the weather and had their first scrimmage of the season yesterday afternoon. After the usual preliminaries the 'Varsity lined up with five of the veterans in position. All of the old players took their former places except Rulon Miller, who was moved from full back to right end, where it is thought his speed can be used to better advantage. Heim and McCormick, two of the new players from Exeter, were practiced at quarter back and full back, respectively. The other positions on the first team were filled from last year's squad. "Bill" Edwards, who coached the scrub last year, is back and took charge of the second team again.

For twenty minutes the two teams struggled, but neither succeeded in scoring. The 'Varsity held the ball most of the time and gained twice as much ground as the second team. Little punting was attempted, and the first team resorted principally to line plunges through the centre, where they made the most gains.

The training table opened up to-night at the university field house with seventeen men, as follows: Capt. Foulke, Short, Cooney, Dillon, Rulon Miller, King, Burke, Kafer, Kline, McCormick, Dutcher, Rafferty, Carothers, Daub, Crawford, Martin, and Willock.

Harvard's football prospects were greatly brightened yesterday by the appearance of "Teddy" Meier, the big tackle, on Soldiers Field. He was graduated from the college last June, but has returned to Cambridge to enter the Law School and play football again this year. His appearance, together with the announcement that Brill, the famous old Exeter tackle, had passed his entrance examinations, assures Harvard of being unusually strong in the tackle this Fall. Another veteran who returned yesterday was Phil Mills, the old tackle and end.

Offsetting these two appearances, however, was the sight of Roger Derby, the sturdy tackle, going around with his arm in a sling. Derby didn't fall on the ball correctly and hurt his shoulder. In consequence, Trainer MacMaster thinks best to keep him out of practice for a few days. "Bobbie" Winsor, the little end, also has a bad shoulder from the same cause.

After the preliminary practice yesterday a team was selected and a new tandem formation rehearsed. The line-up was as follows: Left end, Blagden; left guard, Wild; centre, Cunneff; right guard, Feil; right tackle, Williams; right end, Montgomery; quarter back, Noyes; left half back, Nesmith; right half back, Guild; full backs, Hauley, Hurley, and Mills.

Yale's football drill yesterday was again devoted to trying out new candidates for the end, guard, quarter back, and back field positions and in developing a punter. Roome, a substitute last year, has come out for full back and punter and is kicking fifty yards consistently, seeming now the most available punter in the squad. "Jack" Cates, the former Andover Captain and end, is in first place among the new men for that position, as is Ortmeyer of last year's freshman team for half back. Yesterday the squad of forty men did their half-mile run before practice and then were put through hard dummy tackling work, afterward lining up for preliminary signal practice. When the Yale eleven meets Wesleyan in the first game of the season here next Wednesday the line-up will probably be as follows: Left end, Cates; left tackle, Bloomer; left guard, Kinney; centre, Rorabacker; right guard, Smith or Tripp; left tackle, Capt. Hogan; left end, Hare; quarter back, Rockwell; half backs, Stevenson, Ortmeyer, and Bowman; full backs, Shevlin, Roome, and Hoyt.

On the Cornell gridiron yesterday Coach Warner formed two elevens of about equal strength and they had a thirty-minute battle. The team on which Capt. Lynch played quarter was scored against twice. One score was a touch-down and the other a goal from the field by Birmingham, who kicked in perfect style from the thirty-yard line. He is making one of the best records among the subs on the 'varsity squad. The team played his usual star game at left half back. A new line man out yesterday was Cook, who comes from the University of Pennsylvania School at Cleveland and who weighs 185 pounds. It was reported that he was going to Princeton, but he will enter Cornell instead.

Coffy, a substitute end, and Wolff, who played centre on the scrub team last season, were temporarily retired from practice at New York University yesterday. Both men sustained slight strains in their shoulders during the scrimmage work. It is hoped that they will be able to return to the squad in a few days. The cool, clear air made it an ideal day for practice, and Coach Saunders gave the men some fast work. Especial attention was paid to instructing the ends in eluding their opponents when getting down under kicks. Rogge, who played fullback part of last season, is punting in good style, and with a little more coaching should develop into a first-class man this year. The squad was increased by the appearance of Roberts, who alternated with Rogge at fullback last year. He has increased considerably in weight and should make a strong offensive back. Two men who have made "prep." school reputations reported yesterday. They are Perry of Barnard and Judge of Trinity School. Both men showed up well and appear to be likely candidates for the end positions.

The local football season will open to-day at American League Park, when Columbia University will line up against De Witt Clinton High School. Clinton has not the heavy team that it had last season, but with its exceptional speed it is expected to give Columbia fast practice.

FOUR TWO-YEAR-OLDS FINISHED HEADS APART

Sensational Race for Flatlands Stake Won by Teacress.

HURSTBOURNE TOOK HANDICAP

W. B. Leede's Horse Easily Beat Shorthose at a Mile and a Quarter—Three Gravesend Choices Won.

In effect, an "owners' handicap," under the selling conditions that permitted the owners of horses to fix the weights for their horses, the Flatlands Stakes, for two-year-olds, at five and a half furlongs, produced the most sensational race of the meeting at the Gravesend track yesterday and one of the most remarkable contests of the season, Sydney Paget's filly Teacress being returned the winner, with three other horses lined out on nearly even terms with her. The race was so close that until the number of the winner was displayed the backers of four horses claimed the victory, while the supporters of a fifth that was very close up thought that there was a chance for the fifth animal.

Ten two-year-olds ran for the race, the third on the card, with Teacress, the selected runner of three entries in the name of Sydney Paget always the favorite, Merry Lark and Gamara being the two next best backed. Lincroft, carrying David Gideon's colors, broke first, and, going on with a rush, made the pace until the horses were well into the stretch, Gamara being second to that point, with Bank third, where Teacress closed from next to last place, followed by Merry Lark, Lincroft then stopping, and on the post the others got up to him at almost the same moment, passing the winning post in a line, all hard ridden and doing their best, with Teacress, in the opinion of the judges, just a head the best at the end. Gamara being placed second, with Bank third and Merry Lark fourth.

Next to the selling stakes the interest of the rather light crowd that shivered in the cool Autumn weather centred in the mile and a quarter handicap, in which Shorthose and Hurstbourne, rated as among the best of last season's three-year-olds, met at a difference of five pounds in Hurstbourne's favor. Shorthose went to the post an even money choice, while Hurstbourne went back from even money to 5 to 2. The race was hardly a test of the merits of the horses, however, and Hurstbourne was well forward to a slow pace for a mile and then brushed to the front and won easily. Summary:

Narrow Escape for Jockey Kelly.

In about as narrow an escape as ever a race-rider experienced, Jockey C. Kelly rested last night at his boarding house at Gravesend, nursing a broken arm as his only injury after half of a field of fourteen horses had galloped over him as he lay on the track. Kelly, a Western boy who achieved instant success on his arrival at Brighton Beach for the Summer meeting, had the mount on Hardy B. Durham's colt Topright, in the last race of the day, and getting his mount well up in the crowd, closed on the rail and was in about the middle of the field when, just as the horses were making the turn into the back stretch, he was crowded so close by horses on all sides of him that Topright was thrown and Kelly plunged forward, landing on the track beneath the feet of the horses coming on behind. How they managed to miss him in the dust and bustle of the turn is hard to imagine, but one horse among the trailers seemed to see the boy on the track and rose as a steeplechaser at a jump, clearing clear over him. Kelly fell just beside the rail and remained motionless while men ran clear across the field to pick him up. He was unconscious when lifted, and remained stunned until removed from the race course in the ambulance from the Coney Island Emergency Hospital, but a short time after he was taken to Coney Island he recovered. His arm was broken, but no other injury could be found, and as he felt strong enough to go home he was permitted to leave.

GRAY GELDINGS GREAT RACE.

John Taylor Beats Dr. Strong After Five Heats at Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 21.—John Taylor's victory over Dr. Strong was the sensational feature of the third day's Grand Circuit racing in this city. Tickets on the defeated horse sold at $100 to $40 for the entire field. With the exception of the fourth heat, in which John Taylor broke ten lengths away from the wire, each heat was decided by a neck or even less. A heavy wind blew straight down the back stretch, and on this account Major Delmar's trial against Cresceus's record of 2:02¼ was postponed until to-morrow. Summary:

JUDGE HERRICK.

That the Democracy of New York in the nomination of Judge D. CADY HERRICK for Governor has taken a step forward and upward would not be denied even by an enemy. Of the men the party has nominated for that office in the past twenty years only Mr. CLEVELAND and Mr. HILL may be said to surpass Judge HERRICK in ability, while his qualifications and his fitness, personal and political, fairly shine in comparison with those of the last three nominees—AUGUSTUS VAN WYCK, JOHN B. STANCHFIELD, and BIRD S. COLER. D. CADY HERRICK has been an able and perfectly upright Judge. Members of the bar respect him and speak highly of him. When it was suggested that he be named for the Chief Judgeship of the Court of Appeals, made vacant by the resignation of Judge PARKER, no criticism was heard from lawyers so far as we are aware, except upon one ground to which we shall refer later. In nominating a Judge upon the bench, a Judge of high standing, the Democratic Party has made sure that its candidate will enjoy the confidence of the people. His present office is an ample guarantee of worth and character, even if Judge HERRICK had no other.

He is a native of New York. He is thoroughly familiar with the public affairs and the public interests of the State, and the transaction of its public business at Albany has for years been attentively observed by him. If elected he will be a capable and efficient Governor.

We know nothing that can be said against Judge HERRICK, except that he continued to take an active part in politics after he had become a Judge of the Supreme Court in the Third Judicial District. That was an impropriety, it was a scandal. It ought not to have been. Some persons have been inclined to take a lenient view of this dereliction because Judge HERRICK has fought DAVID B. HILL in Albany politics. We do not think that fact excuses, it certainly does not justify. For our part we shall not attempt to excuse or gloss over this part of the candidate's career. Democratic or independent voters, yes, Republican voters sick of Odellism, who are troubled by it ought to ask themselves, What are the objects that good men should seek to achieve by the use of the suffrage in New York State this Fall? If any voter believes that it is his chief duty to administer a rebuke to a Judge who has dabbled in politics, then by all means he ought to vote against Judge HERRICK. The platform adopted at Saratoga yesterday, however, declares that "the paramount and overshadowing issue in State affairs is between official honesty and official corruption." Officially Judge HERRICK is without stain. His personal character is blameless. His administration of the office of Governor would be characterized by entire probity. What does the Democratic platform mean by "official corruption"? It means Odellism. It means the Republican "system" established at Albany, which has come in the public mind to be considered a companion-piece to the police "system" in New York prior to the Low administration. "For the first time in its history the Empire State has a Governor whose personal integrity rests under widespread suspicion," says the platform. That is a grave imputation. It would have been better, we think, to omit that sentence from the platform. It does not sound well, and so far as THE TIMES is concerned it has never heard of any act of Gov. ODELL which would bring his personal integrity under suspicion. THE TIMES does know that officially he does not enjoy the public confidence. It has heard the ugly word corruption used of the Departments at Albany, and the Departments have in a censurable degree been made a part of Gov. ODELL'S political machine. He has provoked public distrust and stirred public indignation by his attempts to marshal the judiciary, the State charitable institutions, and the insane hospitals under his banner as a political leader. Unless we very much mistake the temper of the people of this State, they want to be rid of Odellism. Will they refuse to take advantage of the opportunity now before them because Judge HERRICK continued to fight Mr. HILL in politics after he had gone upon the Supreme bench?

We do not think so. It is only now and then that the voter finds everything to his liking in a political campaign. He is often forced to choose the greater good, if not, indeed, the lesser evil. But this year we do not see how the honest voter whose mind is reasonably free from the bias of partisanship can hesitate to cast a ballot against the continuance of Odellism at Albany. THE TIMES would have liked Mr. SHEPARD very much better as the candidate. It would have liked Col. LAMONT better. But Judge HERRICK is far and away above the majority of those whose names were oftenest heard in the ante-Convention gossip. He is not a man of faction; it is something to be grateful for that he stands in no ascertainable relation either to MURPHY or MCCAREN. Judge HERRICK was nominated by Mr. HILL, his old enemy, and by acclamation. He seems to be the candidate of a united Democracy, which augurs well for his election. This is a Democratic State in years when the party is united.

Mr. FRANCIS BURTON HARRISON, nominated for Lieutenant Governor, is a young man of promise. Two years ago THE TIMES took great pleasure in commending him to the voters of the Thirteenth Congressional District, who elected him to the House of Representatives by an unexpectedly large plurality. Mr. HARRISON has devoted himself seriously to his Congressional duties, and would be an acceptable Lieutenant Governor. He is a young man of wealth, he is also a young man of character. The decision of men of that stamp to enter and pursue a political career should be welcomed.

The Convention gave Attorney General CUNNEEN a renomination. That is first-rate. He is a good Attorney General to keep in office. The Convention also nominated Judge CULLEN for Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, and Judge WERNER for Associate Judge of that court. That was pre-eminently a right and wise thing to do. The Republican Convention had put the names of Judges CULLEN and WERNER upon its ticket. They stand now upon the Democratic ticket. All partisan considerations are eliminated from the judiciary election, as they should be. The Democratic Party will gain by this wise and sensible action of its Convention.

NO MANDATE FOR PROTECTION.

Mr. HORNBLOWER was perfectly justified in saying at Saratoga that "the American people have never as yet given a mandate to Congress to pass a protective tariff nor have they ever approved such a tariff."

The Republican Party came into power in 1860 on the issue of slavery. The election of 1864 and that of 1868 were won on issues of the war and of the currency. The tariff in 1868 had become highly protective by the repeal of internal war taxes without the repeal of the duties which were imposed as an offset to these, and there was a strong protest against this action, which would have been influential if the Democrats had not taken up the Greenback illusion. In 1872 the Democratic candidate was GREELEY, and the tariff issue was eliminated. In 1876 the chief issue was the resumption of specie payments, with the tariff as a collateral issue, and Mr. TILDEN had a decided plurality of the popular vote. In 1880 the Republicans, who held out hopes that they would reduce the tariff—which they pretended to do in 1883—had a plurality of only 7,018 in a vote of nearly 9,000,000. In 1884 the issue was mainly BLAINE'S character and associations, but so far as the tariff was involved the verdict was against protection. In 1888 CLEVELAND had the popular vote, but lost the Electoral College by treachery in New York. There was no mandate for a tariff then, rather the contrary. In 1892 CLEVELAND'S election was the popular response to the McKinley tariff. Since then the elections have turned on Bryanism.

It is literally true that the American people have voted but once in the last sixty years on protection, and then condemned it.

STAGNANT CUBAN TRADE.

We do not think that our Minister to Cuba has very good reason for scolding the Cuban merchants and planters for increasing their purchases of goods from Europe faster than they increase their purchases from the United States. It seems that we still have the largest trade, but ours grows at the rate of 3 per cent. annually, while that of England increases 20 per cent., that of Germany 21 per cent., that of Spain 16 per cent. Mr. SQUIERS thinks that there is "danger to reciprocity in the present uneven trade between the two countries," and has urged that fact on the business men of Cuba.

But why do the Cubans buy more of others than of us? The duties on our goods are not higher than on others; in some important lines the duties are lower in Cuba on our goods. There can be but one rational business explanation, so far as we can see. The English and the Germans and the rest sell their goods at lower prices, or of better quality, or in forms more suited to the market, or on better terms; that is to say, they offer better bargains than our merchants do. In some degree this is due to their better equipment and training for foreign trade. The American merchant is by law hindered from becoming a trader on a large scale in foreign markets and has the homely wit of the home-keeping youth. Then our manufacturers are limited to a great extent to the domestic market by the taxes on imported material, while the foreigner, especially in England, has a wider choice at lower prices. Even in Germany, which is a mildly protective country, raw materials are taxed very lightly or not at all. Again, a good part of our exports of real manufactures is sent out by the partial monopolies, the trusts, only when "dumping" is profitable because of slack home demand. It is not easy to build up a permanent and growing foreign trade under these conditions.

If the present reciprocity arrangement does not secure for us as much trade as we should like, the above is probably the explanation. It clearly would not help matters any to withdraw the reductions of duty we have made. It would be more sensible, indeed, to increase them, for the more the Cubans sell to us the stronger is the tendency at least to buy from us.

THE PASSING OF THE BOYCOTT.

Among the unions which have made the boycott ridiculous may be included the United Garment Workers. At the present time a majority of the important clothing manufacturers of the United States are under the boycott, and the number thus favored increases in inverse ratio to its effectiveness. Meanwhile the open shop is established wherever its establishment is resisted. In discussing the net result of boycotts against clothing manufacturers The Trade Record says:

> There is really very little affectation in the statement that a boycott has often proved an altogether unmixed blessing to the enterprise against which it was directed on account of the public sympathy and antagonism to such union methods aroused by its imposition. This desirable effect has not, unfortunately, been so noticeable of late, because the boycott has become so familiar and usually harmless an event, otherwise there would probably be to-day quite a scramble among the more enterprising concerns to place themselves under its benign and fattening influences.

To make a boycott effective costs a great deal of money and involves much hard work. Both are largely wasted when so employed.

GEN. CORBIN ON "OVERMARRIAGE."

Gen. CORBIN'S recommendation to the War Department that no officer of the army be "permitted" to marry until he has satisfied the Secretary of War that he has an income sufficient for the adequate support of a family and received official permission to do so will not increase his popularity with young women; and to say that "our army is overmarried" is to initiate a phrase which both married officers and their wives will consider in the highest degree objectionable.

But Gen. CORBIN is quite right, as many young women married to young army officers of relatively low rank have found by bitter experience. The pay of an officer of the grade to which a young man can possibly attain within the period in which his fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love is not sufficiently liberal to afford comfortable support for a family of the proportions which those opposed to "race suicide" would approve. Second Lieutenants in service from five to ten years receive in pay and allowances from $1,549 to $1,680 per year, according to whether they are mounted or unmounted. First Lieutenants receive from $1,650 to $1,700, Captains from $1,920 to $2,200, Majors $2,780, Lieutenant Colonels $3,350, and Colonels $3,850. Few men reach the grade of Colonel until on the verge of retirement, say between fifty-five and sixty; and if they have remained that long unmarried they are not thereafter likely to become "overmarried." A much larger proportion of the pay of an officer is required to meet the expenses incidental to his position than is true in the case of a clerk or subordinate in a private business enterprise. This leaves very little for the support of a wife and children, and usually not enough to permit them to follow him to remote or foreign assignments and live comfortably when there. The result is that a fair and perhaps a large proportion of the wives of young officers are found seeking shelter for long periods under the paternal rooftree, if there be one, and that many of those who have no parents to return to live extremely uncomfortable and unsatisfactory lives.

It is not right to demand of a young man without fortune that he shall assume the obligation of celibacy if he elects a military career; but it is eminently right to impress the young soldier with a realizing sense of the fact that if he cannot support a wife in comfort on the resources in sight it is "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman" to ask a young woman to share his insufficient earnings, knowing as he must that her lot will be one of disappointment and privation.

SOCIAL SALVAGE.

Gen. BOOTH, the head of the Salvation Army in England, has been making a stirring appeal throughout the United Kingdom for permission to save the "wreckage" of English society, the tramps, the drunkards, the paupers and petty criminals, and the "lost" women, with the understanding that the army will "take money for results," and then only reimbursement of expenditures.

The General, who is as young in his seventy-seventh year as he was twenty years ago, is delighted with the reception his plan met in the North, and is now pressing it in London. He points to the existence of 50,000 tramps, to the $70,000,000 spent in the care of paupers, to the enormous cost and slight return in the way of security from the prisons, and declares that the Salvation Army can take the majority of the cases thus vainly dealt with and make of them decent, self-supporting men and women. His general idea is a series of "homes" in the centres of population, conducted by the army, with aid from the taxes, to which in gradually increasing numbers those could be sent who are likely to become "social wrecks," such committal to be a condition of the sentence for petty crime or of release from confinement, or of relief given under the poor law. He asserts, and it is not easy to refute the evidence, that the ordinary methods of treating crime and poverty are very expensive and largely futile, so far as the permanent reclaiming of the subjects is concerned.

We do not think that it can be reasonably denied that the worst evils of the [illegible] are substantially successful in a remarkable degree, or that it would be very desirable to enlist such agencies in a wider field, so far as they could be usefully employed. A plan of that sort would require careful investigation before adoption by disinterested persons capable of getting at the facts in a systematic and comprehensive manner. But the evidence already available that the army has done essential and permanent good in many ways is considerable. And it is certainly the only agency of the sort that operates on a large scale and over a large territory. It will occur to many that the army does not at present give the certainty of continuity and permanence, that it is dependent on the talents of a few leaders who may not have efficient successors, and that the general movement has not given convincing proof of an abiding and continuing vitality. But these suggestions do not apply to the proposition of Gen. BOOTH to accept aid from the public funds only for "results." There can be no serious harm in an experiment on these terms, and there is the possibility of solid advantage. It is a principle of maritime law that the rescuers of property abandoned on the high seas shall be entitled to "salvage" fully proportioned to the value of the property. There is a lot of what may be justly called wrecked humanity in our prisons, in our poorhouses, on our streets, and along our highways, as to which the authorities do nothing except to try to prevent it from doing present damage. If the Salvation Army can take any considerable part of it into its charge, put it in shape for future usefulness, give it spiritual and moral and physical value, restore it in fact to society, surely the mere repayment of the money expended in the process is not exorbitant salvage.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

—Mr. SYDNEY BROOKS, writing in Harper's Weekly under the quoted headline of "The English Dreyfus Case," denies that the experience of ADOLF BECK with British justice as represented by the police and the criminal courts warrants the usage of the current phrase. To maintain his contention that "the Beck case is not the Dreyfus case, nor anything like it," Mr. BROOKS declares that "there is here no serious suggestion of a conspiracy to convict and keep in prison an innocent man, no forgery to bolster up bad evidence, no Government or Government office willfully obstructing justice, no suborned press applauding it for doing so." To this enumeration of differences there might have been added, and not even a trace of an inclination on the part of any part of the British public to resent the disclosure of the wrong done, to protest against the righting of it to such small extent as was possible, or to suggest that the "honor of the nation" depended on the sacrifice to it of a citizen's liberty and reputation. Mr. BROOKS admits, however, that the condemnation and long imprisonment of the unfortunate BECK for crimes which he not only did not commit, but almost obviously could not have committed, was due to "an amazing mass of stupidity and carelessness among high officials and possibly of something more sinister among their subordinates," and his review of the facts in the case is quite enough to show that, even if there was no conspiracy to convict an innocent man, there was in official circles years of brutal indifference to the known fact that an innocent man had been convicted and was paying a heavy penalty for another's guilt. Perhaps the innocence was not exactly known to those whose indifference kept him in prison, but they could have known it, and would if they had been willing to confess the possibility of a miscarriage of justice, and there was no doubt about it in the minds of some of those whose stupidity was the original cause of the false identification. It is true that the Beck case is not a Dreyfus case, but it is a most atrocious case, for all that, with its horrors unmitigated, as in France, by a complication with interests so large that there was a sort of excuse for believing that it was right to be wrong. Mr. BROOKS is able to say, however, that "Mr. BECK has demanded a full public inquiry, and, though no response has yet been made, it is certain that an inquiry will be held either on his initiative or on the initiative of the Home Office, and that it will not be of the whitewashing, departmental order, but serious, unbiased, and independent. On that all England, feeling the disgrace of the whole affair, is resolved."

—Japanese sailors are fairly common on the ships of all countries, and their reputation is that of men perhaps a little more than ordinarily efficient—in all except moments of great emergency or when the temperature is much lower than that to which they have been accustomed at home. Of all Occidentals, therefore, shipmasters are the most astonished at the recent very convincing proofs that the valor of Japanese soldiers drawn from the same class as the Japanese sailors has as much of cool intelligence as of hot fanaticism, and that they can stand for long periods weather hardships that would very seriously decrease the zeal and activity of men supposed to be as much hardier as they are stronger. The explanation of the apparent change is doubtless the fact that the Japanese soldier fights for a cause which he firmly believes to be his own as well as that of his country and holds to be of infinitely greater importance than his own life or comfort. The Japanese sailor, especially on a foreign ship, has no such inspiration. Invariably in a subordinate position, he feels no responsibility and his initiative capacities are too firmly repressed by his white associates and superiors to train him for manifesting them in times of sudden peril, and in freezing cold he resists only as long as the size of his wage suggests to a man who has no very strong objection to dying so long as he can die in comparative comfort. Much of the war with China was waged in the depth of Winter on a sea particularly bleak, but the men on the Japanese ships of war, big and little, kept at their posts uncomplainingly as well as effectively, until, in some instances, they were frozen to death. It will doubtless be the same if the Manchurian campaign is carried on into the Winter months. The Japanese seems to be a philosopher with an especially clear appreciation of relative values. His are not the values of the Western world, but they are perhaps as real, and the man who would be absolutely useless in a North Atlantic blizzard, if on an American or English vessel, will make the march to Harbin certainly without hesitation and probably at a speed extremely inconvenient to the Russians—if Japanese policy decides that such a march is necessary.

—It really seems as if they were proving too much against the Georgia militiamen who failed so lamentably when ordered to protect the lives of negro prisoners at Huntsville. That they did not do their duty, either as citizens or as soldiers, is perfectly obvious. Of that no proof is needed except the fact that their resistance to the mob was so weak as to be unworthy of the name, and that the attack on the jail ended with nothing more serious than a few bruises that seem to have been merely the result of disorderly crowding by excited men. But now it is charged by witnesses of the affair that some of the militiamen were so frightened that they hid under beds and were dragged therefrom howling for a mercy that nobody had thought of denying them. This sounds very much like nonsense. These, it must be remembered, were white men of a class in which cowardice is the rarest of characteristics. It is absurdly trite to declare that it would be practically impossible to raise in Georgia, as anywhere else in the United States, a military company the members of which would be moved by any odds whatever to hide under beds—because they were afraid. Why such testimony should be given can only be vaguely understood, or, rather, its reason can only be suspected. Ridiculous charges make the inquiry now in progress ridiculous, and that, perhaps, was held to be the most convenient way to guard against its dangers. Those dangers are very great, for they threaten lasting disgrace to the officers who permitted the overriding of the law they had sworn to uphold, as well as the dishonorable disbandment of the organization to which they belong. Apparently they are trying to distract attention from what they really did by fixing incredulous eyes on things that their men could not have done.

—A few days ago President ELIOT of Harvard was moved to advise the National Association of Manufacturers steadily to contend for (1) the open shop, (2) no union label, (3) in case of a strike permanent employment of those who take the strikers' places, and (4) resistance through the courts to picketing and boycotting. It curiously illustrates the widely different views that can be taken of the same things that this programme is interpreted by one of the labor papers as follows: "The things for which Mr. ELIOT urges the Parryites to contend are well understood by organized labor, and, indeed, by all intelligent men. Stated in plain terms, these things are: (1) The non-union shop; (2) no public appeal on behalf of the fair employer; (3) a premium on industrial debasement; (4) government by injunction. The establishment of these conditions would mean reversion to a state of industrial slavery, and, coincidently, the destruction of civilization." That shield certainly does have two sides, or else its one side changes strangely in appearance as it is observed from one point of view or another.

AGAINST THE OPEN SHOP.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your recent editorial article concerning the situation in the building trades, you stated that the issue in the war between the alliance and the employers was the kind of arbitration to be adopted for settling joint disputes.

This is a gross misstatement of the real facts, and if you will allow me to take exception to your opinion I will state the situation from the point of view of a unionist who is in close touch with the factors in the strike.

The Building Trades Alliance was reorganized out of the old United Board of Building Trades, which was prominent during its régime under the bossism of Sam Parks, and which went out of existence when he was sentenced for extortion.

Its rehabilitation under its new name was not for the purpose of "grafting," as the employers insist—even on the face of the Price extortion and bribery law, which makes it practically impossible—but for the purpose of protecting its members against the large numbers of non-union men who secured work during the previous lockout and strike.

As units, bound by the plan of arbitration to which they were parties, the unions were powerless to use the sympathetic strike against non-unionists. But, as a whole, the sympathetic strike became a powerful club in the confederation or alliance of the several unions for a common cause, i. e., eliminating these non-union men. Acting on this idea, the alliance immediately on its formation called on the employers' organization to have discharged all non-union skilled mechanics in their employ.

On their refusal to even consider this demand, and in direct violation of the arbitration agreement, a lockout was declared on those unions standing out against non-union men.

The unions still insist that they are in favor of any kind of arbitration; that the question of recognizing the alliance is absolutely unimportant to them; that they are willing at any time to confer, but they do most emphatically retain their right to refuse to work with non-union men; that trouble arising from non-union men is not regarded as matter for arbitration, and, furthermore, they demand their right in pooling their interests by allying with other organizations to strengthen their fight against any attempt at the open shop and using therefor their strongest weapon—the sympathetic strike.

SCHOOL FOR WIVES.

Teaching Young Women the Science of the Home.

From The London Mail.

Domestic training for daughters of professional men in West End school. Household management and all home duties. Address — X.

Among the reasons adduced for the growing reluctance evinced by the average bachelor to enter the state of matrimony are:

The impracticability of the modern girl.

The decline of professional incomes.

The author of the above advertisement has just embarked on a novel scheme which aims at removing these obstacles. She takes young women to reside with her in a large house in Ealing, allows them a sum of money equivalent to a young professional man's salary—say, £250 per annum—and shows them how to make the best of it. Rent, rates, and taxes are paid out of the total; butchers, bakers, grocers, tailors, dressmakers, and other items of household management are settled with; even life assurance and the annual holidays are taken into account. Only half a guinea a head per week is allotted for food.

"Modest though that sum is, the girls after a little tuition can work wonders with it," said the initiator of the scheme, Mrs. A. Hockly. "It allows of a substantial breakfast for husband and wife, consisting of two or three courses. In the absence of the husband in the city the wife contents herself with a light luncheon, but prepares a good dinner in readiness for his return home. The girls are taught to make most of their own clothes; but, in addition, are granted £20 a year for their best frocks and hats. The superstitious husband takes another £20 for a like purpose."

Weekly price lists from provision dealers are carefully studied by the young women, who base their daily menus on the existing state of the market. On certain days the pupils are taken round the grocery stores and shown how to spend money to the best advantage.

THE PRESIDENT AND PANAMA.

Argument That His Action Was Within the Law.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your article on "Compliance with the Law," referring to President Roosevelt's course in the Panama Canal as arbitrary and autocratic, requires a little explanation. Did not Colombia, by the Hay-Herran treaty, agree to give Uncle Sam the right to build the canal for a certain money consideration? And did not a band of South American adventurers raise the "ante" on Uncle Sam when they saw he meant business, and did they not then try to practice "hold-up" methods?

Would the President have been praised or condemned had he yielded to the operabouffe threatenings of these pseudo-Hidalgos and given up the Panama route (concededly the better route) in favor of the Nicaragua route, more especially after Panama which was the only valuable asset of these adventurers, seeing that she was being played fast and loose with, had declared her independence and her willingness to stand by Uncle Sam in this most prodigious of modern undertakings?

I consider that President Roosevelt acted within the law, within the Monroe Doctrine, and added to the lustre of Uncle Sam's name. MED.

Poor Pay for Office Work.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In regard to a sad story about defalcations by a young bookkeeper of a prominent concern, allow me to make a few remarks about the present condition of clerks, &c.

Why is it that a young man in charge of an office only makes $7 a week?

And why is it, as I have seen in so many instances, that a man who is a good bookkeeper, reliable stenographer, and foreign correspondent, cannot make more than $20 weekly?

We don't like to protest too much in public—this would be called Socialism, or even anarchy—but why is the present generation of American business men so harsh and cruel?

Why are we not allowed to make a little more, instead of being treated to the commonplace and sickening reply: "We pay more than $50,000 per year for clerical assistance. That will do."

Why is all this?

We married people do not like to kick too much. We know there are thousands of young men who would throw us out and work for $10 a week—and less.

This state of things is not right. We bookkeepers, stenographers, correspondents, &c., are just as valuable as mechanics.

There are many of us who are satisfied with two five-dollar bills and a title of manager, but the majority think more seriously of the future, which is dark, very, very dark. P.

Viceroy and Vicereine.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Will you permit me to say regarding a subject about which you discoursed so pleasantly to-day in "Topics of the Times" that it was decided many years ago by the paramount authority in the matter, the British Government, that the wife of the Viceroy of India was not Vicereine, for the simple reason that, while her husband represented the King and was therefore Vice King, she did not represent the Queen, and consequently could not be Vice Queen, which, after all, is the true definition of the word. Since then the wives of the successive Viceroys have been content with the title of "the Viceroy's lady," and it remained for the daughter of an opulent American merchant, filled no doubt with an innate and national dislike for kingly titles, to attempt by sheer persistency to nullify that decision and to reverse the unbroken traditional custom of a century or more. It is worth noting also that shortly after the return of Lord and Lady Curzon to England, there appeared in various New York papers a statement, apparently semi-official at least, since it was dated from Windsor, England, to the effect that Lady Curzon's title was the Viceroy's lady, and that she was not in any sense of the word "Vicereine of India." Neglected Park Avenue Parks.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I beg through you to call the attention of the Park Department to the dilapidated condition of the Park Avenue parks.

This avenue, as you will recollect, was formerly a byway, not available for public use on account of its heavy grades, &c. It was transformed into one of our finest boulevards by the late Superintendent of Public Parks, Mr. Collis.

These parks seem, for some time past, to have been abandoned by the Park Department. They have had no manure for several years, and the shrubbery has been entirely neglected. They are frequented by a lot of boys, who jump the fences and break the bushes at will and without restraint.

There is a man (employed, I presume, by the Park Department) who visits these parks daily to remove paper and rubbish. This man carries a stick about four feet long, pointed at one end, to lift the scattered papers, &c., but carries no receptacle for the rubbish he may find; hence he piles his collections either under the bushes or throws them into the adjoining street, frequently throwing some of his collections into the openings of the tunnel, for the railroad to remove from their tracks.

It seems to me that the residents of this section are entitled to more consideration at the hands of the Department of Public Parks. PRO BONO PUBLICO.

"Judge in yourselves: Is it comely that a woman pray unto God uncovered?"—First Corinthians xi., 13.

The no-hat movement, which commenced somewhat unobtrusively in Newquay, Cornwall, last year, has so asserted itself this season as to threaten the extinction of the craft of hatters and milliners.

All ranks and ages, mainly among the visitors, have adopted it. Men with bald heads and men with luxuriant locks are among its devotees, and ladies, regardless of tangled tresses and disordered fringes, appear without headgear.

Anticipating the appearance of hatless ladies in his church, and regarding such an act as irreverent, the Vicar of Crantock, whose church lies about a mile from Newquay across the Gannel, issued a printed circular, which was posted in the porch and distributed. This bore a request that "Ladies who walk with uncovered heads will not forget the universal Christian custom which prohibits their so entering the house of God. They must please use some simple head-covering or kerchief while within the church, or refrain from entering it."

The Vicar further remarked that "this is no more than to ask men to uncover on entering God's house, which is happily unnecessary," and appealed to all reverently minded visitors to see that the requests are not disregarded.

On the Sunday evening following a lady was daring enough to enter the church during the service and make her way to a front seat carrying a specimen of artistic millinery in her hand. She was courteously requested by the verger to place it on her head. This is not the only instance in which the direction has been disregarded.

In all weathers and winds the hatless brigade still increases and multiplies at Newquay.

In other places, however, lady enthusiasts are attending divine service with uncovered heads without let or hindrance. At Cardiff, and even [illegible] village of Weobly, Herefordshire, [illegible] conscientious scruples.

DISCUSSING THE TARIFF.

It Is the Real Issue—Fallacy of Protection.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent "E. S." asserts, in his letter published in your issue of to-day, that goods might be sold cheaper in foreign ports than at home even if there were no tariff at all. He adds, "It is the business trick of getting a market," and then puts the case of the commercial traveler who sells to a man living in a distant city at a price lower than is charged to a man living next door, and who thus designedly incurs a loss for the purpose of getting the first man's trade.

The difference between this case and the cases that arise under our protective tariff is just this: In the case put by "E. S." the seller pays the loss out of his own pocket. In the cases that arise under our protective tariff the losses are paid out of the pockets of other people. This slight difference appears to be of no particular consequence to "E. S." The people who bear the loss are probably of a different opinion.

Suppose that a certain article is on the free list. It is then hardly likely that any person who imports it will sell it abroad cheaper than in the United States. But if he does the loss is his own, and it is nobody else's business. But suppose, further, that a tariff law is enacted levying a duty of 50 per cent. on the article. Importation now ceases, and the consumer is driven by the protective tariff, as by a club, to some home manufacturer, who forces him, by means of the tariff, to pay $150 for an article that cost $100 only under free trade. This home industry owes its existence to the tariff, and would cease if the tariff were repealed; that is, it owes its existence to forced contributions levied on consumers. The home manufacturer may then sell abroad cheaper than he does at home, but his ability to do so arises solely from these forced contributions; that is to say, his losses, temporary or permanent, come out of the pockets of other people.

As to the wages of the "man in the factory," it is enough to say that the consumers from whom these contributions are extorted have themselves to support, and probably their own employes to pay. There is no reason why they should help to pay the wages due by other people.

"E. S." adds that it makes him tired to see the lack of business sense there is in politics. In this I thoroughly agree with him. D. HOLSMAN.

Atlantic City, Sept. 19, 1904.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The importance of the tariff in the present campaign entirely transcends the matter of its particular schedules. The most ardent protectionist, unless utterly insane, might frankly concede that there may be in places something the matter with these. So far, therefore, as the Democratic Party contents itself with suggestions as to changes in the schedules, it is in the position, so dangerous to any party, of having no real reason for existence. If it has such a reason, it can only be as the protagonist or champion of individualism in political affairs. The essential feature of the tariff is that it is thinly disguised Socialism. It points the principle that it is the function, and therefore the duty, of the State to decide the fate of business; to say to one line of money-making effort: "Come and bask in the sunlight of the right to levy taxes on your fellow-citizens," and to another line of such effort: "The Government decides that you must make profits for yourself and certain others whom the Government selects."

Individualism may be wrong and Socialism right. That is not the question. The essential consideration is that from the standpoint of individual property and the right to retain one's earnings less the legitimate demands of the Government economically administered, every advantage which "protection" claims for itself may be cheerfully conceded and it still represent a most dangerous menace to the present social order. It is very obvious that the Republican Party is fatuously raising a spirit that it cannot lay. For what no set of mortal men can do is to use a Socialist principle of government for certain purposes which they happen to regard, for any public or personal reason, as judicious and deny its exercise to others for any purpose the latter may see fit. For the Democratic Party to talk about anything but the tariff, and about that as a matter strictly of principle, is to show that the fundamental principle of Socialism is conceded by them. If so, it spells extinction for the Democratic Party. The National contest, if Socialism as a principle be conceded, is between the Socialists who think the principle has not been already carried far enough in legislation and the Republicans who think that it has been so carried. A great historical party will die hard and be long in doing it. But unless it represents something more than an appetite for office, the American people are far too practical to support it.

Hence, as it seems to us, is the vital value of your insistence that the tariff is the issue. Certainly the principle of protection is the only real issue.

Street Repairs Badly Needed.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Can you learn for us when Fourteenth Street, between Seventh and Ninth Avenues, will be asphalted? It has been torn up for almost two months, and no signs of its being done or finished while Winter is almost upon us. The gutters in Hudson Street, between Chambers and Fourteenth Streets, are in a terrible condition, the asphalt strip laid there being full of holes and ruts; also the block on West Broadway, between Warren and Chambers Streets. Why doesn't the Street Commissioner see to it that when repairs are now made asphalt bricks or wooden blocks should be put down, hard and dry, and not this soft asphalt that is cut to pieces twenty-four hours after being put down? The public has suffered altogether too long with this kind of miserable botch patchwork that doesn't last over night. SUFFERER.

New York, Sept. 19, 1904.

FLED.

The wind from the North, in the raw, dark night,
Blows high, blows low.
Low, high, low; blows in the bight,
Laden with hail, and the frighted snow.
(Blow, wind, blow!)
A heart beats fast in the bitter storm,
For the casement light and the circle warm,
For the welcome home by the loved love's love,
From the snow below and the wind above.
(Would love forego,
Did he foreknow?)
Blow, wild wind, if you will to blow!

Now Heart of Love in Heaven, O heed
The woe below!
Woe, ah, woe! and a true man's need!
Wind from the North, with thy freight of snow,
Blow, blow, blow!
O, the ingle-nook is warm and bright,
And comfort crouns to the bleak, bleak night,
From fare and fire, and all things there—
Save a cruel note on an empty chair.
Blow, wind, blow,
But low, blow low,
And meld ye a mound with the light, white snow.

So much that was admirable, and in Mr. Clyde Fitch's very best manner, was revealed last night at the Garrick in "The Coronet of the Duchess," that one was put to it to at times explain why the play as a whole failed to take a firmer grip on the interest and the emotions. Marriage contracts in which kind hearts are bartered for coronets and simple girlish faith for Norman blood, (with all the absorbing details of social position and legal settlements,) have bulked large of late in the public mind, and Mr. Fitch has chosen his dramatic point of view with much theatric skill.

As far as the scenario goes, the play is one of the most consistent and logically developed that its author has yet produced, and the general scheme of the characters, with its broad and keen contrasts of representative and acutely observed individualities, is most promising. The cast was of Mr. Fitch's best, which is the very best. But what should have been the great moments somehow left one quite cold. The defect was in the writing. It was as if for the moment the author had gone stale.

In the first act one saw how Millicent wavered between the worldly counsels of her mother and the sentimental exhortations of her aunt, and finally decided for amusement and social distinction in the person of her shallow and calculating but not unamiable lordling. The second act brought the realization of the Duke's past, embodied in Pussy Hawkins, manicurist, and revealed that this past was in fact a historical present, which the husband quite blandly refused to forego, even borrowing money from his wife to maintain his second establishment, and giving the party of the left hand a half of the double string of pearls bought to celebrate the first anniversary of his marriage with the party of the right hand.

In the third act came a scene in which the ducal pair wrangled in the full regalia of purple and ermine, which ended in Millicent's realizing that she had come to love her plain-spoken Middle Western second cousin. The last act brought a second bargain, in consequence of which the Duke sold a matrimonial release with as much business acumen as he had displayed in the matter of the original settlement. Millicent went home to the land of the Stars, Stripes, and wholesome domestic ideals.

Such a story, if embodied in convincing characters and wrought out in well-written scenes of cumulative interest, could not fail to be of deep and abiding import, and of stirring dramatic interest. But at the critical moment there was an almost complete absence of true emotional color. Instead of passion we had sermons on the domestic relations of the kind one finds in "The Woman's Home Companion," "The Ladies' Polite Companion," and all the useful magazines that advertise themselves as "virile and practical household helps." There were moments when one wondered why Mr. Fitch had omitted the explanation of how to make a husband happy with a hairpin. And the language the heroine spoke! It was the schoolgirl's language of flowers running riot in bookmadness, the spinster's thesaurus of sentiment at its most rhetorical. "My ideal of happiness," exclaimed Millicent, "was a chariot of which one wheel was amusement and the other position; and she proceeded to describe the particular kind of figurative gas buggy it had turned out.

The cast, like the idea of the play, was worthy of better things. As Millicent's mother, Mrs. Hone revealed again her mastery of the polite distinction of the modish world. As the sentimental aunt, Mrs. Thomas Whiffen was, as always, admirable—simple, sincere, and commanding. As her maid, Zelda Sears gave a very clever cut impersonation of an American servant, who began like Millicent with the mania of title worship, and was similarly disillusioned by the aristocratic butler who coveted her for her bank account—a delicious comic underplot to the main theme. As a Middle Western hoiden, full of slang and right feeling, Georgie Mendum scored the hit of her career up to the present, repeatedly convulsing the audience with deliciously characteristic Fitchisms. William Courtleigh took the part of the homely American cousin with much force.

But all odds and ends striking performance of the evening was the Duke of Ernest Lawford. It was a character of complex psychology not altogether convincing—the man capable of appearing agreeable and charming to as sincere and high-bred a girl as Millicent, and winning her even to a title bargain marriage, would scarcely talk so much of "makin' her his Duchess," and of being himself "a gentleman, what?" But the part was probably far more acutely studied than it will get credit for. Certainly its combination of amiable and well-meaning comradeship with entire ignorance of what is possible in a gentleman and a husband is no new thing in the sphere of the British nobility. Where Mr. Lawford was not hampered by the lack of conviction in the writing of the scenes he projected the author's intention with splendid force, revealing a breadth and certainty of character acting of which he has hitherto given little or no evidence.

Mrs. Bloodgood suffered most of all from the defects of the writing of her part. In addition to the banality of many of her lines, there was a lack of continuity in the moods of her character, and of well-ordered climax in her crises of emotion, that told fatally against her. From a moment of calmn she was obliged to descend with a rush to an access of rage and despair in which she was compelled to carry with her fists. Such violent shifts may be true to life, but in the play last night they were not so arranged as to be true to the art of the theatre.

Yet there were passages in which she displayed powers of the highest order, endowing the moods of a quite real and simple New York girl with an intensity, a finely modulated projection of life seldom if ever surpassed. The passage in which, seated on a stepladder beside her charity booth, she reads with her flighty and callow husband for affection, had an intensity and a biting reality as consummately artistic as Réjane at her best.

It is a real sorrow not to be able to feel more enthusiasm for her success on the whole. Last year, in Mr. Fitch's "Girl with the Green Eyes," she was backed up by what is beyond reasonable question the acutest, most moving, and deepest portrait of a woman in the range of the American drama, and played it with consummate effect—only to be ignored or scorned by the critics of the metropolis. She had her revenge in the fact that the public here stood for a run of over a hundred nights, and that on the road she—an dthe play—scored one of the few real successes of a generally disastrous season.

What her fate will be this season remains to be shown. It is Mr. Fitch's misfortune—or his glory—that the refinement and truth of the better part of his work brings him into comparison with the master playwrights of England—a comparison that is hard in any playwright. Judging him by the standards of his fellows here he shines even in the present play. Not since Bronson Howard's "Aristocracy" has an American playwright attempted a theme of such broad and vital import, and the comparison here is all on Mr. Fitch's side.

There was a pretty general impression last evening among the critical that the play would prove unsuccessful. But there is a vast difference between the general public and a first-night audience. The play has a certain breadth and immediateness of purport that is not unlikely to prove appalling to the general public.

MUCH IMPURE FOOD.

Adulteration Widely Practiced, Says Dr. Ernst J. Lederle.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 21.—The preliminary work of the International Congress of Arts and Sciences having been completed during the firs: two days of the convention, the remaining four days will be devoted entirely to sectional meetings.

A paper written by Dr. Ernst J. Lederle, ex-Commissioner of Health of New York City, was read, Dr. Lederle being absent in Germany. It was in part as follows:

"An important field is now opening to the sanitarian in the investigation of manufactured food products. The extent to which commercial adulteration and substitution is now practiced would be absolutely incomprehensible to the layman. Competition in trade has become so keen and the substitution of inferior constituents in foods so general that the honest manufacturer has hardly a chance to succeed.

"The use of injurious preservatives has also been practiced to a scandalous extent. The only remedy for this evil condition will be the passage and enforcement of a Federal pure food law; such a measure has already been before Congress, but in the absence of an aroused public opinion, the mysterious influences which bar the way of much good legislation at Washington have been able to kill it.

"Much the same opportunity is offered in a campaign against the vendor of patent medicines and secret nostrums. Few people understand the extent to which these articles undermine the public health, and there has been little or no attempt to assume official control over their production and sale.

"The remedy is official control. Makers of patent medicines, nostrums, pills, &c., should be required to place upon each bottle or packet the exact ingredients it contains, and should be prosecuted for any deviation which can be shown to be detrimental to the health of persons using the remedy, or designed to perpetrate upon them a commercial fraud."

UNION PACIFIC VERY ACTIVE.

114,000 Shares Change Hands—Harriman-Rockefeller War Rumors.

Tremendous activity in Union Pacific issues, coming, as it did, on top of the story of strained relations between E. H. Harriman and Standard Oil interests, caused all Wall Street yesterday to wonder what was going to happen. Union Pacific common went up to 101, a rise of over 4 points in two days, and 114,000 shares changed hands. At one time there were counted five competitive interests bidding for the stock, namely, the so-called Kuhn-Loeb brokers, the Standard Oil brokers, the "Hoffman House crowd," the short interest, and the semi-professional interest.

One of the bits of alleged history that came out in the course of the day was recounted to show that there was some friction between Mr. Harriman and some of the men who are most intimately connected with the affairs of the Union Pacific. At the Northern Securities meeting, so the story ran, one of the Union Pacific representatives offered a resolution of compromise, naming a committee, the majority of whom were absent in Europe. The matter was urgent and it was pointed out to the representative that his suggestion was impracticable, and that if Mr. Harriman were present the resolution would not have been permitted to be brought forward in that way. To this the Union Pacific representative is said to have replied that he and not Mr. Harriman represented the position of the Union Pacific, thus indicating an attitude which it is said has since been maintained more or less, not exactly to the liking of Mr. Harriman.

It was also reported that H. H. Rogers and William Rockefeller were now the largest individual holders of Union Pacific, and that in the end Mr. Harriman would have to do as they desired.

NOTES OF THE THEATRES.

Pete Dailey will be an auctioneer this afternoon at the Polo Grounds. He will sell boxes for the benefit of the New York Baseball Club, which is to be given at the New York Theatre Sunday night, Oct. 2.

⁂

Modest Altschuler, the conductor of the Russian Symphony Society, with his band of devotees to the cause of Russian music, will make his appearance at Carnegie Hall Nov. 19. ⁂

A sixty horse power Mercedes motor car will be used in the production of "The Baroness Fiddlesticks," which MacDonald & Sullivan are to produce. Anna Fitzhugh, who has the title rôle, will make her entrance in it. The managers say it cost $17,000.

⁂

B. C. Whitney, manager of "The Isle of Spice," has offered three prizes, $10, $5, and $3, for the three best poems upon the subject of the musical comedy. The decision will be rendered Wednesday, Oct. 5.

⁂

Vivian Blackburn was engaged by Weber & Ziegfeld yesterday for a part in "Higgledy-Piggledy." She was in Anna Held's production of "The Little Duchess" a few seasons ago.

⁂

Edna May, when she leaves Daly's Theatre with "The School Girl," will move to the Herald Square, opening there on Oct. 24. "The Cingalee" will take "The School Girl's" place at Daly's.

⁂

Lew Dockstader, the minstrel, will come to New York much sooner than he expected this year. He will come to the Herald Square with his black-face troupe a week from next Monday to stay three weeks. Dockstader was able to get a booking at this house because Charles Frohman had decided to place Mrs. Patrick Campbell at the New Amsterdam instead of at the Herald Square.

Charles Richman with Ada Rehan.

Charles Richman will be Ada Rehan's leading man this season. Mr. Richman's last New York appearance was as a star in "Captain Barrington." The plays in which he will be seen with Miss Rehan are "The Taming of the Shrew," "The Country Girl," and "The School for Scandal.". It was the original intention of the Shuberts to make Robert Loraine the leading man in the Rehan company, but "Tops" succeeded so much better than was expected at the Lyric Theatre and Mr. Loraine's personal success as Don Lauffen was so marked that he could not be spared. He is to be starred later in George Bernard Shaw's play, "Man and Superman."

Regiment to See Dreamland.

Nine hundred officers and men of the Fourteenth Regiment, Brooklyn, have accepted the invitation of President Reynolds to visit Dreamland to-night. Under command of Col. A. L. Kline, the regiment will assemble at the armory, Eighth Avenue, near Fourteenth Street, at 8 o'clock, and will go by trolley cars to Coney Island.

Mathewson May Go in Vaudeville.

Christy Mathewson, the star twirler of the New York National League team, is to make his vaudeville début at the New York Theatre on Oct. 2. The occasion will be a benefit for the New York team. If Mathewson makes a "hit" he intends to devote himself to the stage during the months when he cannot be on the diamond.

Report of New Williamsburg Theatre.

It was reported in Williamsburg yesterday that a syndicate had purchased a site at Broadway and Hancock Street for a music hall to be modeled after Hammerstein's.

PLAN TO SHIFT PUPILS TO AVOID CONGESTION

May Be Put Into Operation at Once, It's Said.

MAYOR MAKES SUGGESTIONS

Two School Commissioners Say That Perhaps Part Time Is Enough, Anyway—Budget, $24,000,000.

The Board of Education met yesterday and considered at length the problem of housing all of the public school pupils. A letter was read from Mayor McClellan suggesting several ways for solving the problem, one of these being the use of school playrooms for classrooms. Another plan which was suggested and was referred by the board to the Committee on Elementary Schools was to shift many of the older pupils about so as to make room for the younger pupils at schools near their homes.

This last plan, it was said after the meeting, might be put into operation immediately and thus relieve the present condition of affairs—room in some districts, and congestion in others.

In the course of the discussion Commissioners Lummis and Donnelly suggested that the board might well consider whether it wasn't better for children to go to school for half a school day, or at least for shorter hours, instead of a whole day. The discussion wound up with a decision to refer the whole question of better school facilities to the Committee on Elementary Schools.

The Mayor's letter started off with a declaration that his administration had promised plenty of money for schools and had kept its word. "But the situation," he wrote, "on the opening of the Fall school term proves to be worse than it was in October, 1903. Such conditions had been anticipated by the administration, which felt that the emergency would have to be met by unusual means." The letter continues in part as follows:

"A suggestion was made for the building of temporary schoolhouses in the small parks, but this scheme was abandoned because of a popular sentiment against their use for other than recreation purposes. Another plan—which was made operative by an act of the Legislature—provided for the transportation of pupils from the crowded districts into other districts at a reduced fare. A third, the so-called Ettinger plan, making a new partition of the school day, was tried in Dr. Ettinger's school, but was not wholly successful. Proposals to revise the school curriculum were rejected as unwise. The result is that the school term begins with 81,318 part time pupils, although in nine months of this administration contracts have been let for 52,100 new sittings, a new record, exceeding the highest figures chronicled in any previous administration in a full twelve months. I do not overlook the fact that the Board of Education will have provided 24,000 additional sittings by Feb. 1, 1905, if the work of construction be not delayed by strikes or other intervention. While some encouragement might be drawn from these figures, the part-time question is still to be solved.

"At my request Dr. Ettinger has elaborated his plan during the Summer, and it is set forth in its modified form in the accompanying letter, which I have the honor to transmit to you.

"I desire also to call your attention to the attached letter from Mr. C. B. J. Snyder, architect of the Board of Education, showing schools where congestion exists which have playrooms which might easily be turned into study rooms. This list enumerates sixty-five schools, the capacity of each of which would practically be doubled by the adoption of the Ettinger plan, and this, I believe, would in effect solve the part time question.

"In the boroughs outside of Manhattan the playrooms are in basements not well adapted for study rooms, but Dr. Ettinger has opportunely suggested that in these schools the assembly rooms might be used for classrooms as a temporary expedient.

"If you deem the Ettinger plan impracticable, it seems plain that with sittings more than sufficient to accommodate the school registration the city ought to avail itself of some plan like that of intermediate schools to relieve the congestion."

The Mayor asked for an early answer.

The paragraph in Dr. Ettinger's letter which is referred to in the letter of the Mayor, and which briefly explains the scheme, reads:

"Under this plan such periods are transferred to the playground at a stated time, and the rooms so vacated are occupied by another group of classes. Thus in the highest grades of the school one classroom between the hours of 8:30 A. M. and 4:30 P. M. affords six periods for two classes, and each class receives full time instruction, namely, four hours and forty-five minutes daily. Of course the plan can only be applied in a building having a heated and well lighted playground. Upon the number of such buildings depends the number of children that can be taken off part time. If applied in this school it will take, according to present register, 1,048 children off part time. It seems to me, furthermore, that the operation of this plan could be extended to include the high schools."

Superintendent C. B. J. Snyder accompanied the letters of the Mayor and that of Dr. Ettinger with a list of schools adaptable to the purpose proposed by the Mayor. The list included sixty-five schools in Manhattan and the Bronx.

In the discussion Commissioner Mack said that "a scheme merely to drive children between school walls" was "a farce." Individual attention to the pupil by the teachers he considered of great importance. Then he said:

"The whole thing is a farce. Every one of you here knows it. There is no question about it that every child in New York could get adequate instruction if we would spend the money. But we are told on the one side that we are spending more money than was ever spent in New York before, and on the other hand comes the cry that we cannot supply school accommodations for our pupils. We are practically being ground between two millstones."

The budget for the coming year, which was handed in was for $24,231,850.82. In his letter to the Committee on Finance, Superintendent Maxwell recommended that the number of teachers to be employed between Sept. 1, 1905, and Dec. 31, 1905, be reduced from 120 men to 80 men, and from 580 women to 500, "on the ground," he said, "that we are not justified in estimating a larger increase in 1905 than in 1904. He added:

"The facts show that we are not going to have so large an increase this year as we anticipated."

The budget was accepted and referred to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

MURPHY'S "AWFULEST" TWIST.

It Saved His Life by Keeping Dynamite Right Side Up.

When Policeman Tate found Michael J. Murphy, a shorer, down under the staging of a new pier at the foot of East One Hundred and Forty-fourth Street, yesterday afternoon, suffering from a sprained ankle, a contused back, and a few internal injuries, the injured man's face was wreathed in smiles. Murphy was lying on his back, clasping a wooden box against his body.

"What's the joke?" asked Tate.

"Well, that twist saved my life, all right," said the shorer.

"What twist?" asked the policeman.

"I've got twenty-five pounds of dynamite here," said Murphy, indicating the box. "I was walking along the dock up there when I lost my footing and fell. I thought if the dynamite fell first my name would be Dennis instead of Michael, so I just gave the awfulest twist you ever saw. I struck on my right foot first and then fell on my back, and the stuff was safe. But I guess the ankle's broke."

Tate carefully removed the box to a place of safety and then summoned an ambulance. At the Lebanon Hospital the physicians said it would be some time before Murphy would be able to resume his work.

SUIT OVER BURBANK ESTATE.

Mrs. Mary Newcomb Wants $125,000 on Alleged Gift of Bonds.

Mrs. Mary Newcomb, who was unsuccessful in contesting the will of Ambrose Burbank, who died in this city on Jan. 17 last, began an action in the Supreme Court yesterday against Caleb A. Burbank and George H. Southard, the executors of the Burbank will, to recover $125,000 which Mrs. Newcomb says is due her on certain bonds.

In her complaint she alleges that the elder Burbank before his death told her she was his favorite niece, although only by marriage, and entered into an agreement with her by which he gave to her certain bonds which were to remain in his custody until his death. This agreement is attached to the complaint. It is dated July 17, 1899.

While the will contest was on in the Surrogate's Court a few months ago one of the heirs under the will, Samuel Burbank, attempted suicide in a down-town law office. He is now in a sanitarium.

ASSOCIATED PRESS DIRECTORS.

Retiring Members Re-elected—William R. Nelson in Board.

At the annual meeting of The Associated Press yesterday the following Directors were re-elected: Albert J. Barr, Pittsburg Post; Clark Howell, Atlanta Constitution; Charles W. Knapp, St. Louis Republic; Frank B. Noyes, Chicago Record-Herald, and M. H. De Young, San Francisco Chronicle. William R. Nelson of The Kansas City Star was elected to fill out the unexpired term due to the resignation of William D. Brickell of The Columbus Dispatch.

Mr. Nelson is proprietor and editor in chief of The Kansas City Star and also of The Kansas City Times. He was born at Fort Wayne, Ind., March 7, 1841, and was educated at Notre Dame University, in that State. In 1881 he married Ida Houston, daughter of Robert Houston. He founded the Gallery of Art at Kansas City, which bears his name. His residence is at Oak Hall, and his office at Grand Avenue and Eleventh Street, Kansas City, Mo.

REAR ADMIRAL BACK, NO BETTER.

Gilmore Went Abroad to Find Health—Vaderland's Accident.

Rear Admiral F. P. Gilmore, retired, arrived home yesterday on the steamship Vaderland. The Rear Admiral went abroad to find health, but gained little, and came back under care of the ship's surgeon.

Soon after leaving Dover the Vaderland picked up a stray piece of a cable with one of her propellers, which caused a delay of twenty-two hours while the blades were being cleared. Among her passengers were Prof. Louis M. Dennis of Cornell University, Dr. Francis Delafield, Dr. P. W. Powers, J. Quincy Hunsicker, and the Rev. S. V. V. Holmes.

NEWPORT'S FLOWER SHOW.

Mrs. Astor and Perry Belmont Divide Honors for Fancy Baskets.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, Sept. 21.—The special feature of the Horticultural Society's exhibition today, the display of baskets of flowers for decorative purposes, was a battle royal between the Astors and the Belmonts, in which neither house had much the advantage.

In the display of roses Mrs. Astor won the first prize with American Beauties, and Perry Belmont had to be content with second prize for his basket of Bridesmaid roses.

In the class for baskets of flowers other than roses or dahlias, the order was reversed. Mr. Belmont won first prize with a handsome display of alamandas and Mrs. Astor was second with almost as handsome a basket of double pink hollyhucks.

In the exhibits of fancy baskets of dahlias, Mrs. W. S. Wells won one first and one third prize, Mrs. John R. Drexel won a second prize, and Mrs. Astor a third prize.

To-morrow there will be exhibits of table decorations, with twenty-two competitors. The judges will be Miss Edith Wetmore, Miss Anna F. Hunter, and Mrs. Lorillard Spencer. There is lively interest in the contest not only among the gardeners, but among their employers.

FIGHT NEW RAILROAD'S MOVE.

Legality of Westchester and Boston Stock Increase Questioned.

The New York, Westchester and Boston Railway Company made an application yesterday before the Board of State Railroad Commissioners for a stock increase of $19,000,000 and a bond issue of $20,000,000.

Counsel for the Van Nest Land and Improvement Compaay of the Bronx and for the New York and Port Chester Railway Company, opposed the application, alleging that its legality was doubtful. In support of this, counsel argued that the Westchester and Boston Company had not received proper authorization from the Railroad Commission, nor had it the right to go through New Rochelle, Mount Vernon, and Westchester County.

An adjournment was taken to allow the preparation of evidence.

OUR GOVERNMENT MAY SELL OPIUM TO FILIPINOS

Commission Recommends a Monopoly in the Islands.

BEST WAY TO DEAL WITH EVIL

Prohibition Impossible at Present, but Hoped For Later—Measures to Check Sale of the Drug.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The United States Government is likely soon to engage in the business of selling opium in the Philippines. The matter will come before Congress next Winter, and in the meantime it is believed that the Philippine Government will adopt legislation providing for an immediate Governmental opium monopoly in the islands.

The commission appointed by Secretary Taft not long before he resigned the Governorship of the archipelago has made its report to Gov. Wright, and the substance of the findings has been sent to the War Department. The commission urges that the opium trade be made the subject of a monopoly at once.

The commission consists of Major Carter, Bishop Brent, and Dr. Albert. It instituted inquiries in Japan, China, Java, Formosa, Saigon, the Straits Settlements, and throughout the Philippines. The only place where there was difficulty in getting full information as to the use of the drug and the conditions under which it is consumed was in the City of Manila. The Chinese there control the greater part of the traffic in opium, and they would not civulge any particulars of their business.

The commission is of the opinion that the use of opium is spreading among the native Filipinos to an alarming extent, and that measures should be taken promptly to check traffic in the drug. The commission considered five methods of action: High license, local option, farming, prohibition, and a monopoly, and decided that the last named was the practical way of dealing with the evil.

The farming system was in vogue under Spain, and was used solely for the purpose of getting revenue. The United States does not desire to institute such a policy. Prohibition is impracticable among an Oriental population largely made up in the cities of Chinese, who to a man use opium. There are 70,000 Chinese in the Philippines, and they are all propagating the use of opium.

The commission states that the use of opium in the Philippines does not at this time constitute as grave a social danger as it does in China and other neighboring countries, and on that account it is all the more important to stamp out the evil if possible, or to check it and restrain it within bounds.

The commission recommends an exclusive monopoly, the right of importation and sale being limited to the Government. It says the exercise of this Governmental function should be intrusted to upright, intelligent, honorable, and well-recommended persons, following the practice observed in Java, with the object of eliminating from such a responsible trust all personal and commercial interests which would tend to extend the sale of the drug. The recommendation is also made that the monopoly be replaced as soon as practicable by absolute prohibition.

A system of registration and licensing for all chronic smokers is urged, limiting the right to procure opium in definite quantities to them.

As a corrective and educative measure all Filipino opium habitues are to be deprived of the right of franchise, and to be ineligible for any public orfice, municipal, provincial, and insular.

Gratuitous treatment of all habitues wishing to free themselves from the opium vice is suggested in the hospitals at Government expense.

Gov. Wright will forward the full report, to be submitted to Congress.

KING PETER IS CROWNED.

No Hitch in Ceremony, but the King Finds the Crown Heavy.

BELGRADE, Sept. 21.—Peter Karageorgevitch was crowned King of Servia to-day. There were no hostile demonstrations despite the numerous threats which had been made against the King's life.

In the solemn ritual of the Greek Church and in the elaborate State procession which preceded and followed the coronation the tragedy of Servia's previous ruler found no echo. Amid the thunder of the saluting guns from the royal palace and the garrison King Alexander's murder was at least outwardly forgotten.

The brilliant royal procession reached the cathedral shortly after 8 o'clock this morning. There the representatives of the foreign powers, the Cabinet Ministers, and others had already been waiting for some time. As King Peter entered the Metropolitan consecrated him.

The King took up his position under a canopy, and the Metropolitan, assisted by many Bishops and other clergy, commenced the solemn service, the choir singing "Thank Thee, Our Lord." The Premier and other Ministers handed the crown and regalia to King Peter. He kissed the crown, placed it on his head, and robed himself in the royal garments. An artillery salute of 101 guns then announced to the people of Belgrade that Peter had been crowned.

Wearing the crown on his head and fully robed, the King left the cathedral, remounted his horse, and rode through the crowded streets to the palace. The journey was marked by frantic cheering. There had been general fear that something might happen to mar the ceremony, and when the people saw King Peter crowned and riding safely back their relief found enthusiastic expression.

In the grand festal hall of the palace King Peter received the congratulations of the Diplomatic Corps and others, ascended the royal throne, and took the sceptre and orb in his hands. The ceremony of rendering homage was then performed. Now and again the King was obliged to lift his heavy crown and rest his head.

Though all the early morning was cloudy, when the King entered the cathedral the sun came out; but his standards were accidentally dropped in the mud.

The day's ceremonies closed with a gala performance at the theatre, which was attended by King Peter, the royal family, and the principal officials of the kingdom. The streets were illuminated.

No accident of any kind was reported throughout the day, and a great sense of relief is experienced that the first coronation in Servia for five centuries, which, owing to the tragic circumstances surrounding the disappearance of the previous dynasty, had been anticipated with the liveliest apprehension, passed off so satisfactorily.

It is said that the milk-white steed that the King rode after leaving the cathedral was presented by the Sultan of Turkey to Peter's murdered predecessor, and that the police duty in the palace during the past three nights was performed by the notorious Sixth Regiment. Whether this be so or not, it is impossible that last year's tragedy could have been absent from the minds of the spectators, and despite the regal carriage of the new King he several times during the tedious ceremony appeared nervous and ill at ease.

Funeral of Prince Bismarck.

FRIEDRICHSRUH, Sept. 21.—The funeral of Prince Herbert Bismarck took place to-day. It was a simple ceremony, although a distinguished company was present, including representatives of the Emperor, the German Sovereigns, and the Diplomatic Corps. Chancellor von Bülow, who was always a warm personal friend of the late Prince, attended the ceremony.

ATLANTIC RATE WAR STILL ON.

Increase in Steerage Fares Does Not Mean Cessation of Struggle.

HAMBURG, Sept. 21.—The Atlantic rate war is not over and the German lines have no intention of giving in. The Associated Press has received the following official statement from the Hamburg-American Line:

"The associated lines have decided to increase the westbound steerage rates from Great Britain to $15, but they have also decided to introduce further and considerable reductions in steerage rates to and from Austria-Hungary. The assumption circulated in some of the English papers that the raising of the British steerage rates was a sign that the associated lines were tired of the struggle, and that if only the Cunard Line followed suit they would slowly go up to their former rates, leaving the differences which led to the struggle undecided, is altogether wrong. The contrary is the case.

"The associated lines think, as before, that the war can only be terminated by a friendly understanding and the conclusion of a contract making a recurrence of the present circumstances, humanly speaking, impossible for many years."

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The White Star Line to-day announced that its steerage rate to America had been increased to $15.

The American Line announced an increase from $7.50 to $12.50 in the steerage rate to Philadelphia, and the Dominion Line announced a rate of $15 to Quebec.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 21.—The streets leading to the steerage offices of the transatlantic steamship companies were blocked this morning by thousands of emigrants clamoring for a last chance to get to America for $10.

The Baltic, which sailed to-day, took over 2,000 $10 emigrants, and many were left behind for lack of accommodation.

DEATH LIST OF A DAY.

Frank D. Higbee.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Frank D. Higbee, who as a promoter of various original schemes was widely known all over the country, died at his home here last night. He was born in Iowa forty-six years ago. He exhibited the silver statue which was a feature at the World's Fair in Chicago all over the country after the close of the fair.

Obituary Notes.

Mrs. ELIZABETH B. WATSON, one of the oldest residents of Elizabeth, N. J., is dead at the home of her daughter, 620 Madison Avenue, that city, aged ninety-three years. She was a native of Louisville, Ky.

JOSEPH FELDMAN, for fifteen years a Justice of the Peace in Newark, died at his home, 73 Springfield Avenue, that city, yesterday, aged fifty-three years. A widow and five children survive him.

WILLIAM SHRADY, who died at his residence, 25 West One Hundred and Twentieth Street, on Tuesday last, was the junior member of the law firm of J. & W. Shrady of 90 Nassau Street, and was a brother of Dr. George F. Shrady and Dr. John Shrady of Harlem. He had artistic tastes, and in his earlier life was an exhibitor in the National Academy of Design.

IN THE SHOPS.

In one of the jeweler's windows up town there is a queer little head, about as large as that of a doll, with long black hair falling down the back. It looks almost like a bronze or, upon a second glance and from something that might be an ornament of strings hanging from the lips, like an Indian curio. It is Indian and certainly curious. It is the head of a South American Indian, and—so the explanation is given—that of a man killed by his tribe and with the lips sewed that he may not reveal in a spirit world the secrets of this. All this uncannyness may be bought for $5,000.

⁂

A pretty ruching and one which will be useful is made of two rows of Val. lace, each something less than half an inch wide. It costs 25 cents a yard and should wash well.

⁂

Now is the time to lay in odds and ends of handkerchiefs. Pretty ones which are selling for 12½ cents each, and have been much more, are of linen of a very good quality, with colored borders, the printing in some cases running up into the handkerchief. One pretty design is in pink carnations, others have borders crowded with small flowers with straight stems in blue and green, and in green and lavender, and so on in great variety. There is an art nouveau effect to the designs, and they will be pretty another year for shirtwaist suit handkerchiefs.

⁂

Other handkerchiefs which are more delicate in effect and which will be useful for the same purpose have narrow hems of color, pink, or lavender, or some other delicate shade, the design in the color running up into the handkerchief proper, with parts of it embroidered in white. One handkerchief with a dark blue edge finished with lace has two narrow rows of embroidery outlining it on the blue in the design of small forget-me-nots. These handkerchiefs are 25 cents each.

⁂

Little powder puff handkerchiefs are selling at 50 cents, 75 cents, and $2. The latter are naturally the prettiest, of very fine sheer linen, handmade, with a narrow and fine edge of Val. lace, and with a little square pocket made of the lace set on in the centre, this for the miniature powder puff. The other handkerchiefs have the pockets of the linen and are machine made, varying in quality. In these, however, is the little puff itself, which seems to be given as a prize with each handkerchief.

⁂

A simple little stock for morning and shirtwaist wear is one of linen, a straight standing stock, plain, with a little group of narrow tucks running perpendicularly up and down in the centre of the front. There are short and narrow ends made to tie once, and these are finished with a group of narrow tucks at the ends. One of these stocks costs $1.

⁂

Among the bargains in towels are a quantity in Turkish toweling selling for 12½ cents. They are large, some hemmed, and others fringed.

NEW YORKS FAIL TO SCORE 100TH VICTORY

Receive Two Chances Against Cincinnati and Lose Both of Them.

AMERICANS STILL IN LEAD

Greater New Yorks Beaten in Last Game with Washington and Boston Wins Twice.

The New York National League team received two opportunities yesterday to score their hundredth victory, but failed in each instance. Cincinnati won the first game by batting Mathewson hard, and in the second game of seven innings McGann's error and Taylor's wildness gave Kelley's men two runs, the only ones scored during the game. The Pittsburgs took two games from Brooklyn, and Chicago lost two to Philadelphia, thereby placing the champions second in the championship standing.

In the American League the Greater New Yorks played the last game of the season with the Washingtons, and were beaten, but they are still in the lead, although Boston captured two games from Philadelphia. No contests are scheduled for the Americans to-day, the Eastern teams journeying West for their last games abroad. Summary follows:

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Mathewson Hit Hard, Taylor Lost His Head, and New Yorks Were Beaten.

The New Yorks not only lost both games of the double-header with the Cincinnatis yesterday, but for the first time this season were defeated three times in succession, being beaten on Monday in the second game of a double-header with Brooklyn. Nearly nine thousand "rooters" were scattered around the Polo Grounds yesterday, confidently expecting that the coming champions would at least win their hundredth victory. But after losing the first game by six to four, and shut out in the second, after it had been agreed to play only seven innings, the disappointment was keen.

The Cincinnatis won the first game on their merits. They did not get so many hits as the local men, but theirs were of a more telling character. It was Mathewson against Hahn in the box, and after the second inning Mathewson was hit for a home run, five two-baggers, and three singles, which earned five of the six runs credited to Cincinnati. The run which was not earned was scored by Corcoran in the third inning on a two-bagger, a wild pitch, and Bowerman's bad throw to second base. The New Yorks tallied in but one inning, the fifth, and before they had finished with Hahn four runs had been scored, all being earned. The first two men had been put out when Mathewson bunted prettily toward third. Then followed a double, two singles, and another double. After this only one hit was made off Hahn.

In the second game Harper was pitted against Taylor, and while the latter's pitching was far more effective than the Cincinnatian's, Taylor became nettled with the decisions of Umpire Carpenter on called balls and lost his steadiness. The result was that a base on balls, aided by a fumble of McGann's, gave the visitors two runs and the game. Although Harper gave two men bases on balls, had two wild pitches, and hit two batsmen, the New Yorks were unable to do any timely batting, and ten men were left on bases. The scores:

In the first game the visitors made three runs in the first inning. Leever pitched good ball for Pittsburg.

Only seven innings were played in the second game on account of darkness. In this contest Flaherty allowed Brooklyn only two hits. The scores:

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Washingtons Bunch Hits on Clarkson and Win by 4 to 2.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—A rally at the bat in the eighth inning gave Washington the final game with New York to-day. Up to that time the locals were at the mercy of Clarkson, who allowed only three scattered hits and one run. Most of the time he was unsteady, hitting four men, and each batter got nearly the limit of balls called, but only one was successful in getting to first base. While Clarkson was effective Patten was being hit frequently, but he kept the hits separated, and no runs would have been scored off him had he not lost Dougherty's bunt. That put the New Yorks in position to score on a hit.

Clarkson started the third inning with a hit, Patten fumbled Dougherty's bunt, Keeler sacrificed, and Elberfeld hit safely, scoring Clarkson. After Donovan had caught Conroy's long fly Dougherty crossed the plate. Dougherty opened the fifth inning with a scratch hit, and Elberfeld sacrificed, but Conroy and Williams struck out, the last chance that New York had to score.

Two infield hits, a sacrifice, and an out gave Washington the first run. With one man out in the eighth inning, Clarkson hit Huelsman, Cassidy singled and stole second, and Donovan's drive past Elberfeld brought in two runs. Kittredge followed with a hit, and Donovan tallied. Clark was put out of the game in the fifth inning for protesting against a called ball. The score:

BOSTON TOOK TWO GAMES.

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—Boston gained on the leading club by winning both games played with Philadelphia. Henley weakened in the fifth inning of the first game, and his faulty control was largely responsible for Boston's run getting. The second game was an exciting battle down to the close. Plank replaced Coakley at the bat, and pitched later in the ninth inning. Dolan's lucky three-base hit and Selbach's single scored the deciding run. Scores:

Jim O'Rourke Catches for McGinnity.

Quite an interesting event will occur at the Polo Grounds this afternoon when the New York and Cincinnatis play another double-header. James O'Rourke, who was known as "The Orator" of the baseball field and one of the conspicuous members of the old New York team, will undertake to catch McGinnity's delivery, and the veteran is confident that he will succeed. O'Rourke is a stockholder of the New York Club, and although more than fifty years old is actively identified with the game. He is the sole owner of the Bridgeport Club, which finished second in the Connecticut League, and caught in many games during the championship season.

EASTERN GOLFERS ALL OUT.

Only Western Players Left in the Olympic Championships.

ST LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 21.—Eastern golfers are all out of the Olympic championship tournament and only Westerners remain. Three of the eight who will meet to-morrow in the third round at the Glen Echo Country Club hail from St. Louis. Chicago representatives to the number of three also have survived the strenuous thirty-six-hole competitions, while Canada and Seattle claim the remaining two contestants. One distinct surprise to-day was the defeat of W. A. Stickney, former St. Louis champion, by H. W. Allen of the St. Louis Field Club, by 4 up and 3 to play. Stuart Stickney, another former local champion, was beaten by G. S. Lyon of Toronto, Canada, and former amateur champion of his country, by 11 up, 10 to play. His total for the morning round was 77, which gave him the record for the course. H. Chandler Egan of Exmoor had little to fear from his rival, N. F. Moore of Lake Geneva, who was off in his short game and with a lead of 4 up in the morning. Egan won easily in the afternoon by 7 up, 6 to play. The only New Yorker in the tourney, Arthur Havemeyer, was put out by Mason E. Phelps of Midlothian, the Yale champion, who was 10 up in the morning, and who won by 12 up, 10 to play. The summary follows:

Second Round.—G. S. Lyon, Toronto, defeated Stuart Stickney, St. Louis, 11 up, 9 to play; A. B. Lambert, Glen Echo, defeated Ralph McKittrick, St. Louis, 1 up; Mason E. Phelps, Midlothian, defeated Arthur Havemeyer, Deal Beach, 12 up, 10 to play; F. C. Newton, Seattle, Washington, defeated Allan Lard, Washington, D. C., 6 up, 5 to play; Burt McKinnie, St. Louis, defeated R. E. Hunter, Midlothian, 7 up, 6 to play; Ned Sawyer, Wheaton, defeated Simpson Poulin, Wheaton, 2 up, 1 to play; H. W. Allen, St. Louis Field, defeated, W. A. Stickney, St. Louis, 4 up, 3 to play; H. C. Egan, Exmoor, defeated Nathaniel F. Moore, Lake Geneva, 7 up, 6 to play.

The drawings for to-morrow are: Lyon vs. Lambert, Phelps vs. Newton, McKinnie vs. Sawyer, and Allen vs. Egan.

MOTOR BOATS RACE TO-DAY.

New Records May Be Made in Challenge Cup Contest on Hudson.

There was considerable motorboat activity yesterday at the Columbia Yacht Club, foot of West Eighty-sixth Street, where the first of the Challenge Cup series of races will be held to-day. Fourteen entries have been received for the trophy, which is held by the fast autoboat Standard. The challenging boat is the Shooting Star of the Manhasset Bay Yacht Club, but under the terms of the deed of gift each club in the American Power Boat Association may enter one boat after the formal challenge has been made.

Among the dangerous competitors are the Vingt-et-Un II., owned by Willis S. Kilmer of Binghamton, N. Y.; the Mercedes VI., owned by W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr.; Challenger, America's representative in the recent Harmsworth Cup contest in England; H. A. Lozier's Shooting Star, H. L. Bowden's Mercedes II., and the Marcerene II., entered from the Cape May Yacht Club.

The boats will race over a thirty-two knot course, running up the Hudson to a point nearly opposite Piermont, and then finishing opposite the Columbia Yacht Club. Three races will be held, and the boat scoring the largest number of points will receive the trophy. One point is awarded to each boat going over the entire course and one for every boat defeated.

A. A. U. Exonerates Athlete Kiely.

At a meeting of the Registration Committee held yesterday afternoon, T. F. Kiely, the Irish athlete who recently won the all-around championship of America, on the strength of his own statements was exonerated for the part he took in the games at Celtic Park, Sunday, Sept. 18. Kiely received no prize for his work, but it was charged that he had competed for a money prize. He denied the charge, and the Registration Committee decided that he had not violated the rules governing amateur athletics.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Cantaloupe Market Glutted and Handlers Losing Money.

Supply Nearly Twice as Large as Demand—Fruit Bringing Less Than Freight Charges.

Handlers of fruit in the west side wholesale district declare that never in their experience has the market been so glutted with cantaloupes and the prices so demoralized as at present. There seems to be no end to the supply which is pouring in, and much of it is of poor quality. For several days from twelve to fifteen carloads have been arriving from Rocky Ford alone, and many times that number from other points. It is estimated that the supply is nearly 100 per cent. above that of normal years.

As a result the fruit is selling at ruinous prices. The choicest grades were quoted yesterday at anywhere from 50 cents to $1 a crate, and, in fact, almost every offer was eagerly taken. The commoner grades were sold for less than the freight charges, and it was hard to find purchasers at that. The principal source of supply at present is Colorado, but there will be absolutely nothing left for the growers after freight charges and commissions are paid.

MAIL WITHOJT STAMPS.

New Order Permits Prepaid Postage on Third and Fourth Class Matter.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Postmaster General Payne promulgated an order to-day which provides a new and important convenience for the business public in the use of the mails. Hereafter third and fourth class matter in quantities of not less than 2,000 identical pieces may be mailed without affixing stamps, the sender prepaying postage in cash.

Postmasters at whose offices patrons wish to avail themselves of the privilege must apply to the Third Assistant Postmaster General for authority to receive such mailings. Persons desiring to mail matter without postage stamps affixed must make application to the Postmaster, who will issue a permit for the purpose. Each piece of matter must bear on its address side in the upper left corner the name of the sender and the Post Office of mailing, and in the upper right corner a statement of its class, the amount of postage paid, the words "Paid in money," and the permit number.

The innovation is designed to aid large business concerns who send out books, circulars, periodicals, advertising matter, and pro

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—The market was less active and irregularity continued. Good buying was evident in Cambria Steel, the Consolidated Lake Superior issues, Lehigh Valley, and United Gas Improvement, all of which advanced, but the Tractions reflected disappointment over the annual report submitted at to-day's stockholders' meeting, the surplus showing a decrease of $185,035. As a result of increased cost of operation Philadelphia Company again developed one of its weak spells. Bonds were more active and generally firm. Total sales, 34,707 shares; $92,600 bonds.

FINANCIAL.

The Treadwell Is the Best.

Copper costs the Boston and Montana 7½ cents a pound to produce. It costs the Anaconda 11½ cents and the average of all the Amalgamated companies 9¼ cents. The Greene Consolidated say they are trying to get their cost down to 8 cents.

Copper is produced on the Verde Copper Belt at three and a half cents a pound—less than half what it costs to produce it anywhere else in the world.

The George A. Treadwell Mining Company has by far the largest property of any company operating on the Verde Copper Belt—several times as large as that of its near neighbor, the famous United Verde—and the TREADWELL property is as rich as the richest. As soon as the big smelting plant of the TREADWELL COMPANY which it is now erecting is completed it will be one of the largest copper producers in the country, and will be able to produce copper cheaper than any other copper producer, except its own neighbor, the United Verde, with whom it shares the richness and all the advantages of the richest copper district in the world.

Other copper producers have great and valuable properties. Other copper stocks are good investments, but

Stocks Strong; Call Money Easy, 1 3-4@2.

Continued Strength in Union Pacific Helps Rather Than Hurts the Market—Crop News Also Good.

The stock market yesterday completely reversed its form of Tuesday, about as many stocks rising almost as much as they had fallen on the day before. Those who like to have prices explained by some intrinsic reason remarked with pleasure that the strength in stocks and the weakness in the produce markets were concurrent. The day produced its usual prediction of frost for the following night, but the prediction was accompanied by the usual denial that the frost in the previous day's telegrams had developed after the following sunset. Canadian experts sent reassuring reports regarding the Canadian crops, and this assumed added importance when read beside Washington telegrams to the effect that our crops are a better risk than Canada's, where the temperature is lower and the crops greener. The crop situation has now reached a stage where the facts cannot be as bad as the prophecies, and the market may be expected to develop increasing indifference to this factor, not because of its unimportance, but because of a surfeit of ciphering and a deficiency of facts. Nobody has counted any bushels. Nothing has been done but to guess how many bushels unharvested cornfields are likely to yield. This is not a sure basis for bulling or bearing stocks, and some surcease would be a relief.

Market observers were also gratified to remark that the strength in Union Pacific did not unfavorably affect the rest of the list, but rather strengthened it in the old manner. This was the more remarkable because the strength still lacked explanation. It is scarcely too much to say that this topic obscured the crops, on account of the total lack of authoritative reason why Union Pacific should range above par almost uninterruptedly, on larger business than in any other property. The suggestion that the crops were better along the Union Pacific lines than elsewhere was offered—and accepted—for what it was worth, and still the inquiry persisted why buying should persist as though the stock were wanted for other purposes than its yield, present or prospective. Denials that new combinations were forming were succeeded by fresh tales that old combinations were weakening, and it was sympathetically pointed out how embarrassing was the position of a banker asked to take sides between a desirable new client and a most highly appreciated one of older standing. Railway magnates may fight because it is their nature to, but it is a banker's policy to do business with all, and antagonize none. It is impossible to discuss the day's influences without referring to such gossip, but it may be said on authority, as indeed it might be assumed without authority, that there is no basis in fact for any of these rumors. It is a pity that this leaves the Street with its mystery on its hands, but that is the situation.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Shorts Become Uneasy and Advance the Whole List—Union Pacific the Leader—Varying Views of the Market's Position.

Discussion among traders as to the probable size of the corn crop continued unabated yesterday, although short covering on other arguments than those based on the crops was the principal factor in the day's market. Dispatches from the West played their usual part, and they could be had to suit every view. During the afternoon Wasserman was showing on the floor a dispatch from Kansas painting the crop situation in that State in very rosy colors, and some buying of stocks followed this newest information. Jacob Field was among those to whom Wasserman confided the news from Kansas. Of greater weight as a market influence than the numerous private advices from the West was the course of the produce market, which showed an easing tendency in both wheat and corn.

Position of Harriman Interests.

Those among the traders, probably a majority of them, who are inclined to pay much attention to the position of the Harriman interests, so far as the market is concerned, find significance in the fact that Union Pacific for the past two days has been the leader of the market. Undoubtedly the fear of the results of a disagreement between the important interests associated in the affairs of the Union Pacific system was largely responsible for the short covering which lifted prices yesterday, but even apart from this the prominence of Union Pacific had much effect upon the general list. In some quarters the inference was drawn that the Harriman interests, who were credited with so large a share in the present bull market, but who recently were said to have come to the conclusion that the advance had gone far enough for the time being, were once more taking an active part in uplifting prices. Those who took this view were inclined yesterday to look for considerably higher prices for Union Pacific. The oft-repeated report to the effect that a way has been found to pay the Northern Securities dividend is again current, but apparently without foundation.

A Bearish View of the Advance.

Despite the decided strength shown in many quarters yesterday, many of those who early in the week were predicting a substantial reaction in no wise changed their opinion. These were inclined to look upon the day's strength as a result of an effort to steady the market for further realizing sales, in which purpose the existence of a considerable short interest that had become somewhat alarmed was of material assistance.

Disappointed in Amalgamated.

Amalgamated Copper has disappointed a good many the past few days. Confident prediction had been made of a sharp advance in the stock, but after selling above 59 the price fell quite abruptly, and, though it rose yesterday more than a point above the lowest, the net gain was much smaller than that in a number of other active stocks. It is said that no small 58 there was some very good selling of the stock, and some doubt was expressed if those working for a further advance in Amalgamated would be willing to go through this selling.

Pennsylvania Advances Again.

Charles G. Gates & Co. were the most prominent buyers of Pennsylvania, which, after Union Pacific, was the most active stock of the day. It rose quite sharply on the buying by this and other firms, and closed within an eighth of the highest, with a net gain of 1¼ points. The advance was largely helped by the short interest in the stock, which is said to be very considerable.

TO SUIT CHICAGO TERMINAL.

Opposition to Harriman Gets Proxies Enough to Control.

The committee representing the opposition stockholders of the Chicago Terminal Transfer Railroad has, it was learned yesterday, secured a sufficient number of proxies to insure to it the controlling voice at the annual meeting, when it is planned to turn out the present management and to make an attempt to rescue the property from the fate of a sweeping reorganization. Representatives of the stockholders have been investigating the conditions under which the property is managed, and they allege that the road is run by a lot of clerks and incompetents.

As soon as the committee shall have placed in power men with whom it is acting in harmony, steps will be taken to raise sufficient funds to pay the interest coupons on its funded debt, which will fall due Jan. 1 next. After this has been done an effort will be made to secure an additional tenant for the company and to manage the affairs of the road with such economy as to retrieve it gradually from the condition in which it now finds itself. The committee representing the stockholders realizes that unless a new tenant is secured it will be practically impossible to prevent a reorganization of the property.

The Chicago Terminal Transfer Railroad has been classed as a Harriman property because several years ago he purchased a large block of its stock from the Deutsche Eank. The property, however, proved unattractive, and it is understood that Mr. Harriman unloaded his holdings at a loss in the belief that he would be able to secure it back on a more advantageous basis after a reorganization. For this reason interests representing him are understood to have been quietly picking up the bonds of the company at below 74. At that price it is considered certain that, even with a reorganization, the holders would lose nothing, as the company owns 700 acres of Chicago land, of which 50 acres are held in the heart of the business section, with one and a half miles of dock frontage on the Chicago River. As the entire funded debt outstanding is only $15,000,000, this means that the land is mortgaged at the rate of 40 cents a square foot, an exceedingly low valuation according to men familiar with the property.

By securing a big majority of the bonds, Mr. Harriman would be able to reorganize the property after foreclosure on a basis where it would bring a good return on the investment. Such a process would, of course, freeze out the stockholders, and it is to prevent this that the control of the property through proxies has been sought.

THE NEW HAVEN'S SHOWING.

Increase in Net Earnings Shown, Despite Heavy Expenses.

The annual report of the New York, New Haven and Hartford was made public yesterday. The report refers to business depression in its territory, the severity of the Winter, and to strikes as responsible for the less favorable showing of the road. The investment in street railways is referred to as a wise one. On the score of improvements the report states nothing that had not been publshed.

The general statement for the year shows increases in gross earnings of $936,831 and of $204,137 in operating expenses, making an increase in net earnings of $782,644. The statement shows:

Total gross earnings from operation	$48,282,909.20
Net income from operation	13,123,698.50
Income from other sources	906,435.84
Total income	$14,030,134.34
Taxes	$2,455,434.27
Rentals of leased lines, accrued	4,420,282.74
Total deductions from income	$7,935,378.36
Dividends paid	6,006,448.00
Surplus for the twelve months	$88,307.98

The operating expenses equalled 72.82 per cent. of the earnings.

Bankers' Trust Company Dividend.

The Bankers' Trust Company has entered the ranks of the dividend-paying financial institutions, the Directors having this week declared a dividend of 1½ per cent., payable on Oct. 1. The company's earnings since it was organized, eighteen months ago are, according to the officers, about $180,000.

LEHIGH VALLEY EARNINGS.

Net Income from Road and Mines Increases $3,104,490.

THE LONDON MARKET.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Money was in fair supply and in moderate demand in the market to-day to meet a call for £750,000 on the last issue of local loans stock and in connection with the quarter-end. Discounts hardened in view of the forthcoming Treasury bills and because the Continental demand for gold is likely to continue until the month-turn.

Prices on the Stock Exchange were generally easier on profit-taking.

IRON TRADE CONDITIONS.

Reviewing the situation in the iron trade The Iron Age says in its issue of to-day:

The action of the Billet Association has attracted a good deal of attention, but is really not very important, since the tonnage of steel billets sold in the open market is insignificant when compared with the days before the consolidations. Then, too, the great bulk of what crude steel is sold is delivered on old sliding scales based on the price of Bessemer pig iron. Therefore the open reductions in prices of billets and sheet bars do not materially change the situation. It does not justify the expectations, evidently indulged in by some consumers, that prices in certain finished lines must be correspondingly reduced.

The lower steel prices give a possible chance to compete to a few small rolling mills whose business has not been important enough to secure to them sliding scale contracts, but it makes somewhat harder, too, for the iron puddling mills, who cannot correspondingly cut down their selling prices for muck bars.

The reduction in the price of steel bars and of merchant steel is not regarded as of much importance.

Business in structural material does not appear to have been stimulated to any extent by the recent lowering in association prices on shapes. In fact, some sellers note that the market is rather quieter. It is intimated, however, that quite a number of large long-time contracts with architectural concerns were closed before the official announcement was made.

GENERAL BUSINESS ITEMS.

According to Toronto dispatches, a charter has been issued to the Northern Steel and Iron Company, Limited, which with a capital stock of $2,500,000 has been organized to take over and operate the Cramp Steel Works at Collingwood.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES.

Less activity was shown in the trading in curb stocks yesterday, but the market reversed its position of Tuesday, and practically the entire list showed advances. Some new high records were recorded, but these were confined to issues infrequently traded in and did not draw any particular attention. A noticeable feature of the trading within the last few days has been the revival of interest in the bond list, which yesterday displayed activity and strength. Guggenheim Exploration stock, 70 per cent. paid, showed a total of 1,100 shares, which were traded in at an advance of 1⅛ points.

GREENE CONSOLIDATED COPPER was the feature of the session, and on active transactions advanced ⅝ to the high price in weeks of 16. It is rumored that the resignation of one of the Directors, which took place this week, may be followed shortly by several others, and all for the same reason.

AMERICAN LIGHT AND TRACTION'S annual report for the year ended July 31 shows that about 11 per cent. has been earned on the common stock after payment of the 6 per cent. on the preferred. The figures for the year 1904 compare as follows with those of the previous year:

	1904.	1903.	Increase.
Gross earnings	$1,099,600	$1,092,063	$74,537
Op. expenses	27,185	25,078	2,057
Net earnings	$1,072,465	$1,066,985	$5,480
Pref. dividends	563,815	528,337	35,478
Surplus	$508,650	$538,648	*$29,998

*Decrease.

In well-informed circles it is believed that a dividend on the common stock will be declared next month. This would explain the recent sharp advance and quiet absorption of the common stock.

SAY C. E. RING GOT $5,803.

Star Insurance Company Makes Larceny Charge Against Agent.

Charles E. Ring, a member of the insurance firm of Bremer, Dufour, Ring & Pinckney Company of 80 William Street, which is the owner of the twelve-story building there, was charged with the larceny of $5,803 from the Star Fire Insurance Company of Louisville, Ky., in the Tombs Police Court yesterday. He was paroled until today in the custody of his counsel, Philip Gardiner, son of Col. Asa Bird Gardiner

Charles F. Mitchell, General Manager of the Star Company, was complainant. It is alleged that Mr. Ring withheld collections made for the company. Mr. Gardiner ordered him not to talk, but said that when 4,000 items in the accounts of Mr. Ring were checked it would be found that a balance was due Mr. Ring from the company. Mr. Ring has recently figured in several civil suits over insurance matters.

Fell Through Fire Escape to Death.

He died an hour after the accident. In falling, the lad passed through the fire escape openings on the second and first floors. The housekeeper of a near-by tenement house, Mrs. Louis Zelden, tried to catch him, but she was too late.

"SAVE MY LIFE, THEN I'LL TELL OF SHOOTING"

Dying Brooklyn Saloon Keeper's Answer to Physician.

FOUND MYSTERIOUSLY SHOT

McNally Had Five Wounds, but There Was No Pistol Near and Doors to Rooms Were Locked.

Mysteriously shot, either by himself or some one familiar with his surroundings, Frank McNally, thirty-eight years old, died in his rooms over his saloon at 104 Park Avenue, Brooklyn, yesterday morning. The dying man was found by his barkeeper, Albert Marshall, about 5 o'clock, when Marshall went to McNally's room to get the keys to open the saloon. McNally was lying across his bed with five pistol wounds in his body. Two were in the left side of the head, one on the right side of the body under the arm, one in the index finger of the right hand, and one in the abdomen. No pistol was found, and McNally refused to explain the shooting, simply asking for a doctor and a priest.

McNally was engaged to marry Toma Hanlon, an actress, of 78 Clinton Avenue, and he called on her Tuesday night. Miss Hanlon says that there was no quarrel, and that McNally left her in a happy frame of mind. Two of the wounds in McNally's head, the police say, must have been made by a right-handed man, while McNally was left-handed. The two doors leading to McNally's suite were securely locked, there being no indications that the rooms had been entered, or that there had been a struggle. The man's watch and $86 in money were undisturbed.

When Marshall entered the rooms with a pass key and found his employer wounded he asked:

"Who did it?"

"Never mind about that," was the reply. "Go get a doctor and a priest, and get the doctor first. I think that I'm all in."

A physician who lived in the neighborhood was summoned, and while working over the dying man tried to get him to tell something of what had happened. In this he was unsuccessful, McNally simply saying:

"You save my life, and then the whole thing will be told." He died at 5:30 o'clock.

The police learned that McNally had closed his place at 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning, saying that he was tired. The few customers in the place at the time left, and McNally went alone to his rooms. Shortly after 4 o'clock a baker working in the neighborhood heard two pistol shots, and listened for an outcry, but none came.

The wound in McNally's abdomen was not disclosed until the autopsy performed last night by Dr. Emil F. Hartung, the Coroner's physician. It also developed, on investigation of the bed in which McNally was found, breathing his last, that it had been occupied by two persons. Detectives spent the greater part of last night in an effort to find out who this second person was, but without success.

When Capt. Toole of the Flushing Avenue Police Station heard that McNally had been calling on Miss Hanlon he sent a detective to see her. Beyond the fact that McNally had had a quarrel and fistfight with a man four months ago she knew of no trouble.

"I have known Mr. McNally for four years," she said, "and we were engaged to be married. We have had no quarrels. I was married twelve years ago in Jersey to an actor. We parted and I have not heard of him since. It was my intention to secure a divorce and marry Mr. McNally."

Miss Hanlon, Marshall, the barkeeper, and Joseph Cirolia, who was employed by McNally in the saloon, were taken to the Myrtle Avenue Police Court, where Detective Carney asked that they be detained as witnesses. Magistrate Voorhees, however, refused to hold any of them.

BURGLARS RAID SILK STORE.

Escape Over Roof Minus Booty When Policeman Gives Chase.

In the early hours of yesterday morning burglars forced an entrance into the stores of Cohen Brothers, dealers in silk trimmings at 15, 17, and 19 Manhattan Avenue, Williamsburg. They packed up for removal property valued at $5,000, but stayed too long looking for more plunder.

They were discovered simultaneously by a man in the street and by a member of the firm who had been sleeping in the upper part of the building. The alarm raised brought Policeman Lynch of the Stagg Street Station, who chased the thieves to the roof, firing several shots as he ran. The robbers escaped.

After the burglars were gone the policeman went back to the store, and on the floor he found a loaded revolver, a jimmy, 3 feet long; brace bits, a sledge hammer, and other burglars' implements, besides candles and a slouch hat. The police believe that the burglars were the same that robbed the dress goods store of Abraham Punski, at Manhattan Avenue and Boerum Street, in the early part of last week, when silks valued at $5,000 were stolen.

BOOKMAKER-CLERK HELD.

O'Donnell's Bail Increased on New Allegation of Forgery.

Frank O'Donnell, eighteen years old, who is accused of obtaining about $40,000 by forgeries committed while he was employed as a clerk in the law office of Edward H. Floyd-Jones, at 51 Wall Street, and who was arrested while making a book at the Brighton Beach race track, was rearraigned in the Tombs Court yesterday. Magistrate Mayo held O'Donnell for the Grand Jury and increased his bail from $5,000 to $7,500.

Mrs. Josephine K. Jones of Massapequa, aunt of Mr. Floyd-Jones, appeared as a new complainant. Mr. Floyd-Jones said that while he was in St. Louis, on Sept. 7, O'Donnell went to Massapequa and obtained Mrs. Jones's check book on the plea that his employer had returned to New York and wanted it. It was said that Mrs. Jones had lost $33,000 through O'Donnell's operations, that Mr. Floyd-Jones's loss was $4,700, and that Mrs. Davenport, companion to Mrs. Jones, had lost $1,700, though O'Donnell had refunded $600 to her.

Detective Sergeant Flannelly, who made the arrest, said that on the way from Coney Island the boy seemed greatly comforted when he was told that if he confessed he might escape with thirteen months' imprisonment in the Elmira Reformatory.

"Well, I guess I'll plead guilty and beat the game in a year," O'Donnell is said to have declared.

YOUNG WIFE BURNED TO DEATH.

Body Found After Blaze in Jersey City Apartment.

Tenants of the building at 170 Bay Street, Jersey City, discovered smoke pouring from the apartments occupied by Mrs. Annie Fox, twenty-eight years old, and her husband, Morris Fox, yesterday noon. They turned in an alarm. The firemen found the woodwork of the kitchen blazing.

After the fire had been extinguished the body of Mrs. Fox was found in a storeroom adjoining the kitchen. It is supposed that her clothing had taken fire while she was preparing dinner, and that she had run into the storeroom in her efforts to extinguish the flames. The couple had no children. Mr. Fox, who was at work, returned for dinner just as the firemen found his wife's body. He was prostrated with grief, and was too ill to be questioned.

THE DRY DOCK RAIDED.

Complainant Missing and Police Hint at Foul Play.

The Dry Dock Hotel, at Third Street and the Bowery, which is run by "Jake" Herts and his wife Rose, was raided last night by the police of the Fifth Street Station, on a warrant issued by Magistrate Flammer in the Yorkville Court. Max Schwartz, a clerk in the hotel, was arrested, charged with keeping a disorderly house.

The raid followed closely on the arrest of Mrs. Herts Tuesday night, on complaint of Bernard Rice, a traveling man of East Buffalo, who alleges that she administered "knock-out drops" to him and robbed him of a gold watch valued at $80, $75 in bills, and some clothing.

Rice did not appear against the woman in the Yorkville Court yesterday, and the police intimate their belief that he has been done away with.

Capt. McDermott had a number of detectives out yesterday searching for Rice. None of his friends or relatives in this city has seen him, and he was penniless when he reported the robbery to the police.

The police said last night that it seemed very strange that the traveling man should disappear so completely. They have seen a number of men with whom Rice was acquainted, but he had been to none of them. His relatives said that they only knew of his presence in town from what they had read in the newspapers.

The detectives said last night that they believed Rice had fallen a victim of a gang that frequents the Bowery. They intimate that they believe that he was followed after leaving the police station and lured to a house, and was either made a prisoner or put out of the way in some other manner.

PINKERTON'S NAME FORGED.

Sleuth's Alleged Signature Gets $20 from Jersey City Saloon Man.

Assistant Superintendent Dougherty of the Pinkerton Detective Agency had a hard time yesterday making up his mind whether Robert Trautman of 292 Pearl Street, Brooklyn, had been trying to break into jail or merely had made a bid for dime museum notoriety. Trautman was arrested yesterday, and among other things is accused of having forged the name of Robert A. Pinkerton, the terror of forgers and bank burglars, to a check.

The check to which Mr. Pinkerton's name is alleged to have been forged was for $20, and was passed on B. Meyers, a saloonkeeper at 304 Montgomery Street, Jersey City. It was drawn on the Chatham National Bank in this city. In the first place, Mr. Pinkerton does not keep an account at the Chatham National Bank, and in the second place, what purported to be the signature of Mr. Pinkerton was no more like the handwriting of the detective than Chinese script.

In due course word was sent back to Mr. Meyers of Jersey City that he was out $20. The saloonkeeper called on the Pinkertons and told them that the man who passed the check had dropped into his saloon and told him he was engaged on important work for the agency, and that the check had been given him for expenses.

Trautman after his arrest was taken to the Pinkerton office in this city, where he was looked upon with mingled amusement and interest by Assistant Superintendents Dougherty and Fallon of the Criminal Department. It was not in connection with the forgery of Mr. Pinkerton's name, however, that the young man was arrested, but in connection with a check for $34 to which he is alleged to have signed the name of Joseph Le Jeune, a commission merchant of 186 Washington Street.

LIFTED CAR OFF LAD.

Laborers Helped Rescue Andrew Mayer, Run Down at School Crossing.

As the children who attend the public school in Forty-sixty Street between Broadway and Sixth Avenue were scurrying across Broadway at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon twelve-year-old Andrew Mayer was run down by a south-bound Fort Lee car and probably fatally crushed. He was running to escape several companions, and did not notice the approach of the car.

Policeman Gilligan of the West Forty-seventh Street Station is on duty at the corner there to prevent just such accidents, but at the time he was returning from the opposite crossing, whither he had escorted several little girls. In an instant he was trying to rescue the boy. The motorman had been unable to bring the car to a stop at once, and the boy's body was jammed under the forward truck. His screams brought a crowd of laborers from adjacent buildings in course of construction, and at least half a hundred pairs of sturdy arms struggled and tugged in vain to lift the car, which was crushing out the little fellow's life. Try as they would, they could not move it. Then Policeman Gilligan ran to the southwest corner of Forty-sixth Street and Broadway, and, grabbing two big pieces of scantling from the sidewalk, dragged them back after him. The timbers were placed under the forward and rear ends, and with a mighty effort the car was lifted sufficiently to permit Gilligan to creep under the truck and dislodge the boy's body. By this time he was unconscious.

The boy was hurried away to Roosevelt Hospital in an ambulance, and the crowd turned its attention to the motorman. Threats and imprecations were uttered as Policeman Gilligan placed him under arrest. He said he was Fred Wendt, thirty-seven years old, of 518 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street.

When the news of the accident was taken to the injured boy's home, at 445 West Forty-sixth Street, his sister, Frieda, seventeen years old, who has been playing little mother to the family since the death of their mother some months ago, collapsed, and it was necessary to summon a physician. It is not thought the boy can recover.

"I didn't see the boy," said Wendt, the motorman, in court. "We always watch for the cop at that corner, and I did not see him. I have children of my own, and I know how it feels."

He was held until this morning to await the outcome of the boy's condition.

NEW CIGAR WAR PROMISED.

Smokers who remember with delight the price war on imported cigars a year ago, when Cuban brands were sold at less than the duty paid on them, may congratulate themselves, for in all probability another war just as bitter will start in a few days. It was announced yesterday that Park & Tilford had severed all connection with the American Tobacco Company, commonly known as the Tobacco Trust, and would no longer handle any of its goods. The significance of this may be understood when it is known that Park & Tilford are the largest jobbers of imported cigars in the United States, and that the American Tobacco Company, through its branch, the Havana Cigar Company, controls a majority of the factories in Cuba.

Just what the reason for the rupture is neither side was willing to tell yesterday, but it was learned pretty definitely that ever since the last price war, a year ago, Park & Tilford have been harassed. Prices have been stiffened and discounts cut, and in many instances, it is said, leading brands have been offered by the trust direct to Park & Tilford's customers at the same prices at which they were sold to that firm. The firm has been followed by other jobbers, who complain that they have been similarly treated. A representative of Park & Tilford said yesterday:

"We will buy no more goods from the Havana Cigar Company, and we will get rid of what we have as quickly as we can. There are other manufacturers who make cigars every bit as good as any controlled by the trust, and we have no fear that we will be unable to give our customers the goods they want."

Mail orders promptly filled.

INVESTOR'S EDITOR CONFESSES INIQUITY

Broadsides the Mysterious "Guardian" with His Regrets.

ANNOUNCES RETIREMENT, TOO

Says His Employers Were "Swindlers and Thieves"—Admits He Never Wrote a Word of Truth.

The "United States Investor's Guardian" is without an editor. The publication first appeared in June, and in its monthly issues it has launched a stream of invective against numerous business houses in New York and elsewhere, and by the very boldness of the attacks has commanded attention. "Fraud," "fakir," "swindler," "thief" have been terms employed. The victims of the paper's methods have used every effort to try to find the man responsible for the denunciatory warfare in which it indulged.

On the first page of the September issue, just out, under the caption "An Open Confession," the "editor" announces his retirement, prefacing the announcement by the statement that he has been in charge for three months "in the interest of one of the most desperate gang of swindlers and thieves that has ever infested any country."

Who the conscience-stricken editor is does not appear. No name is signed to the confession. Indeed, the police of New York, Washington, and Baltimore would hail the discovery of his identity with delight, for they have been trying hard to put their hands on him ever since Aug. 25, when, upon the complaint of a New York real estate concern, the Post Office Department issued a fraud order against the paper.

"I wish before leaving to say in this, my last issue," writes the editor who cannot be found, "that outside of this statement no word of truth has ever appeared in these columns. Upright and honest business men, as well as properous and straightforward corporations, have been maliciously attacked with the sole idea that money might be influenced from them to the gang which has given me employment. Those who have had correspondence with me know the few firms I have recommended, and I wish now to confess that they are all frauds."

The "Guardian" purports to be published at 1,421 F Street, N. W., Washington. When the Post Office authorities were seeking the head of the publication it was found that the address given was that of a livery stable. A man named Gerald was found there, who said he had nothing to do with the paper. In his confession the penitent editor says: "The Guardian has never been represented in Washington except by an office boy, and my work has been conducted in an out-of-the-way corner of New York, in constant fear of the police and the wrath of those I have assailed."

Investigations have proved that the paper was mailed somewhere in Brooklyn, but the Post Office agents were unable to ascertain where it was printed. Among the New York concerns which have been attacked in the columns of "The Guardian" are Wood, Harmon & Co., Wheeler & Co., the Marconi Securities Company, the De Forest Wireless Company, and A. L. Wisner & Co.

Among the out-of-town houses attacked was Lake, Herring & Co. of Baltimore, and Wheeler & Co. of 32 Broadway had one of its agents write its Washington address for a report on Lake, Herring & Co., and the "editor" wrote back that its "very name was fishy." The Baltimore concern took up the matter with the Post Office Department, and was instrumental in securing the issuance of the fraud order against the publication.

In concluding his confession the "editor" declares that the paper "was conceived in iniquity and published for but one object—to influence money from trusting country people to the concerns recommended privately by the paper and controlled by the gang which, for a few months, kept me in bread and butter. Doubtless these thugs and swindlers will deny all this article in a subsequent issue, but I have done my best to make peace with those I have so grossly deceived and those whom I have so unjustly attacked."

Elizabeth R. Heyzer, the widow of Charles H. CONEY'S MARDI GRAS.

Thousands See Big Parade Despite Inclement Weather.

Despite the inclement weather, as large a crowd as usually journeys there on a fine Summer Sunday went to Coney Island last night to assist the islanders in their Mardi Gras celebration. Every shopkeeper and every employe on the island took some part in the celebration, and when the first night's performance was over all agreed that it was the finest and biggest thing that the old resort has ever known.

The chief event in the celebration is the parade, which will be repeated to-night and again to-morrow night. Starting from the Concourse Hotel, it moved along Surf Avenue almost to Sea Gate. In it were the performers of the combined amusements at the island, firemen, policemen, and letter carriers, and the thousands of employes of the various resorts.

A thousand girls, each carrying a torch, made a pretty section, but the hit of the night was a big float on which was represented an incubator in which lay the infant Coney Island. The incubator was supported by Father Knickerbocker and Mother Brooklyn.

One float was fitted with a giant frankfurter machine and a griditron. As it moved along in sight of the spectators a dog was thrown into the machine from time to time, and two assistants then drew forth long strings of frankfurters.

The celebration ended with the burning of colored fire about all of the buildings on the site of the last fire. It looked as though the whole section was again burning, and the Fire Department was called out to give an exhibition in putting the fire out and in rescuing people. The engines and trucks from Luna Park and Dreamland responded, and worked alongside of the regular men from the Coney Island station.

To-night the special feature of the celebration will be the burning of a vessel at sea. The 400 life savers who took part in last night's parade will man boats and will go to the rescue of the people aboard the burning vessel.

Justice Has Her Scales Once More.

Passers-by yesterday noticed that the scales that fell from the hand of the statue of Justice surmounting the City Hall on the day that Mayor McClellan discharged the Slocum Relief Committee had been replaced. Martin Keese, the veteran custodian of the building, took advantage of the incident to have the balances polished and burnished till they gleamed like new metal.

Wilson Free on Assault Charge.

Magistrate Steers, in the Manhattan Avenue Court, Williamsburg, yesterday heard the case of Bingham T. Wilson, a magazine writer and an anti-McCarren man, who, after being struck in the face by Peter Hughes, a foldwer of McCarren, at Manhattan Avenue and Kent Street, retaliated by fracturing Hughes's skull with a cane. Wilson was discharged, Hughes, who is still in the Eastern District Hospital, declining to prosecute.

New Destroyer's Engines Tested.

Steam was raised under the boilers of the torpedo-boat destroyer Nicholson at the navy yard yesterday to discover whether there were any leaks and to test the engines. The Nicholson is a sister boat to the O'Brien, both of which were built by the Crescent Shipyards Company and taken over by the Government when that company was put into the hands of a receiver. The engines of the new sheathed cruiser Chattanooga also had a full power trial.

HIGGINS AT SAGAMORE HILL.

Calls with Jacob Riis—President to Return to Washington To-day.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Sept. 21.—President Roosevelt's sojourn at Sagamore Hill will end to-morrow. At 9:30 o'clock he and his family will board the naval yacht Sylph and start immediately for Jersey City, where they will take special cars attached to the 1:14 P. M. Pennsylvania train for Washington.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt entertained at luncheon to-day Frank W. Higgins, Republican candidate for Governor, and Jacob Riis, who returned a day or two ago from a Summer's visit to Denmark.

"I came to Oyster Bay," said Mr. Higgins, "by invitation of the President to discuss with him certain matters in which we are mutually interested. That is about all there is to my visit. I have no special mission here."

In response to an inquiry as to whether he would conduct a speaking campaign, Mr. Higgins replied:

"Probably not, although that point has not been decided definitely."

Mr. Riis came to Oyster Bay to pay his respects to the President and to deliver personally a message of felicitation and good will from King Oscar of which he was the bearer.

While the President and Mr. Higgins were in conference they received the news of Judge D. Cady Herrick's nomination for Governor by the Democratic State Convention. Neither the President nor Mr. Higgins made any comment.

STOCK FIRM CLOSES DOORS.

Many Who Signed Odd Stipulation Slips Flock to Office.

At the offices of John McCrea & Co., on the sixth floor of 42 Broadway, yesterday, there were a number of excited men and women, both old and young, in the customers' room. The firm had closed its offices as far as the transaction of business was concerned.

The firm has dealt in railway and other stocks, and also privileges.

The methods of the firm are said to have been queer. When a customer gave an order a slip was given him or her to sign. These slips contained stipulations to the effect that the order might be executed in any city or place, that it might be executed by any exchange or member of any exchange or by any private transaction with any other client of J. McCrea & Co., or with any seller or buyer of the firm. The firm also stipulated that it did not have to divulge who made the purchase or sold the stock in question. The firm, it is said, had a membership on the Consolidated Stock Exchange, on the Philadelphia Stock Exchange, which is not a recognized institution.

PRESIDENT'S TRAIN MET WITH ACCIDENT

Was Going Slowly or Results Would Have Been Serious.

ENGINE DRIVE-WHEEL BROKE

Mishap Just as Train Was Entering Tunnel at Baltimore—Delay of Thirty-six Minutes Resulted.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—President Roosevelt and his party arrived here over the Pennsylvania Railroad from Oyster Bay at 6:52 o'clock this afternoon. The President's train was delayed about thirty-six minutes by an accident to the rear drive-wheel of the locomotive as it entered the tunnel at Baltimore. The accident caused no damage to the train.

The train was proceeding at a very slow rate of speed when the accident occurred or the result might have been serious. It was not making more than three miles an hour when the tire of the rear drive-wheel on the left side of the engine broke and curled off. One end of it protruded upward and jammed through the boiler of the engine, causing an almost immediate shutting off of the steam. This soon deadened the engine, and the engineer put on the air brakes, so that the train came to a stop without delay.

A hurried investigation convinced the engineer and his crew that the engine was useless for further service until repairs could be made. Word was immediately sent to the yard to have another engine sent to the scene. After a delay of about half an hour another engine was attached to the train, and it proceeded to Washington, where it arrived without further accident.

The cause of the tire breaking, according to the railroad officials, was quite inexplicable. The engine, No. 5,084, had been attached to the train just before leaving Philadelphia, and had been thoroughly tested and declared to be in first-class condition. The officials say the accident was one of those which will happen in spite of every precaution.

The President and his party took the matter very coolly, and did not manifest any alarm. Some members of the train crew went back to the President's car to shake hands with him on the run from Baltimore to Washington, and in their brief conversation with him spoke of the accident. The President, however, assured them that he had not been alarmed, and remarked that if all his troubles were as slight as that he would be "getting along beautifully."

To-day's accident is said to be the first which has happened to a train on which President Roosevelt has traveled during his Administration.

The crowd lined both sides of Sixth Street for a long time before the train arrived here, and when he made his appearance and stepped into his carriage he was enthusiastically cheered. He was immediately driven to the White House. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Richardson, New York friends of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, came with them to Washington, and are guests at the White House.

Senator Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania joined the party at Philadelphia and came on to Washington with them. The Senator announced that his speech to the Philadelphia Business Men's Club would be delivered on Oct. 1.

PRESIDENT ON THE SYLPH.

Greeted by Harbor Craft on His Way from Oyster Bay.

Vacation over, President Roosevelt returned yesterday to active official life at Washington from Oyster Bay, reaching New York waters on the naval yacht Sylph and leaving the Pennsylvania Railroad station at Jersey City at 1:27 P. M. with all of his family, except Miss Alice Roosevelt and his sons Theodore and Kermit.

The dainty Government craft, spick and span and neat in her color scheme of white and silver, with a black funnel top, under command of Lieut. F. T. Evans, son of Admiral Robley D. Evans, with Ensign Robert Wallace and twenty-seven bluejackets, lay off Sagamore Hill at dawn, and the Presidential party, which had been driven to the J. West Roosevelt pier in an open wagon, embarked on a launch after adieus to and cheers from Oyster Bay friends and neighbors.

With the President were Mrs. Roosevelt and their children, Ethel, Archie, and Quentin; Secretary William Loeb and Mrs. Loeb, a governess, members of the executive office staff and Secret Service men. The start for the North River was made at a few minutes after 9 o'clock. At 10:17 o'clock Assistant Secretary B. F. Barnes, with the White House staff of stenographers, messengers, and clerical staff, and the domestic contingent and baggage and horses, left for Long Island City on a train of six cars. This section of the Presidential party went at Long Island City on the tug Maryland, which made for the Pennsylvania station at Jersey City, arriving an hour before those who went by water.

The Sylph's trip down the Sound and the East River was uneventful, but it was greatly enjoyed by President Roosevelt and his party.

"Rags," the mascot of the yacht, a white bull terrier, came in for a share of attention from the Chief Executive through his frantic antics when the whistled greetings along shore for the yacht became continuous on entering the East River and culminated when the Kearsarge, Rear Admiral Barker's flagship, thundered out a salute of twenty-one guns at the navy yard, and a navy yard battery followed suit. The din prompted "Rags" to dash into a stateroom and drag out an old coat by the sleeve to shake and rip it with canine enthusiasm.

The Sylph rounded the Battery at noon, and, at the instance of the President, in order to pass the time until the party should start for the capital, steamed up the North River to just south of Gen. Grant's Tomb. Salutes were continuous on the trip, and Mr. Roosevelt at every moment doffed his black slouch hat in response.

It had been arranged that the party should land at the north side of Pier B, at Jersey City. The yacht lies low in the water, and as it was low tide the navy yard tug Powhatan was moored close to the pier so that the gangplanks should not be at too acute an angle. This resulted in rather strenuous clambering before the President's party reached the pier. Here were carriages to take them to the Pennsylvania Station, escorted by Chief Murphy, with a squad of police. Mr. Roosevelt beamed at the crowd of a couple of thousand persons, who cheered him heartily, standing up in the carriage several times.

On Track 5 of the station was the Pullman car Signet, and waiting on the platform were Chairman Cortelyou and Assistant Secretary Barnes. A squad of police, under Inspector Archibald, kept off a large crowd which had slipped into the track inclosure. The President's party came up the lift, and in a few moments were in the car and immediately Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Cortelyou were in earnest conversation, which lasted nearly a quarter of an hour. Meantime the train, which was the second section of "65," was made up. It consisted, besides the Signet, of a combination baggage and passenger coach for "impedimenta" and members of the official and domestic households, and two horse cars for the President's horse and his children's pets, a bay mare and a "calico" pony. Engine 449 drew the train, Engineer John Toms was at the throttle, and L. S. Paxson was the conductor.

Miss Ethel Roosevelt and her brother Quentin had been solicitous about the welfare of her mare and his pony ever since the Sylph slipped her moorings at Oyster Bay, and they carried out successfully a scheme to abate this anxiety. Brushing past Secret Service Officer Tyree and Station Master Keefer, who guarded the platform of the Signet, they sprinted to the horse cars and sought and petted their horses, greatly to the delight of the head of the White House stables and the grounds. They dallied over their pets until a Secret Service man warned them that they might have to ride to Philadelphia with the horses, and Miss Ethel hurried back to the parlor car just a few seconds before the train pulled out, thirteen minutes late.

President Roosevelt, as the train moved, went bareheaded to the rear platform of the Signet and acknowledged cheers with bows, smiles, and handwavings until the train shed was cleared.

MYSTERY IN JEWEL THEFT.

Sensation Is Promised—Articles Valued at $4,000 Said to be Worth Much More.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—Jewelry and furs valued at nearly $4,000 were stolen from the home of a wealthy resident of this city this week. Just who the loser is has not been divulged, but a complete list of the stolen articles follows:

One gold locket with three diamonds, $500.
One gentleman's gold scarf pin set with pearls and small diamonds, $1,000.
One antique black and white cameo pin, $20.
One antique cameo pin, $60.
One cluster pearl scarf pin, $75.
One opal scarf pin with diamonds, $100.
One pink pearl pin, $75.
Two shirt studs, $200.
One pair of gold link cuff buttons set with pearls, $250.
One black silk fob, $275.
One pair of Roman gold cuff buttons, $250.
Six plain gold shirt studs, $50.
One lady's brilliant solitaire ring, $300.
One gold scarf pin set with one large diamond, rubies, and emeralds, $65.
One small pin set with pink, white, and green pearls.
One lady's sable collar, $300.
One pair lady's embroidered collars and cuffs, $34.
One pair of pearl collar pins, $30.

The above description of the stolen property was sent out to-night at the headquarters of the Pinkerton Detective Agency. Every precaution to keep secret the identity of the victims of the robbers has been taken.

At the Pinkerton headquarters no information could be gleaned, and the police profess ignorance of the entire affair, saying they have not been asked to investigate the crime. It was admitted that the robbery was committed this week, and that circulars had been sent to the police of every city in the country. Pawn brokers generally have been notified to keep a watch for the jewelry and furs, which, it is estimated, are worth much more than the appraisements in the circular.

While it is probable that the robbery was the work of professional thieves, it was reported last night that sensational features might develop.

FALLS DEAD AT BANQUET.

H. M. Magill Stricken at Frontenac While Responding to Toast.

Special to The New York Times.

FRONTENAC, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Death sat at the banquet of members of the Western Union of Fire Underwriters this evening. H. M. Magill, while responding to a toast at festivities celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization, fell forward and died soon afterward.

Mr. Magill was reviewing the careers of the Presidents of the organization, and had just closed a humorous reference to himself as past President when he expressed his good wishes for the health and long life of his associates and friends. He grew suddenly pale and fell forward on the table.

Friends quickly attempted to revive him, and a physician was summoned, but life was soon extinct. The banqueters were panicstricken.

Just a few months ago Judge Eugene Cary, also a former Union President, died just after he had completed an address at St. Louis, when members of this same organization were guests of the officers of the St. Louis Exposition.

Mr. Magill was for many years manager of the Phoenix and Hartford Company, with headquarters in Cincinnati. He was a prominent citizen of the Ohio city. A few years ago he retired from business. His wife is now in that city. His son, H. W. Magill, is Chicago manager of the Phoenix and Hartford. Mr. Magill was one of the best-known fire insurance men in the West. He was seventy years of age.

THE CLIMBERS.

In August 7,333 Walked Up to Top of Washington Monument.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—During August the elevator in the Washington Monument was not running because of needed repairs. Visitors nevertheless persisted in seeing the capital from the top of the big white shaft.

The report of Col. Bromwell, engineer officer in charge of public buildings and grounds for August, shows that 7,333 persons climbed to the top of the monument in that month.

Not in fifty years will another Exposition equal to that now in St. Louis be seen in this country. The way to reach it is by the West Shore or New York Central. See our ticket agents.—Adv.

PARKER IN NEW YORK CLOSETED WITH LEADERS

Gorman Goes "Up the Hudson"—to See Herrick, Maybe.

JUDGE MAY GO ON THE STUMP

Taggart Says Now the West Will Make Things Hum — McCarren and Stanchfield Enthusiastic.

Judge Alton B. Parker made his second visit to New York since his nomination yesterday. During the day the candidate saw many of the prominent Democrats now in the city. The Judge, accompanied only by Secretary McCausland, left Esopus on the 7:05 train and reached the Hoffman House, where he has the apartments usually occupied by Senator Hill, shortly after 10 o'clock. From that time until he retired Judge Parker did not leave the hotel, but was constantly in conference.

The only statement coming direct from Judge Parker was to the effect that he was not sure whether or not he would take the stump. One of the National leaders stated positively, however, that Judge Parker would make several speeches during the campaign, and that arrangements were now proceeding for the meetings, especially one in New York.

Judge Parker had hardly reached his apartments when Senator Gorman called. He remained in conference for two hours, and it is said that during that time some of the most important plans for the campaign were mapped out.

Chairman Taggart was the next caller and he also had a protracted interview with Judge Parker. Later in the afternoon Mr. Taggart called again, this time at the request of the Judge. His second visit immediately followed a visit by Chairman Cowherd of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee.

Mr. Cowherd told some things to the Judge that resulted in his sending for Mr. Taggart. He said that the funds at the disposal of the Congressional Committee were entirely inadequate, and pointed out that if Judge Parker was elected he would find it necessary to have a Democratic House at his back in order to inaugurate the reforms to which the party was pledged.

It was stated that Senator Gorman would have a later talk during the day with Judge Parker, but at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, where Mr. Gorman is stopping, it was announced at 5 o'clock by his secretary that Senator Gorman "had gone up the Hudson." The same message was sent down to John Sharp Williams and several others, who called by appointment to see Mr. Gorman, and they were told that Mr. Gorman was not expected back in New York until this afternoon.

On good authority it was stated that Mr. Gorman's "up-the-Hudson" visit was for the purpose of conferring with Justice D. Cady Herrick, Democratic nominee for Governor, who up to the time of Mr. Gorman's leaving the city had been expected to come here yesterday to confer with Judge Parker. Coincident with Mr. Gorman's trip all talk about Justice Herrick coming down here yesterday stopped. It is believed that Judge Parker told Mr. Gorman several things he would like Justice Herrick to know before the latter came here. He is expected in this city to-day.

William F. Sheehan also had a long talk with the Judge, as did De Lancey Nicoll, Charles S. Hamlin of Boston, who went over the situation in the East, especially in Connecticut; Cord Meyer, Herman Ridder, and John B. Stanchfield.

"The State ticket," said Mr. Stanchfield, after his talk with the Judge, "is a very strong one and suits me exactly. Judge Herrick is a strong man up the State, and I am sure he will win. There is not a trace of ill-feeling on my part. I tell you, and I don't think it necessary to tell Judge Parker that I am too old a war horse and have been through too many battles to feel chagrin over my defeat for the nomination. I am going to do all in my power to elect Judge Parker and Judge Herrick. No one ever saw John B. sore after the battle was over. You take my word for it—the ticket will win. I am going on the stump in the State as soon as the dates for my speaking have been arranged."

Senator McCarren called on Judge Parker late in the afternoon. He said afterward that he had talked over the situation with the candidate, and it was much easier to do so now, since the way had been cleared by the nomination for Governor.

"Of course, I do not need to say that Herrick was not my first choice," said the Senator, "but I tell you we have a great ticket and a united Democracy. We'll win sure, and every faction of the party is satisfied and will do great work."

At this stage a friend of the Senator stepped up and, shaking his hand, said:

"Pat, you didn't get your man in, but you came out of it with flying colors. Everybody is proud of you."

"I'm glad every one thinks that way. I hope they do," returned the Senator. "And now the thing for us to do is to turn to and elect our candidates."

Judge Parker dined in his apartments with W. S. Rodie and William F. Sheehan. After his talk with Judge Parker, Chairman Taggart stated that both he and the candidate for the Presidency were much pleased over the way things had turned out in Saratoga.

"You haven't any idea what an inspiration the nomination of such a State ticket is to the people in the doubtful States. Take Indiana, for instance. Out there they have been waiting to see what New York would do. They have said time and time again that it was no use for them to hustle unless there was a reasonable certainty of carrying New York. Now they feel that the battle has been won here, and you'll see them get on their working clothes and things will hum in the West from now until election day."

Judge Parker's presence in New York made it impossible for him to receive the members of the Inter-Parliamentary Peace Union at Esopus, and word was sent to the party expressing the Judge's regrets. This was in answer to a message sent to his home that, while it was impossible for the delegates to leave the train at Esopus, they would like to pay their respects to the Judge at the station.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Exhausted after wandering two days in the swamps and forests of the Adirondacks in the vicinity of Cranberry Lake, George Wilson, sixteen years old, of Chicago, was found to-day by guides and hotel guests. He was found in a swamp, half famished. His clothing was in shreds and his feet were bruised and cut.

The boy says that he saw the searchers several times from different points in the mountains, but he was unable to attract their notice by signals. When he tried to reach them he became lost again.

FAIRBANKS LOST HIS HAT.

Vice Presidential Nominee in a Fix for a While at Reading.

Special to The New York Times.

READING, Penn., Sept. 22.—The hairs on Senator Fairbanks's head bristled with dignified indignation when he arose early this morning and could not find his hat. He had to catch an early train, and the Mansion House was ransacked from cellar to top to find the hat that had traveled 1,000 miles and had been waved at admiring thousands. Finally it was decided that somebody had taken it after the banquet last night as a souvenir.

The Senator was in a bad fix. Not a man in the party that came from Philadelphia to escort him to that city had a hat big enough for him, and none of the shops would be opened until the Senator's train was gone.

Finally George A. Castor, a Philadelphia Congressman, who used to be a tailor, came to the rescue. He knew a hatter in Reading and he went and woke him up, persuaded him to open his shop and sell him a hat big enough for the Senator.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—Senator Fairbanks arrived in this city this morning from Reading, Penn., where he spoke last night. After spending an hour in the law offices of Senator Penrose he left on the 10:25 A. M. Pennsylvania Railroad train for Chicago. At Chicago he will board a special train and start for the Pacific Coast on a speechmaking tour.

SAVES GIRL FROM TRAIN.

Coachman Leaps from Runabout with Employer's Daughter.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST ORANGE, Sept. 22.—Miss Helen McCoy, daughter of Josiah B. McCoy of 91 Harrison Street, East Orange, owes it to the family coachman, Duncan McCollum, that she was not ground under the wheels of an express train on the Lackawanna Railroad last night.

Miss McCoy was in a light runabout, which was driven by McCollum. At the Munn Avenue crossing the gates were down for a train from New York. As the train passed the gateman, Charles Reilley, raised the gates, and several vehicles which had been held up passed through and crossed the tracks.

When about the middle of the track, McCollum says, a train coming in the opposite direction loomed in sight. It was too late to get out of the way, and the coachman seized Miss McCoy and sprang with her over the dashboard. He landed safely on the ground and rushed her away from the track. The next moment the carriage was struck and reduced to kindling wood, and the horse was killed.

Reilley said he knew the second train was coming, but raised the gates to let the carriages through, thinking there would be time.

HOODLUMS STORM A WEDDING.

New Brunswick Residence Variously Bombarded During Ceremony.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, Sept. 22.—A feature that was not down on the programme for the Farrell-Erickson wedding was added last night on George Street.

At 7:30, the hour set for the ceremony, a crowd of boys gathered in front of the house, and as soon as the music was heard, commenced throwing tomatoes, eggs, potatoes, old tin cans of all descriptions, at the front door and steps, making a terrific noise and much débris. When they were asked to desist, their noise grew louder. Mr. Farrell came out and offered the boys money on the condition that they would leave. They promised to do so, but after the money was spent, came back and were worse than ever.

Finally the family appealed to the police, but before they arrived, the ceremony was over and the crowd had dispersed, leaving the Farrell place in a variegated condition.

ADULT LEARNING TO TALK.

Lost Power of Speech When Injured by Chemical Engine's Explosion.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 22.—One of the most singular cases known to medical science is that of Harry J. Scott, a prominent young man of Goshen, who, though a full-grown man, possessing all his physical and mental faculties, is just learning to talk for the second time in his life.

Scott is a member of the Cataract Fire Company of Goshen. While he, with several companions, was testing a new chemical engine two months ago the engine blew up, and Scott received a fractured skull. He was operated upon, and fully recovered, with the exception of loss of speech. He is now learning to talk, after the manner of a child. The singular feature of Mr. Scott's case is that he finds great difficulty in speaking all words except those beginning with the letter "M."

EVEN MONEY ON HERRICK.

Betting on the Curb Confined to Wagers on State Ticket.

Betting on the curb yesterday was confined to the coming contest for Governor in this State, and only one small wager of a few hundred dollars at even money was reported. After placing this wager on Herrick the same person offered $2,500 more at the same odds, and not obtaining any takers withdrew, but as shortly afterward Bunnell, Buchanan & Co. offered $1,000 at even money that the Republicans would carry the State and could not place it, it would seem that no anxiety was shown by the first bettor to place his money.

Bunnell, Buchanan & Co. had $2,000 Roosevelt money at 2 to 1, but they could find no takers, as the other side wanted odds of 10 to 4. Temporarily interest in the more important election has waned, and neither side is eager to place wagers at present figures.

ROBERT EDESON HURT.

Actor in Auto Accident Caused by Gamin Throwing a Stone.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—This afternoon Robert Edeson, the actor, was invited to take a ride by Dr. J. L. Koch in the latter's automobile. As the two were speeding down Huntington Avenue a gamin threw a stone at the vehicle.

Mr. Edeson, who was steering, saw the missile coming and dodged, but the stone struck him in the side and the shock caused him to lose his hold on the tiller.

Like a flash the auto struck the curb and Mr. Edeson was hurled to the pavement. Dr. Koch, who was uninjured, rushed to the actor and found him unconscious. A hasty examination proved that no bones were broken, although Mr. Edeson was badly bruised.

Although suffering severely, Mr. Edeson played this evening, with the doctor in constant attendance upon him.

LEITERS SPEEDING TO LADY CURZON'S BEDSIDE

Receive Word That the Viceroy's Wife Is Critically Ill.

TO SAIL ON FIRST FAST LINER

King Edward's Doctor Summoned and French Specialists Go to Walmer Castle by Special Train.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Sept. 22.—Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter, mother of Lady Curzon of Kedleston, with her son and daughter, are hurrying from here to New York. They have received word that Lady Curzon's condition is critical, and that they should make haste to reach her bedside. They will sail on the first fast liner for Europe.

Joseph Leiter was in Wyoming yesterday and received a cablegram telling him that his sister was indisposed at Walmer Castle, England. Later in the day he received another message stating that Lady Curzon's condition had grown much worse and that her illness might result fatally.

Mr. Leiter came here as fast as a train could carry him. He then took the first train eastward, accompanied by his mother and sister. At first he kept the news of Lady Curzon's illness from them, but when he learned how grave it was he of course informed them.

Lady Curzon had expected to visit this country soon in order to see her relatives.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—The condition of Lady Curzon of Kedleston, wife of the Viceroy of India, is now most critical. She is suffering from complications consequent upon her confinement on March 20, from which she never quite recovered.

It is rumored that acute peritonitis has supervened.

Two London specialists were hurriedly summoned to-night to Walmer Castle, near Dover, where Lady Curzon is lying. Sir Thomas Barlow, physician to the King's Household, arrived there to-night, and physicians summoned from Paris also arrived on a special train from Folkestone.

A bulletin issued at Walmer Castle in the morning said that Lady Curzon's condition was serious. Late to-night a slight improvement was reported.

It is understood that a long automobile ride Lady Curzon took on Tuesday produced a severe internal hemorrhage, necessitating the summoning of Dr. Champneys from London. The patient became worse last night, and to-day was in an extremely exhausted condition and almost comatose.

Lord Curzon, who is overwhelmed by this sudden blow, remains constantly by his wife's bedside.

CLEVELAND EDITOR SHOT.

Probably Fatally Wounded by Man Who Figured in Newspaper Story.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 22.—Lloyd Harms, city editor of The Cleveland Tribune, a Sunday newspaper, was shot and probably fatally wounded in the newspaper office to-night by John D. Stanton of Lakewood, a suburb of Cleveland. Stanton was arrested while Harms was hurried to a hospital.

The shooting arose over a story printed in the paper two weeks ago. Stanton had been a witness in a rather sensational case during which he had made the statement that he was to have married one of the women concerned. The story was taken up by The Tribune and displayed prominently pictures of both Stanton and the woman being printed, together with a three-column story.

Stanton went to The Tribune office to-night, accompanied by a friend, to demand a retraction of the story. In the office at the time were Harms and F. W. Sweatman, editor of the paper. After some heated words Stanton pulled a revolver from his pocket. Harms endeavored to take the revolver away from Stanton. Finally, while the weapon was pointed at Harms, it went off, the bullet piercing a lung.

Harms dropped to the floor, while Stanton made a dash for the elevator and slid down the cable. But he was arrested before he could get into a buggy he had in waiting. He was taken to the Central Station, where a charge of shooting to kill was registered against him.

SEVEN LIVES LOST AT SEA.

Schooner Elvira J. French Founders Off the Jersey Coast.

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—A dispatch received here to-day reports the loss of the Harwich (Mass.) schooner Elvira J. French off the Jersey Coast in last week's gale, together with seven members of her crew of nine. Nelson and Shulz, the engineer, and one of the crew, clung to pieces of wreckage for four days and three nights, being picked up by the schooner Margaret Haskell and landed in Norfolk.

The Elvira J. French left Newport News for Portsmouth, N. H., on Sept. 10. She was commanded by Capt. L. J. Connor of Lawrence, Mass., and was valued at $30,000, being owned by T. B. Baker of Harwich, Mass. She was built in South Bay in 1890 and registered 833 tons net.

FOUND STARVING IN SIBERIA.

English Trader, Assistant, and Latter's Wife Rescued by Schooner.

SEATTLE, Sept. 22.—Two men, a woman and a child, and a Japanese fisherman were found on the verge of starvation at a lonely trading post on the Kamchatka Peninsula when the schooner Emily Claudina reached Uka on June 29. The survivors were taken to Nome, and there transferred to the steamship Victoria, which reached port to-day.

In the party are Cecil Meares, representing the London firm of Comptron & Schwabe, and Valentine Koceaski and his wife and child. Meares has been engaged in trading with the Siberian natives for furs and whalebone for several years. Koceaski acted as his assistant.

Last year the company chartered a Japanese vessel at Yokohama to take the party to its destination on the Kamchatka Peninsula. After its arrival there war broke out between Russia and Japan, and the Japanese merchantmen did not care to venture into Siberian waters.

Will Favor Canadian Reciprocity.

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—After a conference of some of the Republican leaders to-day, including Senator Lodge, ex-Gov. Crane, and Dana Malone of Greenfield, who has been selected as Chairman of the Platform Committee at the coming State Convention, it was announced that the platform will contain a plank favoring reciprocity with Canada.

MOORS KIDNAP A BRITON.

Merchant Named Lee Captured—Companion Has a Narrow Escape.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—The Times's correspondent at Tangier telegraphs that Mr. Lee, a British merchant at Rabat, has been captured by tribesmen while fishing in the Rabat River.

A companion named Broome escaped after being fired at.

The correspondent adds that there is an unconfirmed rumor that Mr. Lee has been liberated.

MORE ANTI-JEWISH RIOTS.

Disturbances at Odessa — Disorder at Kharkoff Also Reported.

LONDON, Friday, Sept. 23.—A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from St. Petersburg says that anti-Jewish disturbances occurred at Odessa last week.

It is reported that similar disorders have broken out at Kharkoff, but details regarding them are lacking.

STRIKE RIOT IN CINCINNATI.

One Man Shot and Many Others, Including Policemen, Hurt.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 22.—The moulders' strike culminated in real rioting at the Eureka Foundry, at Richmond and Harriet Streets, to-night. In the clash between the strikers and their sympathizers and the strike breakers, who have taken the strikers' places, one striker was shot, another badly hurt, and a score or more other persons, including several policemen, were wounded, and more or less injured in the storm of missles.

A small band of eight strike breakers, protected only by a squad of police and the proprietors of the foundry, were stoned by a mob of fully 500 men when they ventured from the foundry. In making arrests the police were attacked.

All of the strike breakers were bruised and beaten, and President Gosinger of the foundry company had a narrow escape from serious injury. The police have made only two arrests, both of them strike breakers. The foundry men say that the police had ample knowledge of the impending trouble, but failed to send a sufficient force of men to protect their employes.

SCHOOL BOY KIDNAPPED.

One of Captors May Be His Father, Norris Wheeler, of Jamestown.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 22.—Frank Wheeler, aged eleven years, was kidnapped at 4:15 o'clock this afternoon by two men as he was on his way from the Lawrence school, where he had been attending school, to the home of his aunt, Mrs. Frank Ashley, 1,118 South Second Street. One of the kidnappers, from his description, may be the boy's father, Norris Wheeler of Jamestown, N. Y., eighty miles southeast of Buffalo.

The Sheriff and his deputies and the local police are on the lookout for the kidnappers, who were tracked as far as Cotton Mill, about ten miles southeast of the city, by Leon Ashley, nephew of Mrs. Wheeler.

DEFAULTER WILL PAY BACK.

Detroit Bank Officer on Parole to Refund to 250 Depositors.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 22.—Frank C. Andrews, ex-Vice President of the defunct City Savings Bank of this city, whose overdrafts caused the failure of the bank, and who is now located in New York, where he went after his release from Jackson prison on parole by Gov. Bliss, to-day inserted in the local papers an advertisement announcing that he will pay the claims of 250 depositors, whose names are given.

Andrews says he will continue to pay other depositors as fast as he can, and that the money with which he will pay these claims has been made since his release from prison, in a manner that he will explain to any one who has a legitimate right to ask.

WON'T WEAR RED BLOOMERS.

Curtis High School Girls Indignant Over New Order.

The girls of Curtis High School, in Richmond Borough, are supposed to provide themselves with red bloomers or divided skirts and short skirts of the same color for use in gymnasium work, but so far not a red pair of bloomers has appeared. In fact, the young ladies are in a high state of indignation.

When the classes were recently organized the color of the school was chosen, and it was red. Not a subdued terra cotta, but a bright red, almost, if not, a scarlet. Custom dictates that the working costumes in the gymnasium shall be red. The boys think it fine, and the girls would be satisfied with red waists and red sweaters, but the idea of using the school color for bloomers and divided skirts is too much. When the order went forth yesterday that each girl should provide herself with a gymnasium suit according to specifications there was a storm which was still growing last night. It is likely that there will be an indignation meeting to-day. Some of the girls declared they would quit the school and its gymnasium rather than obey the order.

GREEK SOLD TWO STEPSONS.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 22.—In court here to-day John Tisor and Peter Smirlies admitted being parties to the virtual sale of Tisor's two stepsons to Smirlies, who is the proprietor of several shoe-shining establishments. All concerned are Greeks.

Smirlies testified that he paid $380 for the two lads, who are still in his custody. Smirlies is suing Tisor for $40, which he claims he loaned him at the time that he paid the $380 for the boys.

CAPTAIN AND PASSENGER SHOT DOWN ON A LINER

Madman Wounds F. R. Shattuck and Prinz Oskar's Commander.

LATTER'S CONDITION SERIOUS

Capt. Dugge Shot in the Mouth and Mr. Shattuck in the Shoulder—Assailant a Passenger from Mexico.

GENOA, Sept. 22.—Romulo M. Alcivar, a Mexican passenger on board the Hamburg-American Line steamer Prinz Oskar, which sailed from New York on Sept. 6, became suddenly insane upon the arrival of the steamer here to-day and made an attempt to kill Capt. Dugge of the Prinz Oskar and Frank R. Shattuck, a lawyer of Philadelphia.

Alcivar first fired a revolver at Capt. Dugge, whom he shot in the mouth, and then discharged the weapon at Mr. Shattuck, the bullet taking effect in his left shoulder.

Alcivar was overpowered. He has been taken to an insane asylum.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—Frank R. Shattuck is a prominent lawyer, with offices in the Land Title Building.

According to advices received here regarding the shooting on the Prinz Oskar, it occurred on Tuesday at a dinner given by Capt. Dugge.

The news of the shooting was received at the office of the Hamburg-American Company in this city, and was communicated to Robert W. Pinletter and E. D. Michener, attorneys associated with Mr. Shattuck.

Mrs. Shattuck and her two children are at Cape May. Mrs. Shattuck was prostrated by the news of the injury to her husband.

Mr. Shattuck was the Democratic candidate for City Solicitor several years ago. He is an active member of the Clover and Fellowship Clubs. He left here on Sept. 3 for a short trip abroad because of throat trouble. He intended to sail for home next Monday.

The Hamburg-American Line received a cablegram yesterday from Naples saying that in the course of the voyage of the Prinz Oskar there had been a fight aboard, which ended with the shooting of Capt. Dugge and of Frank R. Shattuck of Philadelphia, a passenger, by Romulo M. Alcivar, another passenger. The dispatch stated that Capt. Dugge was seriously injured, and Mr. Shattuck not so badly. Alcivar is a Mexican, but nothing further is known of him.

The Prinz Oskar sailed from New York on Sept. 6. She had a very small passenger list, and so far as can be learned Alcivar and Shattuck were total strangers. With Mr. Shattuck was a traveling companion.

The cabled report says that there was a fight aboard after a game of cards, which was played in the smoking room. Alcivar is said to have become temporarily deranged. He went to his stateroom and, procuring a revolver, started on a hunt for Shattuck. Some of the sailors saw him carrying the revolver and notified the officer of the watch, who in turn notified Capt. Dugge.

The Captain went after Alcivar, and on finding him attempted to take the gun from him. Alcivar turned it on the Captain, shot him, and then passed on in search of Shattuck. They met on the promenade deck, where several more shots were fired, two taking effect. Shattuck tried to fight off Alcivar, but was shot down before he could do anything.

Capt. Dugge was carried to his room, where Dr. Seidel, the ship's doctor, and Dr. Dolodoni, an Italian physician aboard, treated him. When the ship reached port he was removed to a hospital. Chief Officer Rollin took command of the ship and had Alcivar put in irons. He was kept in his stateroom under guard until the ship made Naples, when the authorities took charge of him. Mr. Shattuck was treated aboard.

At the local office of the Hamburg-American Line it was said that Alcivar booked from this city, but did not give his home address. The man who sold the ticket to him said yesterday that he was a short, rather stout dark man with a small black mustache.

MOB AWAITS NEGRO.

Authorities Fear an Attempted Lynching at Ebensburg, Penn.

JOHNSTOWN, Penn., Sept. 22.—Crowds at Patton and Ebensburg, excited with the mob spirit, are hourly expecting the appearance of Constable Jackson and deputies having in custody the negro who yesterday morning near Patton drove Mrs. Thomas Boggan, aged thirty years, at the point of a revolver into the underbrush and held her there a prisoner until 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Reports came here from official sources that a tall negro, answering the description of Mrs. Boggan's assailant, had been caught at La José, Clearfield County, just across the Cambria County border. Constable Jackson hurried from Ebensburg to La José, where he was due to arrive this afternoon.

Since that hour no word has been heard of him, and the belief is general that Sheriff Lenhart has ordered Constable Jackson to come to Ebensburg by an obscure route and not to make his appearance at the jail until late to-night, when it is expected that the mob will have dispersed.

Mrs. Boggan is still in a serious condition, but will recover. She said to-day she could identify her assailant "among a thousand." After Mrs. Boggan had been found yesterday unconscious by the roadside 250 men scoured the woods all night looking for the negro.

RUNAWAY'S LONG JOURNEY.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Sept. 22.—Harry Kingsley, the twelve-year-old boy from Stamford, nephew of Judge Archer of Greenwich, who stole a ride to Manassas two weeks ago in the baggage car of Company L of Greenwich and failed to return, has written home that he went with a Florida regiment to Jacksonville and had secured a job for a year to light the street lamps, and wants his clothes sent to him.

His parents replied that they would send the clothes, and a member of the family has gone with them for the purpose of bringing the youngster home.

LEGAL WORK DELAYS HERRICK'S RESIGNATION

May Be Two Weeks Before the Justice Can Quit the Bench.

CONGRATULATIONS POUR IN Political Friends and Foes Alike Call on the Candidate—Gossip of His Successor.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 22.—Justice D. Cady Herrick passed a very busy day to-day, old political friends and foes alike calling upon him to pay their respects and wish him success. Congratulatory telegrams and letters came along constantly. Between the callers and the messages Justice Herrick was unable to do any judicial business save sign a few orders which lawyers brought in. Congressman William Sulzer called during the afternoon and had a short conversation with the candidate upon the situation in New York, particularly with regard to the attitude of Tammany Hall.

Among the telegrams of congratulation received to-day were messages from John B. Stanchfield, Martin W. Littleton, ex-Controller of the Currency James H. Eckels, who expressed a hope that he might make at least one speech for Justice Herrick in New York State; Gov. Myron T. Herrick of Ohio, who is a distant cousin of the candidate; Senator Patrick H. McCarren of Brooklyn, W. C. Ely of Buffalo, Hoke Smith, and State Committeeman Norman E. Mack. Mr. Stanchfield wired: "As the unanimous choice of the party, I congratulate you. Personally and politically command me."

Gov. Herrick of Ohio sent a telegram reading:

"The Hon. D. Cady Herrick: For myself and the Ohio Herricks, please accept hearty congratulations. We only wish you were a Republican, for this looks like a Republican year.

"MYRON T. HERRICK."

The Justice said that the Governor of Ohio is distantly related to him.

Justice Herrick will resign from the Supreme Court bench as soon as he can finish the legal work now before him. He has cases from the Brooklyn Trial Term, which was the last at which he presided, and from Special Terms held in this city. It may be two weeks before these are off his hands, and he can devote himself uninterruptedly to the work of the campaign. "I want to go out with a clean desk," said the Justice to-day, "so that nobody can complain that my nomination interfered with the proper disposition of cases before me."

The Democratic candidate has written to Presiding Justice Charles E. Parker of the Appellate Division, Third Department, requesting that another Justice be designated to preside at the September Trial Term, which convenes here next Monday. Justice Herrick will convene the term and then transfer his duties to whomever is named to take his place. He announces that he will not open personal campaign headquarters until after his resignation from the bench is accepted. It will then become the duty of Gov. Odell to appoint a successor to serve out the balance of his term, which will expire on the 1st of January, 1906.

Among the persons spoken of as Justice Herrick's successor are ex-Attorney General Simon W. Rosendale and Albert Hessberg, Democrats; William P. Rudd, Lewis E. Carr, and Arthur L. Andrews, Republicans. Justice Herrick has no idea, he says, who his successor will be, and will take no active part in his choice. As for politics he will talk none until after he has retired from the bench. He may make a few speeches, and will visit New York, but most of his time will be spent in the interior counties.

LIKENS ODELL TO HERRICK.

Senator Depew Discusses the Justice's Activity in Politics.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Ten thousand people, the largest number ever assembled on the grounds, tried to hear the speech of Senator Chauncey M. Depew at the Afton Fair this afternoon. A large number of excursionists, as well as thousands of farmers, were in attendance.

Referring to the Democratic Gubernatorial nomination, Senator Depew said:

"In view of the fact that the Democratic Convention nominated for Governor Judge Herrick, its attack upon Gov. Odell for his entering partisan politics and accepting the Chairmanship of the Republican State Committee is interesting. Judge Herrick has been an able and upright Judge, but he was the unquestioned leader and active manager of the Democratic Party of Albany County when he was elected Judge in 1886. Notwithstanding his judicial position, he has continued during the whole of his career upon the bench to hold and to exercise the control of the party machinery in the capital county of our State.

"Though his course has been criticised, he has always justified it on the ground that a citizen in becoming a public officer did not abdicate his right to exercise the same influence and display the same activity as he did when in private life. Gov. Odell, in accepting the position as chairman of the Republican State Committee in this National canvass, had before him the example of one of the ablest, most distinguished, and most reputable Judges of the Supreme Court of our State, and one of the most eminent members of the Democratic Party."

QUITS BANK DIRECTORSHIP.

Uzal H. McCarter Resigns in Order to Serve as New Jersey Elector.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 22.—Uzal H. McCarter, who was nominated for Elector-at-Large by the Republican State Convention at Trenton Tuesday, has sent to the Directors of the Union National Bank his resignation as a Director of that institution. This was made necessary by the clause of the Constitution of the United States, which provides that "no person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States shall be appointed an Elector." Mr. McCarter's resignation will be acted on at the next meeting of the bank's Board of Directors.

J. Hull Browning, named as Elector for the Sixth Congressional District at Tuesday's convention, is a Director of the Citizen's National Bank at Englewood, Bergen County. Whether he has decided to resign the Directorship or to decline to run on the Republican ticket has not been announced.

Col. Edwin A. Stevens of Hoboken, who was named Elector by the Democratic Convention for the Tenth Congressional District, is a Director of the First National Bank of that city. Mr. Stevens proposes to resign from the bank Directorate in ample time to comply with the law.

MANHATTAN CLUB AT WORK.

Sheehan Talks to Its Campaign Committee of Its Power.

There was a largely attended meeting of the Campaign Committee of the Manhattan Club last night to perfect plans for their work in the campaign. Judge Parker is a member of the club, and there was much enthusiasm every time his name was mentioned. One of the features of the meeting was an address made to the committee by William F. Sheehan, who had just left Judge Parker.

"Such effort as the Manhattan Club can put into this campaign," said Mr. Sheehan, "is needed. With its far-reaching influence it can do a work that no other organization can do. It reaches the people that it is hard to reach in any other way. I assure you, gentlemen, that the work of campaign is being ably managed. The leaders are doing their whole duty. I am sure that you will do yours, and if you exert that influence which is yours there is no question of the election of the ticket headed by Judge Parker."

Supreme Court Justice Charles H. Truax was elected President, and the Vice Presidents chosen were John G. Carlisle, Daniel S. Lamont, John Hone, John Fox, J. Hampden Robb, De Lancey Nicoll, Herman Ridder, L. Laflin Kellogg, John C. Calhoun, Randolph Guggenheimer, Jacob Ruppert, Jr., and Commissioner McAdoo. The Finance Committee chosen consists of James H. Parker, O. H. P. Belmont, Frederic R. Coudert, John D. Crimmins, Anthony N. Brady, William Church Osborn, Isidor Straus, Samuel Untermyer, and Justice Truax.

STATE LANDS IN MOUNTAINS.

Democratic Platform Favors Extension of Adirondack and Catskill Parks.

SARATOGA, Sept. 22.—The following plank, favoring the extension of the Adirondack and Catskill Parks, was adopted by the Democratic State Convention yesterday, but was omitted for the official version:

"We favor the traditional Democratic policy of the acquisition by the State of lands in the Adirondack and Catskill Parks for the sole benefit of the people of the State."

HOME OVATION TO STOKES.

Cheers for Mother of Jersey's Republican Candidate, Who Embraces Him.

MILLVILLE, N. J., Sept. 22.—A great ovation was given here to-night to Edward S. Stokes, the Republican candidate for Governor, on his first return home since his nomination. He was greeted at the station by thousands of persons.

On reaching his home he stepped upon the veranda as his mother threw her arms about his neck and kissed him while thousands cheered. Hundreds of his townsmen gathered at the Weatherby House later in the evening, where a reception was tendered to him.

GENERAL TIE-UP ON BRIDGE.

Elevated and Several Surface Lines Stalled at Rush Time.

During the rush hour at the Brooklyn Bridge last night, shortly before 6 o'clock, Motor Car 98, attached to a bridge train, pulled out a drawhead, and the train came to a sudden halt. So did all the other trains following, and for half an hour the bridge cars were stalled.

At the same time the trolley cars on the Halsey and Fulton Street, Gates and Flatbush Avenue lines came to a stop on the bridge, owing to an accident over in Brooklyn. Traffic became so congested that it required the services of Roundsmen Tighe and Farrell and ten men to keep the pushing, jamming flow of humanity from injury. There was an immense crowd at the bridge entrance, waiting for transportation, and it was over half an hour before traffic was resumed.

STRIKE OF BOYS IN DALLAS.

Western Union Dismisses Messengers—Business Suffers from Tie-Up.

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 22.—Demands of the striking messengers of the Western Union Telegraph Company submitted to General Superintendent Frankel at St. Louis by wire last night were rejected by that official to-day. The messengers were paid off and informed that they could not work for the company again.

Business men submitted a proposition of arbitration, but the telegraph officials refused to entertain it. Local business is almost completely crippled, as the company has been unable to procure men or boys to take the place of the strikers.

The messengers are preparing a petition requesting business men to withdraw their patronage from the company.

CLERKS FORM A UNION.

A Hundred from Harlem Stores Organized for Federation.

About 100 clerks employed in the business houses and retail stores in Harlem last night organized an uptown branch of the Retail Clerks' International Protective Association.

The meeting was addressed by Herman Robinson, organizer for the American Federation of Labor, and other speakers. It was decided to apply to the National Headquarters in Denver for a charter, and also to seek affiliation with the American Federation of Labor.

There will be an open air meeting of all those interested in the movement Monday evening, October 3, at One Hundred and Eighteenth Street and Third Avenue.

CHASED MINISTER TO WED.

New Brunswick Couple Went to Baltimore for the Ceremony.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, Sept. 22.—When Miss Jessie Rouse and Fred Young of South River decided to get married last evening, they thought that the Rev. J. Clarence Newman of the South River Baptist Church, their pastor, would be at home in time to perform the ceremony.

Finding that he would not be, they decided to get married anyway, and that Dr. Newman should still perform the ceremony. So, boarding the 9:34 train from here yesterday morning, they went to Baltimore, where Dr. Newman is stopping, and hunted him up. The marriage was performed at the residence of Mrs. Jennie Sterdee, Hartford Street, Baltimore.

LOSSES BY FIRE.

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 22.—Fire caused by an explosion to-day wrecked the hardware store of H. Sandmeyer & Co. and partially destroyed the stocks of J. Schradzki and the Grand Union Tea Company, adjoining. The explosion is supposed to have been caused by the combustion of oils stored in the basement. Loss, $100,000.

QUEBEC, Sept. 22.—The old Thibeaudeau Block was destroyed early to-day. The loss is about $100,000. The firms burned out are the Quebec Furniture Company and the Labatt Brewing Company.

HERRICK NEXT GOVERNOR, SAYS JOHN D. CRIMMINS

Saratoga Convention Healed All Factional Troubles.

URGES PARKER TO TAKE STUMP

Harmony and Enthusiasm in New York the Only Stimulus Needed in the Other States.

John D. Crimmins is greatly pleased with the work of the Democratic State Convention. With Judge D. Cady Herrick at its head he believes the ticket is a sure winner, and the platform adopted at Saratoga met with his fullest approbation. The nomination of Judge Herrick, he believes, has healed all party differences in the State, and all that now remains to be done to insure victory is to inject the proper degree of energy into the campaign. As to the situation, both State and National, Mr. Crimmins had this to say yesterday:

"We will be a little retrospective in talking over the present political situation. Justice Parker's telegram to the convention in concise language stated how he regarded the gold standard, and the spirit in which it was received by the convention in session and ratified gave the Democratic Party heart, enthusiasm, and hope.

"Then came a change. Dissensions and factional wrangles sprang up, occupying and absorbing the full attention of leaders and organizers in our State, the pivotal State, as it is spoken of, in the Presidential elections. Instead of organizing meetings and parades and placing before the people in plain terms the platform of the party and the issues, there was a hesitancy, which President Roosevelt ably took advantage of in his letter of acceptance, practically leaving the party without a foot to stand on.

"I am frank when I have anything to say, and do not attempt to be politic. I have read many of the criticisms on that letter, but not any that removed from the unprejudiced mind its force in regard to the shortcomings of the Democratic Party.

THE SARATOGA PLATFORM.

"We have to-day a text and a platform in the admirable platform of the Democratic Convention of yesterday. Public revenues diverted, burdens of taxation, enormous appropriations, State charities, recreancy to public trusts, the excise, the savings bank tax, the imposition of the additional indirect taxes necessary to meet the largely increased extravagant expenditures in the Republican administration, have, among other evils, so disturbed the market for the sale of New York City bonds that our taxpayers are now in effect paying nearly 10 per cent. more for their public improvements than they otherwise would have been required to do. Home rule, good roads, &c., which so largely concern the people, are clearly set forth in the platform.

"I am pleased with the State ticket, as we all are. The criticism that Judge Herrick has not, since his elevation to the bench, separated himself from politics, should, in this exigency, commend him to the citizens of the State, and it will and does, to the contrary notwithstanding. The very fact that he is a novice in politics, that he has kept in close touch with every situation, would fit him politically for the office to which the citizens of the State will elevate him.

"The people fully understand that all Governments are, in a sense, of political construction, and that through politics, with reasonableness, our affairs are administered. Who is the citizen better equipped than Judge Herrick? Born among us, his life has been largely passed at the seat of government of the State. He is intimately acquainted, and personally, with its affairs, its progress, and its requirements. These things are essential to keep the State the 'Empire' in all that means advancement and position.

"We will look over the names and records of those to be associated with him. Are they not all men of excellence? And what a contrast with the Republicans! I don't wish to be personal, but when any comparison is made the distinction between the respective men for the several offices will show conclusively that for integrity and fitness the Republican candidates fall short.

"We have not heard of the Republican papers or their orators being cautioned that they should be merciful to the Democrats in the language they use in the campaign, and unnecessary, in my opinion, is the caution which part of the press offer to Democratic orators that their speeches should be moderate.

"What we need now is the sort of a campaign which will oest reach the people. I see no reason why we should shoot over their heads. The excellent ticket nominated and the splendid platform adopted have injected new life into the situation. All dissensions are now buried, and the leaders should bend every energy to making votes. Let them go ahead and have meetings, the more the better, and let the differences between the two parties and the two sets of candidates be shown.

"I have been speaking of the situation as it exists in New York, but what I have said applies as well to the National situation. The moment New York wakes up, the rest of the country will take the cue, and the remaining weeks of the campaign will be all that could be desired in the way of activity.

"I have not the slightest hesitancy in saying that the ticket named at Saratoga and the principles evinced in the platform there, have strengthened the outlook for Democratic success immeasurably. Before the convention nobody was particularly enthusiastic. Now everybody is willing to go to work for the victory which will, I believe, be won.

"Without a doubt Judge Herrick will be the next Governor of New York. The Democratic Party, since his nomination, is really harmonious. He is acceptable to all alike, the McCarren faction and Tammany, the Hill following, and these who are opposed to Hill. He is a man that everybody can unite on.

"As matters are now cleaned up, I believe the public will soon be made to realize that affairs at National Headquarters are as they should be. The truth of the matter is that as long as the factional differences existed the National Committee was more or less handicapped. It took all of Mr. Sheehan's time, and that of Mr. Nicoll and Mr. Meyer to straighten things out. These troublous conditions have all been removed.

"Now that the atmosphere has been cleared, I believe that Judge Parker will spend much of his time in New York, and that he will speak on platforms from which his voice will be heard by the united Democracy from the platform at Rosemount.

WANTS PARKER TO SPEAK.

"Every voter is not a reading man. Elections are decided by those who see and hear. Some of Judge Parker's friends, unwisely, I think, have advised him against making public speeches, taking the position that Roosevelt is not conducting a personal campaign. There is no foundation for such comparison in the cases of the two men. Roosevelt is in office. Judge Parker is not. Roosevelt made his campaign before his nomination. He has toured the country until there is not a man, woman, or child in it who could walk who has not had the opportunity of seeing him and of shaking hands with him.

"Judge Parker must be seen and heard, as he should be. He is a most presentable man—a man who impresses. What he says goes home to the hearts of his hearers. Those who were present when he was notified came away full of enthusiasm. The editors who called on him left singing his praises. For his own interests and those of the party he must be in physical evidence before the campaign is much older."

DAVIS OPENS CAMPAIGN IN WEST VIRGINIA

Denounces the Extravagance of the Republican Administration.

WILL MAKE FEW SPEECHES

Says He Dislikes the Task, but Wants to Get Around Among the People.

WHEELING, West Va., Sept. 22.—The Democratic campaign in West Virginia was opened here to-night by Henry Gassaway Davis, the Vice Presidential candidate.

Mr. Davis arrived from his home, at Elkins, last night. He was accompanied by Charles A. Towne of New York, John T. McGraw and William P. Campbell, who are leaders of the West Virginia Democracy, and other prominent Democrats of the State. There was a general ingathering of the Democrats from all sections of the State early in the day for an informal conference, at which plans for the campaign were outlined.

Mr. Davis announced here to-day that it was not his intention to make many speeches while on his tours over the country campaigning. "I am not much of a speechmaker, and rather dislike the task," said Mr. Davis. "My intention is to get around among the people and meet them with as little public speechmaking as possible."

Mr. Davis leaves here to-morrow morning for Parkersburg on business, and will not make any speeches during the remainder of the week. It was announced at the Democratic Headquarters here to-day that Senator Joseph Bailey of Texas, who is making a tour of the country, would spend some time in this State.

At the meeting to-night Mr. Davis spoke in part as follows:

"The extravagance in the conduct of the Government is greater now than at any other time in the history of the country, and unless the people at the polls in November decide upon a change, more taxes or an increased public debt must ensue. It now costs on an average $7.14 annually for every man, woman, and child in the United States, to carry on the Government. This means that the head of the family of five persons, directly or indirectly, contributes $35 per year from his earnings toward the support of the Government, which, in the case of wage earners, is quite a percentage of the yearly income.

"My position on the tariff was stated by me in an address I made in the United States Senate in 1883, as follows: 'I am for a tariff that will yield sufficient revenues for the economical and proper expenditures of the Government, and in that tariff I believe incidental protection to our industries is right and proper.' I see no reason for changing my position as then stated. West Virginia is more interested, perhaps, in the tariff on coal than on any other article or series of articles. During the sixty years of Democratic control the tariff on bituminous coal averaged about $1.80 per ton; for the forty-four years since then, the greater part of which has been under Republican rule, it averaged about 86 cents per ton. The duty upon coal is now 67 cents per ton, and yet Republican speakers continue to assert that the prosperity of West Virginia is due to the protective tariff policy of its party.

"That the present tariff on coal is not excessive is shown by the fact that the imports of coal are rapidly increasing, while the selling price at the mines is scarcely above the cost of production. In fact, at the present time many mines are run at a loss, and some have been closed because of their inability to meet expenses.

"That the tariff as a whole needs revision is plainly manifest. Combined, as it is at present, with trusts, it permits of too large a profit on many articles of production, stifles individual enterprise, brings on strikes, and disturbs generally the business interests of the country.

"I regret that the National platform of the Republican Party raises the race issue. The Southern people, who have to bear the burden of this question, were dealing with it in moderation and fairness, but its unfortunate agitation by Republican leaders has made its solution much more difficult and hindered the efforts of those who were honestly striving to aid the colored people in uplifting their race. A large majority, over 1,000,000, of the white voters of this country are Democrats. McKinley received 864,000 votes more than Bryan, and this was the largest majority ever given a Presidential candidate. There are, however, as shown by the last census, 2,000,000 male negroes in the United States of a voting age."

ELKINS WILL NOT STUMP.

Senator Will Not Fight Against His Father-in-Law.

Special to The New York Times.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Sept. 22.—It is positively known that Senator Stephen B. Elkins will take no part in the Republican campaign, his appearance at Parkersburg, West Va., when he presided over the Republican State Convention being his first and last. Senator Elkins is not criticised by the Republican leaders for his action, although the Democrats are extracting much comfort out of it as far as West Virginia is concerned.

Elkins is a power in the State, and his inactivity is hailed with pleasure by the Democrats. The Republicans are consoling themselves that Mr. Elkins's contribution to the Republican campaign fund is the largest he ever gave and he is let off at that. It is conceded on all sides that Senator Elkins could not well take the stump against his aged father-in-law, with whom he has always been so intimately associated in business.

Besides, it would be ingratitude on the part of Senator Elkins when it is considered that his father-in-law never openly stood in his way when Legislatures were to be elected to send the son-in-law to the United States Senate.

Further, Mrs. Elkins is known to be a Democrat this year.
